Strange Will of Portland Woman

Personal Articles Valued at $893 Buried With Body—Others Burned.

Special to The Standard.

Portland, Me., Dec. 16—Jewelry, candlesticks and other articles to the value of $893 were buried with the body of Miss Mary J. E. Clapp, whose estate amounted to more than $500,000. It was revealed today, when the first and final account of the executors was filed in the Probate Court.

Provisions of the will that the family coach, at least 100 years old, and her automobile, together with a mahogany four-posted bed and other furniture be burned, already have been carried out.

The property is placed in the hands of trustees, after the payment of bequests to the amount of $161,484.

Golf In America Is Too Expensive

Cost of Game in America About Seven Times That in Britain.

New York, Dec. 16.—There is a tremendous difference in the golfing costs of Great Britain and America. Golfers of the first named country look upon the vast sums spent for Canadian and United States golf courses and upkeep in several different lights. When one group sees that a half million dollars have been spent for eighteen holes, it is presumed that the ground obtained was the most unsuitable possible, and that nature had to be outwitted. Others imagine that the cost of an elegant clubhouse is included in the price, the structure, perhaps, to cost $400,000 or more. In other words, it baffles golfers when they hear that a half million has been spent on one course, despite the fact that Walton Heath in their own territory cost a considerable sum.

The reason chief in importance lies in the hundreds of instances where golf of the finest character can be obtained for little money. While in Edinburgh recently an American enjoyed a round over the splendid course at Luffness, a few miles from the famous championship course at Muirfield. Anyone who has golfed over the beautiful stretch of golfing land which harbors the three courses at Gullane, among others, enroute from Edinburgh, knows that for an all-around test of the game, the tee-off, the pitch, the drive into narrow stretches and slight undulating greens, to say nothing of the beauties of the scenery and the roar of the breakers on the nearby shore, that there are few places on earth to equal it.

The round trip fare was, in American money, six, the charge for playing over the course was one, the caddy fee, including the sulking of the clubs, was one, while the luncheon, very good, too, was one. The course was in grand condition, as excellent a test as any Metropolitan course. The day's outing including travel and food at home, cost the welcome sounding sum of $3.25, including the caddie's tip.

Here is the charge at any of the renowned big clubs in any of the largest districts. Take a club about twenty miles out. Car fare will be $1.20, caddie fee $1, luncheon $1.25, green fee $3. The difference in caddie ability, with the British caddie being no Sells and the American usually one, is another 75c. At a minimum, therefore, the American cost is $7.15, against $3.25. No better golf, probably worse and a greater difference of the club be made on a week-end. Yearly dues find still greater disparity, with $25 per year being all that is required of a Luffness member, and $150 the usual sum for America.

Deer And Moose Hides Seized From Indians Have Been Returned

Number of Beaver Pelts Were Seized at Newcastle Because Illegally Taken.

Fredericton, Dec. 16—Hides of deer and moose, seized from Indians at the St. Marys reservation by game wardens because not tagged as required by law, have been returned by Chief Game Warden Burden, as the Indians have proven that the hides were given to them by citizens of Fredericton who killed the animals legally, but who failed to attach tags.

A considerable number of beaver pelts have been seized at Newcastle because illegally taken. Beaver can be taken under permit.

The Chestnut Canoe Company has made temporary arrangements for carrying on the manufacture of canoes to fill orders in hand when the factory was destroyed by fire last Saturday. The factory in King street is being used.

Gym. Class For The Handicapped Boys

The special class for boys who suffer from physical disability and which was attended with such great success last year, is being commenced at the Y.M.C.A.

Capt. Bowie, the physical director, is keenly interested in boys who do not have the same chance to fight the battle of life as the more robust and physically fit. He contends that many such boys do not know how to play, and feels that the creating of the "play" spirit focuses on the mental condition and this in turn opens the way for physical treatment.

The results from last year's class were gratifying indeed, and the effort in conducting this was well worth while.

Mayor Schofield took an active interest in this group last year, and gave the boys a special treat from time to time. He is ready to help along in this direction again this year.

The parents are asked to send their boys to the Y.M.C.A. to join this class. This is a part of a Community Programme being promoted by the Y.M.C.A. and when we read of the enormous numbers of physically handicapped children waiting on the famous Vienese physician, Dr. Lorenz, for treatment, the general public realizes with a shock the need of something being done to better the condition of our physically handicapped boys and girls.

