TOO OLD TO "DRAW."

Pastor John Wood, of the Ottawa Congregational Church, Asked to Resign.

OTTAWA, June 15.—Rev. John Wood, pastor of the Congregational Church, was asked to-night to resign by his congregation by a vote of 42 to 27.

The movers in the matter stated that while they respected Mr. Wood as a man and a pastor, they felt that he was getting too old to "draw" a congregation, and as a result the church was going behind in finances. They believed a change of pastors was needed.

Mr. Wood has been pastor of the church for sixteen years at a salary latterly of $1,000, of which he has been in the habit of contributing $200 a year to the church funds. He is one of the most respected and earnest Christian and temperance workers in the city and is but 58 years of age.

HE DID NOT LAUGH.

O'Brien Hanged Himself for a Joke, but it Wasn't Funny at All.

NORWALK, June 16.—Thomas O'Brien a clerk in the grocery store of Charles L. Glover, tried to play a practical joke on his associates to-day, and it nearly resulted fatally to himself. He went to the cellar, fastened a rope about his neck and stood on a hogshead.

Loud groans brought the people downstairs, when O'Brien jumped off the hogshead, he intended to alight on a soap box, but accidently kicked the box over. He was strangling when cut down. His neck was cut by the rope, and he was considerably injured, but will recover.
