GERMAN SOLDIERS HAVE BEEN TOLD ARMISTICE IS ALREADY ARRANGED

BY WILBUR FORREST.

(Special to The Advertiser, Copyrighted, 1918, New York Tribune, Inc.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Oct. 16.—The elements of the German army opposing the Americans have been told that all plans for an armistice and the withdrawal from the occupied territory have now been arranged. The plan embraces the withdrawal of the German troops twenty kilometres, while the Allied armies withdraw ten kilometres. Then with a neutral strip of thirty kilometres between the armies the general withdrawal commences, the Allied armies halting ten kilometres from the German frontiers until peace is signed.

An American sergeant, captured by the Germans Wednesday, was taken a considerable distance to the German rear by his captors, given biscuits and liquor rations, and then turned loose. His captors said that the war would soon be over and they didn't want to bother with prisoners. The sergeant rejoined our lines at darkness without difficulty.

HUNS ARE IN RAPID FLIGHT FROM NORTHERN REGIONS OF BELGIUM; ALLIES IN PURSUIT

British Forces Have Gained at All Points Between Douai and Lille—French Cavalry Is Approaching Thielt, Seven Miles From the Ghent-Bruges Canal.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN BELGIUM, Oct. 16.—(By the Associated Press).—4:30 p.m.—The Germans have started a retreat on a tremendous scale from Northern Belgium. French cavalry is approaching Thielt, seven miles from the banks of the Ghent-Bruges canal. The canal itself is only ten miles from the border of Holland.

So fast is the enemy retreating that the French, British and Belgian infantry, at least in the centre of the battlefront, have lost touch entirely with the enemy.

Great streams of enemy traffic began moving last night and continued today on the roads around Courtrai and Harlebeke and on the railways running northeast.

The trench mortars and direct machine gun fire are seriously hampering the enemy transport in its attempt to get the material away through the mud.

Fierce Fighting on Thourout.

Stubborn fighting has been reported, especially from the region of Thourout. The battle here has been from street to street and house to house, and large numbers of the enemy have been killed. Some Belgian forces have swept around the city in order to cut the roads at the rear, and also assist in bottling up the enemy trying to hold out in the city itself.

The Germans had placed machine guns in the windows of the houses and in the cellars, and fired murderous streams of bullets into the advancing Belgians, but were unable to stop them. The Belgians fought with a dogged determination such as only troops fighting to regain their outraged country could display. Nothing could stop them.

British at Quesnoy?

The British, following up the retreating Germans and overcoming the rearguards, are reported as reaching Quesnoy and as having captured Linselles along the Lys. The Belgians at the time this dispatch was filed were reported to be past Keyem and to have reached positions on the other side of Cachtem and Ardoye, both of which they captured.

Northeast of Courtrai, Bavichove was stormed and taken, and the Belgians were still going.

The Linselles position is most valuable, for the place, being northwest of Turcoing, the Allied troops are gradually outflanking the whole of the Lille salient, from which there are further signs that the enemy is withdrawing. As a matter of fact his troops in this salient are in an extremely precarious position. They must get out rapidly or face disastrous consequences.

A thousand more prisoners and many more canon have been captured today.

Boches Surrender Freely.

The Germans at many places, especially in the northern part of the battle area, seem to be surrendering freely. Many more civilians have been rescued from the towns and districts captured, and little processions of these are straggling rearward out of range of the guns and out of the way of the fighting troops.

Stories are beginning to come back how liberated Belgian women have seen their sons, brothers or husbands going forward into battle. Quite a number of civilians also have been rescued from Roulers and its environs, the Germans having left in such a hurry that they had not time to evacuate the civilian population who wanted to stay and take a chance of being liberated. Today these men, women and children are again walking on the free soil of France.

The Germans appear to be making strenuous efforts to save their munitions and equipment, and their material, the accumulation of four years, from the country districts of Belgium.

Airplanes Get in Work.

The roads behind the Germans are littered with all sorts of transport, and Allied airplanes are again playing havoc with the retreating enemy.

The weather today was cloudy, but thus far no more rain has fallen. However, Flanders is mud from one end to the other, and this condition makes movement difficult for the Allied troops. The ooze and soft ground make it doubly difficult for the enemy to move back. Therefore the Allied soldiers have put up with great hardships, for they realize that they have the enemy on the run in the most vital sector of the west front, and do not desire to let him hav a chance to reassemble his shattered units.

Outside Courtrai the infantry has progressed about three miles, and here have been compelled to fight their way forward, for the Germans had orders to hold on to the last, and they did so. Not many of those who had been stationed with machine guns to try to hold up the advance of the Allied troops, managed to escape. Virtually all were killed or wounded or are prisoners.

Nearing Holland Border.

At the Thielt positions the cavalry has begun to come into a country where the roads are harder, allowing them to operate more freely. From here the Holland border is less than 20 miles away. It is through this gap that the Germans throughout the entire Belgian coast system must go if they wish to save themselves, providing, of course, that the advance continues. Incidentally, every yard of advance here narrows the enemy's escape gap.

