THE "MEMORY VALUE" of a Distinctive Odor

Most women of distinction and charm to-day use one single odor throughout the entire toilette. They well appreciate the influence of a rare perfume that, used always becomes a very part of one's personality—the faintest fargrance of which possesses an indescribable "memory value" a complete identity with one's individual charm of person. The lovely Three Flowers odor has been made the basis of an entire group of toilette specialties. In our showroom a complete assortment of these desirable toilet requisites can now be found.

Newfoundlander Abroad Congratulates New Premier

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in the paper which is dear to all Newfoundlanders abroad, The Evening Telegram, to write a few lines regarding the glorious news which has just reached us, Mr. W. S. Monroe is Premier. Well done Newfoundlanders, you have placed a man at the head of your affairs which you can well feel proud of. His campaign must have been vigorous and fine. His victory testifies to the people's confidence in him and the principles he stands for. I have been speaking to a good many Newfoundlanders the past few days, mostly outport men, and they all feel proud of their friends at home for electing Mr. Monroe as Premier. I have heard several of them say, "Well boys, we will soon be able to pack up and get back to the old sod." This will give you an idea the feeling most Newfoundlanders have. I am safe in saying at least 80 per cent. of Newfoundlanders abroad would return if they could secure work. Several of them would have gone back to the Humber, but they received the news that it was no use to look for work there as the only thing offering was pick and shovel jobs and very small pay at that. All the jobs worth while were given to outsiders. No doubt the new Government will see to that, if such is the case, and offer better inducements to all Newfoundlanders in foreign lands to return to the land they love. They not only talk of the Humber but the other industries which are the mainstay of the country. Now Mr. Monroe, this is your chance, with the help of your able colleagues, to place Newfoundland where she once stood, on the rock of prosperity. You will then turn the tide of immigration in, not out as it has been for the past few years. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for giving this letter publication and congratulating all Newfoundlanders on their splendid choice in Mr. Monroe, to whom I also offer my heartiest congratulations. He fought a good fight in a good cause. Long may he enjoy the trust the people have put in him.

Yours truly,
NEWFOUNDLANDER ABROAD.

All Canadian Film At the Majestic

"THE STRANGER OF THE NORTH" MADE IN NOVA SCOTIA.

All-Canadian productions are rather scarce, but when they do make their appearance they certainly "set the pace," for the writer has never seen a Canadian attraction that fell flat. To-night the Majestic Theatre is screening a magnificently beautiful film entitled "The Stranger of the North," which was produced in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, which for variety of scenery has yet to be surpassed.

"The Stranger of the North" has story, cast and drama as well. In short—it is a great picture. Written and directed by John W. Noble, with many successes to his credit, it is the work of an expert in every department of photoplay production, and its value from the standpoint of both exhibitor and public, is increased by the presence of Richard Travers and Ruth Dwyer. Travers, the featured player, has never done better work, nor has he ever made a more prepossssing hero.

"The Stranger of the North" is replete with moments of comedy and tells a heart interest story liberally sprinkled with dramatic tensity and a thrill of a great big fight—one of the most sustained and terrific that has been seen on the screen in many a day.

Added to the entertainment of this picture is the Violin and Singing Act by Misses Habel and McShane. These artistes will appear in new and classy numbers from Jazz to Grand Opera.

What is Home without a Radio Set Just say "I hear you calling me" and save the cigarette Box Fronts. Closing date, Sept. 30th.

FRANCE UNCOVERS NEW SPRINT STARS.

Two new sprint stars are the hopes of France to kick Charlie Paddock's sprint crown from the Californian's head. Last week they sped the 100 and 150 meter events in extra fast time over a rain soaked track at Pershing stadium in the pre-Olympic tryouts at Vincennes.

Joe Jackson, young Frenchman of American descent, cantered the 150 meters in 17 1-5, defeating veterans, while De Grelle of the Racing Club of France galloped in ahead of Mourlon, old time French favorite, in the 100 meter dash, sprinting the distance in 11 1-5.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

NOT EVEN DISTANTLY ACQUAINT ED.

