Local and other Matters.

Gold has dropped to 4⅞.

— Seventy-three thousand natives are employed on relief works in India.

— No legal proceedings will be taken against Fred May for his duel with Bennett. The latter is in Europe.

— Seventy-five thousand Turkish troops are quartered in villages along the Danube.

— In the ship yards of the Deleware there are now building, or contracted for at least, 14 iron steamers, the most of them over 1,500, and several of them 2,500.

— A Montreal depatch says Sir Hugh Allan President of the Merchant's Bank, which is financially embarrassed, is about to resign, and the position has been tendered to Sir A. T. Galt.

— The Rev. Dr. Burns delivered a sermon in Fort Massey Presbyterian Church, Halifax, last Sabbath on "The Modern Theatre." His discourse was not at all favorable to those who indulge in Theatre going.

— The British Government have notified the Dominion that they will withdraw the subsidy they now pay to the Allan steamers calling at Halifax, to terminate on the 1st of March, and they add that the Bermuda contract will be terminated.

A LARGE CASTING.—On Thursday last the Steel Company of Canada successfully cast an immense anvil at their works at Acadia Mines, Londonderry. It is one solid block—not in sections—weighs 25 tons, and is designed for a steam hammer to be used in connection with their new rolling mill now in course of erection. This is said to be the largest mass of iron over cast in this Province.—Halifax Recorder.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.—During last week a series of revival meetings have been held in the Baptist House in this town, and quite a number of persons have requested the prayers of God's children. Several have come forward and acknowledged themselves on the Lord's side.

Meetings are also being held at Bentville, under the Rev. John Craig, Wesleyan Minister, where a goodly number have been converted.

— The Sociable held at the residence of Geo. Murdoch, Esq., on Thursday evening of last week, was we learn a very enjoyable affair. The sum realised is to be appropriated to the parsonage fund. Most of our subscribers are probably curious to know how a sociable is conducted. We were present at the one given a short time ago, at the residence of Mr. Charles Parker, Granville, and if our readers will just fancy themselves asked out to tea at neighbor's house, and when comfortably seated at the tea table, a handsome little girl requests you to place a quarter in the plate presented by her they will have the pith of the matter. The table before us that evening was ladened with huge dishes of beans and pork, rye and wheat bread, two or three kinds of cake, and tea and coffee. The host and hostess did all in their power to make everybody enjoy themselves. This is a very ready way to raise a few dollars for church and charitable purposes, and can be indulged in by any one having plenty of house room and the heart to do it.

OPENED.—Our readers will no doubt be pleased to learn that the Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which we announced was to be opened here is now in full operation. The location of the same, for the present, is in a part of the building on Queens Street, occupied by T. D. Ruggles, Esq., Q. C., who is the manager. Office hours from 10 till 3 o'clock, where all kinds of Banking business can be transacted.

BEAR RIVER.—A correspondent from Bear River sends us the following:—Messrs. Marshall and Hardwick are building a barque of about 1000 tons. John H. Lent, Esq., is building a brigantine of 500 tons, she is all sealed up, top partly finished, and the bottom is now being planked, will be launched some time during the summer. She is intended for foreign trade and is to be commanded by Capt. Geo. T. Wright of Digby. Other parties are getting ready to commence vessels in the different yards. Lumbering operations are much retarded by the great depth of snow in the woods. Trade is dull and the prospect not very bright.

HALIFAX CORRESPONDENCE.

FEBRUARY, 25th, 1877.—Since my last, a week ago, the weather has been delightfully fine—the sleighing good—outdoor exercise enjoyed—and locomotion over the well-beaten roads has been "the order of the day." The "oldest inhabitant," whose veracity nobody ever thinks of questioning, asserts that the present February, that will close before you again go to Press, is the mildest and most pleasant second month of the year in the memory of living men. When compared with the preceding months, it affords an agreeable contrast. What March, with its equinoxial influences, is to be no one knows. We alway think of it as a stormy, blustering month, but it is not invariably so.

