OUTLINES NEED OF WOMEN ON SCHOOL BOARDS

Mrs. J. McLennan of Sarnia Declares Men Trustees Too Hard To Convince.

MANY MEMBERS ADDED

Women's Institute Convention Hears Many Voluable Suggestions.

"Mere men" school trustees came in for a considerable amount of rapping at the forenoon session Wednesday of the convention of the Women's Institutes of Western Ontario on the ground that it is so hard to convince them of the importance of medical inspection for schools, the need of a public health nurse, and "such things."

"What is needed," said Mrs. J. McLennan of Sarnia, who led the discussion on 'Co-operation with the School,' "is a woman on every school board. If we can't have one woman on each, let's hasten the day for county boards.

"Who has a vote for members of the school board?" came the voice of a delegate. "We have old bachelors who insist upon being on the school board."

"You should make a raid on them and see that they are not on the school board," quickly replied Mrs. McLennan, amid laughter.

"Must we get the consent of the trustees in order to include any school in the group of forty necessary in order to get the grant of $10 a room from the Government towards paying a school nurse?" asked a delegate in the gallery. "Can't even the women's institute secure it without the trustees?"

The answer in the negative provoked an emphatic comment from the inquirer. "But it is so much easier to pay than get the consent of the trustees."

Outlines Lambton's Experience.

Discussion was animated throughout the forenoon and many helpful suggestions were offered for increasing the membership of institute branches, discovering, developing and using the talents of the neighborhood, and initiating new work.

In the main, the delegates carried out the suggestion of Miss Emily Guest, one of the department lecturers and demonstrators. "Talk three times as loud as you think necessary to raise the roof, then you may be sure of being heard." The result was that the suggestions offered were much more far-reaching than is usually the case in a women's convention.

With regard to the need of medical inspection and the services of a nurse for schools, Mrs. McLennan referred to the experience of West Lambton, where, upon securing a medical survey of the schools through the department of education, it was discovered that 85 per cent of the children were physically defective and 33 per cent would be totally incapacitated unless they received treatment. As a result of these revelations, two women were appointed for each township in Lambton County to forward the work of regular inspection and securing a public health nurse for the county.

So far as the cost of the nurse was concerned, "One cent per acre over

AWAIT AUDIT OF GAS CO. BOOKS

Ald. W. A. Wilson Urges That Railway Board Be Asked To Name Men.

So far the city has been unsuccessful n getting a start made on the audit of the books of the City Gas Company because there is no auditor to take hold of the task.

About a month ago, Aldermen W. A. Wlson and Watkinson called on the railway board at Toronto and pressed for the naming of an auditor to take up the audit of the company's books with a view to learning the cost of supplying gas to the city. Frank Jewell of this city was named but it later developed that Mr. Jewell would be unable to shoulder the work because of ill-health.

At the time of appointing Mr. Jewell, the railway board said that if he did not act, another man would be named immediately, but so far this has not been done.

Ald. Wilson suggests that the railway board be asked to name Alexander Calder to take up the job. Ald. Watkinson thinks that the railway board should be given a little more time to act.

Ald. Wilson says that he will lay the situation before the council on Monday next.

WORD HAS BEEN received from Father W. T. Flannery, by his parents, of his safe arrival in Rome. He reports that he had an excellent voyage across the Atlantic and found Paris packed to the doors with a large international automobile show.

War-Scarred Veteran Mistook Former Chief For Physician

Coming down town in the crowded street car after the civic banquet tendered the Women's Institute delegates in McCormick Hall on Tuesday evening, Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, who had presided stood at the front of the car, talking to a group of the institute visitors about the new Memorial Children's Hospital. Listening intently to the conversation was a young man with a scar on his right temple, who, when the car was almost emptied at Wellington street, seated himself beside Col. Graham.

"Are you a doctor?" he asked of the older man.

"No," was the reply. "My name is Graham."

"Not Col. Graham of the 142nd Battalion?"

"Yes."

"You were with the 13th in France?"

