No! When the price of Red Rose Tea was reduced its quality was not changed one particle.

The price of Red Rose Tea is a little more than other teas but the extra quality makes it more economical and more desirable to drink.

MISS ROSALIND,
34 King William St., Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

I read with interest your column in our paper. In fact, that is about the first thing I look for when we get the paper, and I think its just great.

I wonder could you give a boy of eighteen some help on the following questions, as I have no sisters from whom I could get some knowledge on these questions: : :

(1) I chum around with a girl who is two months my senior. A more sensible girl you would not want to meet and yet she's a jolly sport. Now, I think so much of this girl that I do my best to guard my actions from doing anything that would displease her. We have been very good pals now for two months and should I kiss her when I go home with her or, what should I do? That certainly is a most foolish question to ask you, Miss Rosalind, but I don't know how to act. It is proper to take her arm, isn't it?

(2) Could you give me any advice on what to say to a girl whom I don't know intimately? Also to a girl whom I know intimately after we are through discussing the Literary Society, the hockey news, and most of the local happenings?

(3) When a boy takes a girl to a skating rink should he have the first and last skate with her? Should he or she mention about going home?

(4) Do you think that it's a good policy to tell girls when you know quite well, that you admire them or should they judge from your actions and you you'll not not say anything.

(5) Should a boy ask a girl if he may come down and see her at a certain date or should the girl ask him to come down?

(6) Should a girl thank a boy for taking her to a concert or should the boy thank her for the honor of her company?

Hope you won't think these too crazy to publish and that you'll help me in my little perplexities.

ROB ROY.

Dear Rob Roy:

Your letter is splendid, just as frank and nice and boyish as one could want. I am sure you are an awfully jolly chum. I don't consider your questions the least bit silly. I am glad you asked them, it shows what a decent sort you are—and besides answering them is my job.

You should not kiss a girl until you are engaged. When you meet the right girl you will be so glad you kept them all for her.

It is alright to take a girl's arm when walking home, but not necessary.

When you don't know a girl very well, you can only talk on general topics until you find some subject that she is perticularly interested in—then she'll do the talking. It is quite as important for you to be a good listener.

The same thing applies to the girl you know well—only in this case you feel more free and generally can carry on a good-natured "josh" conversation without saying much.

Usually when you take a girl to the rink, you skate the first and last bands with her and tell her that you will see her safely home.

I have never seen a girl of any age, who did not like to be told nice things about herself.

A boy asks a girl if he may call on her, and she tell him when he may come.

A girl should always thank a boy for taking her out and the boy should always thank her for so honoring him. It is these little courtesies that maintain that friendly, good-fellowship between my girl and young men readers that I am so anxious to maintain. Come again Rob Roy—often!

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

As I have a case that I don't know how to handle I thought I would ask your advice:

There is a young man I like very much in our town, he is very much in love with himself as he has been through high school and now is studying for an engineer and is only nineteen years old. We are always falling out and then we both go with someone else but we always make up in the end. I have now known him for four years and we have fell out three times, we are not keeping company now, but we both want to make up, he is waiting for me and I am waiting for him to make up. Would you please tell me what you would do in my place?

BETTY.

Dear Betty:

How did you make up other times? Make it up again Betty dear, and don't quarrel any more. It isn't nice. If the young man loves you, I am sure you will find a way to cure his self-conceit. It isn't very nice either, is it?

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I am sixteen years and I will be seventeen in May, and I had been keeping company with a young fellow but have not been keeping company for two or three months, I attend all the home dances at the hall, but don't seem to get in with the other girls and boys. I would like to know if the fault is in me or them? I would also like to know how I could get in with them? I would also like to know if I am too young to go with a young fellow when my parents are not against me doing so?

LONELY LASS.

Dear Lonely Lass:

Personally I think you are rather young to concentrate on one young man. I would much rather you kept with the crowd. But of course your perents know you better than I do and can judge your case much easier. Select one of the girls and try to make friends with her, then another, and I think you will find that the crowd is made up of ones.

ROSALIND.

Miss Rosalind:

I am a girl of 18 years old and am very much in love with one boy, his name is Anastian. His brother went with me last winter and we used to correspond. Some way my letter got lost, so we stopped writing and Anastian started to go with me about six months before the other brother came home, now Anastian is away and his brother is coming now to see me, and I would rather live Anastian. He used me fine. He has not written be a letter yet. Anastian's age is 22 years. We had no quarrel but he was to come to my home twice and he disappointed me. Should you allow a boy that goes with you to carry pictures of other girls with him, and should you let a boy kiss you or not? I remain yours

BUNNY.

Dear Bunny:

Sometimes they say absence makes the heart grow fonder, and sometimes they say., out of sight, out of mind. The first must be true in your case. My dear, nobody can decide for you between two men. You must choose one or the other, unless you can keep them both as friends. You have no right to say whose picture a young man shall possess unless you are engaged to marry him.

Not.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

I am a girl of eighteen, have a good job in an office, and like my work.

I have two boy friends, one I care for more than the other. But the one I care the most for, cares less for me. What youd you do in such a case?

My parents will not allow a boy to come to the house. Should I keep company with them. Keeping it dark to my parents?

And do you believe pearls are such bad luck? Especially if they are your birth stone?

Does it mean a boy thinks a wee bit of you if after leaving him alone for weeks, he comes back?

Dear Miss Rosalind, so many things I would like your advice in.

If there is anyone lonesome, I would be glad to write to them.

