Sabbath in the Country.

The creaking wagon's in the shed,
The busy flail is heard no more;
The horse is littered down and fed,
The harness hangs above his head,
The whip behind the door.

His leathern gloves and hooked bill
To-day the woodman throws aside;
The blacksmith's fiery forge is still,
The wooden wheel of the old mill
Sleeps on the mill-dam wide.

The miller's boat is anchored where
Far out the water lilies sleep;
You see their shadows mirrored there,
The broad white flowers reflected clear,
Within the mill pond deep.

The harrow's in the garden shed,
Hoe, rake, and spade are put away;
Unweeded stands the onion bed,
The gardener from his work hath fled;
'Tis holy Sabbath day.

Upon the wall the white cat sleeps,
By which the churn and milk-pans lie;
A drowsy watch the house-dog keeps
And scarcely from his dull eye peeps
Upon the passer-by.

And sweetly over hill and dale,
The silver-sounding church-bells ring;
Across the moor and down the dale
They come and go, and on the gale
Their Sabbath tidings fling.

From where the whitewashed Sun'y school
Peeps out between the poplars dim,
Which ever throw their shadows cool
Far out upon the rushy pool,
You hear the Sabbath hymn.

From farm and field, and grange grown [gray,
From woodland walk and winding way
The old and young, the grave and gay,
Unto the old church come and pray,
And sing God's holy praise.

Adieu.

For the C. P. Herald.

Adieu! ye dreams and joys of youth,
I now have realized the truth,
That fondest hopes decay;
Adieu! ye aspirations high,
Your memory will never die,
Although you're passed away.

Adieu to childhood's happy hours,
When life seemed strewn with fairest flowers
In youth's bright rising dawn;
Adieu ye friends who then with me,
Launched forth your barques upon Life's sea,
Ye too are fled and gone.

Ah! ye have left me one by one,
Yet at fond memory's call ye come,
And fill athwart my view.
Yes, ye are numbered with the past,
Ye were by far too bright to last,
Adieu! loved joys adieu!

Fruitfulness of the Human Mind.

We are not apt to be aware of the enormous fruitfulness of the human mind. There are some forty or fifty appetites, passions, affections, sentiments, and faculties included in the organization of man, ministering either to his physical or his spiritual being. These are all of them open to excitement and called in to play more or less every day, and every part of each day, by natural objects; by the exigencies of business and pleasure; by our own visions, reflections, and automatic power. Though all these various appetites, and passions, and affections and sentiments, and faculties are not acting at once, yet they alternate in action, so that there are several of them working together. For sixteen hours out of every twenty four, there are some forty agents active within you; and the product of each hour and each day must be immense because the mind acts quicker than any other thing. You think ten times quicker than you can talk. For the man of muscle is vastly lazier than the man of thought. A fast man can think as much faster than he can speak, as he can speak than he can write. How quick you can plan! but how slow you can execute! How long it takes you to execute that which you plan in a moment! The rapidity of mental operations eludes any man's estimate. If some invention of science should give the brain power of recording like the telegraph, it is probable that the thoughts, the fancies, the feelings, and volitions of a single day would fill a large volume. Three hundred and sixty-five volumes in a year would be written, if the definite reflection, motives and emotions that every day pass distinctly through our mind and have a relation to our character and eternal destiny should be recorded and printed in a book. One year's living would fill three hundred and sixty-five volumes of your own self-life. What enormous fruitfulness, and how much of it seems to pass unnoticed.—H. W. Beecher.

Punch's Charge to the jury.

Gentlemen of the jury.—You are sworn in all cases to decide according to the evidence, at the same time if you have any doubt, you are bound to give the prisoner the benefit of it. Suppose you have to pronounce on the guilt or innocence of a gentleman accused of felony. You will naturally doubt whether any gentleman would commit such an offence. Accordingly, however strong was the testimony against him, you will, perhaps, acquit him. The evidence of your own senses is, at least, credible as that of the witness; if therefore your eyes convince you that the prisoner is a well dressed person, you have a right to presume his respectability; and it is for you to say whether a respectable person would be guilty of the crimes imputed to him. In like manner, when you see a shabby looking fellow in the dock, charged, for instance, with sheep stealing, the decision rests with you—first, whether or not that individual is a ragamuffin, and, secondly, how far it is probable that a man of that description would steal sheep.

