NAVAL WORKS AT HALIFAX.

In view of the resolution unanimously passed by the Dominion Parliament in February last, setting forth Canada's attitude on the question of co-operation of the great self-governing dominions in strengthening the naval defences of the Empire, it may be taken for granted that the Canadian delegates to the imperial defence conference in London, Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, will stand firmly by the spirit and letter of that resolution, which pledges Canada's support in maintaining the supremacy of Britain on the seas. This support is intended to take the form of a Canadian naval force, designed to furnish protection for our own shores, and to co-operate with the royal navy in time of need, Canada at the same time to exercise complete and absolute control over her own forces. Public opinion in Australia and New Zealand, as well as in England, has come around to the Canadian view, and it would not be surprising if the decision of the conference were directly in line.

So far as Canada is concerned, there can be no doubt that if we undertake the building of warships, the work should be done in our own country. Therefore, the first step in undertaking the organization of a Canadian naval force must be the establishment of shipyards and shipbuilding plants. In this connection, the Halifax Chronicle makes a strong plea for the location of such shipyards at Halifax. In the first place, it points out that the natural location for a shipbuilding plant capable o fturning out men-of-war and merchant ships for the ocean trade is on the Atlantic coast, and it claims that the advantages of Halifax as a site for a shipbuilding plant are recognized by everybody who has expert knowledge of the subject. Besides having every facility and natural advantage as a naval base, Halifax is on the open ocean, commanding the trade routes of the Atlantic. It is the nearest first-class harbor to England; it is the natural terminus of the transatlantic traffic; is open all the year; is free from ice and tidal disturbance; has deep water, and is within easy reach of coal and iron. Moreover, it is protected by a strong system of fortifications—an all-important factor in locating a navy yard. It has, in addition, a splendid drydock, which could be easily equipped to handle the largest vessels afloat, besides a large naval dockyard, which was prepared and equipped for naval purposes by the Imperial Government, and was so used for many years by the admiralty. This dockyard has passed to the control of the Dominion Government, which must keep it in repair.

Canada has therefore in Halifax not merely a natural naval base, and an ideal site for a shipbuilding plant, but also the actual equipment of a naval base, with large areas on the waterfront owned by the Government, and a strongly fortified port, provided years ago at large expense by the Imperial Government for its own purposes. Finally, Halifax occupies such a strategic position with regard to the transatlantic carrying trade that it has no serious rival for repair and reconstruction work, which would be an important and very profitable department of a shipbuilding plant.

TREATMENT OF JUVENILE CRIMINALS.

The prevention of crime act, 1908, went into operation in England on the 18th inst., and a test will now be made of the indeterminate sentence in dealing with youths who are starting on the road to a criminal career. The act gives criminal courts power to pass sentence of detention under penal discipline in a Borstal institution for a term of not less than one year or more than three years, in lieu of a sentence of penal servitude or imprisonment, and it applies to persons not less than 16 or more than 21 years of age. In the future lads deemed suitable for treatment under the full Borstal system—that is, those who are of good physique and good health, who are not ex-inmates of reformatory schools, but who are of criminal habits and tendencies, who associate with persons of evil character and lack a place which can by any stretch of the imagination be called a decent home—will be treated in a way which offers far greater hope of permanent reform than under the old system. A youth may be sentenced to a term of not less than one year or more than three years' detention (not imprisonment) in a Borstal institution, but with the proviso that instead of serving the full term of his detention he may be released on license, "on condition that he be placed under the supervision or authority of any society or person named in the license who may be willing to take charge of the case," after serving a minimum period of six months, should the lad's application to his work and his general conduct appear to indicate that he will settle down and become lawabiding.

The main principle in the Borstal institutions will be to inculcate the habit of work and a liking for it, and, so far as possible, a lad will be trained to follow some useful calling after leaving the institution. The Borstal Association, which has been specially called into existence for the purpose, will make the after-care of these lads its special business, and of all that is practicable to secure for them employment and decent homes in the many cases where these are wanting. There will be a minimum period of six months' supervision for every lad leaving a Borstal institution, and failure to lead a sober and industrious life will be sufficient to cause forfeiture of license and the sending of the holder back to the institution to complete the term of his original sentence.

It is believed the knowledge that a loose and idle life will naturally lead to a return to detention will have the effect of keeping a lad at his work, so that by the time the license has expired he will have so settled down that the attractions of a career of idleness and crime will no longer appeal to him. The act is a great advance on past legislation of the kind, and in its application should do much to reform as well as punish.

CANADA'S FAR NORTH.

A well-illustrated book, just issued by the railway lands branch of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, gives an interesting account of exploration work in Canada's northland during the season of 1908. The territory covered by the explorers is a part of the Dominion information concerning which has in the past been difficult to obtain. It includes that portion of Saskatchewan north of Prince Albert, as far as Churchill River, and extending from Montreal Lake and Lac La Rouge on the east, to Green Lake and connecting waters as far north as Portage La Loche, on the west. Recent mineral discoveries at Lac La Rouge and northward make this report of special interest and value, as from it information regarding means of access to this section may be obtained.

