THREE PEOPLE MURDERED.

THE SMITH'S FALLS TRAGEDY REPEATED IN QUEBEC.

A Well-to-Do Farmer Shot Dead, the Threats of His Wife and Daughter Cut and Their House Set on Fire—No Clue to the Assassin or Assassins—The Object Supposed to Have Been Plunder.

From The Sunday World

MONTREAL, June 4.—The most fearful tragedy in the annals of Missisquoi County occurred seven miles from this point last night, or early this morning. Omri Edy, Mrs. Edy, his wife and their daughter, Emma, aged 20, were found murdered in their farmhouse at Black Ridge, three miles from Clarenceville. After the murder had been committed the assassins set fire to the dwelling and the neighbors, who were attracted to the spot by the flames, found the three dead bodies, which were at once removed.

As yet there is no clue to the murderers. There is little doubt but that the primary intention of the unknown murderers was robbery, and this led to the sequel which has sent throughout the whole district. In support of the robbery theory it may be stated that when the dead bodies were removed, around Mrs. Edy's hand was found a rubber band, which the neighbors say was similar to one which she carried on her purse. The position of the band indicated that it had been slipped from off the purse, probably in response to the robbers' demand for money. The sequel to this act of Mrs. Edy's may never be detailed, but the finding of the dead bodies shows that it was followed by a series of most brutal murders. The intensest excitement prevails in the neighborhood of Beach Ridge, and people are flocking to the scene of the murder from Bedford, Clarenceville and other adjacent places.

Coroner Mitchell of Bedford has gone to Beach Ridge and is holding an investigation this afternoon.

An Old and Esteemed Family.

Omri Edy, the murdered man, was 70 years of age, his wife, formerly a Miss Bush, being about 62. They were one of the oldest families residing in that part of the country. They came from United Empire Loyalist stock, Mr. Edy's grandfather having settled there in the early part of the century. Mr. Edy was an independent, well-to-do farmer and possessed considerable means, being the owner of two farms. He was a highly respected man, and was one of the fathers of the Methodist church in Clarenceville. The late Mrs. Edy was a kind woman, while Miss Edy was a well-educated young woman, held in great esteem by all who knew her.

A Charming Residence.

The residence was situated on Beach Ridge, a beautiful country road leading from Clarenceville to Albany Springs, Vt. The house stood about three miles from Clarenceville and two from the boundary line. It was one of the pretty farm residences which are so numerous in that section. It was of wood, and fronting it was a shaded lawn. It could be seen for quite a distance, being on the brow of the hill near the lake. On the east the farm lands slope down to Missisquoi Lake. The farmer employed by Mr. Edy lived in another house about 100 yards away with his family. The bulk of the product of these two farms was hay, which was sometimes held until spring to be sold at a higher price.

The Locality Well Frequented.

There is a good deal of local traffic on this road, leading as it does between Vermont and Canada. The locality has always borne a very high reputation and is almost wholly populated by people of English descent. As a rule, they retire very early in the evening and are early risers. A married daughter of Mrs. Edy, Mrs. Bert Hawley, lives near Plattsburg, N.Y. She was the eldest child, while the murdered daughter was the youngest. One son, Mr. H. O. Edy, is in business at Montreal, 160 McGill-street. The news was broken to him this morning. He will go out this evening. Teams are to be seen on this road at all times of night. The coroner of the district, Dr. H. E. Mitchell, resides at Bedford, some 16 miles from the scene of the murder. There is no apparatus to fight fire within or around Clarenceville. It is a prohibition parish, as well as Alburg, Vt., adjoining it. The nearest neighboring house to the Edy place is about 300 yards away.

The Son Receives the Awful News.

Mr. H. O. Edy, son of the murdered father and mother, manufacturer's agent, McGill-street, received a telegram this morning advising him of the murder of his father, and later on another message announcing the murder of the other members of his family. The terrible state of mind into which this intelligence threw Mr. Edy can only be imagined. As soon as he had partially recovered from the stunning effects of the shock he proceeded to Mr. Carpenter's office and engaged two detectives, with whom he will set out to endeavor of the outrage. Mr. Edy is supposed to have been shot and Mrs. and Miss Edy had their throats cut. The house was set on fire to cover up the crime, but was discovered by the neighbors in time to take out the bodies. A man has been arrested on suspicion of being connected with the murder. His name has not transpired as yet.

To Discover the Perpetrator

The murdered girl is described as being very handsome, and was engaged to be married to Mr. J. E. Struthe, formerly Ottawa correspondent of The Montreal Star and now on the local staff of that paper.