Of course, as has before been said, you will always be guided by the evidence; but then whether the evidence is trustworthy or not is matter for our private consideration. you may believe, if you chose, or you may disbelieve it; and whether, gentlemen of the jury, you believe or disbelieve, will depend upon the constitution of your minds. If your minds are so constituted that you wish to find the prisoner guilty, why then very likely, you will disbelieve it. You are to free your minds from all prejudice, if you can, and in that case your judgment will be unbiassed; but if you cannot, you will return a verdict accordingly. It is not strictly speaking, for you to consider what will be the effect of your verdict, but if such a consideration should occur to you, and you cannot help attending to it, that verdict will be influenced by it to a certain extent. You are probably well aware that when you retire you will be locked up until you contrive to agree. You may arrive at unanimity by fair discussion, or by some of you starving out the others, or by tossing up; your conclusion, be more or less in accordance with your oaths. Your verdict may be right; it is to be hoped it will; it may be wrong; it is to be hoped it will not. At all events, gentlemen of the Jury, you will come to some conclusion or other, unless it should so happen that you separate without coming to say.

To the Editor of the C. P. Herald.

SIR,—In the last number of your Journal appears an article over the signature "Robert Montgomery" purporting to be a criticism on one "Sandy Morrison," a correspondent of the "Almonte Express."

Betwixt "Sandy" and this gospel missionary; as he vauntingly styles himself, we won't interfere; but I will allow "Sandy" to handle him with or without mittens, as he may think best. It is certainly amusing; while it looks so much like the kettle abusing the pot, to see "Sandy" taken to task for his inferior syntax; while a perusal of the learned Missionary's own lucubrations would convince the veriest schoolboy, that if ever the critic possessed the slightest knowledge of even the rudiments of English grammar, he must long have forgotten it.

The laboured epistle, however, of this sanctimonious mentor perhaps like more of its kindred effusions, not being altogether orthodox; we crave the liberty to make a few corrections.

The Village of Renfrew may have its quota of disorderlies; but we are not aware of "reports being abroad" that "the folk" about the village are guilty of "mutilating and murdering peoples horses, and mangling peoples skulls," as your veritable correspondent informs us, that such malicious acts were perpetrated at this village; we make no attempt to deny; not committed, however, by any of the inhabitants, but on the contrary by parties, some of whom reside over fifty miles distant.

We ask then if itinerant preachers, gaun Fiddlers, or any other class of disorderly vagrants, will stroll into the village, are the inhabitants to be held accountable for their lawless and barbarous conduct? We think not!

Again this modern apostle points his arrow particularly at an individual in this place, as having 'the knack of playing the tyrant" coupling that with an amount of slanderous silly twaddle not having the least shadow of reality—totally void of truth; and never could have originated in any other mind save one bordering on insanity. In doing so, however, he may for the sake of a few shillings be playing the hireling for others, in acts that they would shrink from doing themselves. Fortunately, however, for the intended victim, he is far above their reach, he is too well known for that operation to have any effect, and long his residence in this place will suffice to disarm any attempt at calumny. Any such pusillanimous attempts to fasten any odium on him or on any of those, with whom he is connected, will be like "spitting against the wind."