Runaway Horse In Furnace Room

Slings Borrowed from the Fire Department Used to Get Animal Out Prince Edward Street Building.

A runaway horse was responsible for two men receiving an awful scare yesterday afternoon when it came sliding down the stairs into the furnace room of the building on the corner of Prince Edward and Union streets. They did not know for a minute what was coming and rumor says they took refuge in the coal bin until the identity of the visitor had been established.

The story is that a horse, which was being led through the streets for exercise, broke away from the man leading it on Princess street and made for Edward Hogan's stable on Waterloo street, where it was stabled some person on Waterloo street tried to stop the animal and it ran down the alley alongside Ungar's Laundry, and seeing an open door made through it, before it could stop it had skidded down the stairs and into the furnace room of the building.

The next thing was to get it out. It was decided that it would be no use to try and lead it up stairs, and finally someone suggested that slings be borrowed from the fire department and this was done. They were placed around the horse and willing hands soon hoisted him out into the open air once more. He was then taken in the stable none the worse for his little experience.

INCREASED CAR SERVICE

P. W. Thomson, general manager of the New Brunswick Power Co., stated yesterday that the company had in operation now 28 cars and they were averaging 438 more car miles per day than at the same period last year.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. You'll not be without it when you learn how easily it prepares and save you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that will last a long time, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. The way you make it makes more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it readily.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The medicine may be dry, hoarse, tight, or sore, yet it is persistently loosen from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid for bronchitis, asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt results in such troubles.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

VIVIANI EXPLAINS FRENCH POSITION REGARDING NAVY

Huge Appropriations Not in Conflict With Conference Objects, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—In the following interview given this evening Mr. Rene Viviani, head of the French delegation, says he wishes to make France's naval position clear.

The French Parliament has just voted appropriations for new vessels and personnel. The new French vessels are to be three light cruisers, six destroyers, twelve torpedo boats and twelve submarines. There are also supplementary provisions for three more light cruisers and twenty-four more submarines. The first of these vessels will not be completed for three or four years, and it is understood that the cruisers will be of less than 8,000 tons.

"Certain organs of the American press," said M. Viviani, "have expressed some surprise at the information from Paris about the budget estimates which Parliament has just voted as appropriation for the French navy. Public attention has been particularly called to the fact that the naval staff is going to be increased and pass from 51,000 to 57,000 men.

To Guide Public Opinion.

"This increase is even pointed out as appearing to be in opposition to the views generally set forth at the Washington conference by its chairman, Mr. Hughes, and to which Mr. Briand has adhered substantially on behalf of France. This has served as a reason to start a new debate on the naval claims of France. It seems useful not to allow public opinion in America to be led astray in this respect.

"It may first be permissible to say that no definite data have been communicated to the press about the intentions of France regarding her navy. No discussion of the kind can be entered into until the measures concerning the French navy have come up for examination before the conference. This is derived from the undertaking that has been given not to deal with the question bearing on the French navy before an agreement has been reached for the American, British and Japanese navies.

"As regards the increase in personnel aimed at in the press articles to which mention has already been made above, it is to be observed that the normal budget estimates for 1922 actually provided for an increase of 1,607 men above the effectives provided for in 1921. The difference, therefore, is significant. This moderate increase corresponds in no way whatever to an enlargement of the French fleet. Nor does the construction of small units which has just been approved by the French Parliament constitute an actual increase of the fleet.

No Building During War.

"France has not built anything during the war, either to complete her naval programme or for the maintenance of her fleet. But all the units which have taken part in the war, and especially smaller units, have been engaged to such an extent that they have had to suffer considerably from wear and tear; it is indispensable to replace them, unless the flag of the French navy is to disappear altogether from the surface of the seas.

"That is the reason why, no construction having been undertaken since the armistice, France is under the obligation to begin to carry out a very limited programme which has just passed by Parliament to put the fleet in a proper state of repair, and only as regards very small units. This programme had already been submitted to Parliament more than a year ago.

"There is, therefore, in the steps at present taken for the French navy, absolutely nothing which may be in opposition to the principles proposed to the Washington conference."