How astoundingly little we do know about ourselves.

Every once in awhile one gets hit in the face with that fact.

I did recently.

I was talking with, or rather being talked to by the most terrific talker (with perhaps one or two exceptions, whom I would like to see her meet in a Marathon talk contest) that I know.

One Leads To Another.

She is one of those people who is reminded, by any subject or any name, of a terrific line of reminiscences—one leading to another so that it is seldom that a single one of them gets carried through to its conclusion. One of those people who, in case you do seize a moment when she is catching her breath to say something, simply holds the breath she has caught and looks at you with slightly glazed, uncomprehending eyes (you notice how carefully I avoided the word "listens") until you stop and she gets a chance to talk again.

Said this person:

"There's one thing in life that I've learned if I haven't learned anything else, and that's that it pays to be a good listener.

Joking? A million miles from it.

She Might Get Fat.

One of the largest women I ever knew, one of those colossal creatures whose breadth of beam in every direction is truly astounding, was talking one day about her pleasure in riding in automobiles. She doesn't own one but often hires herself driven about. "I should like to have an auto of my own," she mused, "and I think I could learn to drive it all right; but the trouble is that if I had an auto I should just go everywhere in it and never walk a step. And I am afraid I would get fat if I did."

You are sure she must have been jesting? If so she was one of the best actresses, as well as the largest women, I ever knew. And I never saw any other indication of such genius.

Alarming, Isn't It?

These two striking examples of the complete absence of the gift to see ourselves as others see us but we are all of us constantly meeting with less astonishing ones.

Of course in a way it's very funny to hear people make statements like these.

But in another way it's far from funny. It's alarming. And I know I don't need to tell you why.

Harry Carey at the Crescent To-Night

IN HIS WHIRLWIND DRAMA, "CRASHING THRU."

Harry Carey's name on a motion picture programme always stands for hair-breath escapes, daring adventure, fascinating romance and above all—a whole evening's entertainment. To-night, however, this popular star will be "at home" to his St. John's friends at the Crescent Theatre where he will appear in his latest and greatest starring vehicle, "Crashing Thru." This is a story of the great out-doors with thrills enough for a fifteen episode serial. Supporting Carey in the cast are Cullen Landis, Myrtle Steadman, Vola Vale, Chas LeMoyne and Donald McDonald.

There will also be shown to-night another of the "Sing Them Again" series, introducing the songs you used to sing. Among the numbers contained in to-night's edition are "Silver Threads Among The Gold," and a number of good old Irish songs which always remain fresh in your memory. Then, again there is a comedy entitled "The Busher," that contains the most lively baseball game you have ever witnessed. See the new idea in "home runs." Take a tip from this picture and you can't go wrong—that is if you can get away with it.

A Mean Trick

PUSH CAR WHEELS RUN AMUCK.

On Saturday night about 8.25 the watchman at the Round House reported that a set of push car wheels, used by one of the section men had been removed from its original position, by some persons unknown, and upon being placed on the track was set in motion down the grade. The wheels apparently travelled at a great rate, as after turning the curve near the Trestle Bridge, it toppled over and rolled down on embankment, but fortunately nobody was injured. The miscreants responsible for such action should be rounded up and dealth with severely.

A Tremendous Picture

GRAPHIC STORY IS UNFOLDED IN "ABOVE ALL LAW."

One of the most dramatic and thrilling pictures booked for this city in many a day will be shown for two days beginning to-day at the Star Movie is "Above All Law." The scenes of the picture are located in India and the theme deals with a Hindu prince who becomes jealous of his beautiful wife and in revenge, decides to entomb her alive. He sends to France for a celebrated architect who, on learning the nature of the task imposed upon him, refuses to obey orders, thereby involving himself and his fiancee, who has followed him to India, in greatte the I. I. S. Co. trouble. The story, despite its numerous thrills, has a happy ending. The production is said to be one of the most massive and beautiful shown in this country in many months. The cast is made up of leading European screen players, and all of them are artists to the finger tips.
