Laid at Rest

THE LATE EMMA STUART.

The remains of the late Emma Stuart was conveyed to their last resting place on Thursday, when the funeral took place to Mt. Hope cemetery from the late residence, 163 Dalhousie street. Inspiring and impressive services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Woodside. Deceased leaves to mourn her loss a grown-up family of seven: Mrs. Albert Haines, city; John Armstrong, city; James, Philippine Islands; Mrs. J. Stone, Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. D. Blasdell, city; Tom, Twining, Mich.; and Charles of Michigan; and three brothers, Samuel E. Lewis, Lapier, Mich.; George, Ancaster; John, city; and one sister, in New York City. The ballbearers were —Frank Haines, James Haines, F. Armstrong, Edward Armstrong, Geo Lewis, Oria Francis.

The floral tributes were: Pillow, the family, Frank Haines, Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. Caven, Mr. and Mrs. Wreaks of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Mellen, Frank Armstrong, L.T.B. No. 15, Laura and Isabella, Mrs. Crane.

Calling his thirteen children together, L. K. Schoggin, Mount Pulaski (Ill.) banker of ninety-two years, gave each a cheque for $20,000.

William J. Cummins, former head of the Carnegie Trust Company of New York city and one time mutual welfare mayor of Sing Sing, is to be pardoned.

The quaint ceremony of flogging the commoners was observed as usual this year at Malmesbury, Wilts. Six men were admitted to common rights, that is, grants of land under King Athelstan's bequest of land, given as a reward for help in fighting the Danes. King Athelstan was crowned King of the Mercians and West Saxons at Kingston-on-Thames in 925 A.D. Supreme control of King Athelstan's gift is vested in a warden and "freemen." The six new landholders were taken to their allotments, and a hole was dug in the soil into which each new commoner threw a shilling. Each commoner was "flogged" with a hazel twig, the surveyor repeating the old formula: "Turf and twig I gave to thee, the same as King Athelstan gave to me and I hope a loving brother thou wilt be."

WITH THE SOLDIERS

All rejected men in Toronto will in future wear a button bearing the letters "A. R.," signified "Applied and Rejected." This button will be issued by the Recruiting Depot to all men who are rejected and unfit for active service, to be worn by them as an outward and visible sign to all whom it may concern.

Captain R. J. Christie, Commander of the Recruiting Depot, is responsible for the issuing of the button, and has secured its authorization by Brigadier General Logie. Complaints had been received from rejected men who were stigmatized as slackers. The button has been copyrighted, and each one has a different number, so that they cannot be duplicated.

BACK TO THE LAND.

A month's leave is to be granted to soldiers who desire to work upon the land for the spring seeding, ploughing, etc., according to an order issued at Headquarters yesterday. The men will be provided with return transportation to and from any locality not exceeding a distance of 300 miles from the station or camp where they are under training. Pay and allowances withheld during the period of furlough will be paid on return. Each man must produce proof that he was bona fide engaged in farm work, and, any man who misconducts himself during furlough will be liable to forfeit his pay and allowance for such period as may be determined.

BIG PARADE

A big parade of seven thousand troops is being arranged by Brig.-Gen. Logie to take place at Hamilton on March 18th. All of the overseas troops quartered in Hamilton and the neighboring counties, together with militia regiments, will take part in the parade. The salute will be taken in the gore by the Lieut.-Governor, Sir John Hendrie. Sir John Gibson, ex-Lieut.-Governor and many other prominent men will be at the saluting base.

NEW SCHOOL

Officers of militia units who wish to enter the School of Instruction must first of all certify their willingness to proceed overseas; they will wear the special uniform prescribed for probationers. This order was issued yesterday to clear up a misconception in regard to the status of militia officers attending the school.

An order issued yesterday states that Chaplains appointed to overseas units without pay, but assisting in the work of organization, will in future receive the pay of their rank.

Children Cry
CASTORIA

A soldier who lost the use of both arms, has had a remarkable recovery. Fourteen months ago he lost the use of his right arm, and was discharged from the army. He became a postman at Shepton Mallet, and was transferred to Bristol. The other day he suddenly lost the use of his left arm as well. He was helpless, and his landlady gave him his dinner with a spoon. She placed a cigarette between his lips, lit it, and, while the man was smoking, he felt a twitch and an impulse to raise his arms. He lifted them above his head, and has had the use of them both ever since.
