THE EASTERN LEAGUE.

New York, March 10.—The Eastern League of Professional Baseball Clubs held and concluded its annual schedule meeting at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Each one of the eight clubs comprising the league was represented. A report of the committee which conferred with the Western League was approved. The schedule proposed by President Powers was adopted unanimously.

The following was adopted to the bylaws and constitution: "That this league ratifies the action taken by the National League in regard to rowdy ball players, and that the president is empowered to appoint a board of discipline, consisting of three members, to pass upon all complaints."

It was unanimously agreed that the board of directors meet annually on the first Wednesday of September to decide all protests.

Another motion adopted was that all clubs desiring to transfer or rearrange a game could only do so by the consent of the president or of three-fourths vote of the league.

Section 52 was amended so that a visiting club shall receive $50 from the home club in case of rain, and that the visitors shall still be entitled to the guarantee of $100, or 40 per cent of the gate receipts, when the game is played.

A dispute which arose over Second Baseman O'Brien, who played in the early part of last season for Washington and finished with Providence, the former claiming the right to sign O'Brien, was placed for solution in the president's hands. Mr. Powers will ask representatives of Providence and Syracuse to submit evidence to him, and he will decide on a mail vote which he will request the board of directors to make.

By the schedule it is seen that the season opens on April 28 and closes on Sept. 10. After the schedule was adopted it was agreed that if any of the clubs desired to play unfinished or postponed games in order to wind up the schedule, they could do so up to and including September 12.

DEATH OF WARNER.

Baltimore, March 10.—E. H. Warner, who was at one time considered a great baseball player, is dead. He traveled all over the country, and caught for Frank Horner. The pair were known as the Horner-Warner pony battery. About eight years ago his arm gave out, and he retired from the profession. He was 35 years of age, and leaves a widow and two small children. Consumption was the cause of his death.

FLYS.

Shortstop Shannon has refused Buffalo's terms.

Carney, Toronto's new first baseman, is studying pharmacy in Boston.

McHale has been playing with semi-professional clubs in Los Angeles, his home.

There are two or three Eastern League clubs that would like to get Catcher Jim Casey.

Third Baseman Doc Smith has been practicing his profession all winter in Philadelphia.

Manager Arthur Irwin and Messrs. Campbell and Soole are looking after Toronto's interests at the Eastern League meeting.

The Torontos start off the season with a better lot of pitchers, taking them all around, than they had at the beginning of last season.

Pitcher Norton will not figure in a Toronto uniform this year. He wrote some time ago that he was going to the Klondike, but the odds are against him going.

The Cleveland and Pittsburg clubs commenced practice in Little Rock on Wednesday.

Catcher Dixon, drafted from Providence by Washington, has been turned over to Minneapolis.

Manager Bob Allen is having hard work to sign his Indianapolis players at the limit. Players have been cut all along the line.

It is now definitely settled that the International League will consist of six clubs, the cities represented being London, Hamilton, St. Thomas, Port Huron, Saginaw and Bay City.

Terry, of Milwaukee, has come to terms, and will pitch for the team on the home grounds only.

CANADIAN HUNT ASSOCIATION.

Toronto, March 10.—The recognition of the Canadian Hunt Association in the programme of the Ontario and Hamilton Jockey Club spring meetings was discussed with much satisfaction at the meeting of the C. H. A. held at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto. Applications for certificates for hunters and for gentlemen riders have been received by the secretary, and the association has decided to recognize all reputable meetings given in Canada this year.

AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, March 10.—The talent had its inning yesterday. Robert Bonner, Globe, Ill., and Kingston were the favorites. Other winners were: Takanassee, Dolly, Regent, Sulphuric and Lillian E.

ATHLETICS.

Henry Leveson, of Chicago, has lifted two ten-pound dumbbells from his side to arm's length above his head 4,500 times in 2 hours and 49 minutes, breaking the record, which was previously three hours. George Siler was referee.

Leaguers Leave London for Home.

Second Annual Convention Brought to a Close.