During the present week, the Provincial Board of Agricultural has been sitting. The principal matter which has engaged their attention, is the making preparation for the exhibition to be held next autumn. This display of our rural products will be held in the County of Kings; but whether in Wolfville or Kentville is not yet determined. Each locality has sent a delegation to the Board to urge its claim as the alleged best site for the exhibition. This rivalry of the two villages is a proof of the interest taken in the undertaking. It is of little moment, however, where it is held. If there shall not be an undesirable falling off in this annual exposition of the country's agricultural capabilities, the people of the Western counties must bestir themselves to adopt measures for showing the adaptibility of our soil and climate for successful husbandry. There is no reason that your section of the Province, as far as diary operations, orcharding, the rearing of hogs, sheep and hogs are concerned, should equal, if not surpass, the Exhibition at Truro last year. But if the hopes and expectations of the sanguine participators in the undertaking, are realised, there must be strenuous individual and general efforts put forth during the ensuing year. Every farmer and dairy woman should endeavor to prepare something for this aggregation of the higher type of successful husbandry. "Two mites" in this direction will tend to increase the interests of the Exhibition. Let every one try to do something. The ocean is made up of drops.

The Legislature has been in Session for more than a week, and a good deal of preliminary business has been done, preparatory to the more substantial work of legislation. Committees have been appointed to inquire into various matters that are identified with the general interests of the Province—petitions in number have been introduced for consideration. There has been little debate, much less exciting party discussions, and it is just possible the Session may pass off without such political disturbances as have sometimes been any thing but dignifying to the work of legislation. The present calm, however, may only be the prelude of a coming storm. It is the opinion of those, whose experience makes them competent to judge, that the Session will not be protracted beyond a six weeks' term.

The great object of popular interest in the City is not the legislature, or political—but the younger part of the community to a great extent, is infatuated with the nightly dramatic performances that are taking in the "Music Hall," a somewhat imposing brick building, the interior of which, it is said, is marvellously attractive. Crowds are flocking to it every night, to the detriment, it is to be feared, of social morality. These performances occupy the thoughts, and are the subjects of general conversation throughout the City. There has been a great diversity of opinion respecting the tendency of theatricals. Some regard them an efficent school for the inculcation of virtue, and to elevate the aspirations of intellect. Others regard them as hotbeds of vice, and dangerously inimical to the well-being of communities that both tolerate and patronise them. One thing is certain—and that is whatever exites crowds nightly, has a debilitating influence on intellect—and is not conspicuously conducive to improvement in morals. It may be seriously feared that through a considerable amount of capital has been expended in the erection of Music Hall, its influence upon the people will not be identified with either moral progress or the mental improvement of the people.

Special Dispatches to the Morning Chronicle

EUROPE.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—In the House of Commons the resumption of debate on the Eastern question, upon the suggestion of Sir Stafford Northcote, was indefinitely postponed. Embarrassing Government treaty obligations were given as a reason.

Emperor William opened the German Parliament yesterday. Referring to Eastern affairs the Emperor expressed his opinion that the peace of Europe will not be broken.

A correspondent of the Standard says preliminaries of peace between Turkey and Servia have been signed.

DUBLIN, Feb. 33.—Cardinal Cullen in a letter to the O'Mahoney funeral committee says:—"I am unaware that O'Mahoney contributed any signal service to this country, but rather provoked hostile legislation against us. I have been unable to learn that he was a great benefactor of the Church. On the contrary he is said to have written in a spirit hostile to it. He was Head Centre of the Fenians, and collected large sums to promote their absurd movements even after Fenianism had been condemned by the church. If I were to allow his remains in the Cathedral, I should seem to approve his religious and public conduct and his projects relative to Ireland a responsibility I am not at all inclined to assume."

LONDON, Feb. 23.—It is stated that a league has been formed by the Ritualists in favor of the disestablishment of the English Church.

The Anglo-American Cable Company gives notice that on the 1st of March the tariff will be reduced to one shilling sterling per word.

O'Mahoney's remains arrived at Queenstown to-day.

Russian Consuls give warning that torpedoes are being laid on the Black Sea coast.

It is raported that Pattti has eloped from St. Petersburg with the tenor Nicolini. The Marquis of Caux followed them, and judicial proceedings for a separation have commenced.

UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Cautionary signals along the Atlantic coast.

Many Democrats in Congress manifest a disposition to filibuster and otherwise delay the counting of the Presidental vote beyond the 4th of March in order to defeat the election. In this connection David Dudley Field offered resolutions in caucus making the President of the Senate President pro tem, and providing for a national election in May. The resolution was defeated.

Decision giving Oregon to the Republicans, greatly excites the Democratic politicians.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Oregon was counted Republican and Pennsylvania reached yesterday by the Joint Commission when objection was made that one of the electors was a Centennial Commissioner when chosen. Pending a decision recess was taken till Monday. The Republicans fear the factious prolongation of canvass into March, but it is allayed by vote showing strong majority of Democrats in House determined that count shall proceed, and law establishing Electoral Commission be complied with in every particular.

