The Cuban Market.

Havana advices of November 25 —An extremely active demand for haddock, with a higher price prevailing. The market for haddock and hake has not improved, same prices still rule. We quote haddock at 7, haddock at 7.75 and hake at 7 cents a pound. Although the demand for codfish in cases is off, the prices have not weakened principally to the fact that stocks have been trying to get rid of accumulations in consequence of the war. No change was experienced during the week. We quote Norwegian codfish at $8.50 and American codfish at $9.50 a quintal. As there are good stocks of pickled herring and holders want $4.50 a barrel for bloaters declining to $4 a box.

Numerous arrivals have produced a quiet tone in prices, in spite of the active demand which has prevailed. They Will though it is hoped the prices are not so heavy. We quote potatoes at $3.75 per Canadian barrel, $3 per American barrel, and 2½ cents a pound for potatoes packed in bags.

DISLIKED BY ENGLISH BARON

Learns of His Error Through Home Affairs, Regrets, But Not Until There Have Been Some Startling Scenes in His House and "The House Next Door"

The story of "The House Next Door" must be familiar to all who have been following the New York stage of recent years. It is from the clever pen of J. Hartley Manners, who has "Peg o' My Heart" and other success to his credit. The play abounds with wit and finely of humor, with several dramatic moments and tense situations. It concerns the old-fashioned ideas of an English aristocrat, his stern idea of the "majesty of birth" and his detestation of the Jewish race. How he has misjudged them for years, his repentance following his awakening, are shown, while through out the play are numerous romantic touches with love between the members of the English baronet's family, and those of the Jewish tailor's family, who reside in "The House Next Door." See the play at the Opera House next week. You'll enjoy every moment.

Because one word in the order of election was omitted, Cain's Corner's local option test of Oct 12 in which the drys won by a single vote, has been declared invalid by District Judge Styles, sitting at Port Lavaca, Tex. Another election was ordered.

TRUTH IN THIS

To the Editor of The Times,

Sir,—Who is responsible for keeping clear the crossings in the city? There are times when in the City road the mud is ankle deep. At such times the crossings are of great value, if the mud has been removed from them.

In City road, opposite Stanley street there is a crossing, which to my certain knowledge has not been swept in the years, and at times it is so thick with mud that its presence cannot be disguised. The result is that people have to cross when the mud is over their rubbers. Is this fair to the public to offer such inconveniences? Some of us have found that only through publicity can one secure a fair deal. It is said City road is the most neglected street in the city.

Yours truly,

HEARTY WELCOME FOR RETURNED SOLDIER

Private George Curren of the Signalling Corps arrived home from the front, via Quebec and Halifax, last evening and was given a warm reception. He was met at the station by representatives of the citizens' welcoming committee, St. Peter's T. M. A., the City Cornet Band and hundreds of others and escorted in a motor car to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Curren, Paradise row. On the arrival at the house Commissioners McLellan, Wigmore, Russell and Potts, Hon. R. J. Ritchie, Thomas J. Coughlan, M. E. Agar, Corporal Dryden and others were heard in speeches of welcome. Supper was served to a large gathering. Pte Curren left St. John with the signalling corps under Major Powers, one of the first detachments to get away. He was ill in England, reported dead soon after his arrival in France, wounded at Festubert, and finally ordered home on account of the collapse of the arches of his feet. He was only sixteen years old when he enlisted.

WOMEN WANT PROHIBITION

At the last monthly meeting of the Halifax Local Council of Women, the following resolution was passed:

"That the executive committee of the Halifax Local Council of Women representing an aggregation of thirty-seven different societies and organizations of women who earnestly seek the best interests of this city, our fair city, are unanimous in supporting the aims and objects of the delegation which on Tuesday, Nov. 16th waited on the premier of this province to request that the Nova Scotia government at its coming session would take strong measures to abolish the sale, licensed or unlicensed, of intoxicating liquors in this city."
