SCHOOL TRUSTEES ARE DIPLOMATIC

Held Back Contract Until By-law for Debentures Went Through Council.

The board of education boasts of more diplomatists than probably any other civic body in London. The members have a natural aptitude for holding their peace when they feel it is policy to do so, and when they get things where they want them they come down with a splash.

This week saw a little bit of by-play between the board and the council, or rather between the board and an alderman, which shows the shrewdness of the trustees.

Some time ago No. 2 committee of the board called for tenders for the addition to be built to St. George's school.

When the tenders were opened it was found that Ald. Garratt's figure of $5,300 for the brickwork was the lowest, and it was accepted.

Some days later the alderman discovered that he had made a mistake, and he told the board that his error amounted to about $400, which would bring his tender up to about $5,700, or a little more than the next lowest tender. This tender was unsigned, however, the contractors in their haste to put in a figure forgetting to attach their names to it.

I was at first proposed to give the contract to this firm, which turned out to be Sing & Beer, but for fear of a squabble among the contractors, it was decided to call for new tenders.

But the matter of issuing debentures to the amount of $15,000 had yet to come before the council, and the trustees lay in the dark and played wise.

They simply did nothing until after the council meeting of Monday night, when Ald. Garratt would have a vote on the bylaw.

But the bylaw once adopted, the board of education had its architect send postcard invitations to all the contractors to tender for the work, with the result that Ald. Garratt lost the job and John Hayman & Sons secured it at $5,556. This was the lowest tender.

FAMOUS CHURCHMAN WILL VISIT LONDON

Dr. Patterson Smyth, Lately of Dublin, Will Preach at Opening of Synod of Huron.

The convening circular for the 50th session of the Synod of the Diocese of Huron has been sent out, and it will be noted with pleasure by the citizens of London that the bishop has been fortunate enough to secure the services of one of the most distinguished churchmen in Canada as preacher for the occasion.

Dr. Patterson Smythe has just come from Ireland to assume the charge of what is one of the leading churches in Canada—St. George's, Montreal—where he succeeds the scholarly and eloquent Bishop Carmichael.

Dr. Patterson Smythe will indeed be an acquisition to Canada. He is still in the prime of life, and has already achieved distinction in three important spheres. First of all, he has gained fame as a preacher. As the rector of St. Ann's Church, Dublin, he always drew great crowds, and it is said that no other preacher in Ireland, except the eloquent primate in his more vigorous days, has had power to attract such congregations. The memories of old people go back many years to find a parallel. There is nothing sensational in his sermons, for the secret of his success is contained in two words, "Earnestness" and "Sympathy." The man's simple, strong faith in God and hope for man, are the grounds for his cheery optimism, and the reason why the multitudes have flocked to hear his preaching in Ireland.

In the second place, Dr. Smythe has done very valuable work for the church as a theological professor and a teacher of the coming men in the church. While rector of St. Ann's Church he was also lecturer in pastoral theology, and the divinity students had the privilege and the pleasure of receiving, week by week, from one in the very heart of the life of the ministry, his fresh, cheery and practical counsels.

And in the third place, and beyond this, Dr. Patterson Smythe has achieved rare distinction as an author. Some of his books have been very widely circulated. "How God Inspired the People," "How to Read the Bible," "The Old Documents and the New Bible," and "Social Service Ideals," are among his well-known writings, but the most popular book that he ever wrote, and one which has had a large circulation in Canada, is "How We Got Our Bible." It is a fine study of the history of the Bible, has already run through eighteen editions, and has lately been issued in a 25,000 edition on cheap paper for sixpence. It is an exceedingly interesting book, and has done what the author prayed it might do—helped men to value the Bible more.

The churchmen of London are to be congratulated on this opportunity of listening to the earnest and forceful words which will doubtless fall from the lips of this good man. Among the many events of interest in the coming synod, none will be looked forward to with more pleasure than the advent of Patterson Smythe, the new rector of St. George's Church, Montreal.

WAITING FOR ANALYSIS

Everything Now Ready to Turn Show Case Well Into City Mains.

As soon as the result of the analysis of samples of water taken from the well on the premises of the London Showcase Company is received, the commissioners will be ready to turn this 120,000 gallons of water into the city mains, the connection having been established.

The contractor who had the job of laying the connecting main met with a serious mishap the other day.

While putting the pipe into it several of them fell, and, of course, went clear to the bottom of the well—about a hundred feet or more. All were taken out, however, and the connection is now established.

Dr. Hutchinson, the medical health officers, says that he believes the water of the big McGregor well will yet be found to be perfectly pure and fit for domestic use.

