CHICAGO WON FIFTH GAME IN REGULAR COMEDY OF ERRORS

Giants Had a Good Lead When Team Blew Up and White Sox Won Out

GAME IN DETAIL

It Was Anything But Brilliant Contest; Sixth Game Played in New York Today

Chicago, Oct. 13.—In a game that thrilled and enthralled some 32,000 people Saturday afternoon, the Chicago Americans scrambled into the world's series lead again by defeating the New York Nations 8 to 5, and swinging to the fore three games to two.

It was a contest that ran the gamut of baseball from sensational and brilliant to mediocre, but never during the two hours and thirty-seven minutes of battle did it lose its intense hold on the fans, and as its conclusion the fans were almost as exhausted as the players. For more than two hours the adherents of the Sox roared and cheered without a moment's intermission, while the players, once the Chicago team went into the lead, became frantic with joy and performed antics in front of their dugout that would have made a college cheer leader despair.

Abounded With Errors

While the enthusiasm and thrills developed the contest with the glamor that had been entirely missing in the preceding games, the fifth meeting of the White Sox and the Giants will not go down in a world series history as a diamond battle of either outstanding skill or baseball perfection. It abounded with errors of both omission and commission, and was marred by misplays which would have brought censure on school boy competitors. All this was forgotten, however, when the American league champions finally wrested the lead from their rivals and gained a position of advantage nearly as commanding as the two straight victories at the opening of the series had given them.

The two clubs left soon after the game for the Polo Grounds, at New York, where the sixth game will be played on Monday, and the seventh, if necessary, on Tuesday, the Giants having won the toss and the privilege of naming the place of the deciding contest, should each team win three games.

While the players have ceased to take part of the financial proceedings of the contest the rivalry is none the less keen, for there is more than a thousand dollars difference between the individual shares that will fall to the winning and the losing combinations.

In many respects today's game developed features which had been foreign to previous diamond battles of the present series.

Twenty-five Players

Twenty-five players appeared in the line-up of the American and the National league pennant winners. After having gone 24 innings without scoring a run against the Giants, the Sox turned and piled up eight tallies, while the losers collected five, making a total for the day of thirteen, more than half as many as the entire scoring of the two teams in the first four clashes. Making these thirteen runs, the batteries piled up an aggregate of 26 hits, and nine fielding errors. Seventy-seven batters faced six pitchers, and while there were unlimited thrills and tense situations, there was no one player who could claim the spotlight of heroism in this melange of hits, errors, fielding flashes and sprints from base to base.

A Trifle Cold

A perfect autumn day greeted the players as they stepped on the diamond for the opening play. It was clear and just a trifle cool, but the fans did not appear to notice the ting in the atmosphere. Here and there were vacant spaces in both stands and bleachers and there were no crowds upon buildings overlooking Comiskey park.

Little time was lost by the two teams in getting into action, and the Giants, first to bat, rolled up a two run lead before the Sox could check their rush.

Giants Score Twice

Burns, the initial New Yorker to face Russell, was sent to first on four straight balls, when the Sox left-hander found it impossible to locate the plate. Captain Herzog came next with a single to right, and Benny Kauff doubled to the right field bleachers' fence, scoring Burns. With Zimmerman waving his hat menacingly, Russell was called to the bench after delivering just eight balls, and Cicotte was sent in to hold the Giants in check. Zimmerman hit to Weaver and Herzog was nipped at the plate. Fletcher drove to McMullen, whose quick throw caught Kauff at home and the thousands roared their applause of the White Sox splendid defensive play. Zimmerman who had moved up on the outs, scored on Robertson's single to center and with two out Cicotte grabbed Holke's hit and tossed him out at first.

Sox Score a Run

It was not until after the third that the Sox were able to get a runner home. After McMullen had flied out to Robertson, Eddie Collins worked Sallee for a pass. Jackson raised a fly to Robertson. Felsch was more fortunate, however, his double to left field sending Collins home with the Sox first run.

Giants Feel Secure

The Giants increased lead, scoring another two runs in the fourth and appeared to feel that they had the game won. Rariden singled to right and Sallee sacrificed him to second. On Burns' single to right and J. Collins' error in fumbling the ball Rariden scored and Burns took second. Weaver followed with a fumble of Herzog's roller and the batter was safe, while Burns went to third. Kauff rolled another to Gandil who made a poor throw to E. Collins, covering first, and Burns scored. Zimmermann ended the inning by hitting into double play, Weaver to Collins to Gandil, eliminating both Kauff and himself.

White Sox Begin

The White Sox got their artillery working in the sixth and began the fusillade which finally got the game for them. Gandil went out, Sallee to Holke. Weaver singled to left and Schalk hit to center and the rooters began to lift their voices for Sallee was in trouble and showed it. Manager Rowland sent Risberg to bat in place of Cicotte. McGraw made a motion as though to take Sallee out, but apparently changed his mind. Risberg slammed the ball to right, scoring Weaver. J. Collins and McMullen left their teammates stranded by going out on infield plays.

Williams, a southpaw, succeeded Cicotte on the mound and the Giants punctured his delivery for a run. Fletcher doubled to left and Robertson attempted to sacrifice. His effort resulted in a pop fly which Williams caught but dropped as he fell. Holke was injured when the ball glanced from his bat to his face, but pluckily resumed and fanned. Rariden came through with a single, scoring Fletcher and the Giants had finished their day's running.

White Sox Keep Hammering

Not so with the White Sox. After E. Collins had flied to Fletcher Jackson hammered out a single and Felsch slammed another to the right, while the crowd roared with an ever increasing volume of cheers, yells and automobile horns. Chick Gandil rose to the emergency with a double that flashed between Kauff and Robertson and Jackson and Felsch scored with two runs. Weaver went out, Fletcher to Holke and Schalk got a free trip to first one Sallee's wildness. Lynn was sent in to hit for Williams. Before he could hit the ball Schalk stole second, and the Giants' infield went up in the air, and after throwing the ball about for several seconds, Fletcher hurled to Rariden to catch Gandil. The heave was wild, and the White Sox's first baseman trotted across the plate with the tieing run. After this nightmare Lynn ended the inning by fanning.

With the score tied at 5-5, the Chicago players went after Sallee again in the eighth and won the game with another trio of runs, although one would have done the trick just as well.

John Collins opened with a one-base wallop to right. McMullen sacrificed him and Eddie Collins sent him home on a single to center. Jackson put his field captain on third with a similar hit. Kauff's throw to Zimmermann was too late to get Collins, and when the Giants' third baseman whipped the ball wildly back to second to stop Jackson, Collins came home and Jackson raced around to third. Sallee pitched one ball to Felsch and then Manager McGraw decided to relieve him for the day. Perritt was substituted, and Felsch greeted the new pitcher with a Texas leaguer to center on which Jackson scored. Gandil flied to Burns, Felsch then ending the inning by going out by stealing second. The White Sox, after putting the Giants out in one, two, three order, raced for their train and soon were on their way to New York, where they hope to repeat again on Monday.
