Don't Sift Ashes;

—ruin your clothes, injure your hands, raise a dust, the meanest, dirtiest job a man can do—and no work for a woman. What then? Waste good coal? Increase expense?

No, use a furnace that burns all the coal, that does not shake down some ashes and a lot of coal.

Use a furnace with a grate that drops ashes, but holds the coal—a furnace with such perfect combustion that all the coal is burnt and gives off all the heat that's in it.

That is the Sunshine Furnace made by McClary's—the only furnace that's built to burn all the coal and shake down nothing but ashes.

Built with an ash-pan, no shovelling, no sifting, no dust, no spoiled clothes, no exasperating, expensive waste.

The most modern furnace built, the best burner and best heater—the easiest furnace to manage—the very best.

Write for our furnace booklet, it is worth reading.

The Sunshine Furnace is sold by all enterprising dealers.

SOUTH BUXTON.

We are getting fine showers almost every night, just what all crops—but the hay—wants. Corn is making up fine. Oats are a heavy crop, but barley is very poor in most cases. Harvesting of wheat will begin some time this week. The crop is very promising. Rust has struck some fields.

Wm. Pratt has the finest garden of any farmer in these parts, among others early vegetables. They have had cabbage for some time.

J. H. Gillam, of Cleveland, is visiting friends here.

Mrs. W. F. McCray and two children, of Chicago, are the guests of Mrs. Wm. Blue, North Buxton.

The Ladies Aid of the First Baptist church, North Buxton, are preparing for their annual lawn social to be held on the 24th inst. on the spacious and beautiful lawn of Geo. E. Cromwell at Fletcher. Their social that they held on this same lawn last July was the social of the season and they are trying to excel all former efforts now, and are seeking noted foreign talent as well as local talent. Don't miss it.

Mr. Weir, teacher at North Buxton, is spending his vacation at his home in Charing Cross.

The thrust of a lance does not hurt more than the abdominal pains following the eating of improper food. Quick relief comes with the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Always keep it in the house.

ZONE CENTRE.

The farmers here are making hay while the sun shines.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tong visited friends in Chatham last week.

Messrs. John and Geo. H. Lidster took in the horse races at Petrolia on July 3rd. They report a good time.

Master Eddy Smith, Thamesville, is spending his holidays at Mr. Chas. Elberle's.

Mrs. Mary Timney is spending a few days visiting friends in Chatham and Dover Township.

Miss Katha J. Johnson, a former teacher of No. 5, Zone, is spending the week with Mrs. Geo. H. Lidster and renewing acquaintances in the section.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harris, of Hamilton, are moving to Zone.

Mr. Johnson, of Euphemia, is busy engaged moving a frame house to Bothwell for Mr. M. Malamp. It was formerly owned by Mr. Edward Chapman.

Miss M. Beamish, of Bothwell, spent Sunday at Mr. Geo. Lidster's.

Peter Johnson, of West Lorne, called on friends here Saturday last.

The corner stones of the new L. D. Saints church were laid on Saturday, July 8th, at 2 p. m. Tea was served from four to six o'clock.

The Sabbath school and Baptist services were withdrawn on Sunday, as the Saints asked to occupy the hall for the day.

There is a vast difference between the way most people act and the way they think others should act.

THE ROLE OF HAMLET

MANY FAMOUS ACTRESSES ESSAYED IT AND FAILED.

Even the Gifted Sarah Siddons and the Brilliant Charlotte Cushman Were Not Equal to the Task—Anna Dickinson in the Part.

Although many of the cleverest actresses the world has known have essayed the part, they have, with few exceptions, failed in it.

Even Sarah Siddons, probably the greatest tragic actress of all time, was a failure as Hamlet, largely owing to the nondescript nature of her garments, which were neither masculine nor feminine and which made it almost impossible to forget that her Hamlet was a woman and not a man, says London Tit-Bits.

Charlotte Cushman was perhaps the most brilliant player of male parts of her or, indeed, of any other generation. She was equally brilliant and convincing as Romeo, Cardinal Wolsey or Claude Melnotte, but when she made the crucial experiment of playing the melancholy Dane even she proved unequal to the task. In fact, her Hamlet was so badly received in Dublin that she there and then made up her mind never to play it again.