It would seem that if the weather holds out long enough and the advance continues at the present rate of speed the Germans soon will have lost control of great stretches of Belgium, especially the coast, which is important for submarines, aside from stretches of Northern France, from where all rules of tactical strategy demand they must evacuate, being outflanked with their lines turned.

So far as is known the Germans have not any formidable line in their rear where they can find refuge.

Moreover the German high command is not in a position to send reinforcements of any consequence to Flanders, as they are all needed and fully occupied elsewhere, along the front. The Belgians, British and French count among their prisoners the entire staff of a crack German regiment, including the colonel commanding. What has become of the German infantry in the centre of the battlefield is not known. All that is certain is that the advancing Allied troops have not encountered any in some hours.

BOLSHEVIKI ARMIES AND THE ALLIES ARE AT GRIPS ON DVINA

Americans Are Taking Part in Battle.

ALLIES IN TIGHT PLACE

Receding River Favors the Enemy, Who Is Losing Nevertheless.

ARCHANGEL, Oct. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Allied forces, including Americans, are engaged in repulsing heavy Bolshevik attacks on both sides of the Dvina, 150 miles north of Kotlash, in the north Russian fighting zone.

The Americans and Russians have advanced in the direction of Welsk, northeast of Vologda.

Are Under Heavy Fire.

The Bolsheviki, with massed forces, are striving to regain the positions which were won after hard fighting by Americans and Scotch on September 21. After an almost constant bombardment for more than a week the Allies have repulsed many infantry attacks and inflicted considerable losses. These positions include villages on opposite sides of the Dvina River, some of which are on a high bluff, with a strategic bend in the stream. Around this bend Bolshevik gunboats, protected by mine fields and a low, sandy island, have delivered a bombardment with shells of all calibres.

The Allies, meanwhile, have been forced to strive against the rapidly-falling river, which is full of sandbars. The garrison, though greatly outnumbered in men and artillery, have struggled waist-deep in a muddy swamp and knee-deep in the muddy roads, capturing several guns and machine guns.

Gallant Officer Drowns.

An American engineer lieutenant and a few men crossed the river under a heavy fire, and rescued a gun from a disabled tug, on which the Bolshevik had centred their fire. The next day the same lieutenant, with a sergeant, braved the same dangers in an effort to repair their tugs, which had been caught under a heavy shower of shrapnel fire. They tried to swim for the shore, but were swept away by the swift current and drowned.

The Bolsheviki are now trying to spread their propaganda among the Allied troops. Captured trenches and villages on the Dvina front were full of proclamations, printed in English, asking the British and Americans not to fight. These proclamations were laughed at by the British and Americans, as particularly inconsistent with Bolshevik treatment of prisoners, whom they have many times mutilated.

EMPEROR CHARLES LETS HUSSAREK GO BUT HOLDS WEKERLE

Claims Full Confidence in Hungarian Ministry.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—It is reported in Vienna according to an official ported in Vienna according to an official Emperor Charles has accepted the resignation of Count Hussarek, the Austrian premier, and intrusted Count Silva Taronka with the task of forming a new cabinet.

The Austrian emperor has declined to accept the resignation of the Hungarian cabinet of Premier Wekerle, according to Budapest advices received here. The emperor said he had full confidence in the cabinet.

ITALIANS ADVANCING BY LEAPS IN ALBANIA

ROME, Oct. 16.—Italian troops advancing in Albania on Monday, occupied Tirana, 17 miles northwest of Elbasan, the Italian war office announced today.

NO INTERFERENCE.

VIENNA, Via London, Oct. 16.—The Austrian official communication issued today says:

"At Sasso Rosso an Italian thrust was frustrated.

"In Serbia and Albania our movements and measures are proceeding without interference on the part of the enemy."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

There was a good market today, but the selling was slow.

Large quantities of apples were offered, but there was not much demand for them.

Hay was selling at $18@20 per ton, with a good sale for the comparatively small offerings.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Fresh strength developed in the corn market today as a result of the denial of reports that Germany had capitulated. Buying, however, was not of great volume, and there were numerous transfer sections. Talk of the possibility that a minimum price on corn would be established acted somewhat as a bullish factor. Opening prices ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 3¾c higher.

Oats kept pace with corn. After opening ⅜c to ⅞c up, with November at 66⅞@66⅝c, the market fluctuated nervously, but did not get far either way from initial figures.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 17—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Peace stocks resumed their upward swing at the opening of today's market, oils, motors, coppers and shipings making gains of 1 to 3 points in the first half hour's active dealings. Royal Dutch Oil made an advance of 13 points, jumping 10 points between sales. Rails, sugars and utilities shared in the movement at gains of 1 to 4 points, but steels and equipments, comprising the munitions and ordnance groups, were comparatively heavy.

Noon.—Buoyant conditions prevailed during the feverishly active morning, over 500,000 shares changing hands. The movement included high grade rails and other issues having no direct relation to foreign developments. New maximums were made by Mexican Petroleum and Texas Company, and numerous other stocks were at highest prices of the past year or two. Even the war group threw off its lethargy, probably as a result of the strength of United States Steel, which rallied 2 points from its nominal reversal. French Government ives rose a fraction to the high record of 102½, and Paris sixes sold at 99, their best quotation of the year.
