LONDON POLICEMEN WILL RECEIVE JOBS

Motorcycle Officers Will Be Chosen From Local Force.

Although since first mention was made of the matter of engaging three motorcycle policemen for the local force, scores of applications have been received by Chief of Police Robert Birrell, it is practically assured that the officers chosen will be men who are already on the strength of the Carling street force. Among the half hundred uniformed men now employed there are quite a number of experienced riders, who would be able to meet every requirement.

Several of the policemen now own their own motorcycles, while others have owned a machine at one time.

Police estimates provide for three motorcycles. If they are to be used both night and day, it would mean that there would be nine riders, as the men work eight hours each day. However, it is thought that they will be used for special purposes such as catching speeders, chasing lawbreakers who resort to autos to make their getaway, and for emergency calls.

Shopgirl Is Held Up By Man With A Wooden Pistol

Boston, March 17.—While Miss Annie Porter was at work in a Back Bay bake shop last night a masked man entered. He pointed at the girl what she supposed a pistol. As she fled he looted the cash drawer. In escaping the man dropped the weapon. It was made of wood.

MAJORITY OF MEN IN PACKING PLANTS IN FAVOR OF STRIKE

Chicago, March 17.—Reports of the strike vote taken at Middle West branches of the five big packing companies continued to arrive at union headquarters here today, and it was understood they indicate a large majority are in favor of a strike.

Resolutions were adopted by union leaders, assuring the butcher workmen of their support, and a message was sent to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, asking him to attend a meeting at Washington Saturday.

IRISHMEN HONOR PATRON SAINT

"Sweet Little Shamrock" Is Worn by Many Citizens Today—St. Patrick a Frenchman?

Whether St. Patrick was a Scotsman, a Frenchman or an Irishman is a moot point. Some authorities contend that he was born at Kilpatrick on the Scottish river Clyde, that he was educated in France, and was carried as a slave to Ireland, whose apostle he afterwards became. Others maintain that he was born in France, went to Ireland as a missionary, and visited Scotland. But whoever is right or wrong in these details, there cannot be the slightest doubt that he is the patron saint of Ireland, and venerated by all true Irishmen as the personification of all that is great and good in that "distressful country."

In the city today the "sweet little shamrock" is seen in the buttonhole of many a citizen, and something green, be it only a transmogrified carnation, is worn by men and women alike who wish to do honor to "the day they celebrate."

At St. Peter's Cathedral at 9 o'clock this morning, solemn high mass was celebrated in presence of a large congregation by Right Rev. Monsignor O'Connor, vicar-general, with Rev. A. O'Donnell as deacon and Rev. Frank Rockwood as sub-deacon.

Bishop Fallon assisted at the throne in "cappa magna," and he was attended by Rev. Father Pocock and Rev. Father Mahoney as assistant deacons, while Rev. Father Forristal was assistant priest.

At the conclusion of the mass, Bishop Fallon addressed the congregation from the throne.

His lordship said that he could not permit that occasion to pass without making some reference to Ireland and St. Patrick. That great saint had bequeathed to Ireland and to Irishmen a peculiar legacy, namely, that of their religion. No matter in what part of the world Irishmen made their homes, the religion of St. Patrick went with them, and they had stuck to it all through the centuries. But when I think of Ireland today," said the bishop, "I am stupefied."

Bishop Fallon compared the state of Ireland at the present time with that which prevailed in the days of Queen Elizabeth and of Cromwell, declaring that cruel as the persecution of the Irish people was in those times, it was now much worse. His lordship denounced "organized murder," no matter which side it came from, but he thought the onus lay with those who had provoked such a deplorable state of matters.

"There was a time," declared the bishop, "when I was accused of being an imperialist. I am no imperialist, but I did believe that the commonwealth of nations known as the British Empire would use its influence and prestige in the cause of justice nad truth, and I have been mistaken."

Bishop Fallon said that England entered the war with the avowed object of fighting for the freedom of small nations, but her treatment of Ireland had shown that all the promises made by English politicians were nothing but hypocrisy.

CLINICAL WEEK W.O. DOCTORS

Proposed by Western Ontario Academy of Medicine.

FOR CONVOCATION WEEK

Latest Methods of Treatment Will Be Discussed by Experts.

A feature which will no doubt prove attractive to all medical men of Western Ontario is the proposed clinical week to be inaugurated in the near future by the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine. Plans are being formulated to arrange for and stage special clinics at Victoria, St. Joseph's and the Ontario Hospitals, and Byron Sanatorium; also demonstrations in the laboratories of bacteriology, pathology, anatomy, physiology, pharmacology, physiological chemistry, physics, chemistry, and public health of Western University Medical School. The clinical week will likely be staged during convocation week of Western University, which is scheduled for next May.

Owing to extensive practices and time lost in travelling to the larger medical centres, many physicians are unable to attend annual conferences of the medical profession, clinical week in London will afford these doctors and all other medicos of the surrounding district, in addition to Western graduates attending class reunions, an excellent opportunity to see and discuss the latest methods of treatment. These will be seen at first hand, and therfore attending practitioners will understand more readily the latest teachings of medical science.

