Business Embarrassments.

Reported to-day: The Windsor Creamery Co. have assigned; F. M. Butler, cigar dealer St. Catharines, has assigned; E. A. Provost hardware jobber, Montreal, is offering to compromise; F. E. Edwards, shoe dealer, Montreal, is away and his creditors are anxiously looking for him; William Burgess, contractor, Port Elgin, has compromised with his creditors at 40c, and will go to work again. Samuel Newall, merchant, Warwick, has suddenly departed from town, leaving his creditors out $5000.

The meeting of the creditors of F. Kieran & Co., wholesale grocers, Front street west, will be held this week. It has been deferred to allow California creditors to be present.

B. Kennedy, grocer, King-street west, again met his creditors yesterday afternoon, but did not increase his offer to compromise at 50c, and the meeting adjourned to give him further time to consider it.

The creditors of Angus McKay, dry goods merchant, Ripley, met this morning in E. R. C. Clarkson's office and heard a statement showing $3000 liabilities and nominal assets $2500. No action was taken and the meeting adjourned to give Mr. McKay an opportunity to make an offer.

Some weeks ago J. R. Wilson, drygoods merchant, 276 Yonge-street, traded off the balance of his stock for real estate, and is now trying to get a settlement with his creditors. A meeting will be held on Monday in E. R. C. Clarkson's office, when it is expected Mr. Wilson will make an offer. John Might of R. L. Polk & Co. and manager of the New York Domestic Fashion Company is the chief creditor.

The creditors of the estate of H. E. Hamilton met yesterday and heard a statement showing direct liabilities $40,000, indirect $20,000 and assets $40,000. The indirect liabilities consist of customers' paper, on which the shrinkage will not be more than 35 per cent. Messrs. D. W. Alexander, Philip Jacobi and Charles King were appointed inspectors. They and the creditors will meet in a day or two when the firm will make an offer.

According to Bradstreet's reports the number of business failures in Canada during the past week was 45, as against 36 last week, and 42 during the corresponding week last year.

"I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral freely in my practice, and recommend it in cases of Whooping Cough among children, having found it more certain to cure that troublesome disease than any other medicine I know of."—So says Dr. Bartlett of Concord, Mass.

DEFENDING THE SUSPECTS.

The Everlasting Flow of Eloquence at Chicago—Foster in "Real Mad."

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Mr. Foster continued his speech in behalf of Beggs to-day. Alluding to "that meeting which has now become historic" that was held in Camp 20, he said: "Where is the argument, where is the assumption to establish in your minds the conclusion that this was a conspiracy which originated in and was carried on by Camp 20? Not one thing in all the evidence, not one thing in all this case, except that four of these defendants were members of that camp. Nothing. Do you believe, gentlemen, that a society composed of 380 members in the city of Chicago, composed of such men as have appeared before you here, such men as Michael P. Brady, the lawyer, such men as John F. Finerty, the journalist, such men as have been present or have been compelled to come here by process of this court, and who testified that they were members of Camp 20—do you believe that such an organization was corrupt? Do you believe that such an organization as that camp was adopted and carried a connected scheme for murder? Individuals may be dishonest, but societies never can be. The gentlemen are met with this proposition as a reply to every argument that they can make upon the theory that that camp as a camp resolved upon the killing of Dr. Cronin, and heard the sad tale of all their woe I remembered Shakespeare's admonition, "gently to hear, kindly to judge."

The managers of the free breakfast were wise in their generation yesterday. There was a total absence of the clerical element, there were no reverends with white ties on the platform, but men who by personal experience know what causes poverty, how hard is the poor man's lot, and having been in the fight themselves could speak of its fierceness and the joy of victory, and this was done. The effect of a large-hearted address in which the men were called "Boys," and told of the hardships of hunger, homelessness, and base-footed want was electrical.

Never have I seen more riveted attention. The words were plain, very plain, but the poor fellows knew they were true; and dirty handkerchiefs and ragged coat cuffs were utilized in brushing away many a tear. The touch of nature was there, such as educated collegians often fail to produce.

Some of my anti-poverty friends were also there, studying the working of practical Christian philanthropy. I compared notes with their secretary; we both agreed that such poverty was a sad comment on 19th century civilization, and were of Henry George's opinion that poverty and trouble cause drink as well as drink causes poverty and its train of evils. Poverty palls the most generous spirits, cows industry and offtimes casts resolution itself into despair. Its pauperancy is never so severely felt as by those who have seen better days.

And thus another success was scored by the cottage workers, thankfully they sang their parting hymn of praise, cordially shook hands with everyone although the said hands were innocent of Pears' soap, and then came the general dispersal: some to join in worship at various churches, some to herd in hovels which are Toronto's disgrace, but all with set purpose to come again, to minister or be ministered unto. As I took my meditative way I recalled the words of Charron, "He who receives a good turn should never forget it; he who does one should never remember it."