Resolution Protesting Against the Liquor Traffic Unanimously Passed.

Officers Elected—The Secretary's Report—Addresses by Ex-Ald. Spence of Toronto and Others.

The second annual convention of Epworth Leaguers of the Methodist churches in the London conference was brought to a close last night in the First Methodist Church, which was well filled.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

After devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. John Hayne, of Brigden, the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows: President, Wm. Jenery, London; first vice-president, R. D. Hamilton, Kingsville; second vice-president, Rev. H. E. Harrison, Granton; third vice-president, L. J. Reycraft, Ridgetown; fourth vice-president, Miss L. Jackson, Chatham; fifth vice-president (junior), Miss Stevenson, Glencoe; secretary, Ezra Hunt, Scottsville; treasurer, R. M. Major, Sarnia; representative to general E. L. board, Rev. C. T. Scott, St. Thomas.

The secretary's report, referring to the strength of the league, says:

"The growth of our organization, while not quite so rapid as in former years, is still very gratifying. We have now 1,847 societies of young people in the Dominion of Canada, with a total membership of 81,162, an increase of 150 societies and 6,247 members for the year. The number of senior leagues in the London conference is 140, with a membership of 5,604; Epworth Leagues of Christian Endeavor, 170, witn a membership of 8,775; affiliated societies, 4, with a membership of 159; unaffiliated societies, 9, with a membership of 435; junior leagues, 47, with a membership of 2,563, making a grand total of societies 370, with 11,286 active members and 6,250 associate members, an aggregate of 17,536 members. The financial situation is alike good and very encouraging. During the year the leagues in the London conference contributed $5,237 42 for league purposes, $263 99 for the general Epworth League board, $84 72 for the superannuation fund, and $4 99 for educational societies; for missions, $1,147 24, making a total contribution of $6,738 36. The report was unanimously adopted.

Mrs. Evans, representing the W. F. M. S., addressed the convention on the subject of missions, and sought aid from the leaguers. The mission circles in some instances had been absorbed by the Epworth League, thus taking away all means of revenue. Instead of this, she urged that all the young ladies in the leagues and endeavors should connect themselves with the mission circles in order that the circles might be given the impetus the cause merited.

Rev. Joseph Edge, of Goderich, gave a short address on "Our Reading Course," which was interesting and editying and full of practical points. He advocated the study and constant perusal of the book adopted for league use by the general assembly, and that each society should be formed into a reading circle. This would always be a means of education and of propagation and fostering ideas, which would not be brought out in any other way. Wherever reading circles could be formed they would not only be profitable, but most pleasant.

Rev. J. B. Wallwin, of Lucknow, spoke on "The League in Evangelistic Work." The professed purpose of the league, he said, was the saving of souls, and the majority of these were young people. The young people were in sympathy with the league more than any other church organization, and consequently the league was better able to reach them. The organization was derelict in its duty and mission if not saving souls, and every member was personally responsible for efforts within and without the society meetings. Every successful leaguer must be prayerful and studious, ever seeking to inculcate the doctrines of Christ. He closed by advocating that each league should once a week hold a revival meeting.

THE EVENING SESSION.

The proceedings of the final session were begun by the unanimous adoption of the resolution committee's report, recommending the following motion by D. A. Maxwell and Rev. James Husser: "Whereas it has been well established in many ways that the use of alcoholic liquors as beverages is destructive of the best interests of the human race; whereas the chief courts of several Christian bodies have at different times declared in effect that the manufacture and sale of such liquors, except for medicinal and scientific purposes, cannot be licensed without sin, and whereas the settled policy of the Methodist Church throughout the world is in open hostility to the so-called liquor traffic, be it resolved:

"1. That this convention calls upon all leaguers and church officials to see that the provisions in the Public Schools Act for teaching temperance in the public schools of Ontario shall not be a dead letter.

"2. That this convention protests to the Government of Canada against granting permits for the sale (other than for medicinal and scientific purposes) of alcoholic liquors in the provisional districts of the Canadian Northwest.

