GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

SIBERIA, THE VAST UNKNOWN

Imperial Theatre to Commence a Rare Travel Series Monday

The motion picture as an educator is fast encompassing the various branches of study. It is doing more to elucidate difficult scientific subjects because of its mechanical possibilities than the human eye or ear can accomplish without it. For instance, in pictures recently shown at Imperial Theatre, the movements of the human body and of animals were analyzed by highly speeded cameras so that every action was definitely shown in slow tempos giving the detailed movements of the muscles and the limbs. Furthermore, the camera has been going afield in its missionary work and commencing next Monday the Imperial will show a new series of geographical pictures which in its entirety fully traverse "Siberia, the Vast Unknown."

"Siberia, the Vast Unknown" is a Pathe subject and preparatory to starting on the great trip the watcher will be stopped at Nome, Alaska, where many interesting incidents are filmed. This will be the first instalment on Monday and Tuesday next. Many unusual scenes will be included in this chapter. An aerial landing device at the seashore, the Nome public schools, fire department, churches, streets, etc., will be most absorbing to look upon and the mixture of Eskimos, cowboys and prospectors, a motly throng.

The Siberian pictures to follow will be a revelation to those who have preconceived ideas of what the Russian penal colony is actually like. It will be almost a real visit to that country after the seven weeks' tour is over, much of value and wholesome entertainment will have been added to the mental storehouse of Imperial patrons.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

One of the best picture that has been shown in this city for some time, "The Heart of Nora Flynn," with Marie Doro, will be presented at the Opera House today for the last times—afternoon at 2.15 and 3.45; evening at 7.15 and 8.45.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the charming Lasky star, Blanche Sweet, will be seen in a stirring drama of Russian political and social life, "The Sowers." The programme will also include No. 4 in the series of Australian Travel Pictures.

SEE IT AT GEM.

A picture of outstanding merit, in action, scenic effects and stupendous war features is "Bullets and Brown Eyes" at Gem. Also a rich comedy, "Wife and Auto Trouble." Last times, 2, 3.30 this afternoon; 7 and 8.30 tonight.

KING STREET SCENE OF WILD RUNAWAY

A sensational runaway took place this morning about nine o'clock. One of the Dominion Express teams was standing outside the Unique theatre, while Driver Donovan was delivering some film supplies. The horse, which was held by a foot strap, became frightened at the steam roller and, breaking the foot strap, dashed madly towards the head of King street, rounded the corner at full speed and continued down King until he came to about Germain street. There he attempted to turn in at the Dominion Express Company building and took the sidewalk for convenience. Still going at a good rate of speed he continued his way on to the fool of the street. The wagon came in contact with a water hydrant and the frightened animal was brought to a stop. The wagon was badly smashed, owing to striking the plug with great force. The horse escaped without a scratch. The team was attached at the time and some of the parcels were scattered all along the street. No one was injured.

A PRAISEWORTHY ACT

Miss Alice Rising and Mrs. Charles Dummer of the V. A. Detachment of the Women's Canadian Club, took a party of patients from the Military Hospital yesterday for an outing to Seaside Park. Patients who are well enough to go out can go only with friends who care for them and bring them back again, and they are therefore shut in a great deal. They were therefore the more grateful to Miss Rising and Mrs. Dummer yesterday, and greatly enjoyed the outing at the park.

PROTEST MADE

A jump from $7,000 to $27,000 in the assessment on the former Coster property in Fairville has been responsible for a vigorous protest being lodged with the municipal appeals committee. The property was sold for the Coster estate to a Montreal syndicate by Taylor & Sweeney of this city. At that time the assessment figure was $7,000 and it has remained the same until this year, when it was found to have been almost quadrupled. Urban J. Sweeney appeared before the committee in support of the appeal and the hearing will be completed on Monday.

GARDEN PARTY

The spacious grounds surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. V. Lawlor at Brookville will be the objective of large numbers this afternoon and evening. The occasion is a garden party which is being held by St. Ursula's Ladies' Society, an organization connected with St. Joachim's church at Silver Falls, which embraces the ladies of the extensive county parish. Elaborate preparations have been made and attractions have been furnished which will ensure a pleasant time for the visitors. Tea will be served from 5.30 until seven o'clock. The grounds are only about fifteen minutes walk from the street car terminals at Glen Falls, and the suburban trains at 5.15 and 6.15 will be convenient for the patrons. A dancing platform has been erected by some of the young people to ensure an opportunity for a dance in the evening.

News of Maritime Men In The War

Private Geo. Loughrey.

Private Weeden J. Wetmore, in a letter to his mother, Mrs. A. B. Wetmore, writes of the death of his chum, George Loughrey.

Weeden Wetmore enlisted in 1914, and left Canada with the 55th Battalion. In telling of Private Loughrey's death he writes as follows:

"When we came over from England in draft we were separated from George Loughrey. He went into the 8rd Machine Gun Brigade, while I was placed in the section of the 15th Battalion. On his first trip in on the 19th of June, he was to support us and help take back a few trenches we lost the week before. He was going from the support trench to the front line. There was no communication trench left, so we had to go over open ground. Just as we were within twenty-five yards of the firing line he was shot through the head by a sniper, and was killed instantly. Two of the boys—one Mr. Ewing from Moncton—started at once to go to him, but could not get near him, for he was buried by a heavy shell."

Corporal George DeMille.