"Yes. But who are you?"

"The last time you saw me was during the battle of Amiens. I was struck in the head and you bandaged me up, and told me to stay in the shell hole where you left me until some of the fellows would come along to get me. I was in your company."

"And you have got your eye all right, after all," exclaimed Col. Graham, as the two men shook hands as comrades who had been in the shadow of death together. "Well, well, well! I thought sure that day you were going to lose it. But didn't you recognize me tonight? How did you come to mistake me for a doctor?"

"You seemed to have all the scientific facts about child welfare," was the answer. "And I had never seen you out of uniform before. You are stouter than you were in 1918 in France."

20,000 Indiana Miners On Strike

CEASE WORK IN 300 PITS IN DISTRICT

Walkout Declared Following Owners' Order Respecting "Check Off" System.

MASS MEETING CALLED

Four Hundred Men Refused Work At Centralia, Ill., Colliery.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—Work in the Indiana coal field was practically at a standstill today as a result of walkouts of 20,000 men employed at approximately 300 mines in the state, according to early reports received at the union headquarters at Terre Haute.

Officers of the United Mine Workers of America awaited with acute interest today reports from throughout the coal mining district of the country on strike developments, expected to result from the telegram sent out by them yesterday advising all union officials to regard discontinuance of the "check-off" system of collecting union dues as breaking the existing wage agreements with operators.

Several mines in the Indiana field were reported idle as a protest against the injunction prohibiting the "check-off" which was issued yesterday by Judge A. B. Anderson in the United States district court here on Monday.

400 Refused Work At Centralia, Ill.

Centralia, Ill., Nov. 2.—Four hundred men employed at the Marion County Coal Company mine here refused to work today. No orders for a walkout were issued by the local union, it was said, the men taking the action of their own accord.

A mass meeting of miners was called for this afternoon.

It was understood a committee asked the mine superintendent as to the intention regarding the "check off" system, and was told that the system would be continued until further orders. No. 5 mine, employing 1,000 men, is not affected.

Thirteen Mines in Knox County Idle

Bicknell, Ind., Nov. 2. — All thirteen mines of the Knox County coal field in the southwestern part of Indiana were idle today in protest against the injunction writ issued Monday by Judge A. B. Anderson in United States district court against the "check off" system. The mines employ 3,000 men, it was said.

OLD COUNTRY MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS FAVOR LABOR

Seventy-Eight Principal Towns Return Laborites to Councils.

London, Nov. 2.—Canadian Press.—Returns from eighty of the principal towns of Great Britain in the municipal elections give the following results:

Labor gained 78 seats in municipal councils and lost 42; Conservatives gained 23 and lost 50; Liberals gained 16 and lost 60; Independents gained 46 and lost 15. Liverpool and Wallasey returns remain to come in.

In Birmingham and Barnsley Labor secured the most notable successes in the elections, registering six gains in each case, while Norwich showed five labor gains. In Manchaster the Conservatives gained nine, five from the Liberals and four from the Labor party. Reading, a Laborite, defeated the mayor, W. Kay.

Two blind Laborites were defeated in Plymouth, while at Croydon none of five candidates put up by to the unemployed organizers succeeded in being elected.

WHEAT IN ALBERTA TAKES BIG SLUMP

36 Per Cent Drop Since September 1.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 2.—The price of wheat sold in wagonloads at country points in Alberta, has slumped 36 per cent since Sept. 1, when the new season was officially opened.

Legal Battle Rages For Aged Indian's Millions

JACKSON BARNETT AND HIS WHITE WIFE.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 2.—Jackson Barnett is the richest Indian in the United States.

That is why a fight, which has thrown the courts of two countries and federal officials into a turmoil, is being staged.

At present the chief lives, almost out in the open, in Okmulgee County. He has no use for white man's fads and fancies, but much prefers the great outdoors.

His home is a four-roomed shack—and he's satisfied with it.

All this in spite of the fact that millions upon millions of dollars literally rolled into him when great oil gushers were discovered on his land some years ago. No one seems to know just what he is worth, he owns a million dollars' worth of Liberty bonds alone.