The Children's Tea.

But the morning scene was weak in suggestions when compared with the evening's. In response to the generous offer of the anonymous gentleman whose sympathy for little ones is well-known and whose generosity was stirred by The World's sketch of the previous Sunday, 450 little ones and a few big ones, but all professing to be under 14 years of age, filled Richmond Hall last night in more senses than one. Their noisy prattle could scarcely be repressed, and the jubilant juveniles were too demonstrative in their eagerness for food and testifying of applause. What a picture they presented! There was every variety and characteristic of childhood amongst what are often called "the lower orders;" thin pinched faces telling of want and neglect, prematurely old repellent faces plainly speaking of rough street life, clean faces and dirty faces, ragged pants and frocks and fairly clean shirts, hoods and aprons. The lads outnumbered the girls by ten to one; of both sexes there were colored specimens. Some of the faces were keen, bright and as promising as can be seen in any public or Sunday school; but of all of them it could be said they were "little ones shut out from love and light, out of dark forbidding retreats where Wait is king and Christ dethroned."

It was no light labor feeding them, but the busy cheerful workers successfully did this, and all were satisfied. The fare was tea, corned beef sandwiches, and currant buns, and of each there was no lack. "Come to the Saviour," "Sweet Bye-and-bye," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and kindred songs were lustily sung.

The addresses were brief and telling, the speakers being Mr. J. J. Kelso and Mr. H. C. Dixon. The former is an old friend of the youngsters through his connection with the Children's Fresh Air Fund, and the latter is the dispenser of the bounty which for four months has been placed at his disposal. The attention and interest of even "the noisy boys" was gained, and the meeting, for a first attempt, was a thorough success. Truly of the Cottage workers it could emphatically be said, "something attempted, something done, had earned a night's repose."

FREE BREAKFAST AND TEA

A BUSY TIME AT RICHMOND HALL YESTERDAY.

Two Hundred Adults Well Fed in the Morning, Four Hundred Children at Night—Work to be Found for the Unemployed—Reflections on the Gatherings—Spicy Addresses.

To mortal man great loads allotted be,
But of all packs no pack like poverty.

These lines of Robert Herrick, so true when he wrote them a couple of centuries ago, were uppermost in the mind of The World's Ecclesiastical Young Man when he yesterday saw living exemplifications of them in well nigh a couple of hundred adults in the morning and double the number of poverty-stricken children at night.

The early morning was not like godly George Herbert's ideal Sunday, "O day, most calm, most bright;" on the contrary it was dark and muggy, wet and miserable. So were a number of humble wayfarers whom I joined on Yonge-street and with whom I chatted on the way to Richmond Hall. "They'd all been there before," they said, referring to the free breakfast, and when I suggested that there were other places not so good where perhaps they'd been, they agreed that such was the case, "more the pity."

The contrast inside the hall was marked: Cheerful smiles, hearty welcomes, kindly ushers, lively singing. Keen appetites relished the buttered beef sandwiches, hot strong coffee warmed and stimulated the interior apparatus. It was surprising how rapidly pint pots were emptied and replenished and how soon the stacks of tasty sandwiches were diminished.

There was one thing they all liked—and herein is a not despicable suggestion for large restaurants—whilst the feeding went on so did the music. The choir sang their sweetest hymns and sang them con amore. And the rough guests when their mouths were not filled with bread and meat were filled with chorus singing. "The half hath not been told of love so full, so free," was a favorite, so also were "Over There," "The Sweet Bye-and-Bye," "Scatter Seeds of Kindness" and "Sowing the Seed." Some of the songs were selected as specially applicable to the poor and forlorn; others were for the mutual encouragement of the workers.

In conversation with the men I found they were truly thankful for the kindness and hospitality shown them. They said: "We like the speaking," "It does us good," "We know it's all well-meant," "It's what we used to hear at Sunday school," "It reminds us of happier days."

And as I conversed with these poor fellows and heard the sad tale of all their woe I remembered Shakespeare's admonition, "gently to hear, kindly to judge."

The managers of the free breakfast were wise in their generation yesterday. There was a total absence of the clerical element, there were no reverends with white ties on the platform, but men who by personal experience know what causes poverty, how hard is the poor man's lot, and having been in the fight themselves could speak of its fierceness and the joy of victory, and this was done. TORONTO'S NEW STATION.

A Report From the Experts and Engineers re the Viaduct Scheme.

