gotiations with that object. "We are ignorant of the details of this treaty," says the Courrier Francais, "but a commercial alliance between England and Austria would be without object, if it did not contemplate, before all things, the free navigation of the Danube and the Black Sea. The English wish, without doubt, to throw obstacles in the way of the establishment which the Russians are forming at the mouth of the Danube, on the island of Sulina. This could be done efficaciously, however, only by the alliance and occurrence of Austria. This treaty is the first step of the Austrian Cabinet towards emancipating itself from the species of vitelage in which Russia holds her allies of Vienna & Berlin."

The Augsburgh Gazette publishes a letter dated Frontiers of Italy, 8th instant, which asserts that the question of the occupation of Ancona had been agitated in Venice, and that the Austrian Government had offered to withdraw its troops from the Roman States, on condition that the French evacuate Ancona. The Augsburgh Gazette makes no doubt of King Louis Philippe's acceding to the proposition.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Oct. 7.

The probability of a war between Russia and England appears to increase daily. A courier from Teflis has just arrived with the following intelligence:—

Lieut. General Golowine, commander of the army of the Caucasus, has received from Gen. Perowski, Governor of the Khanat of Erivan, official notice of the departure of the British troops from Akouchysa, and of their entrance into Schiraz, reinforced by a number of individuals, who had revolted against the reigning Schah. There prevails at present in Persia a panic much greater than that which seized the country in 1835, on the accession to the throne of Mohamed Schah. General Perowskihas marched troops to the Araxes, in the direction of Bakou, in order to reassure the Schah, by showing him that Russia was ready to assist him in case the English should invade his dominions. General Golowine has sent a reinforcement of 5,000 men to the corps of army of Armenia, and has called for precise instructions to direct his future conduct. The Government waits the arrival of the Emperor to forward orders to that general.

"On the other hand, we are informed that Count Potocki, the Russian Ambassador in Sweden, has opened negotiations with the Government of that country, having for their object to insure the co-operation of the Swedish fleet with that of Russia, in the event of a war of a hostile demonstration against England.

"Our Government intends sending into Armenia several regiments, composed of men natives of northern Russia. It was at first contemplated to employ in that country corps of Cossaks and regiments consisting of Poles and Russians, but there is a disinclination to trust the latter, among whom much discontent has of late prevailed. If England wished to avail herself of the delay that will intervene before the arrival of those Russian regiments in Armenia, which cannot take place for three or four months, on account of the distance between the latter and Central Russia, she might create considerable embarrassment for the Cabinet of St. Petersburg by marching troops towards the Araxes, and raising the cry of 'Liberty' among the natives of the Caucasus and Georgia, and among the Russian forces themselves. The Czar is more in dread of such an event than of all Lord Palmerston's diplomatical notes. The Cabinet of the Tuileries inspires no fear to M. Nesselrode, who loudly boasts of being able to lead it as he pleases."—Commerce.

THE HAGUE Oct. 22.—The Utrecht Courant has the following paragraph, dated Oct. 21:—"Louis Bonaparte and his suite arrived here yesterday in two carriages, and only stopping to change horses, continued his journey to Rotterdam (where he arrived on the same evening at the Hotel des Pays Bas to embark for England.

Odessa Sept. 30.—"Orders from the emperor arrive at least once a week, and keep our Governor in constant activity. The army amounts to 45,000 effective men, independent of the garrisons and other local forces. The three corps of Cossacks have been increased by 6,000 men, and the battalions from the Danube added to the army of Bessarabia amount to between 7,000 and 8,000. The embarcation corps and marine troops are about 18,000 strong, without reckoning 3,000 sailors organized as crews ready to join those who are afloat. The fleet comprising the ships at Kherson, Nicolaiew on the coast of Tauris and in the Sea of Azoff, but without including those which form the blockade of Abasia, consists of seven ships of the line, one three-decker cut down, five frigates, six corvettes, three brigs, two schooner brigs, four cutters, and 20 pinnaces, gunboats, flat-bottomed boats, and other small craft, all armed and stored. The war against the Circassians makes no progress whatever. The contraband supplies from the coast, in spite of the blockade, and the reinforcements which the mountaineers receive particularly in officers have so increased their confidence that no termination to the contest can be foreseen. There have been two battles in the course of this month, in which the Cossacks of the Black Sea were defeated, and the Dragoons were driven back at the point of the sword. There have been many desertions from the Russian infantry, and even from the artillery.