It is an Indian theory that a man's wealth should be disposed of before he dies—after his relatives are properly cared for.

That's where the big fight comes in.

Barnett with the approval of officials, has already given $1,000,000 to Bacone University, a Northern Baptist School at Muskogee, and a quarter of a million for an institute for sick Indians.

Following these gifts, it was announced that Barnett and his family were to be removed from Okmulgee County to the town of Muskogee, in Muskogee County. He was to have a $75,000 residence to take the place of his backwoods shack.

And Okmulgee County let out a howl. County Judge Hugh Murphy of Okmulgee says he will not consent to the removal of Barnett's estate.

While the fight hangs, as yet undecided, Barnett's guardian has petitioned the county court in Okmulgee County for permission to use $150,000 in building Barnett a home in Okmulgee County and purchasing adjoining land to establish a pony ranch.

Barnett's white wife, with whom he eloped some time ago, and his stepdaughter, have tired of the open life. They are in favor of moving to Muskogee, in Muskogee County.

$82,000 PAID FOR LONDON STORES

Richmond Street Property Is Bought by East London Family.

A real estate deal involving four stores on Richmond street and the Dominion Express office was completed yesterday, when the Canada Trust Company, acting for the owners, a family residing in Ireland, made a sale to a well-known East London family. The price was $82,000.

Bert Weir, real estate dealer, put the deal through.

The property in question has a frontage of 113 feet 9 inches on Richmond street and a depth of 35 feet 3 inches on Carling street. It extends from Carling street to the rear of the Dominion Bank, taking in the express office, Ladell's cigar store, Harmony Hall, Bruce Wallace's store and A. Tillmann's tailor shop. There are several important offices upstairs also, including Henry's photograph studio.

The property is assessed at $31,275 for the land, or at the rate of $275 a foot, and the buildings at $18,725, or a total of $50,000.

It is interesting to trace the Palmer family in Ireland. Margaret Palmer lives in Dublin, or in the middle of Ireland. Hessie lives in Queenstown, in the south; J. R. Stewart and F. M. Stewart in Londonderry, in the north, while two others, Jane Poole and H. Hancock are addressed as just Ireland.

DANGER AT CITY HALL IS RELIEVED

Police To Regulate Crowds On Nomination Days.

For the time being at least the danger of the heavy filing cases in the Soldiers' Aid office falling through to the office of the city clerk below has been removed.

Tuesday afternoon several carpenters were engaged in the task of trying to remove the danger which menaced the safety of the city hall, and it is believed that the transfer of the heavy load on the floor has resulted in lessening the tension.

However, this does not make the city hall safe by any means. The council's ban on large meetings for fear that the hall may go through still stands.

The next large gatherings in sight are the nomination meetings. The local municipal nominations take place in the city hall Nov. 21, and if the hall survives the official federal nominations on the day following. The council's order for police to be stationed on the door will likely be followed out.

URGES WOMEN OF EAST MIDDLESEX TO REGISTER

Frank Glass, M.P., Addresses Ealing Mothers' Club.

Frank Glass, M. P., Conservative candidate for East Middlesex, addressed the Ealing Avenue Mothers' Club Tuesday night on the woman's franchise. Mr. Glass explained the way to register, and urged women to see that their names are on the voters' list. He told also of social and health reforms made by legislation, and promised to secure a book, published by the Government, along these lines, for each of the mothers in the club.

An interesting address was also given by Mrs. John Gemmill, who explained the constitution of the club to the members.

A program was given during the evening, consisted of a reading by Mrs. Timms, and solos by Miss Maude Parker and Mrs. Flood. It was decided that the next meeting would be in the form of a social evening for the fathers, mothers and teachers, so that the teachers and parents would become acquainted with each other.

CITY WILL LAY SEWERS TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Pine Lawn-Hamilton Road System Will Be Undertaken This Winter.