Mr. C. M. Calverley at Victoria Park.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Calverley of Niagara Falls fame gave a series of interesting and exciting performances on the tight rope at this popular resort. The professor did the chair-balancing feat, somersaults, the wheelbarrow and stove act and carried George Cooper on his back over the wire. It was raining at the time and a stiff breeze was blowing. Still, Mr. Calverley and Cooper were cool and intrepid, and the feat was successfully accomplished. There were bicycle races and other sports, dancing and general enjoyment.

Take Note.

"Summer Tours," the annual publication issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway, at this season of the year, is now out of the printers' hands and can be obtained at the principal agencies of the company. This year its usual standard of excellence is more than maintained, and summer tourists should most certainly consult its pages before definitely deciding where to spend their holidays.

THE AUSTRALIAN COLLAPSE.

An English Journal Says It Is Largely Due to Labor Troubles.

The Newcastle Chronicle has been taking the views of a gentleman who recently spent some months in Australia studying the critical condition of financial affairs there. He has arrived at the conclusion that the woful state of Australian economics is due primarily to the disastrous labor wars which have disorganized industry and brought misery and suffering in their train and, in a secondary degree, to the land speculators; to whom is due the fact that, at this critical juncture, money is locked up in unrealisable securities. With regard to the former of these two causes The Chronicle's informant is very decided:

"I am convinced," he said, "that the labor question lies at the very root and foundation of the series of disasters that have come upon the colony. My experience in Victoria has given me sufficient evidence of that. They have there an eight hours legal working day. That would be all right if the workmen worked a good day's work in eight hours. But they did not. The whole system was, of course, in favor of the men. While the law said they should not work more than eight hours a day there was nothing to compel them to do a good day's work in eight hours. The average wage is very high; I suppose that on the whole it is not under 10s. per day, and the skilled laborers get more. I am speaking of work in the towns and not of agricultural labor. The members of the trades unions were not in the habit of doing a fair day's work, and that led to the disastrous conflicts between them and their employers. The employers, while not objecting to trades unions, sought to enforce freedom of contract; they desired to be at liberty to employ a good workman, whether he was a trades unionist or not. The unions refused to concede this right and declined to allow any non-unionist to work in their company. From this germ have grown all the consequent troubles.

"They have had three tremendous strikes in Australia. First, the general strike, caused by the federated trades unions endeavoring to coerce shipowners and others only to employ captains and other officers who were members of a trades union affiliated with the Federated Trades. This was shortly succeeded by the wool shearers' strike, and, last of all, came the great strike at Broken Hill, which began on July 4, 1892. On Oct. 7 about 1000 men returned to work, but the main body still held out, and it was not until Nov. 7 that the leaders declared the strike at an end. During the whole of that time practically nothing was done at the mines. The nominal cause of the strike was, as I have said, the claim of the employers for freedom of contract, but really it was the great power that was being acquired by the trades unions, and the arbitrary manner in which they abused their power. They were, in fact, becoming masters in the mines, and sought to dictate to their employers. The number of men employed was increasing rapidly, and they would not do anything approaching a fair day's work. The result of the strike was that the employers gained their point. They did not in any way interfere with men becoming members of trades unions if they wished, but they held to their claim to employ free labor if they desired. Since the strike things have gone on pretty comfortably. The output per man has enormously increased, and the men's earnings also have to a certain extent risen. In Australian politics the working men, with manhood suffrage, are the masters, and when times of distress came and idlers filled the towns, they demanded that work should be found for them to do. The Government obeyed. The energies of the men were devoted to unproductive works, carried on with borrowed capital. That was all very well for a time, but it stands to reason that this state of affairs if long continued is bound to end in disaster. That is just what happened in Victoria. They borrowed and borrowed until they could borrow no longer and then, as a matter of course, the crash came. Melbourne, the capital of the colony, is not a manufacturing city, and the manufactures there could not be carried on except by the ridiculous system of state aid, which is open to very many abuses."

Pure Sparkling Spring Water.

Editor World: In order that the citizens of Toronto may have a chance to compare pure sparkling spring water with diluted sewage, we are arranging for a free supply of the former by placing tank wagons on the down-town street corners in this way: a 500-gallon tank will supply a drink of pure water to 5000 people in half a day. We will also, in a few days, be in a position to supply 1000 homes throughout the city with sufficient of our water for drinking purposes. To those sending us in their names we will supply from 6 to 12 quart bottles per day at what we estimate it will cost us to bottle and deliver it, namely: 1c. per bottle. We think if the people of Toronto were alive to their own interests they would insist on the council accepting the offer made by us, which is now before them, to put into the city mains a full supply of this water at a cost less than one-half the present cost of pumping the stuff we are getting. Aberdeen and the Irish Flag.