A fire in Philadelphia last night destroyed Fox's Threatre and damaged adjoining buildings.

Mrs. Hiram Young, in Caledonia, Vermont, murdered her two children with an axe while they were at play. Trouble with her husband is said to be the cause.

A cable despatch says a complete understanding is predicted between the Porte and the Servian envoys, who have accepted the Turkish conditions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Pennsylvania is counted for Hayes. The Democrats continue to interpose objections as the count of States proceeds, but Republican success is generally conceded.

The New York World says Hayes will take the oath of office next Sunday at noon, in presence of General Grant and the Cabinet, at the Executive Mansion. The Chief Justice will officiate. The inauguration will take place on Monday.

ALMOST KILLED.—Last night when the I. C. R. train was nearing Wellington Station, a colored woman named Simonds jumped off before the train was stopped. She performed a very graceful somersault, and landed head first on the platform, where she lay apparently dead. The railway officials, after the train had stopped, carried her into the station, where she soon recovered. She complained of being hurt "just a little," but no bones appeared to be broken, and she was left in charge of the station-master.—Herald.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGEDY IN BRITTANY.

A frightful tragedy has taken place in St. Brieuc, a seaport town in Brittany. A journalist named M. Le Foll, connected with a local newspaper called Le Progres, sent an invitation to Capt. Wurtz, of the Seventy First Regiment, to call at his office on urgent business. The captain did so, and found himself in presence of M. Le Foll, who abruptly asked him this question:—"Is it true that you visited my wife while I was absent from town?" The captain answered "Yes." "You admit then," continued the husband, "to have relations with her?" "Not at all," protested Captain Wurtz. "Will you promise me to fight any one who says that you are the lover of my wife?" "Certainly not," responded the military man, "because in that case I should be obliged to deal with all the blackguards you might chose to send me. But if you desire it I will fight with you." Then M. Le Foll followed with this strange question, "Will you sign a declaration stating on your honor that you never had any improper intimacy with my wife?" "Certainly," replied the Captain, "as it is perfectly true." He sat down at a table and began to write the required document, when Le Foll drew a poignard and stabbed him twice in the back. Although Captain Wurtz was struck down by the second blow he found enough strength to disarm his antagonist. Holding the dagger in his hand he said to his assassin, "Miserable wretch, go and save yourself! I could kill you like a dog. But I want to come out of this affair with my honor unstained." Le Foll escaped from the office of his journal, and went to his own house carrying the dagger. Going up to his wife he said: "I have killed your lover; now die in your turn." With these words he stabbed her to the heart. Proceeding to the Hotel of the Croix Blanch, he there rejoined a woman named Guinette, who had had been his mistress for eighteen months. They went out together and what took place afterward is not known. In the morning the lifeless body of the couple were found at the gate of the park of the known as the Glais Bizion. There is no doubt that Le Foll had first killed the woman, and then taken his own life with a revolver which was found upon the corpse.

FIVE CHILDREN MURDERED BY THEIR MOTHER.

A large degree of excitement has been caused in Penrith for the past eight days by the discovery of the dead bodies of two newly-born children in a box left in the Griffith Inn, there by a woman named Elizabeth Kirkbride, a person who for several years kept a school at the village of Langwarthy, in Cumberland. She was residing at Tuebrook, near Liverpool, and on Sunday night she was taken into custody. Before, however, she could be restored to Penrith, a startling discovery was made regarding her at Tuebrook. Her eldest son, a young man of nineteen, having become annoyed at some remarks of the people with whom he and his mother lodged, regarding a coat which they alleged had been missing, proceeded to search her boxes on Monday night in their presence and in one of these—a japanned tin case, which was strongly padlocked and had to be broken open—a sickening spectacle presented itself. Its contents were three (or the remains of three) newly-born children, wrapped in several folds of sheeting and pieces of carpet. One of the bodies was perfect, the flesh being shrivelled only, and none of the joints disembered; the second one had the head and leg bones seperated at the joints; whilst the third was merely a skeleton. They had evidently been in the box for a long time. One of the bodies had a piece of string attached to the neck, round which it had evidently been tightly fastened. The authorities were at once apprised of the affair, and the box and its contents were removed to the police station to await the inquest. The people with whom Mrs. Kirkbridge lodged had not the slightest suspicion of anything being wrong. On the police searching her apartments several letters were found, which reveal the name of the person who is the father of the children, a well-to-do tradesman in the neighbourhood of Penrith. The unfortunate woman has four living children the eldest of whom is the son above mentioned.—Edinburgh Courant.