During Western University convocation week the graduation exercises, annual play, the convocation banquet and dance will provide entertainment of a high order for those attending. It is considered that this innovation on the part of the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine will prove a decided advance toward making London the hub of medical and scientific thought for Western Ontario.

A CORRECTION.—Owing to a typographical error, it was stated in The Advertiser columns yesterday that a St. Patrick's dance was being held by the Catholic Club tonight. This was a mistake, as a concert will provide the evening's entertainment.

NO CHANGE IN PRICES.—Manager Lake of Loew's, states there is no foundation to rumors that the price of seats in Loew's Theatre had been advanced. The policy of the theatre in this matter remains unchanged, one schedule of prices prevailing.

MAY INSPECT HOUSES.—To further the sale of the houses on Pine Lawn the housing commission has arranged to have two of the dwellings furnished completely by Keene Bros. The houses are open to inspection by any citizen.

Bowman, chairman of the county organization, reports that practically the whole county is now organized, and efforts will be made to gain a decisive victory for temperance.

NEW U. S. RELIGIOUS SECT BELIEVES IN EXCHANGE OF WIVES

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 17.—Through official church anouncements of the excommunication of a number of members of the Mormon Chruch, it became known today that a colony of upwards of 50 men and women, situated miles from a railroad in eastern Juab County, have been practicing a number of new doctrines, among them one called "the doctrine of wife sacrifice," under which is is said that wives were interchanged.

The founder and leader of the colony is Moses S. Gudmundson, formerly professor of music at the Brigham Young University, a Mormon institution, who began the movement on the strength of "revelations."

CALLED POLICEMAN A POOR OLD FARMER; MUST PAY FIVE BONES

A Little Bit of Everything Feature at Police Court.

CROWS TOO NOISY

Breaches of M. V. A. Prove Steady Source of Income.

Police court was in a class with a sixteenth rate circus this morning—a little bit of everything, but not much of anything.

Clarence Gould was fined $2 for riding a bicycle on a sidewalk and $3 and costs for being disorderly. The details of the last charge were that he used grossly insulting language toward a police officer. Gould says he called the policeman a "poor old farmer," but the policeman declared that he used expressions that would make a Texas bartender take notice. Gould stated that the constable was n plain clothes and that had he known him to be an officer, he "would have got off the sidewalk."

W. B. Henderson was his own counsel this morning and succeeded in warding off a fine. Being a lawyer, he was used to pleading and after acknowledging the fact that the lights on his car were not lighted, and that a Government inspector took his number, he gave such a bona fide explanation that he was dismissed.

Overheated Argument.

James Wanch and Sidney Pillsworth each paid $5 and costs for swearing on the streets. The former pleaded guilty and his friend not guilty. They were engaged in a heated argument on the street a few nights ago and a policeman who was near heard them use some profane language, he claimed. This morning they could not recall the matter which was being argued. Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon was of the opinion that the heat of the argument was produced by fire-water.

Robert Ferguson, who like two of yesterday's customers, was a regular homing gentleman, pleaded guilty to stealing a ride on a Grand Trunk train in order that he might more speedily arrive at the family hearth. He had come from the United States and experienced no trouble until he arrived in London. He was dismissed with a warning.

Cawed Too Loud.

William Crow and Nelson Crow were doing much crowing in their neighborhood last night, so a policeman was dispatched to the scene. He proceeded to take William to the police station, he said, when his prisoner commenced using offensive language. Nelson added his voice to the din, so he ran them both in. "Five dollars and costs," was the final argument in the case.

Just a faint reminder of the Garfield murder case was found in the court records this morning. Here it is: Annie Garfield, vagrancy, sentence suspended." Annie Garfield was not in court, having gone to her home in Sarnia. Her husband, Denton, is in Kingston penitentiary.

Philip Jarvis was dismissed on a charge of selling tobacco to minors. The case was heard in camera.

For violating the motor vehicles act B. Brighton paid $5 and costs; Harry K. Hooper, $2 and costs; W. H. Todd, $2 and costs; E. S. Plumridge, $3 and costs; W. H. Howe, $2 and costs; A. A. Simmons, $2 and costs; Byron Dundas, $2 and costs; F. M. McCrimmon, $2 and costs; William Stansell, $2 and costs, and Wilfrid Keene, $2 and costs. Breaking city bylaws cost Albert Oltran, H. A. Philips and James Birchall $2 each.

NO NOTIFICATION OF PASSING OF McCREA BILL

City Hall Circles Do Not Take Report From Toronto Seriously.

Possibility of Ald. John Bridge and Ald. Cameron Wilson having to resign from the council because they are members of the railway commission, is not taken seriously in city hall circles. The McCrea bill now before the Legislature, if passed, will prevent members of municipal councils from serving on other appointive boards.