And yet her Romeo was such a triumph of acting that James Sheridan Knowles, the great dramatist and critic, was completely carried away by it. Of her acting of the passage where Romeo flings himself upon the ground, "taking the measure of an unmade grave," he says: "It was a scene of most passion, not simulated passion; no such thing—real, palpably real. The genuine heart storm was on in its wildest fullness of fury, and I listened and gazed and held my breath, while my blood ran hot and cold. I am sure it must have been the case with every one in the house, but I was all absorbed in Romeo till a thunder of applause recalled me to myself."

And of her assumption of the difficult part of Claude Melnotte in "The Lady of Lyons" Justin McCarthy says: "I have seen Claude Melnotte played by many great actors, from Macready to Irving, but Miss Cushman eclipsed them all. She created for me the only human, the only possible and the only endurable Claude Melnotte I have ever seen."

Miss Julia Seaman, a once popular actress, was so severely criticised when she played Hamlet some years ago that she turned round on her critics and assailed them in a very vigorous manner. The late Miss Marriott, who had one of the most beautiful voices ever heard on any stage, was more fortunate, although it was one of her least successful assumptions, and in the fifties an American actress, Miss Percy Knowles, made such an unfortunate exhibition of herself as the melancholy one that a country manager actually issued a notice warning his patrons against going to see her.

Ellen Tree (Mrs. Charles Kean) was the first to put on Hamlet's doublet and hose; Mrs. Glover won Edmund Kean's approval by her playing of the part, and Mme. Sarah Bernhardt gave a picturesque and clever rendering of Hamlet, although it was not to be compared with many of her brilliant assumptions.

Charlotte Crampton was noted for her clever acting of masculine parts, which would have been even more convincing if she had not been such a tiny woman. "There is a woman," Macready once said, referring to her, "who would startle the world if she were but two inches taller." She was such a magnificent swordswoman that a few men cared to try their skill against her.

She was undoubtedly a genius in her way, with a courage commensurate with her skill. She was one of the finest personators of Richard III. ever seen on the stage, her Shylock was among the most brilliant pieces of acting in her day, and she was almost equally clever as Iago. Romeo and Don Caesar de Bazar, and yet when Charlotte Crampton failed to bring out the wonderful womanlike delicacy of Hamlet's character of Hamlet is eminently suited for a woman's capabilities. Hamlet was very young—a mere college boy, in fact. Besides, a fine actress is more likely to bring out the wonderful womanlike delicacy of Hamlet's character than a very young actor. And she supported her views by giving an attractive and clever rendering of the part.

Probably the most successful of all lady Hamlets was Anna Dickinson, who made considerable reputation as Macbeth and Claude Melnotte. "A number of women have tried Hamlet," she said. "None, I believe, with any success. Yet, in my opinion, the character of Hamlet is eminently suited for a woman's capabilities. Hamlet was very young—a mere college boy, in fact. Besides, a fine actress is more likely to bring out the wonderful womanlike delicacy of Hamlet's character than a very young actor. And she supported her views by giving an attractive and clever rendering of the part."

Crinolines. In the World of Fashion of 1830 is a reference to "the new stuff called crinoline." Crinoline was partly thread, partly horsehair, its name being compounded of the French "crin," horsehair, and "line," flax. Hats, skirts and all sorts of things that were wanted to possess a certain stiffness were made of this material.

"Royal Household" Flour

Gives Stomach Less Work and Body More Strength.

No flour in the world is so nourishing, so vitalizing, so rich in all the elements of body, bone and brain building as pure, well-balanced, white flour.

Bran in bread is just so much wood fibre—so much extra work for the stomach—there is no nourishment in it for man. Cattle digest it and get nourishment from it because nature has given them a fermenting plant and double chewing facilities.

But man masticates once and digests once. For that reason he gets nothing whatever out of anything but the gluten portion of wheat—the inside of the grain—the part which yields "protein." And he gets more out of Royal Household Flour because more of the branny and waste portions are removed in making it than from any other flour.

The Royal Household Mills eliminate more bran and snorts than any other mill—therefore Royal Household Flour is the most nourishing flour in the world.
