aug21 JOHN ALL EN

TO EDITH MOREY.

BY HAMILTON BUSBEY.

I.

The hoofs stuck sharp in the bridle path;
And down the slope, by shadows spann'd,
Swept fiery gray, fleet as Marrah,
A horse curbed by a woman's hand.

Eyes large and brown, lips well compress'd,
A blue veil circling high-crowned hat,
A swell of arm and breadth of chest,
Like Grace herself the steed she sat.

I started from the rustic chair,
And stood, half dazed, in maple's shade;
"A woman with a queenly air,
And form, and face," was what I said.

II.

Into the fair and shallow lake
I dipp'd with moss-red stroke the oars,
And speeding out from anchor stake,
We idly drifted 'tween two shores.

So charming were her speech and ways—
She gathered ferns and mosses bright—
The Parker I forgot to raise,
And stop the Bluewing's circling flight.

She talked of home, of music, art,
And e'en of love; I bowed my head;
"A woman with a woman's heart,"
I to the winds of Autumn said.

III.

On porch beneath the trailing vines,
I rocking in the great arm-chair,
She op'n pushed the window blinds,
And stood like vision, sweet and fair.

A robe de chambre of snowy white,
Trimm'd with the softest shades of blue,
Her golden hair in careless plight,
And cheeks like roses kissed by dew.

I gazed in admiration deep:
"Divine! a woman fit to wed;
A year she has disturbed my sleep,"
I to the restless June leaves said.

Mr. Smith and the Post Office—How the Editor wrote to Friends in Power—The "Standard" Refused!

To the Editor of the Tribune.

DEAR SIR,—Will you allow me space in the TRIBUNE to lay before your readers a plain statement of facts relating, as far as I am concerned, to the recent Post Office difficulty. A letter touching the want of accommodation in the Post Office, St. Andrews,—the first one published of many received at various times upon the same subject—recently appeared in the Standard, and the Postmaster, utterly ignoring the established law of journalism, that a publisher is not responsible for the opinions of correspondents, acting probably upon the suggestions of his ex-merchant friend, unjustly assigned the authorship to me, or one of my family, and resented it, as a personal attack, by a communication in your paper of the 7th inst., and also by returning the Standard of the 28th April, with the following words written on the margin: "Mr. Smith will please discontinue sending this paper to the Post Office—when the Postmaster requires it he will subscribe for it. G. F. Campbell, 28th April, 1875." This did not come with a very good grace from Mr. Campbell after having received the paper gratuitously for upwards of thirteen years! And though he has since in a second letter to the TRIBUNE endeavored to asperse my character, and related a conversation which never occurred in my hearing, yet I will not for this assail his, though I fear it would not be found irreproachable, and I would fain hope the infirmity of temper which he admits, is his only weakness.

With reference to the assistance which Mr. Campbell says I rendered him, it was the promptings of a friendly feeling, seeing that he was ill, and that any help in opening and assorting the bundles of newspapers would be some relief to him. When he had assorted and stamped the letters I had the papers ready, and it was quite time the public was served. So Mr. Campbell says, truly, I never saw the correspondence. There was no rumor then afloat that the office would be vacant, but some months afterwards it was reported that an effort was being made in certain quarters to put another person in his place. Upon ascertaining that fact I wrote a remonstrance to a friend in power not to make any change, and I suppose it had the desired effect. Only last winter I wrote again (and submitted the letter to Mr. Campbell for his perusal before mailing it), soliciting the influence of a prominent gentleman to obtain a clock for the Post Office. Do these voluntary acts bear the construction that I was looking for, or "had a hope of getting his office?" Some of the leading merchants of St. Andrews voluntarily assured me that they had implicit confidence in me, whether assisting the Postmaster or otherwise, and gave me permission to publish their names if I thought proper.

Thanking you for the editorial courtesy of acknowledging I was not the author of the letter which has aroused the ire of the Postmaster, I am, yours fraternally

A. W. SMITH.

St. Andrews, May 10, 1875.

Carleton Water Works.

The Editor the Tribune.

SIR: You may have noticed a communication or communications in the Telegraph and News with regard to the water difficulty in Carleton, dated March 12th, 1874, News, March 11th, 1874, Telegraph With regard to the above we would say, who is the most justifiable the Telegraph as it said $25,000 was obtained. We should like to know what benefit the people of Carleton have derived from this outlay, as the reservoir since has become a total wreck, and consequently they consider the money has been squandered and the general public, who have had to pay the principal amount of taxes, left out in the cold as regards water, and still, notwithstanding all this, the same parties are kept in office who forced all this upon us; and now in looking over the reports of the Common Council proceedings, of the old board, we find a resolution moved by Ald. Russell to the effect that the West Side members do immediately or without necessary delay, investigate the whole business of the West Side Water Commissioners and the law bearing upon the same, with a view of placing it in a more satisfactory condition, and that they likewise inspect the whole works connected with the Carleton water works, especially those of recent construction, and report upon their cost and condition to this Board, and furthermore that no money shall be granted to the Commissioners from this date, either on repairs or new works, until the above investigation has taken place, and furthermore that the West Side Committee be empowered to employ a competent engineer to assist in the work Alderman Russell's motion was, therefore, carried at this time. Would not, therefore, the people of Carleton be better off to-day had not this $25,000 been thrown away, or scientific men, so called, have all the publicity with regard to this matter? Doesn't this look very strange that at this late hour they should require a competent engineer to look over the ruins now? Why did Mr. Peters, who formerly superintended the work, not be capable now?

Yours, etc.,
FAIR PLAY.

WHY WE DO IT.

In the first place we know that we have a good article, and we also know that the public will be pleased with it when they try it. Secondly—by the plan we herewith submit, the public are put in possession of the article at once; and from tou to ten years saved to both consumer and proprietor. Thirdly—thousands of dollars that would be required in advertising the remedy, saved, and vast quantities of stock lying dead on the paralyzed hands of energetic (?) druggists in active use. Fourthly—quick returns it enables us to furnish a better article, and more of it, for the same price. Knowing that it will form one of the necessaries of life, and that it will answer the purposes for which it is intended, we are satisfied that it will advertise itself wherever and whenever used.