"3. That this convention respectfully and most earnestly requests the Government of the Dominion of Canada to frame its question of prohibition about to be submitted to the popular vote, so as to demand a definite 'yes' or 'no' for the answer, and that there shall be no rider or additional question regarding taxes, costs or remunerations associated with the question on prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of alcoholic liquors other than for medicinal and scientific purposes.

"4. That the president and the secretary of the London Conference League convention shall sign and forward to the minister of education for Ontario a copy of resolution No. 1, and also a copy of Nos. 2 and 3 to the premier of Canada, and to the secretary of the Dominion Alliance."

A motion was unanimously passed thanking the trustee of the First Methodist Church for the use of the edifice, and to the local union for the kindness of its members.

Dr. Thornton, of Chatham, then introduced the newly elected officers in a happy little speech, and they in turn made appropriate replies. A hearty vote of thanks was also tendered the retiring officers and all others who had assisted the convention in any way.

Mr. R. W. Dillon, editor of the Chatham Banner, gave an interesting address on "Sunset and Dawn." The speaker, after dwelling upon the glory of the heavens and the sunset, said the world was on the eve of a new dawn. There were six dominating forces controlling the civilization of the world today. The first was the marvelous lessening of distance on the earth's surface; second, the increasing interdependence of the nations of the earth upon each other; third, the universal and increasing diffusion of knowledge; fourth, the grasping greed of wealth by which the poor were becoming poorer and the rich becoming richer; fifth, the spirit of selfish materialism; and, sixth, the marvelous life-giving power of the spirit of Jesus Christ. The speaker took these up individually, and pointed out the manner in which all forces should be used for the advancement of the evangelization of the world for Christ. Many men did wrong because they would not take the trouble to do right. The newspapers that supported the gamblers were kept alive by those churches who gave them advertising. Every action of the league should be dominated by religious motives, and a spirit of love, with self always last.

Miss Fowler here sang a solo that was highly appreciated.

"Prohibition and the Plebiscite," was the subject upon which Mr. F. S. Spence spoke for nearly an hour. He said he had no new facts to present, but would mention some old ones which might be of use in this crisis. He was sure they all knew the Methodist maxim of "Total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the community." He felt as confident of the outlawry of the liquor traffic and the triumph of temperance in the near future as he did that tomorrow's sun would rise. Some people imagined this agitation was based on a few fanatical ideas, but it was the natural outcome of a moral persuasion that had been born of the misery, desolation, degradation, privation, suffering and crime caused by intemperance. The degree of success could be measured by the progress of the past, and today the temperance party were more powerful and influential than ever before. It was only in 1838 that Father Theobald Mathew, the Apostle of Temperance, began his reform work in Ireland. Shortly after that he became the first president of the first total abstinence society, and in the first five months he administered the pledge at Cork alone to 150,000 converts. At Galway he administered the pledge to 100,000 people in two days. He started the movement in America, and this would have to go on until it either conquered or was vanquished. Mr. Spence went carefully over the different stages of the temperance movement, and explained that prohibition was only the crystallized opinion of the people, and without which there could be no good law. If prohibition passed, the work of prohibitionists was but begun. The three great essentials to the success of the movement were, sound sentiment in the community, wise laws on the statute books of the country, and honest administration of the same when placed there. The first was gained by putting principle and religion before politics, the second by the power of the ballot, and the third by seeing that none but the right men were at the head of the country's affairs. The young men of the country owed a duty to the political caucus as well as to the prayer meeting, and they could prevent the presentation of a plebiscite that the temperance people would be forced to repudiate. The consumption of liquor in Canada last year, he said, was 4½ gallons per head of population; 17 gallons in the United States, 30 gallons in Great Britain, and 32 in Germany. Some people contended that if it was right to manufacture liquor it was right to sell it, and if right to sell it, then it must be right to drink it. He closed by outlining the work to be performed when the measure should be presented to the people.

The meeting closed with the doxology and benediction.