Editor World: I don't suppose for one moment that Lord Aberdeen was in any way responsible for the action of the managers of "the Irish village" at the World's Fair in refusing to permit the British flag to be hoisted over it, but it was clearly his duty to have withdrawn his patronage, as well as that of Lady Aberdeen, from an industry largely promoted by themselves and held to be a portion of the British exhibit. That the whole affair is disloyal from top to bottom is evinced by the fact that the very girls sent out by Lady Aberdeen to manage the industries refused to stand up when at the close of a concert on board the ship "God Save the Queen" was sung. The passengers, however, compelled them to find the use of their legs. K.

Philharmonic Concert.

Everything is now in readiness for the production of Sir Arthur Sullivan's magnificent cantata, "The Golden Legend," by the grand chorus and orchestra of the Philharmonic Society, under Mr. Torrington's baton. Fine warm weather and a good house are assured. Rehearsal will take place to-night, entrance from Mutual-street only. Concert to-morrow (Tuesday) night, public entrance from Dalhousie-street only. Chorus and orchestra will enter from Mutual-street. Those who cannot attend the concert on Tuesday evening should go to the rehearsal to-night. No one should miss this favorable opportunity of hearing Sir Arthur Sullivan's masterpiece.

The proprietors of Parmelee's Pills are constantly receiving letters similar to the following, which explains itself. Mr. John A. Beam, Waterloo, Ont., writes: "I never used any medicine that can equal Parmelee's Pills for Dyspepsia or Liver and Kidney Complaints. The relief experienced after using them was wonderful." As a safe family medicine Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be given in all cases requiring a Cathartic.

Blind Through Drinking Alcohol.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., June 4.—John Madden of Dannemora recently came to Saranac Lake because his friends would not allow him to have liquor. He was watched closely while here, but yesterday he found a pint of alcohol and drank it. To-day he is stone blind and doctors say he will never regain his sight.

Only those who have had experience can tell the torture corns cause. Pain with your boots on, pain with them off—pain night and day; but relief is sure to those who use Holloway's Corn Cure.

DISGRACED, HE HANGED HIMSELF.

A Resident of Woodstock Arrested for Horse-Stealing Strangles Himself in Windsor Lock-Up.

From The Sunday World

WINDSOR, June 4.—Edward Lappon, a milk dealer, came from a customer's house in Walkerville yesterday, saw a thief driving his horse away, and, yelling, "Stop, thief!" all the way, chased him to Windsor, where the man left the rig and boarded a ferry-boat. Detective Campau caught the thief as he was climbing over the side into the river.

The thief said he came from Woodstock and was wanted for criminal assault. During the night he wound his suspenders around his neck and held on till he was strangled to death. Papers on him show that he was D. G. Shedden of Vancouver.

WOODSTOCK, June 3.—Shedden is a Woodstock boy. He worked at Victoria, but owing to dulness of trade had lived with his parents here all winter. He had been working for a week in Detroit. He occasionally got drunk and was probably so when he stole the rig. Then when he sobered he felt the disgrace keenly. The assault story is wholly untrue.

St. Michael's Hospital.

Editor World: In Friday's issue of your paper certain statements were made by Ald. Orr concerning St. Michael's Hospital. These statements were made during a committee meeting of the City Council and are as follows:

1. That I am not a qualified physician.
2. That the nursing is defective.
3. That no advantages are given to students.
4. That patients are kept after being cured and given work to do.
5. That patients are not properly attended.

To all of these charges I give an absolute denial as follows:

1. I am a graduate of Toronto University and a licensed practitioner, and I am and have been the resident medical superintendent of St. Michael's Hospital dating from its inception.

2. We have a competent staff of nurses; while of their faithfulness and efficiency the staff and I are the best judges, and they are fully up to the standard.

3. The students of the Women's Medical College have had clinics all winter, and the same liberty has been given to Toronto University, a privilege which has been taken advantage of, as will be seen by the curriculum.

4. Patients are not given work to do after being cured any more than at the General Hospital, where one of the printed rules is that convalescent patients must assist the nurses.

The fifth charge may be characterized as grossly untrue.

It is also insinuated that St. Michael's is a sectarian institution. Since the opening 169 Protestant patients has been treated, and no distinction have ever been made between denominations. This does not savor of sectarianism.