The doctor is also sanguine as to the results of the analyses of samples taken from the well on Carling's Heights.

THE CHOSEN FRIENDS

Londoners Elected to High Positions at Annual Convention.

Toronto, June 6.—The Canadian Order of Chosen Friends wound up its annual convention today by the election of the following officers: Grand councilor, E. T. Essery, London, re-elected; grand vice-councilor, Alexander Morris, Hamilton; grand registrar, N. F. Montague, Hamilton; grand treasurer, S. Broadfoot, Guelph; first grand representative, W. Le Vesque, Montreal; second grand representative, A. W. Adam, and third grand representative, F. J. Fitzgerald, London.

The order will take steps towards having a Government investigation of all fraternal societies carrying insurance in Canada. Sister societies will be asked to join in the movement.

REV. D. FRASER IS SESSIONAL CLERK

Toronto Man Elected by the General Assembly—To Be a New Treasurer.

Montreal, June 6.—The first of the morning sessions of the Presbyterian General Assembly opened this morning. The new moderator called the attention of the Assembly to the vacancy in the sessional clerkship left by his accession to the higher dignity of moderator. Rev. Dr. Somerville, representing the business committee, proposed the name of Rev. R. Douglas Fraser, D.D., Toronto, for the position. This was carried unanimously.

Rev. Dr. Falconer, the ex-moderator, brought in the report of the emergency committee, which met on November 21, and considered the vacant treasurership. Dr. Somerville has acted as interim treasurer of the church, but it was considered advisable to appoint a permanent officer. Nine applications were read, action being deferred pending the report of a special committee.

The report on church union will get a hearing on Monday morning next.

There was a vigorous debate on the temperance problem today. Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, of Toronto Junction, made a strong plea for increased machinery in the church, which could utilize the forces of the people on all moral questions. Dr. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) spoke in support of the motion. He declared the liquor traffic had branched out alarmingly in the West. He told what single missionaries had done to stamp out vice, and appealed for the appointment of a man to lead in the work of temperance and moral reform.

Mr. John McKay, of Sault Ste. Marie, testified to the benefits of restrictive legislation in such places as Cobalt.

Prof. Magill, of Halifax, spoke strongly on the social reform. He thought the trial of the ministry was not so much theological as social.

Principal Scrimgeor said the church should strive for the elevation of public opinion and its crystallization in legislation.

Mr. Walter Paul, of Montreal, declared that the Presbyterian Church had lost ground as a temperance body.

Rev. J. E. MacVicar, of Fergus, said that the proposed work would not supercede evangelical work, but only enable the Gospel to come into fuller operation.

Home missions occupied the evening session. Rev. D. MacOdrum, of Moncton, N. B., and Rev. W. H. Tufts, D. D., of Stellarton, N. S., spoke for the East, and Dr. Somerville, Rev. D. Campbell, of Kamloops, B. C.; Rev. Dr. Childerhose, of Parry Sound, and Rev. A. M. Gordon, of Lethbridge, gave stirring addresses upon the western and northern work.

Social Work the Keynote.

John Mackay, Sault Ste. Marie, advocated Government control of the liquor traffic, where local option was not in force.

Prof. Robert Magil, Ph.D., of the chair of systematic theology and apologetics at Pine Hill, declared that they were about to enter on a period when the main problems of the church would not be theological or apologetic, but social. Did they realize that there were more men in the trades unions than in any Protestant church in the British islands? There were from ten to twelve millions of people in the British islands on the verge of starvation. In his study of poverty and slumdom he was sorry to find that in Halifax, one of the wealthiest cities of Canada, the church was a standing insult to the porest class.

Dr. C. W. Gordon seconded the resolution to make it easier for American ministers to join the church, but Principal Forrest opposed it as a most dangerous resolution, and the moderator ruled it incompetent. The question was referred to a committee.

The sederunt was devoted to home missions. The eastern section of the home missions committee reported that without any phenomenal advance, progress had been made in the chief departments. An increase of nearly $2,000 in the contributions from the fields served by catechists was noted. Of these, 49 were employed in 45 fields, and 113 preaching stations.

Rev. D. MacOdrum, St. John's Church, Moncton, in moving the reception and adoption of the report, dwelt on the need of money and men for the district from New Brunswick north to the Labrador.

Western Missions.

Rev. Dr. Somerville introduced the report on home missions in the west, and spoke feelingly of the foreign population. For a great part of them, law meant only organized oppression, and they had no idea of taxation for mutual benefit. The American church in all its history was never asked to face such an immigration.