For the information of our readers we draw aside the curtain and exhibit perhaps, to your learned correspondents' indignation. This extremely spectral personage albeit in his own eyes 'a gospel missionary' who might be more readily recognized (from his own a historical account) as a waif from some troupe of travelling mountebanks or playactors, a short time ago, favored the boys of the village with one of his sanctimonious orations. Unfortunately, the juveniles not being very flush in the "needful," the collection taken up made but little effect on the exchequer. Next day the sorrowing apostle and self-styled "minister not of the world" strayed into the workshop of one of the mechanics, set forth his case in "an unco mournfu' tale." He asserted that yestreen he had a large congregation but "unco little siller!" "Unco little siller man! only fifty cents!" His name "he said was Montgomerie, however, a name that knew no fear and never was discouraged, and he would try again." Accordingly he advertized for a new trial—another meeting—and touchingly beseeched the mechanic to use his influence "to raise the clans" (as he termed it,) for the auspicious gathering. The appointed day arrived as did also the messenger of peace brim full of good tidings, but alas; and a-lack-a-day! no congregation had assembled, and of course nae siller! not even did the modern Herald himself get admittance into the sanctuary! Hence, we suppose, his indignation at the people of Renfrew, and the unlucky wight the mechanic, who either failed or neglected to "raise the clans."

* * * *

As shooting at crows is merely powder thrown away, we cannot condescend to bandy words with this white chocker'd genii, or take any further notice of his valuable effusions hereafter; we will now let him gently down into that insignificance and obscurity, that Nature intended he should occupy.

Yours, &c, ANTI-HUMBUG.
Renfrew, Dec. 1st, 1862.

To the Editor of the C. P. Herald.

If we take notice of Mr. French's speech and the opinions therein, as published in a late issue of the Pembroke Observer, it is not because we think Mr. French's opinion on the matter upon which he spoke of the slightest importance. Any weight that might formerly be supposed to be attached to his views, has been lost by the manner in which he fulfilled the duties of Warden of the County of Renfrew. Mr. French, who would have people suppose he was a man of respectable ability, presided over the deliberations of a council whose every act was a blunder, or an illegality, and was an active participant in the making of what some people call worse than a blunder, that is the contract entered into with Messrs. Gordon & Dickson, in which the interests of the people of Renfrew were trampled under foot or overlooked. We think we are only just then in saying that no matter how highly Mr. French may estimate his wisdom and acuteness, the public—who are in the main good judges of men—will scarcely take Mr. French's advice as very wise, or as anything but very dangerous to their interests if followed. He talks very frequently of "consistency," "honor," and some other high sounding phrases, and would appear as a sort of Municipal Bayard; but his antecedents in the Municipal transactions of Renfrew show that he has been whipped, or in some other violent way, been induced to become the avowed advocate of Pembroke as the County Town. We do not attribute this change to the abusive language used towards Mr. French to be seen a few numbers since in the Pembroke Observer, where "his vulgar pomposity" was talked of. No; a different motive influenced Mr. French evidently. He is ambitious of delivering the annual felicitations and thanks from the Warden's chair in the year of grace one thousand eight hundred and sixty two, and now he makes allies of the party against whom he, at an earlier part of the year, prompted the attack, which have put Pembroke in consternation about their darling County Town. This is a sample of Mr. French's consistency, honor and high mindedness. We will give another from his speech, showing the force of his argument, his appreciation of the meaning of words, and how closely he has the interests of the ratepayers of Renfrew at heart.

"I have already read to you Mr. Deacon's letter anent the covering in of the buildings. You will observe that it is his opinion that it is the DUTY of the council to take the necessary steps to protect the Buildings from the inclemency of the winter weather. One thing is certain, that we are not prevented by the Injunction from Chancery from doing this, and I, therefore, think it would be both right and proper to order a small expenditure for the protection of the buildings.'

Now to plain minds, one or two thoughts would occur, that as the injunction forbade them spending public monies, they could not do so without incurring the penalties which Chancery provides for orders disobeyed, and that that part of the injunction which allows work to be performed so far as the covering of the County Buildings went, was solely directed to the contractors in whose hands the buildings were. It now must be evident, even to Mr. French, that "voting even the paltry sum of $175.00," would be going in the teeth of Chancery—seeing the Council were strictly forbidden from voting any money at all to be expended on the buildings. It was well for the people of Renfrew that a majority of Council were found to vote down this stupid or insidious proposal. Had the "paltry sum of $175" been voted, it would have been an acknowledgement of the first instalment of an amount that would beggar the ratepayers of the County of Renfrew to pay, and which would bring the presence of the Sheriff to the doors of the people.

