"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case." 1

TO THE ELECTORS!

A REPLY

To the Saloon-Keepers

Their Twelve Reasons Void of Common Sense.

The Home Versus the Saloon—Vote for Seven O'Clock.

We speak unto wise men
Judge ye what we say.

1. Our opponents admit we have twelve good reasons. They wish to displace them by a dozen better ones. Have they succeeded in giving us one? In regard to the allegation that Hon. W. E. Gladstone is not a total abstainer, we say he is therefore an unbiased witness. As a statesman he declares intemperance is a greater evil than war, pestilence, or famine, and Dr. Clark, physician to her Majesty the Queen, says: "I am so horrified at intemperance and the consumption of alcohol in this country, that sometimes I feel like giving up everything and going forth on a holy crusade, preaching to all men, Beware of the enemy of our race." As to the record of arrests, its correctness is not questioned. If decreasing the number of licensed bars has not reduced the amount of drunkenness, all the greater reason why we should lessen the legal hours of sale.

2. Does the writer know what blandishment means?—viz., to flatter. Would it not be better for the young men if they were kicked out of the saloon, than for the liquor-seller to wheedle and invite very much as in the rhyme: "Come into my parlor said the spider to the fly, I've the prettiest little parlor that ever you did spy." Once inside they often begin by getting them to play pool or billiards, giving a check for a drink to the loser, thus starting him on the devil's toboggan slide to ruin.

3. Our opponents seem to know all about the way workingmen's wives prepare meals. We doubt not they try to have them inviting and on time, but how often they wait for the coming of the loved one who tarries. Workingmen are not fools except when whisky drives out wit. We are glad to know the workingmen are with us.

4. There is not the slightest similarity; a lecturer works about 2 hours out of the 24, a bartender 17.

5. In regard to the medicinal use of alcohol in any form. In the Temperance Hospital in London, Eng., all alcoholic liquors are absolutely excluded. The mortality in that hospital was 4½ per cent. lower than in any of the hospitals taking the same run of cases, and the use of alcohol as a medicine is being greatly curtailed by the most scientific physicians. But to turn a medicinal prescription into a beverage is the height of folly. However we are not fighting against the medicinal use of alcohol as prescribed by a physician, but against the liquor traffic.

6. As to athletics. Tom Sayers, once champion of England, was something of an athlete, and he said, "I'm no tectotaler, but when I've any business to do there's nothing like water and dumb-bells." What whipped John L. Sullivan? Wasn't it the whisky?

7. Adulteration of liquor is not confined to the foreign product. In 1884 a liquor dealer of Toronto, in response to a challenge, published an affidavit that he had no adulterated liquor in stock. Within six weeks he sued an Orillia tavernkeeper for beer supplied, and was non-suited because the liquor was proven to be adulterated. The London Lancet exposed the trade tricks in this respect. Mr. Rygate reported 24 samples of beer contained salt in undue quantities to increase the drinker's thirst. In the United States the Milwaukee News said that beerdrinkers could not drink beer as they had been accustomed to do because it gave them such a headache in the morning. It was proved that corn and rice largely took the place of barley. In 1881 the New York Evening Post reported that on the testimony of a brewer "with one exception, every barrel of beer brewed in New York was made with glucose instead of malt, doctored with bi-sulphite of lime and bi-carbonate of soda and with salycilic acid, alcohol and glycerine to sweeten it." In the United States camomile flowers, bark, and other bitter drugs were used instead of hops. Of course we have no right to assume that beer is ever adulterated in London!

8. In regard to Ruskin's statement. He may be too æsthetic when he opposes railways, but when he says "encouraging drunkenness for money is a species of assassination," he is quite in accord with the courtly Lord Chesterfield, who calls liquor sellers, "Artists in human slaughter." We have no personal quarrel with liquor sellers but we strongly object to their business. In regard to the number of men hanged in London, we may have erred in saying "all" were brought there through drink; "nearly all" was what we intended. The fact is patent that liquor brings most of those who are hanged to the gallows. Was Detective Phair killed by liquor or not?

9. Because the public have to foot the bills, no matter what side issues may be raised.

10. "If the Scripture be true." This is one of the strongest methods of making an affirmation (because we believe they are), and we are glad our opponents reverence them. We wish they would obey them. But when the love of Christ for the publican (the tax collector under the Roman law, whom the Jews hated) is made to do service as though Jesus loved liquor sellers, we enter a protest and wish to distinguish between things that differ. I have no doubt that if, like Zaccheus, the liquor sellers should restore four-fold to those whom they have robbed, the Christ would say now, as then, "This day is salvation come to thy house." Christ could not commend or condemn what did not exist, viz., liquor selling as in modern times.

11. We repeat, it is the duty of every voter to vote. If we are wrong, vote us down; if right, sustain us.

12. As to personal liberty. Who are crying out? Those who have the liberty to sell liquor, a liberty we wish to restrain. It is not a question of personal rights, but a question of privileged rights. Only 46 persons in London have the right to sell liquor; all others are prohibited. These 46 enjoy a monopoly granted at the option of the city from year to year.

Voters, use your liberty to vote for Home versus Saloon. 25 tf
