A Printer's Paronomasia.

A pretty and dashing little lady who called at the Newspaper Union the other day to see how type was set on end asked the foreman if he could print a kiss.

"Oh, yes," said he, if I was allowed to 'lock up' your 'form.'"

"Now, you are 'imposing' on me and I won't 'stand' it. If that's your 'rule' I think it's a 'case' where I'd be 'justified' in hitting you with a 'stick.'"

"Be 'composed,' miss, and I'll speak 'plainer' to 'chase' away your fears. Not for all the 'quoin' in christendom would I 'take' advantage of your ignorance, and I would give you 'proof' that you are not my 'dupe'—rather I would 'slug' the person who had 'lead' you to think so."

"Ah, yes, I know," she replied. "Those 'stereotyped' sentences I've heard before, but in a shorter 'space' of time than this I've known a printer to take an 'em brace.' But I couldn't 'column' man a gentleman who'd do so; could you?"

"I'd like to put a 'displayed head' on him," was the foreman's reply as he went off to swear at the "devil" down the elevator.

"In alcohol, young man, in alcohol," replied the horny-handed old son of the restless sea, and a calm, benignant light overspread his rugged features as he waited to be asked up.

But the young man, being merely a tract distributor, and not a ubiquitous reporter, only said, "How strange!" and passed on —Few are the remedies whose beneficial qualities and real merits have made them so popular with the public, and increased from year to year their consumption, which, whilst possessing the most valuable remedial properties, are yet so simple in their compound, and so easy to take, as The Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman of Toronto. This article is prepared from the pure Sulphate of Quinine, combined with fine Sherry Wine, and choice aromatics, which relieves the Quinine of its bitter taste, and does not impair in the least degree the efficacy of its action upon the patient; while small doses, frequently repeated, strengthen the pulse, increase muscular force, and invigorate the tone of the nervous system, and thus, by the general vigor which it imparts, creates an appetite, which gives to the stomach tone and energy, and fortifies the system against all infectious diseases. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine; sold by all druggists.
