WHEN PRISONERS OF WAR ARE WORTH THE PAYING FOR

Often a Raid Just To Get Information

JOFFRE'S GREAT WAR MAP

Position of Every German Regiment in the Service Marked on it and Changes Made as Shifts Occur—Getting the Information

If the Germans have moved men from the western front to stem the Russian tide in the east we may be sure that General Joffre knows every resistance that has gone and has it marked on his great map. One of the most valuable maps in the world is that which hangs in the French headquarters, located in a small village near Paris. It covers a wall and on it is marked in colored chalk the position of every German regiment in the service. As the regiments move the indicators on the map are changed, so that at any given moment General Joffre and the generals under him can tell exactly what is facing them at any point. It is of the utmost importance that generals should have this information and no doubt the enemy has just as accurate maps. Aeroplanes often can give the information as to the presence of large bodies of troops and some observers are so skillful that they can calculate to a thousand or so the number of men in a square mile; but for the most part the details of these great war bodies of troops and some observers are maps compiled by private soldiers.

Priming the Pump.

It is the prisoner who gives the information which to him may not seem important, but which may be extremely necessary to his captors. A soldier interviewed by the Paris correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle says that the first thing done to a prisoner when he is brought in and it is desired to get information from him is to is to introduce him to the colonel's cook. If the soldier drinks, which he usually does, he is cheered with several bottles of beer or a drink of brandy or whatever he chooses. Thus in a mellow frame of mind he is brought before the colonel and questioned. Of course the prisoner doesn't know anything about the future plans of the regiment and is usually willing to talk about things which he supposes will be of no particular importance. He will tell the number of his regiment, how long it has been at the front and maybe even the general strength of the position.

What a Coat May Show

Sometimes a prisoner will talk for no more reward than a kind word from a French officer, kind words being extremely rare in the life of a German soldier. Others will tell all they know for a cigar; others are so hungry that a square meal is sufficient to purchase their entire stock of information, while others again will talk for no other purpose than "getting square" with their own officers. Often it is not necessary to have the prisoners talk at all. The numerals on their coats and their identification papers tell the whole story. French experts can tell from a glance at a prisoner's coat what regiment he belongs to, how long he has been at the front, whence he came and a score of other things that would have earned the approval of Sherlock Holmes.

Rewards for Prisoners

The necessity for keeping the map at general headquarters up to date often leads to military activity that has no other object than the taking of a prisoner. If it is known or suspected that a regiment has moved it is necessary to find out what unit has taken its place. Aerial scouts cannot give this information. Here we have a reversal of the old military practice of taking prisoners in order that they may be ransomed. In this case the price for the prisoner is paid not by himself or by his friends, but by the colonel of the regiment. Prices vary from a dollar to forty dollars, according to the necessity for getting the news. Normally a prisoner is worth nothing; he is in fact a nuisance. In a general action a battalion has not men to spare to attend prisoners to the rear, and nobody ever gets a medal for his success in capturing prisoners in the course of an engagement.

Importance of Information

In these scouting parties however it is different. It is living rather than dead Germans that are wanted; but where a live prisoner is not to be had prizes are often paid for a coat containing the number of the unit. On one occasion forty dollars was paid for a strip of collar bearing the regimental badge. It is not generally understood perhaps that in every army there are battalions and divisions counted better than others. One may have distinguished itself in brilliant assault, another in defence. Therefore if it is found that there has been a shift among the enemy forces, and the best regiments are being massed at a given point the inference is that something is about to happen there. Of course if the good battalions along a certain front are concentrated at a given point it means that the inferior battalions are also concentrated somewhere else. How important this knowledge is from both the point of view of attack and defence it is not necessary to emphasize.

GENERALLY REMEMBERED.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Walker were yesterday the recipients of numerous congratulations and an exceedingly large number of gifts. There were no fewer than seventy floral tributes alone and many valuable and beautiful gifts were received from societies and organizations throughout the city as well as many from private individuals. Delegations from the following different local organizations visited Dr. Walker's residence during the day: St. John Medical Society, St. George's Society, Albion Lodge, Masonic Board of Relief, officers of the 3rd C. G. A. and the New Brunswick Graduate Nurses' Association. Many telegrams and cablegrams were received during the day from all parts of the world bearing congratulatory messages to Dr. and Mrs. Walker on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

LOCAL NEWS

In arresting Joseph Carr in Union street yesterday afternoon, Policeman Armstrong received a bad cut on the finger, as a result of the prisoner using a knife on him. Carr made several stabs at him with the knife, but, fortunately, only one took effect.

The officers elected at the twelfth annual session of the seventh Baptist district, held last week at Campobello were as follows: President, Rev. W. R. Robinson; vice, Rev. P. R. Hayward; clerk, D. C. Clark, with Revs. J. H. Jenner, P. R. Hayward, W. H. Johnson and H. W. Smith as additional members of the executive.

The packet steamer John L. Cann arrived in port last evening from Yarmouth and docked at Walker's wharf. The steamer had a very narroy escape while coming up the bay. The crew misjudged the direction of the sound from the whistle of Partridge Island, and it was just in time that the captain found that he was heading for Manawagonish Island.

It is believed that the number of tourists who have come to New Brunswick on holiday trips thus far this year, excells the number of last season. Repairs will be made on the pavilions above and below the falls; this was decided at the meeting of the executive of the Tourists Association yesterday afternoon. The association will employ a man to furnish information to tourists and otherwise assist them.

Yesterday was the day for the examinations for the A. O. H. scholarships, but not one applicant called at the examination rooms, in Union street, to compete for the scholarship. The A. O. H., some time ago, decided to provide funds for defraying the cost of scholarships tenable in Catholic colleges in the maritime provinces. The scholarships are worth $300 a year and carry with them the privileges of studying for a profession. It is expected that some of the boys eligible will be ready to qualify at an early date.

The Allan liner Sicilian docked at Quebec on Monday evening and arrived in Montreal early yesterday morning. She had 108 passengers, of which number seventy-two are returned officers and men of the Canadian Expeditionary force. There was a large mail on board, including 1,978 bags and 1,529 parcels. Of this amount 170 bags and sixty-two parcels were for the Maritime Provinces, thirty bags and fourteen parcels for Quebec; western mails, 1,778 bags and 553 parcels; Japan seventy-four parcels and Russia 826 parcels.

THE MODERN WAY TO FURNISH HOMES

In these days of Pullman sleepers, no one would think of using a prairie schooner to cross the country. With modern plumbing facilities, nobody takes clothes down to the river to do washing. The old way of doing things gives place to the new. It is the same way with furnishing a home. No one thinks of doing without furniture in the home. We make it possible to have not only the necessities, but what is modern and in good taste, at Amland Bros.' low prices.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.

At a meeting of St. George's Society yesterday afternoon, $25 was voted for the British Naval Reserve Fund. This society has contributed very generously to patriotic funds since the war began. A resolution of condolence was passed with respect to Sergeant H. D. Raymond, the first active member of the society to lose his life in action. Mr. Raymond was a member of the Bank of Commerce staff, this city, before he enlisted. He joined as a private, and was afterwards promoted to sergeant. The shell which cost him his life also wounded his brother. The society passed resolutions congratulating its esteemed past president, Dr. Thomas Walker, on the celebration of his fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Until his recent retirement Dr. Loomis Pomeroy Haskell, a native of Bangor, Me., aged ninety, was the oldest practicing dentist in the United States, having been in practice for seventy years.

For All Complexion Ills

If the skin be colorless, sallow, muddy, over-red, blotchy or freckled, nothing will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolized wax. It literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbs the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any drugstore, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is used like cold cream.