The committee reported an increase in the annual contributions of over $12,000, the amount for the year ending Feb. 28 being $147,625.

The number of fields had increased from 528 to 588, besides 39 mission fields transferred to the augmented list.

The estimates for the current year are $175,000, of which $55,000 is for Manitoba and Saskatchewan and $50,000 for Alberta and British Columbia.

Rev. S. Childerhose, Parry Sound, recommended medical missionaries and hospitals for the west and China. There should also be counter-attractions to the dens of evil, which tempted men from missionary influence.

Rev. A. M. Gordon, Lethbridge, spoke on the Mormons. The subject had to be handled with gloves, since the politicians had an interest in it.

LIVELY SCENES

Common sense is better than law at any stage of the game."

"We haven't got a lawyer," supplemented one of the McClelland constituents from his chair.

"Neither have they," retorted McClelland. "Under the present state of affairs our children are obliged to walk three miles to school, whereas under the proposed regime the farthest they would have to go would be one mile and a half. It is purely spite-work on the part of the trustees that such conditions exist."

Mr. Bartlett, who represented the trustees in the matter, stated that it was not a question for the county council, the trustees, or individuals to settle. The matter was wholly in the hands of the township council, and the majority of the people of Ekfrid. The township council had refused to grant the prayer of those interested, and that settled the matter. The people elected the trustees, and the council set the boundaries, which the latter only had power to change.

Councilor Rush wanted to know where Mr. Bartlett got his authority for making such a statement, and gave it as his opinion that the lawyer was willfully misstating facts in order to mislead the county council. "Aren't you trying to mislead the council?" the speaker asked.

"If they are all as easy to mislead as you it won't be a difficult task," retorted Mr. Bartlett, smilingly. After which he produced a couple of law books and read extracts sustaining his previous remarks in reference to the power of the township council.

"You are wrong, and so are the law books," commented Councilor Rush at the conclusion of Mr. Bartlett's efforts in the reading line. "I know, because I've been on school boards myself, and I know just what we did in such matters."

Mr. Bartlett smiled and remarked that if Mr. Rush was satisfied, he was.

Warden Hodgins took occasion at this juncture to say that "they must all be Irish down there," whereupon Councilor Oaks replied that if that was so the warden should be down there, too.

After a long, tedious debate the matter was referred to the education committee.

The house of refuge committee's report contained a long list of recommendations, the chief ones of which are: That Mary A. McDonald be granted admission to the hospital for treatment; that the inspector be empowered to employ another servant; that the inspector and keeper be empowered to procure necessary clothing for the inmates; that A. McCally be given $10 a month; that the county engineer prepare plans and specifications for the equipment and proper furnishing of the laundry, and obtain tenders for the same, as well as for dynamos and other necessary appliances for supplying light and heat. Accounts amounting to $1,919 12 were also recommended paid.

A letter from Superintendent Heard, of the Victoria Hospital, re Albert Hughes, a patient suffering from neurasthenia, was referred back to the house of refuge committee. Hughes, it seems, is afflicted with an incurable disease, and has been living at the house of refuge until a short time ago, when he was taken to the hospital for treatment. Having done all possible to relieve the unfortunate young man's condition, the hospital authorities desire to have him removed from the institution.

Hughes was present, and said that while he was unable to do manual labor, he felt that if given a small start in business by the council he could become self-supporting.

CONGREGATIONALISTS ELECT

Rev D. S. Hamilton, of London, Elected to the Secretaryship.

Hamilton, June 6. — Today's session of the Congregational Union was a busy one, the day being given over largely to missionary enterprise. The report of the Congregational Foreign Missionary Society shows the subscriptions amounted to $5,146 66.

It was proposed to establish an indutrial school at Chesambra, South Africa, but the cost would be $10,000. The churches will likely be asked for a special subscription.

The officers elected were: Rev. F. B. Hyde, president; Rev. E. Munsonhill, vice-president; Rev. D. S. Hamilton, secretary; H. W. Barker, treasurer.

The annual meeting of the Provident Fund Society was held, the financial report showing assets of $27,000. The directors elected were: C. R. Black, G. Gurd, J. Ross, T. Moodie, C. Cushing, (Montreal), T. B. MacAulay, P. O'Hara, A. McMurphy, B. W. Robertson, W. W. O'Hara and A. Hanna and G. H. O'Hara, auditors.

Tonight Rev. Dr. Currie, South African missionary, addressed the convention.

Rev. F. J. Day, Congregationalist representative of Quebec, spoke of immigration. He was afraid that as the years went on the proportion of English immigrants to Canada would diminish and foreigners swamp the country.
