The Clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law re-appointing Mr. Richard Sanderson as the County representative on the General Hospital Board.

By-laws were put through their three readings appointing Mr. Geo. F. Cook as the County member of the Criminal Board of Audit.

A further by-law was given its three readings appointing Messrs. James A. Smith and Wm. Dickie, auditors to audit the County accounts for the year 1912.

The Warden and Messrs. M. N. Simpson and A. L. Davidson were appointed county members on the Board of Governors of the House of Refuge for the year 1913.

Music and Drama

Actor a Church Painter.

Wallace Beery, who plays the part of Max Hein, alias "Prince Borus," in the musical success, "The Balkan Princess," which comes to the Grand on Wednesday, Feb. 5, is a good Presbyterian, albeit it he does make his living in musical comedy. In order to reconcile song, dance and musical comedy, he occasionally feels called upon to give special proof of his religious sincerity. Not long ago the little Presbyterian church in Casper, Wyo., where Mr. Berry's parents live, became very shabby and in need of painting. Beery was appointed one of the committee of gentlemen to put on a fresh coat of paint that would give the building a shiny exterior. The result was that Beery painted the Casper Presbyterian church with the assistance only of the minister.

HON. JAMES YOUNG.

The death in Galt of Hon. Jam Young removes a notable figu from Canada's public arena.

He was born in Canada, of Scot parentage, in 1835, and in early was associated with newspa work.

When 33 years of age he elected a member of the first Ho of Commons at Ottawa, represent South Waterloo. He was defeated the election of 1878 and next year came member for North Brant in Local Legislature, and sat until when he declined renominatio For a time he was a member of Mowat Cabinet as Provincial Treasurer.

He was married in 1858 to daughter of the late John McNau of Brantford, and relatives still side here.

Mr. Young was a fine type man, a good writer, an excell speaker, a staunch friend and a co teous opponent to all with wh he differed politically.

It was a privilege to know him it is an equal privilege to bear te mony to his many excellent qu ies of mind and heart.

HEALTH MATTERS.

If the members of the Board Health follow up with vigor excellent programme mapped ou their inaugural meeting, they will serve and receive the hearty tha of citizens generally.

It will be noticed that the t main items discussed consisted

The overcrowding of houses, pecially of foreigners.

The unsanitary condition u which meat is sold on the mark

The need of a public abattoir.

1—The housing of foreigners sents some difficult features. may be affirmed that gener speaking those in Brantford quite speedily adapted themselve rules of law and order as obse in all British communities, but occupacy of residences under conditions is somewhat of a p lem. An intelligent and ambit foreigner with a wife and two c ren complained to The Courier, other day, that neither he, nor or many other of his compatr liked to be huddled together, bu said in effect:

"What are we to do. In parts of the city if we try to houses we are refused. If we t buy, the price at once goes up, then neighbors get together an higher than we do. For mys would like a separate house, perhaps a boarder or two, bu der present conditions and to where I would like, is beyon means. That's why myself and family are packed in a house what you call sardines."

There is a good deal of tru this, and it would be well for Board of Health, together wit City Council, to recognize facts and to see if some rem scheme can be outlined.