ESTIMATES RUN HIGH

London's Total Bill of Costs For Public Works May Reach $600,000.

The Pine Lawn-Hamilton road sewerage system is to be undertaken by the city this winter by day labor in order to help the unemployment situation. This was the decision reached by No. 2 committee Tuesday night, and it will make this recommendation to the council.

Engineer H. A. Brazier was instructed not to call for tenders.

Ald. G. B. Drake said that the work was one that could be well carried on during the winter and suggested that the engineer should work men on three-day-a-week shifts, so as to give winter work to as many unemployed as he possibly could. The cost will be close to $200,000.

The committee decided to ask the council that the sum of $150,000 be included in the city of London bill to provide for some needed storm sewers in South London. The sewers in question are Duchess to Emery, crossing from Edward to Tecumseh streets, to cost $80,000, a lateral sewer from the creek to Edward street, and on Briscoe, Edward to Cathcart, to cost $19,000, and for tiling the creek east of High street, Grand to Emery street, to cost $90,000. The total cost of this work will be $189,000, but already $50,000 has been appropriated.

That London's bill of costs is going to show no let up next year, was evidenced by the decision of the committee to recommend that early next spring a start be made on the Wellington road-High street sewerage system, which will cost $271,377.

A deputation of Wellington road residents, who not long ago made a call on the committee, returned and pressed for some action on their sewer. The engineer's report to the committee was a copy of the report he made last November. He said that the earliest the work could be undertaken would be in the spring, and perhaps by that time the cost will be down. The work under the present estimate will come high to the ratepayers, running at 46 cents a foot,

HEAVY PUNISHMENT FOR JAIL-BREAKING ATTEMPT

Williams Has Tobacco Supply Cut Off by Local Jailers.

So far the only result of the attempt on the part of Henry Jack Williams, alleged murderer, to break away from the county jail on Sunday, and which was discovered on Monday by jail officials, after they had been given a "tip" by one of the prisoners, has been the cutting off of the prisoner's tobacco.

Although Inspector of Prisons W. W. Dunlop at the special investigation into the escape of the Murrell brothers, ordered that tobacco be not furnished the prisoners, except upon instructions from the jail physician, Williams was using some in his cell on Sunday.

He received it from Chester Rowe and George Langridge, two inmates from the Guelph Prison Farm, who were brought here to give evidence for the crown against George Grant, who was convicted of auto theft last week.

CITY TO PAY SHARE OF HIGHWAY COST NEXT YEAR

London Billed With 20 Per Cent of Total Cost.

The new highway to Lambeth from the city limits has been completed at an approximate cost of $270,000 for the 6¼ miles. The city of London has got to shoulder twenty per cent of the total cost, namely $54,000.

Ald. Gordon Drake says that he has been discussing the matter of payment with the mayor and other officials and he learns that the city will have to pay its full share in a lump sum next year. The alderman says that he was under the impression that the cost would be distributed over a period of ten years, but has been assured that the city must pay up the whole thing in 1922.

Weary of Using Rubber Boots, Citizens To Get Brick Crossing

It is a vivid story of mud and more mud that Ald. Watkinson has gleaned from some residents of his ward who desire to have the city extend to their district at least one of the benefits that usually go with city life and taxes, is a mudless crossing.

"I was talking to Tom Ames, one of the foremen at the G. T. R. carshops," said the alderman to The Advertiser. "He lives on the corner of Ashland and Florence streets, and so bad has been the mud at this crossing during the summer, he says, that some of the residents have kept long rubber boots at the corner. Coming to work in the morning they would use the boots to cross the street, and then leave them at the house on the corner until they were going home at night. Then they would don them again and navigate dryly through the mud.

"These people want the city to lay a brick crossing," said the alderman.

The board of works promised to build it at once.

WORLD SONG BIRD ON WAY TO CITY COYLY ANALYZES POLITICAL CHIEFS, IN INTERVIEW WITH THE ADVERTISER

"Just Can't Bear Whiskers"

OPERATIC STAR IN HAPPY MOOD

MADAME AMELITA GALLI-CURCI.