At a meeting of the Esplanade sub-committee on Saturday, Surveyor Sankey read a partial report of the experts and engineers. The gist of it is that the viaduct should be carried east of the Don to a point near Logan-avenue, but that the mode of construction of that portion of it should be earth filling. A majority decided, that in the matter of a viaduct along the Don improvement, that the tracks should remain as the present dock level, and that all street crossings there should be over the tracks; with this Assistant Engineer Cunningham differed and Engineer Shanly added an unimportant rider to it. It was unanimously agreed that the viaduct should be brought to a terminus at or near Bathurst-street. It was unanimously agreed that the adoption of any plan will involve the removal or reconstruction of the Grand Trunk bridge over the Don, and that in such reconstruction the extra expense of building it a swing or drawbridge would be but slight, and it should be so built, leaving the question of its use as such in abeyance, to be decided by circumstances. It was agreed that there were arguments for and against the proposal to have the station so constructed that passengers need not cross tracks to get to trains, and that it is a matter of detail which may be safely left in abeyance. As to whether John and Simcoe-streets should be left open for traffic south of Front-street, it was considered that the question of the location of the station should be first discussed.

1890 Office Diaries.

The Copp Clark Company send us a specimen of their office diaries for 1890. We notice some special features which make them of great value, they contain a full complete list of customs duties corrected to the latest possible time before issue, with sterling table at 91-2 per cent. for calculating entries of British goods. A full list of the banks of the Dominion with their agencies and managers, and a brief synopsis of commercial laws; also as usual, the calendar, postal information, etc. We need only add that they are well printed on good paper and substantially bound.

Dyspepsia or indigestion is occasioned by the want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes: "Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

Around City Hall.

During the week there were registered: 85 births, 63 deaths, 31 marriages.

To-day's meetings: Court of Revision, 2 p.m.; Board of Works, 2.30; special commission on gates at level crossings, 3; council 7.

L. C. Sheppard has received permission to erect seven 2-storey attached brick houses on Reynolds-street at a cost of $3500.

The Toronto Board of Underwriters have written the Mayor asking him to give them an interview to discuss the question of electric wires.

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio.

THE FORESTERS AT CHURCH.

Progress of the Order—Rev. Dr. Thomas' Eloquent Sermon.

The Canadian Order of Foresters attended service at the Jarvis-street Baptist Church yesterday. The members assembled at Shaftesbury Hall at 3 o'clock, there being 350 in all under High Chief Ranger Towe, W. H. Davis, R. Kidney and R. Davis.

Rev. Dr. Thomas preached and by the large congregation of Foresters his sermon was greatly appreciated. His text was from Corinthians 16.

13. Acquit yourselves like men; be strong.

The preacher devoted himself mainly to the type of character to be developed in man, especially in the present age, and to this his text directly applied. He then spoke of the great advances made by the order when it started with a membership of only some 400. The society rapidly developed until the present membership numbers 10,000. During the ten years of its existence it has paid out in sick benefits, funeral expenses and death claims no less a sum than $300,000, there being at the present time about $100,000 in the High Court treasury or safely invested in first-class institutions for the payment of death claims alone.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Decency in Journalism.

EDITOR WORLD: A meeting of residents of Parkdale took place Friday night for the purpose of stating their views about certain questions affecting their interests as ratepayers of St. Alban's Ward. An evening journal has seen fit to caricature the whole proceedings, particularly that part about the danger of a holocaust at High Park. If a son of the proprietor of that paper met his death at such a place I wonder how the joke would take. If this course is not stopped the paper will lose the respect of all decent citizens, and prevent the quiet citizen from attending public meetings in the future. SOBRIETY.

JEALOUSY AROUSED

By the Success of Advertising Specialists—A Fair View of the Case.

The jealousy of the general practitioner of medicine in Toronto has been aroused by the success of the advertising specialists, and is the sole reason why they take the negative side of the question "Is it right for doctors to advertise their specialties?" This question is wrong and can only be taken on purely selfish grounds, as any one with common sense knows that a specialist who makes particular diseases his special study will be more competent to deal with them than the general practitioner, who treats all the diseases known to man. Below we give an illustration wherein a party was perfectly cured by an advertising specialist. Mr. John Stitt of No. 236 Ontario-street, had been for years treated by general practitioners of medicine, and had grown from bad to worse until his case was to him hopeless. He was so bad he had to abandon his work, but he noticed the advertisement of the Medical Institution for the cure of Catarrh, Dyspepsia and Chronic Diseases, located at 198 King-street west, and resolved to give them a trial. Mr. Stitt had chronic dyspepsia, his appetite was gone, he had nasty pains and burning sensations in his stomach attended by occasional vomiting, was bloated, had palpitation of the heart, headache, dizziness, pain in the back, felt worn out on the least exertion, had no ambition. After a short course of treatment he was entirely cured and is now a well, and happy man. He can be seen by any one who wishes to call on him and will gladly tell his story.

We have hundreds of similar testimonials which can be seen on application at our office. No testimonials published without consent of patient. Medical Institution, 198 King-street west. Office hours, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Sundays, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.