Victoria Grist and Flour Mill.

THE Subscriber hereby tenders his sincere thanks to his numerous friends and customers, for the liberal patronage they have extended to him for the past 3 years, as Flour and Grist Miller in the Village of Almonte. He would beg also to intimate that the "Victoria Grist and Flour Mill" is now fitted up new, with three run of first class French Burr Stones, capable of doing a large amount of work in a superior manner. The Water-wheels are all constructed of Iron, and on a new and improved principle. The Bolts and Bolting-cloths are of the very best material and description, and all the other machinery are made to correspond. He flatters himself, and he thinks he is not "saying too much" that after an experience of over 40 years in some of the best and largest Milling establishments in England and Canada, by strict attention to business, under his own supervision, and his Mill now being in such a thorough state of repair, he can do work both as respects dispatch and quality second to no other Grist and Flour Mill in these or the adjoining counties. He hopes therefore to get a large share of public patronage.

The balance of stock (amounting to some $9,000) the Executors beg to say will be pushed off at a decided REDUCTION from Montreal Cost Prices; and when it is remembered that these were purchased before the late startling advances in manufactured Goods—the public will have little difficulty in divining their true interests and deciding where to buy.

As these Goods MUST BE SOLD during the Winter, and the affairs of the late business wound up by the ensuing spring, the Executors would urge on intending purchasers to BUY AT ONCE and thus secure the cream of the stock at merely fractional rates.

Their stock is particularly heavy and complete, comprising in part, GREY COTTONS, GLASGOW, BENGAL and REGATTA STRIPES, OXFORD DENIMS, DERRYS, and an immense assortment of PRINTED CALICOS, from 6d up. A limited assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, including Nails and a small quantity of Iron to quicken sale, will be placed at a fraction under cost; while a great variety of articles in daily request such as Herrings, Codfish, Oils, &c., will be all sold off at greatly reduced prices.

As has been intimated, the entire stock must be cleared out by the ensuing Spring, and from the foregoing Advertisement the Public may readily conclude that great inducements will be held forth to effect the desired end. Should there be any, however, who "have their doubts" about these matters, the next best thing for them to do is to call and judge for themselves.

TAKE NOTICE.—The balance—$9,000 worth—of the stock of the late James Mair, Sen, Esq., is placed at less than cost.

SMITH'S FALLS THRESHING MACHINES.

MANUFACTURED BY

Frost & Wood, Smith's Falls, C.W.

THESE Celebrated Machines, to which the attention of the Agricultural public is called, have during the past seasons given the most entire satisfaction. Their superiority wherever they have been introduced and brought into competition with other Machines have been universally acknowledged by all who have used them, both for Durability, ease of Draft, and the thorough and effective manner of their operation.

Our SEPARATOR (capacity, four to ten horse power) for the coming season will be superior in every respect to any ever before made, as our aim is to excel every manufactory in the Province, in producing first class work. In their construction none but the very best materials are used—frames well put together—cylinders run in copper boxes, which is a great improvement,—babbet metal in boxes where necessary, and everything is got up in the very best manner and with the latest improvements.

The DOUBLE PINION HORSE POWER, by which we drive the Separator and which we have much improved, is celebrated for great simplicity, ease of draft or effective power, costs less to keep in repair, and is very strong and durable.

Parties who intend getting Machines for the coming season, are respectfully invited to examine ours before purchasing elsewhere, as we are satisfied that they are the best and most reliable in the Provinces.

We continue to keep always on hand:—

WOOD & IRON BEAM PLOWS, STUMPING MACHINES,
CULTIVATORS, STRAW CUTTERS,
DOG POWERS, ROAD SCRAPERS,
COOLERS, KETTLES,

CROSS CUT SAWING MACHINES for cutting logs for firewood, shingles, staves &c., &c. ALSO—COOKING, BOX, and PARLOR STOVES, &c., &c., &c.