The report is conveniently arranged under different headings, viz.: Access, soil, topographical features, climate, ranching, hay, animal life, fish, timber, minerals and water powers. In addition there is an excellent map of the territory explored and north of it, besides illustrations of growing crops and natural features from photographs taken by the explorers. Much of the land is shown to be suitable for mixed farming, as soon as made accessible by roads, and the area of available fertile land can be immensely increased by an inexpensive system of drainage.

In a prominent place is given the opinion of Prof. John Macoun, naturalist of the geological survey, of the territory. That high authority declares there can be no question about the value of the land north of the Saskatchewan, and he is convinced that settlers going in there are assured of three essentials—food, water and hay for cattle. The low altitude and the long days are fixed conditions, and will always remain the same.

THE WONDERFUL WEST.

[Calgary News.]

It is stated that some 1,300 harvesters are coming from the east to Alberta, and of these the very large majority are to be given work in Southern Alberta.

And right here a strange feature is seen. Some five or six years ago Granum wasn't on the map and the district in which it is located was looked upon as impossible for agricultural purposes; yet today a larger number of harvesters are allotted to it than to any other individual part of the province. Granum wants 154 out of 1,300 and Claresholm, which is in the same neighborhood, comes next with 125. And other towns are cropping up daily which will be fully as progressive in a year or two as Granum and Claresholm are now.

[Monetary Times.]

"Haileybury Beat Cobalt," is a recent newspaper heading. We had thought Cobalt matchless. It was only a ball game, though.

GOOD TIMES CERTAIN.

[Victoria Colonist.]

With good crops all over the continent and no tariff troubles in the way, there is no reason in sight why there should not be very good times.

LARNED AND CLOTHER TO REPRESENT AMERICA

Will Probably Be Picked to Play the British Tennis Stars.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18. — President James Dwight, of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, announced today that in all probability National Champion William A. Larned and former Champion William J. Clothier will be selected to represent the United States in the singles in the preliminary tennis matches to be played with a British team at Philadelphia next month to determine whether a British or an American team shall go to Australia to endeavor to capture the Davis international cup, now held there.

President Dwight said the selection of the pair to play the Englishmen in the doubles would not be made until after the playing, probably tomorrow, of the national doubles championship match here, but that he thought the pair would consist of H. H. Hackett, who, with Alexander, now holds the national doubles championship, and R. B. Little.

LEADERS OUTHIT BISONS WON DOUBLE-HEADER

Hustlers of Rochester Have Won Four in Two Days From Buffalo—Scores Yesterday 6 to 1 and 8 to 7.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Rochester, Aug. 18. — The Hustlers copped another double-header from Buffalo this afternoon, making four straight in two days. Only in the second game did the Bisons have a chance The first was won by 6 to 1, due to the superior twirling of Barger. The locals had four runs due to hits and Buffalo's errors before Schirm was able in the seventh to score a home run off Barger.

In the second game the Bisons knocked out two Rochester pitchers. Finlayson and Snyder, and yet could not get far enough ahead to win, mainly because two home runs came to the rescue of the Hustlers when they most needed them. One, by Simmons, was a terrific clout over the left field fence, sending a runner in ahead of him, while the other by Pattee scored three runs. Scores:

TIM HURST DROPPED.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Tim Hurst is no longer an umpire on the American League staff. It was officially announced yesterday at the office of B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, that Hurst has been dropped from the list of umpires.

Hurst was recently suspended, following an altercation with Collins, of the Philadelphia club, in which Hurst is alleged to have spat in the player's face. President Johnston investigated the charges, and his announcement yesterday followed.

ROSEMARY CHIMES RACE

A Real Contest—Fast Pace, The Eel and Aileen In, Will Be Raced Off Today.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—The best crowd of the meeting turned out at the Grand Circuit races yesterday to see Bob Douglas, the splendid grey son of Todd, driven by Lon MacDonald, walk away with the big $10,000 stake for trotters, the Empire State 2:12 trot, the feature of Buffalo's Grand Circuit meet.

The grey horse was easily the class of the field for the big purse. He won it in four heats and but one horse, Carroll, a bay gelding, was able to give him a race.

This bay horse, driven by Shank, sent Bob Douglas to the last quarters of the third heat in 30 seconds flat and the first half of the fourth heat was trotted in 1:01¾, when Carroll was unable longer to carry the pace to his speedy rival and the final mile was finished in 2:06¾.

NOW HERE'S A STORY

New York, Aug. 18. — The World prints the following sporting item from Atlanta, Ga.:

"While rooting at a baseball game between Atlanta and Birmingham today, at Ponce de Leon, and laughing at a friend of his who was having trouble in fighting off a sparrow which had flown into the grand stand, Billy Wells, the biggest rooter in Atlanta, threw back his head and opened his mouth, and the sparrow, evidently seeing a good opening, flew into his mouth.

"Mr. Wells closed his jaws on the sparrow, but opened them quickly, and when the bird was released it flew away twittering, leaving Mr. Wells coughing."