Sussex Record—Hampton has been called upon to mourn the loss of another brave soldier, in the person of Corporal George De Mille, of the 26th Battalion, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. De Mille. Although no official notification has come to the family, word was received on Friday by John Raymond from his son, Corporal Ralph Raymond, who was a very close friend of the late Corporal De Mille. Corporal Raymond writes that a shell burst, hitting his brother, Sergeant Harold Raymond, who has since died of wounds at No. 18 Stationary Hospital, Boulogne, France, and Corporal De Mille, who died in a dressing station, besides wounding the writer in the arm, and he is now in a hospital in England. In other letters received from Hampton boys last week it was also mentioned that Corporal De Mille had been wounded as his company was going into the trenches, and had died shortly afterward in a dressing station. On June 24, Mr. De Mille received official word from Ottawa that his son was seriously ill, and it is now thought that the message should have read "seriously wounded." Corporal De Mille was a member of the Anglican Church and a great worker in the Brotherhood of St. Andrews. He was in his 24th year, and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. De Mille; three sisters, Mrs Alden, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Annie and Mary; also one brother, Charles, all residing at home.

Corporal Campbell.

Corporal Joseph Campbell, killed in action, was born at Barnesville, Kings County, but on the death of his father moved to Black River, where he made his home until about two years ago, when he came to St. John. When the call for recruits came he joined the 26th. Writing to friends a few days before his death, he was in great spirits because the 26th had beaten back the Huns, capturing prisoners and guns, on the morning of June 13th.

Helping Comrade When Killed

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, Upper Sackville, have received the following letter from Pte. Harold Sears, of the 26th Battalion, confirming the death of Pte. Joe Lamb, who was killed in action on the 15th of June:

"It was Joe Lamb's wish that I was to let you know if anything happened to him, and with deep sorrow I try to carry out my promise. We were going in the trenches at the time and were getting it pretty hot from shells. I was not with Joe at the time, but one of the boys that was with him told me that a shell exploded quite handy, wounding one of the lads that was with Joe's company, and Joe was helping to carry him to the dressing station not far away when he was hit on the head with a piece of another shell that exploded close to where he was standing and he died instantly. It was a hard blow to me, for he was one of the boys from home and we became close friends and would often sit down and talk about Sackville."

Men from Shemogue

The "Pioneer," Didsbury, Alta., contains the following item:

G. R. Anderson, who has been principal of the Didsbury schools for the last year, has enlisted in the 187th regiment. He has made many friends for himself while living in Didsbury, who wish him every good thing in his response to the call of duty, and who wish him a safe return. Mrs. Anderson will visit at the coast over the summer months." Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Mount Allison, 1910, and a native of Little Shemogue. Another Shemogue man, George McMorris, recently returned from the trenches to take a commission in the same battalion.

Died Like True Soldier

The first information as to how Pte. Charles Parkinson, of Fredericton, was killed in action has been received by his mother in a letter from Corporal Paul P. Powis, officer commanding the French Mortar Battery, of which the fallen soldier was a member. A high explosive shell burst near Pte. Parkinson, wounding two other soldiers and killing him instantly. The letter to Mrs. Parkinson, whose husband has just reached England with the 104th Battalion, follows:

"We had gone into the trenches just before the Canadians launched an attack. We had done good work, having fired 100 rounds of ammunition, when a big shell burst right alongside our position, wounding two men badly and killing your son instantly, which, I trust, is a slight comfort to you when it is considered that so many fine soldiers had to stay for hours out in the front, mortally wounded, without getting the least possible assistance, as every able man had to drive on in the attack.

"I brought in one poor fellow who had been out in the rain, wounded, without food or drink, for thirty-six hours, having come across him by the merest chance. Such is the price of victory, and it was indeed a splendid achievement; and your son's life has not been in vain.

"My boys, his comrades, wish me to convey to you their deepest sympathy.

"Your son was not under my command long, but he always did his duty cheerfully and died like a true soldier."

A Fighting Family

Mrs. John Mackintosh, Fredericton, has learned that her brother, Pte. George Ross, has been wounded in action. Pte. Ross is a member of the 6th Seaforth Highlanders. He enlisted a few days after war was declared, and went to the front in November, 1914. He was wounded about six months ago in the forearm, but returned to the firing line after a short stay in hospital. He is one of two brothers wearing the British khaki, another brother being with the Mechanical Transport at the front. Mrs. Mackintosh has fifteen or more near relatives enlisted in the present war. One brother-in-law, David Mackintosh, is with a Flying Corps in Roumania, being stationed now at Bucharest. Her father, who is a former sergeant in the Imperial Volunteer Army, has offered his services and may be accepted.

STRAWBERRY DAYS PASSING

"Next week is the time to put up strawberry preserves" is the advice given by J. P. McBay of the North End, one of the largest dealers in up-river fruit. The retail price of the berries today is twelve cents a box and the wholesale price from nine to ten cents, according to the quality. The season is now at its height and the supply as plentiful as it will be. After next week it is expected that the unpicked berries will dry up and the end of the week will about mark the close of the season. The first of the week may show a slight decline in prices, but it is not expected that prices will be much lower than they are today. The day of strawberries at four and five cents a box seems to have passed.

Poor Old Folks—

Looks as if they'll have to go "over the hill to the Poor-house."

Their children either can't or won't support them.

Tragic? Yes! But not half so tragic as the old folks' remembrance of the fact that their present plight is due to their lack of foresight in not making provision for their declining years.

Be independent in YOUR old age.

A small amount invested annually for a few years in an Imperial Endowment Policy will enable you to end your days in comfortable independence instead of as a burden upon the charity of friends or in a paupers' home.