Sierra Leone.—By accounts just arrived from Sierra Leone, it appears that the mortality amongst the shipping was dreadful in the month of June; three vessels were then lying, waiting for crews to carry them to England, only one European being left to convey the sad accounts to their mourning friends.

Alexandria Sept. 27th.—In spite of the contradictory statements of some journals which we have just received, the brig Euphrates arrived at Suez from India, confirms the news of the taking of Bushire by an English expedition. They also announce the death of the Governor of the Anglo-Indian possession.

Extensive and Destructive Fire.—On Friday night a fire, which has destroyed an immense amount of property, broke out in one of a range of six large warehouses in Roberts-street North. The building in which the fire originated was the second of two warehouses from Great Howard-street, belonging to Messrs. James Davies and Co., of Hunter-street, in the occupation of Messrs. Henry Davies and Co., of King-street. The next two warehouses towards the Prince's Dock, were the property of Messrs. Charles Lawrence and Son, and formed part of the same range as those of Messrs. Davies, none of these four warehouses having greater separation than a single wall. The two adjoining warehouses of the pile, the property of Messrs. Highfield and Birch, were separated by a party division. Next to these, a smithy, the property of Mr. Charles Birch, completed the range. Opposite to the warehouse, between Roberts-street and Hill-street, stood a long low shed, which was full of cotton, belonging to Messrs. Wm. and Jas. Brown and Co. The warehouses first alluded to ran a considerable depth, backwards, towards Denison-street, overlooking a number of courts and alleys of small tenements. Adjoining these, towards Great Howard-street, was the dwelling-house of Mrs. Davies, a small warehouse belonging to Mr. Rigby, and the premises of Mr. Croston, painter. Lower down, towards the Prince's Dock, two warehouses, belonging to Sir John Tobin, terminate the street on one side, while opposite, with their backs close up to a street running along the end of the shed above mentioned, stands a pile of large warehouses, overlooking the Prince's Basin, the property of Messrs. Highfield and Birch and others.

It is impossible to form anything like a correct estimate of the value of the property damaged and destroyed by this dreadful fire. Probably the loss will reach £100,000. Several thousand bales of cotton were more or less burnt.—Liverpool Chron.

DEATH OF THE YANKEE LEAPER.—A Cheltenham paper states, that Scott, the American sailor whose extraordinary feats of leaping have frequently been before the public, made his last leap, at Strand, on Wednesday, having been drowned in the canal there in one of his foolhardy attempts.

L'ACADIE, Nov. 12, 1838.

Sir, I am directed by His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, to acquaint you that the rebels, who had assembled in arms in the district of Montreal, have been entirely dispersed by Her Majesty's troops and the volunteers.

I have the honor to be Sir, your obedient serv't.

Correspondence of the Albany Ev. Jour.

ODESSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1838.
9 o'clock, P. M.

Friend Weed.—I snatch a few moments time, to give you notice of the proceedings in this place to-day. This morning our citizens were aroused by the news that two Schooners, loaded with Canadian Patriots were lying in the River opposite this place, with the intention of attacking Prescott, and also that another Band of about 200 had taken possession of the Steamer United States. About 9 o'clock the Steamer left the wharf for the purpose of towing off the two Schooners which had both run aground. One however got off without assistance, and run on to the Canada side, and landed about 200 men about a mile below the Fort. The British Steam-boat Experiment put out after the States, and fired several shots at her, only one of which struck the Boat and killed a very worthy young man of this place. The British Steamer ranged along side of the other Schooner which was aground, and fired a broadside into her, without doing any damage except to her rigging. The Schooner returned the fire, and killed six men.

The last Schooner has just been got off and is now preparing to go over. The people on board express themselves determined to take the fort before morning. Doubtful however. Though there is a rumour in town that the Canadian people are flocking to the standard raised there in great numbers.

Our place is in great excitement, and no business has been done to-day. The mail closes soon and I must close; if any thing important is done I will write to you further by to-morrow's mail.

Yours in haste, A. B. JAMES.