Indulges in Pet Hobby of Character Reading at the Expense of Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. T. A. Crerar and Liberal Chieftain.

BY HELEN McMILLAN.

En Route Detroit to London, Ont., Nov. 2.—"Good luck, Mr. King!"

Did ever knight of old receive greater inspiration from fair lady than this message from Madame Amelita Galli-Curci, world-famous songbird, who will reach London late today to fulfil an engagement tomorrow night, to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Canada's Liberal leader.

For years it has been admitted that Galli-Curci's cherished hobby is character analysis—indeed, her pride in her ability to correctly determine the dominant faculties of an individual from a study of facial characteristics is second only to her pride in her marvelous voice—two gifts with which nature apparently has richly endowed daughters of Southern Europe.

Supreme in the world of song, why, indeed, should we overlook her analysis of human minds?

Obtains Her Opinion.

What more natural then, than that a newspaper should obtain her opinion on the three personalities most prominently in the Canadian eye today—Hon. Arthur Meighen, T. A. Crerar and W. L. Mackenzie King.

The operatic star is a sensible little woman, in spite of the overwhelming honors the world of song has heaped upon her in the last six years, and so—very properly—she refuses to mix in politics.

"As a public personage it would be very, very foolish for me to say which of these three men I would pick to determine the destiny of Canada," she said, when having overcome many obstacles I finally reached her side. "But I will tell you which one I would marry, should it ever be my good fortune to marry one of the three."

And so, with a confiding smile, for madame is a jolly little soul, whose conversation is punctuated with merry peals of laughter, the task was under way.

Sees Mr. Crerar's Picture.

Mr. Crerar's picture happened to be the first which caught her eye.

And as Fate would have it, I immediately learned with consternation that the prima donna cannot bear men who are not clean shaven.

"Oh, whiskers!" she exclaimed. "No, no, no! I could not bear to live with whiskers!"

And that was all there was to it. No persuasion could make her consider Mr. Crerar further, although I did my level best to point out to her that Mr. Crerar's record, able leadership and sterling championship of Canada's agrarian needs, merited more lengthy consideration.

Mr. Meighen was received with much greater favor.

"He is a very able man," was her first comment on the face of Canada's premier. "His eyes show that he is very clever and very serious. He doesn't joke, that one, any task he assumes he will endeavor to complete to the best of his ability. He is all serious and very conservative. See his high forehead. That shows he is clever. Or," with a ripple of laughter, "perhaps it is lack of hair. Is it? I cannot tell from the picture."

Likes Mr. King.

Then her eyes lighted on Mr. King.

"Oh, I like this man," she said with enthusiasm.

"He looks like a jolly family man—the type of man who make real women truly happy. See his ears. They indicate he is full of—what do you say—generosity, liberality—the type who will give his all for the 'common good,' and he has a brilliant intellect, judging from his eyes and plenty of 'pep.'"

Then she considered the face in silence, and slowly, with eyes intent on the man who is battling to maintain the ideals Sir Wilfrid Laurier instilled in Canada's sons, she murmured:

"Yes, that man is a Liberal in the real sense of the word. He is a free spirit, an independent type with a good sense of humor and—he is the man I would choose to marry, were I given the choice.

To prove the unbiased nature of Madame Galli Curci's selection, it must be borne in mind that when the portraits were presented to her, she at once selected Mr. Meighen as a conservative type and Mr. King as a liberal type, although in absolute ignorance as to the identity of either of the men.

Shows Enthusiasm.

In order to show her enthusiasm still further for the man in whose face she had found that which she preferred best for a venture on the stormy seas of matrimony, Madame then picked up her pen and charmingly wrote the words, "Good Luck," beneath the Liberal leader's picture, following them with her own signature.

The singer's pronouncement on the pictures was made Tuesday night at the huge Arcadia Hall in Detroit, directly after her concert there. Just having dismissed a house which had been packed even to the last available standing room, and madly enthusiastic from its tribute, she was in very happy mood.