No official notification that this has been passed has been received by the council. If it is adopted it is considered probable that the situation could be straightened out by having the aldermen reisgn from the railway commission and appointing successors. This would be much simpler than resignting from the council, which would entail a by-election.

The council recently expressed its disapproval of the McCrea bill and forwarded a resolution to the Legislature opposing it.

LEGISLATURE MAY CONSIDER CITY GAS BILL WEDNESDAY

The City Gas Company's bill, embracing the settlement reached with the council two weeks ago, will come before the Legislature next Wednesday, according to rumors current today. No official word to this effect has been received. The remaining clauses of the London bill relating to commission government will also come up for consideration on that date.

MAY LOCATE HERE.—Inquiries are being made by a firm of wholesale and retail confectioners, whose factory is at present in London, England, with a view to locating somewhere in Canada. A representative of this grm has been investigating various possibilites from Quebec to Wndsor, and was favorably impressed with London. But nothing can yet be said until a report has been made on the matter.

SIX FOREIGNERS ARE ANXIOUS TO BECOME CITZENS OF CANADA

Two Italians; One American-Irish; One Russian; One Syrian.

Citizenship in Canada is evidently much desired by the foreign residents of London, for no fewer than six of them have made application within the past few months. Those making application are: Antonino Loschiavo, 380 Hamilton road, Italian; Solomon Lapowich, 116 Clarence street, Russian; Matilda Teresa Smith, 13 Wolseley avenue, American of Irish extraction; Edwar d Nicholas Saddy, 433 Ridout street, Syrian; Mike Semczyszyn, 520 Philip street, Galician, and Guiseppe Puolini, 125 Maple street, Italian.

A resident of Dorchester village, namely, Frank Cheresa, who is a natve iof Poland, also is seeking citizenship.

Although the law requires that these people must live in the country five years before they can take our their papers, the majority of them have resided here for seven and eight years.

STOCK ARENA MAY BE USED AS RINK

C. of C. Committee Will Co-operate With Western Fair Board.

The question of the erection of a sports arena at the Western Fair grounds wos brought before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce today by a deputation from the Alert Club, consisting of Lee Walden, manager, and Jack Greer, assistant manager.

The deputation, which was introduced by E. R. Dennis, asked the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce in the matter of the provision of a stock arena, which could be used for hockey games or other legitimate sport, pointing out the advantages that such a scheme would have in fostering athletics and in advertising the city. There was no place in London at present which could be utilized for these purposes.

Colonel Gartshore said that the Western Fair directors had decided to build a stock arena if it were at all possible, and a committee of the chamber of commerce was appointed to act along with the committee of the Western Fair board or any other committee that might be appointed.

Such a building, if constructed, it was stated, would be available for both purposes, and later an ice manufacturing plant could be installed. The arena could also be used for public meetings of various kinds.

FARMER IS MISSING SINCE HEAVY STORM

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Marys, March 17.—A searching party was formed this morning in an effort to clear up the mysterious disappearance of William Millen on Tuesday night. Mr. Millen, who is a farmer at Avonbank, left his home during the heavy electrical storm of Tuesday evening. It is feared he may have fallen into the river, which runs near his farm. He was on his way to a neighbor's.

SUES GRAND TRUNK FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

Charge Fatality Followed Injuries Caused by Company's Negligence.

Emily May Kidd, as executrix of the last will and testament of her husband, Dr. John Edward Kidd, has issued a writ in the supreme court against the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada for damages for the death of her husband from injuries which, she claims, were received by the negligence of the defendant company and its servants. Fraser & Moore are her solicitors. His death occurred several months ago.

D. H. Tennent, through his solicitor, G. H. Tennent, has issued a writ in the supreme court against Norman Ellis of Orford Township, Kent County, to recover immediate possession of lands, consisting of about 80 acres in Kent County. The plaintiff's claim is under a mortgage executed by Jennie Johnson, wife of Thomas G. Johnson, of Zone Township, Kent County.

DO NOT EXPECT HEAVY POLL IN BY-ELECTION

Interest in Poll Is Growing, Railwaymen Voting in Solid Numbers.

That interest in the Ward 4 by-election is on the increase was indicated today by the number of railway employees who took advantage of their privilege to vote before the regular polling day. Nearly a score of ballots were cast at the polling booth on the third floor of the city hall. It is expected there will be a large increase in this number during the afternoon and Friday.

There are about 150 railway employees in Ward 4 who have the privilege of voting before the regular polling day if they expect to be out of the city on election day.

Preparations for the remainder of the voting Saturday are complete. It is not anticipated that the poll will be heavy, and it is quite possible the result will be known by 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Mason & Risch were given a permit to build a two-story brick addition at 248 Dundas street, at a cost of $12,000. E. Marley took out a permit for a one-story cement block garage on York street, to cost $3,500. Mrs. A. Thompson was given a permit for a two-story brick veneer house on Evergreen avenue. It will cost $5,800. A. J. McGinnis will build a one-and-a-half story frame and stucco house at 274 Maitland street, at a cost of $3,200.