PATIENCE.

Dear Patience:

At your age it doesn't much matter how much one cares, as long as one cares enough to be friendly and have a good time in each other's company. If your parents will not let you entertain your friends at home, I am afraid you will not be able to have many friends. On no account, meet boys on the street. Talk to your mother about it. Every girl should have her friends call at her home where her mother and father can approve the friendship.

Don't be superstitious' Pearls have no more effect on your good fortune than any other stone.

Possibly.

Send me a stamped, addressed envelope if you really wish to write to some of our readers.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I am a boy of twenty and would like very much to keep company with a girl in the same town, although she is four years older than I am, I have asked her several times to go out with me but she refused, yet she will stop and talk on the street and very often invite me to her boarding-house. She never shows the least sign of dislike toward me.

What way would I go about it to get her idea of me, would you think of going with her, or would you just consider her as a valuable friend.

BARNEY.

Dear Barney:

You are just as welcome in the corner as any girl. I love to get letters from nice boys. Why don't you call on this girl when she invites you. During your call ask her to go some place with you and if she refuses, ask her right out why. Tell her you would like to have her friendship without the least notion of expecting her to fall in love with you. You would talk things out with a boy friend, wouldn't you? Try the same method with a girl chum. She may tell you that people who know her age and yours will say she shouldn't go around, with you. That is absurd. Actual years do not matter very much. There are so many more important things about a real friendship.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

I often read your letters of advice so thought I would write.

I have been keeping company with a young man of about 19 for some time. We had a quarrel. He blames me and I blame him. Should I let him speak first or should I speak and use him the same as ever? He tries to make friends but I have never noticed him since. I am about 20 years of age. Will you please write and tell me what is best to do?

WONDERING.

Dear Girl:

Don't quarrel, little girl, it always hurts somebody, and after all, kindness is what counts most in this world. Just act as though nothing had happened. Tell sister I'll answer her next week.

ROSALIND.

GOOD HEALTH CAN BE YOURS

IF YOUR BLOOD SUPPLY IS KEPT RICH AND RED.

It is waste of time and money to fight merely the signs of disease; in the long run you are probably worse off than when you started. What is far more important is that you should intelligently examine the various symptoms and trace the cause. When you remove the cause, health will be yours. For example, anaemic people often endure months of suffering while treating its symptoms, such as indigestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and exhaustion after any small effort.

The apparent stomach and heart troubles are generally nothing more than the result of an insufficient supply of pure blood. This anaemic state may have followed some previous illness, or an attack of influenza; or it may have arisen from overwork, worry or too little fresh air. To obtain good health the simple and proper course is to build up the blood, but to do this you must select a reliable remedy with a reputation such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood which carries nourishment to all the organs of the body and enables them to do the work nature expects of them. Thousands of men and women have proved this for themselves. One of these is Mrs. T. Flynn, R.R. No. 1, Erinsville, Ont., who says: "Last spring I got into a badly run down condition. I had no energy; work left me exhausted, and the least exertion would make my heart palpitate violently. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to give them a trial and got a half dozen boxes. I had not been taking the pills long when I felt a decided improvement in my condition and by the time I had used the six boxes I could do my housework with ease. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Co., Brockville, Ont.

According to the stastics prepared by the Internal Trade Division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the Canadian grain in store in terminal and public elevators on January 23 last was 23,187,350 bushels. The wheat alone amounted to 13,657,076 bushels.

A Real Asthma Relief. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has never been advertised by extravagant statements. Its claims are conservative indeed, when judged by the relief which it affords. Expect real relief and permanent benefit when you buy this remedy and you will not have cause for disappointment. It gives permanent relief in many cases.

MERRICKVILLE.

A Valentine social, given under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Merrickville, was well patronized, and very much enjoyed by all present. The room was tastefully decorated with Cupids, hearts, and flowers. An excellent programme was rendered, consisting of several selections of vocal and instrumental music, and readings, interspersed with Victrola music. At the close of the programme, refreshments were served by the younger members of the Institute, who wore white dresses, decorated with red hearts.

KEMPVILLE.

The Kempville branch of the Women's Institute has a membership of eighty-nine, and is a real live institute. Recently a very interesting meeting was held at which Mrs. Dr. Taylor gave a splendid address on "Musicians of the Nineteenth Century." Vocal and instrumental selections from the different composers were rendered. At the close of the programme, tea was served and a very pleasant social hour was spent, and all went home feeling they had shared a profitable and enjoyable evening

MANOTICK.

The Manotick, Ont. branch of the Women's Institute held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. John Pritchard, on Wednesday evening, February 6th. An excellent paper on "Why Our Schools Should Be Better Equipped", was handled in a very capable manner by Miss Graham and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large attendance. The roll call was answered by Combination Salads. A unique portion of the evening's programme was having the gentlemen present who helped substantially swell the treasury by paying one cent an inch for their waist measure, some $10.00 being realized.

After a very pleasant evening and dainty lunch the meeting adjourned.

NEWMARKET.

In spite of the strong wind which prevailed on Wednesday evening, the annual athome at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Doane, was attended with great success. The attendance exceeded that of former years about one hundred and twenty-five being present. The programme consisted of solos, readings, duets, instrumentals. The music by the Hawaiian orchestra deserves special mention. We predict quite a musical career for the boys if they continue as they have started. We certainly wish them every success. The crowd enjoy greatly these gatherings and are greatly indebted to the host and hostess for their good matured hospitality.