Crowds of worshippers came back stage to shake the hand of this deity of song, and found her, close up, a happy human little soul accounting for the perfect naturalness of her art.

A flame-colored velvet gown, a heavy bandeau of encrusted gold on her hair, gold slippers on her feet, pearls and diamonds about her neck, the trappings of the stage, as it were,

POSTAL OFFICIALS REDUCING STAFFS

Temporary Clerks Throughout Dominion Being Released.

The discharge of certain postal clerks in some of the larger cities of Canada is creating quite a stir among postoffice employees.

On account of present industrial conditions, many of these clerks, who are returned soldiers, are protesting vigorously against their dismissal, maintaining that it would be possible for the department to employ them during the Christmas rush, which will commence shortly.

The London officials assert, however, that only those who are doing vacation relief work will be released, and as they were working under the agreement that they would be only employed during the summer months, they have no cause to complain.

EMPRESS AVE. SCHOOL IN INSANITARY CONDITION

H. Marshall, New Instructor at Technical School.

Complaining of the insanitary conditions and poor lighting in the Empress avenue school, members of the Mothers' Club of that district waited on the board of education at Tuesday's session. They invited the board to visit the school and note conditions for themselves.

Thomas Coleridge, chairman, assured the delegation that it was the hope of the board to build a new school in the near future.

H. Marshall was engaged as assistant instructor in the machine shop at the Technical School to commence on Nov. 1, at a salary of $160 per month.

The tender of the Kingston Construction Company for walks and curb at the new collegiate institute was accepted, $1,593 for walks and $480 for the curb.

MINISTER OF HIGHWAYS TO OPEN NEW ROAD

Hon. Frank C. Biggs, Ontario's minister of highways, will officiate at the opening of the new Lambeth highway on Nov. 9.

The occasion will be marked by an impressive ceremony at Lambeth, which commences in the afternoon and concludes at night with a banquet under the auspices of the London Chamber of Commerce and the London Motor Club.

Among the speakers will be Warden W. Ryckman and Dr. Hugh H. Stevenson, M. L. A. for London.

CHARGE ELECTORS REFUSED BALLOT

Liberal Headquarters Reports Complaints Made Against Registrar.

"Labor has equal chances to get voter's lists with the other parties," City Clerk Sam Baker declared Wednesday when questioned in reference to the returning officer. I understand that both the Liberals and Conservatives now have each a list, but how they have obtained them I do not know. Probably they prepared them on their own initiative.

At Tuesday's Labor nomination convention it was explained that the secretary of the Labor party, while in possession of several copies of part 1 of the voter's list, containing those entitled to vote on municipal elections only, he had been unable to secure a copy of Part 3, which should contain the names of all those entitled to vote at provincial and, consequently, dominion elections.

Several complaints have also been made this week at Liberal headquarters that registrars have not been acting with all discretion relative to the placing of names on the list. There is apparently considerable difficulty in determining just what constitutes a bona fide elector of the riding. It has been claimed that persons have been refused registration who have every right to vote at the approaching election.

As a point of information, it is emphasized that all voters must have ordinarily resided in the constituency for two months immediately preceding the issuance of the writ. This phase of the statutes seemingly bewilders both the electors and many of the registrars.

Section 87 of the election instructions published by the Government reads as follows: "There is no technical meaning to the words 'ordinarily resided' in the dominion elections act. This substantial fact need alone be considered. Residence in a given electoral district for two months preceding date of issuance of writ may be inferred from either existence in that electoral district during these two months of a personal or a family home in which the voter has lived exclusively or partly, or to which, although he may not have actually stayed during the two months, he intends shortly to return."

BRITISH MAILS

The next mail for Great Britain and Europe will close at the local postoffice on Friday, Nov. 4, 1921, to be forwarded via S.S. Megantic, sailing from Montreal on Nov. 5.

This mail will consist of all classes. Letters and registered matter at 10 a.m. Parcel post and newspapers at 2 p.m.