Dr. Orr further states that Dr. Sheard substantiated the above statements. From my knowledge of Dr. Sheard, I will take the liberty of doubting this.

Vexatious Bylaws.

Editor World: Some of our City Hall bylaws would bear amendment. There is one which provides that no fence or railing shall be put up round boulevards except at street corners, which is fair enough. But there should be some exceptions made, it seems to me. Take a case coming under my own notice: A man occupies a corner house in the northwest district; the corner can be made very attractive, as there are both trees and grass there, which, if kept in good order, as he was proposing to keep them, would add to a small extent to the beauty of the street. People were commencing to spoil the grass by making short cuts across it. He therefore put up some posts and a railing at the corner, as allowed in the bylaw. But that was not enough, as two out of every three men walked across the grass beyond the railing. Therefore he ran a single wire 30 feet further back, two feet from the ground, which has the desired effect of keeping people to the sidewalk. The City Engineer is now sending round policemen to enforce this bylaw, and last week one calls and politely tells him to remove the wire, as he is instructed to report all such cases. Now, here is a case in which the letter of the bylaw is carried out literally, but hardly the spirit of it. A citizen spends money in beautifying the immediate vicinity of his home; his efforts are counteracted by people thoughtlessly making paths across the grass he wishes to cultivate. The only remedy for this is denied him, and if this bylaw is to be enforced to the letter in such cases, there is small encouragement for a man to try and keep the boulevard entrusted to him in order. It appears to me that if City Hall energy were directed to more important reforms, such as getting pure water, for instance (who has not lost a friend from typhoid fever?), instead of sending round policemen to harass well-intentioned citizens it would be far more in the interests of the city.

The best remedy for this is to have all the sidewalks put next the street, when there would be no excuse for spoiling the grass on boulevards. VOX POPULI.

TIPS FROM WALL-STREET.
Monroe, Miller & Co. of New York send the following despatch over their private wire to their Toronto office:
NEW YORK, June 3.—The summary of this week's financial transactions indicates a state of affairs not experienced since the summer of 1887, when Wall-street suffered three months' depression. Comptroller Eckles' comparative report with 1892 is startling, and shows for the five months ending June 1, 1893, the failure of 20 National Banks with a capital of $6,150,000, as against seven, with a capital of $625,000, last year. In stocks industrials were the most turbulent with re-organization wrecks a close second. The cut-rate war affects the Goulds, and the continued poor crop predictions are a factor in the grangers. A net decrease of from 3 to 4 per cent. was recorded in the industrials, with the exception of sugar, which has been fairly maintained and in favor of buyers. A new administrator for New England seems inevitable and its only salvation. An attachment this week was only averted by the payment in cash of two-thirds of the claim. The whisky trust has received a black eye in the quo warranto proceedings, and it will not be surprising to see the bottom drop from what remains of this low-priced security. L. & N. showed weakness in the face of an increase in its net earnings over 1892. Western roads are discharging men by the hundreds, and in summing up, if financial straws indicate the direction of the wind, it will be an ill one for some time to come, but as previously stated many speculatives are a bargain now. During May the total supply of gold was reduced to about 600 millions, the lowest figure in several years—more than 10 millions being shipped in May. In two years the country has parted with 107 millions of gold supply, and the entire product of our mines, less that used in industries. For the first time since 1840 there is more silver than gold in the country, as is shown by the official May statement. It is apparent that gold will soon be a minor factor in our money supply.

GOSSIP FROM CHICAGO.
R. Cochran received the following despatch from Kennett, Hopkins & Co. to-day:
CHICAGO, June 3.—The great Wall-street bear, Cammack, who has just returned to New York from a western tour, is said to predict a cereal panic and much lower prices. He is a shrewd observer, and his opinion is likely to have considerable weight with the speculative public. To-day's market has been devoid of noteworthy features, a sort of cleaning up of the week's business. The indications at the close point to still lower prices, the monetary stringency being the controlling factor. Exports are good. Foreign markets are steady. The outlook for the future is encouraging. Wheat is in excessive supply, and like all other commodities under similar conditions it must seek a level where capitalists will take care of it.
Corn and Oats—A constant pressure of longs stuff, with continued liberal receipts, has forced down prices and the market shows little disposition to rally. Prices of these cereals are not so greatly affected by tight money, for stocks are light. But they sympathize with wheat to some extent.
Provisions—Outside of the changing there are said to have been but two straight trades to-day in September pork. The active options showed how fearfully stagnant this market is.
