THE NEW COURT HOUSE.—We have received a letter from a correspondent at Clinton, which we decline to publish at length. He alludes to the eligibility of the Village of Clinton, as a proper place for the erection of the new Court House and states that he is informed that the project is favored not only by the inhabitants of that Village, but also by a neighbouring Township Council. Our Correspondent must be aware that to effect this object a change of the County Town would be required, this would be a question for the Government—and that the proposed scheme would be met by many insuperable obstacles. The ambition of our Clinton friends is certainly very praiseworthy and they no doubt consider the proposition as a very good joke, but we have too much respect for their good sense to think for one moment that such a project can be seriously entertained by them.

AN APOLOGY.

We take the following from the Perth News:—

[In order to make our account of the Brown Dinner complete, the following letters has been handed us for publication.—We were not early enough at the dinner to hear the letter read neither did we witness the presentation of the medals, which we are told were appropriately decorated with orange ribbon.]

Stratford, Nov. 2, 1853.

TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BROWN DINNER.

Dear Sir—I much regret that an unavoidable business engagement will prevent my having the pleasure of being present at the dinner to that distinguished champion of civil and religious liberty, George Brown, Esq., M. P. P. but as a mark of my sympathy with the cause he so nobly and unflinchingly advocates, I beg to present him with a Leather Medal,—which is the only thing available in my line of business. The smaller Medal, I beg you will present to John Hyde, Esq., M. D., as a small tribute of admiration for his honest and disinterested efforts towards the political regeneration of the country. Believe me, there is nothing like leather, both in politics and cobbling—it as often serves to patch up a damaged political reputation as a damaged sole.

R. H. KEAYS.

ANOTHER FALSE CHARGE.

Has set attempt were made to debauche the public mind, the object could not be better effected than by the efforts of a section of the press, which have all the appearance of a conspiracy, to make it appear that there is nothing but corruption and profligacy in high quarters. The Hamilton Spectator of the 12th instant, under the startling head of "Promotion at Ministers," published a great lie from the Hon Malcolm Cameron. We give the statement in the Spectator's own words

We have now a case of Ministerial jobbing to record, which, if the facts turn out as they have been narrated to us by a gentleman who has just returned from the scene of operations, exceeds in grossness all the other numerous Ministerial delinquencies and peculations, with which the press daily teems—excepting alone the monster Railway job. We learn, on the authority referred to that the recent journey of the Hon Malcolm Cameron, Her Majesty's Post master General in Canada, to the Western section of the Province, was not connected with the discharge of the onerous duties of his office, as might have been supposed. On the contrary, the honourable gentleman's commission led him to the office of the Crown Lands Agent, for the County of Essex, in which was situate a large and valuable tract of Clergy Reserve Lands. These lands had been valued a number of years ago, and had since, owing to the general improvement of the country, more than doubled in value the amount set upon them. Mr. Cameron having formerly qualified himself for the office of Commissioner of Crown Lands, for which he so hopelessly sighed, and having said as a minister access to the records of that office, had become aware of this fact. Availing himself of this knowledge (such is the only inference to be drawn if the facts be correctly stated,) he offered to purchase at the valuation so made the entire tract, or tracts of Reserves in the County. The agent, however, having doubts whether a recent act of the Legislature, passed to prevent speculators from selling up tracts of Crown Lands to the injury of the Province, and which limited the number of acres which one person could purchase, did not apply to the case of Clergy Reserves, refused to make so large a sale without instructions from the Seat of Government. Meantime, so the report goes, Mr. Cameron's name was set down for every Clergy lot in the County, and persons wishing to purchase were refused. The agent at length received a letter instructing him that the Act passed to prevent speculations in Crown Lands did not apply to the Reserves, and the whole of them were bargained to Mr. Cameron, by paying one-tenth of the purchase down, leaving the balance to be paid in ten annual instalments!

Now, though we dot vouch for the literal correctness of the statement thus given, yet from the source from which we have derived our information we do not doubt its general truthfulness. That an extensive job in these lands has been prepared, just on the eve of a final effort being made for their secularization, we have strong grounds for believing; and we have felt it to be our duty to lay the subject before the public at once, in order to its being thoroughly sifted to the bottom.

In this whole story, so far as the Hon Mr. Cameron is concerned, there is not one word of truth; and if the Spectator desire official information on the subject, we refer him to the agent who has the sale of public lands in the county of Essex.

That the whole of the Clergy Reserves in the county of Essex have been sold is quite true. The purchasers are two gentlemen living in the west, and one residing in this city, of the name of Cameron, but no relative to the Hon. Malcolm Cameron. We are willing to believe, reckless as the opposition press has droved itself to be, that the Spectator did not invent the story "out of the mints," but that it has been imposed upon by the travelling "gentleman" whom it gives for authority to believe that the Cameron who was one of the purchasers was the Postmaster General. The story about the agent not being sure whether the limitation clause of the late act of last session did not apply to Clergy Reserves is too absurd for belief. Every one who can read the English language knows that they do not apply and were not intended to apply to Clergy Reserves. These lands have long been open for sale, but found no purchasers at the valuation fixed on them. They were open to any body for purchase, as are the Clergy Reserves in every other part of the Province where they have been brought into the market, at fixed prices and on settled terms of payment. If the editor of the Spectator imagines he can make a speculation out of any of these lands he has nothing to do but go to the agency and say he desires so many acres, more or less, and is ready to comply with the conditions of paying the first instalment required by law, and neither the local agent nor the government will venture to refuse his offer. As to the value of the Clergy Reserves in Essex, it is sufficient to say that the purchasers have given the regular price asked, and which no one else was willing to give, as is proved by the act that they had long been in the market without finding purchasers.—Leader.

GREAT FIRE AT KINGSTON

(From the Daily News.)

At three o'clock this [12th] morning the bonded warehouse of J. Miller & Co. was discovered to be on fire. A strong south wind prevailed, which carried the flames to the adjoining wharves of Hon. J. Hamilton, and McPherson & Crane, destroying the warehouses of both those firms, and was finally stayed at Queen-street. The following are the premises destroyed—Messrs. Miller, bonded warehouse; Mr. Scobell's warehouse; Hon. J. Hamilton's warehouse; Messrs. McPherson & Crane's warehouse; Mr. Hendry's wholesale warehouse; Mr. Watts's grocery, with the wharf attached; Mr. Donoghue's inn. The amount of the loss and insurance not yet ascertained.—The Hon. J. Hamilton lost all his books.

At a time when public affairs were in a very unsettled state, a gentleman who squinted terribly, asked Tally and how things were going on. "Why, as you see, sir!" was the reply.

Youth writes its hopes upon the sand, and Age advances, like the sea, and washes them out.

FALL TRADE CIRCULAR.

THE Subscribers are now receiving, and hope by the end of the month to have opened out and display to the trade, their usual Extensive Fall Importations of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, in the purchasing of which the greatest pains have been taken, and every possible advantage has been availed of that could make the assortment attractive or yield a saving in the cost of the Goods.

Fresh importations of Groceries and Hardware are also being received in Store at Hamilton as well as sent direct by their Montreal and New York Firms to those out ports which use other ports on the Lakes.

It may be evident that this Fall's importations, as based upon the prospects of Trade were but great as those of last year, Wheat was 25 per cent lower than it now is, will be more sufficient for the demand which has been created by the increased circulation of the Province; so that there never seemed a time when early purchases were more an object, or when full Stocks were more certain to be safe especially seeing that prices of most descriptions of Goods continue to advance in the European markets.
