THE WORK GOES ON.

The Weekly Temperance Rally at Victoria Hall.

Interesting Addresses by Rev. C. E. McIntyre and Other Advocates of the Cause.

The weekly temperance meeting in Victoria Hall Saturday evening was of an earnest, enthusiastic character. Rev. G. Trotter Carr was to have been a speaker but was prevented by illness. Rev. C. E. McIntyre had therefore double duty to do. Rev. W. M. Roger presided, and on the platform were Rev. Messrs. E. B. Lanceley, M. P. Talling, A. C. Courtice, G. W. Henderson, Geo. Boyd and S. Bond; Dr. Ziegler and Dr. Arnott, Messrs. D. A. McDermid, C. R. Sayer, J. H. Bowman and others.

The chairman, in opening, expressed his pleasure at being present, and dwelt on the advancement of the cause. He remembered the first temperance lodge organized in Peterboro—called "the Broadcloth Society." If one of the members broke the pledge he was obliged to buy a broadcloth suit. (Laughter.) In the old land, as well as in this, the people were waking up. A hundred years ago the depleted finances of Great Britain were temporarily increased by means of a gigantic lottery, a method which any civilized nation on earth would now scorn to use; it was to be hoped that in another hundred years a nation would be ashamed to raise a revenue from the accursed liquor traffic. (Applause.)

Dr. Ziegler favored the audience with a solo in his excellent bass voice, Mr. W. J. Bevin being the accompanist.

Rev. C. E. McIntyre claimed his experience with liquor to be a very limited one. His parents had been teetotallers and as he had united himself with a church that prohibited intoxicants, it was little wonder that he had espoused the temperance cause, and used his efforts in forwarding its interests while endeavoring to preach the doctrines of his church, in endeavoring to observe its requirements, and to keep and enforce its discipline. "As I have grown in years," said he, "and gone into the world, and had an opportunity of judging for myself, the conviction has become thoroughly fixed in my mind that nothing at all will advance or help the true interests of this country in this time except prohibition. I practice it myself, I teach it, I preach it wherever I go, and I do all I possibly can to forward it. I am here to show I am in thorough sympathy with this movement, and that you have my best wishes. A great deal has been said about the evils that prohibition would inflict upon the people, upon business in general; but the temperance people believe that by its adoption every possible interest would be subserved and advanced. I understand in this city there are 69 places where liquor is sold. At a very low estimate each one of these places takes in on an average $8 per day—in fact, I'm told that is much under the figure. Well, suppose that the parties who keep these barrooms observe the law, by keeping them closed on Sundays, election days, and other days stipulated by law. That would allow them 300 days in the year, in which they could legally sell liquor, with average receipts of $8 each per day, that would make a total of $2,400 per annum, which, when multiplied by 69, leaves something like $165,000 spent in this city every year for intoxicating drink alone. And what do we get for it? If that money were spent upon groceries, provisions, clothing, books—upon the many things sold in legitimate business, what would be the result? How the merchants would rejoice! But instead of being disbursed in that way it is spent in a manner ruinous to the man, his family, society, and to the country altogether. There are a great many who do not earn more than $300 in a year, and yet have to maintain families on that. The sum of $165,000 spent in liquor would support 414 families, giving them $400, a larger amount of money than such a man earns by working 300 days in the year. It would give 331 families 500 a year, and to 267 families it would give $600 each. It would be the same as a manufacturing industry, paying in wages $3,100 per week. Let us look at the benefits of prohibition where it is in force—in the States of Kansas and Iowa. In 1880 the population of Kansas was 996,000, which it had been 25 years in obtaining. In 1885, under five years of prohibition the population had advanced to 1,500,000, an increase of 500,000. In the amount of acres under cultivation, in the general state of trade, in the price of real estate, in the moral state of the people, there had been a corresponding improvement, while many of the jails were empty and there were frequently no criminal cases on the docket. The Governor of the State, who had been a most bitter opponent of prohibition when the question was before the public, subsequently candidly attributed this wonderful advancement to that measure."

In conclusion the reverend gentleman appealed for united work in the cause and in the local effort to reduce the number of licenses.

Rev. W. M. Roger closed the meeting. He had seen one of the local papers had stated it was afraid the license reduction movement would carry. He hoped their fears would be realized.

"THE CEDARS OF LEBANON"

Another Chapter from Talmage's Travels in Palestine.

Divine Favorite—A Type of Christian Staunchness of Character.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 14.—To-day Talmage preached another sermon in his series on Palestine and adjoining countries from Psalms, civ., 16: "The cedars of Lebanon which he hath planted."

In our journey we change stirrup for wheel. It is 4 o'clock in the morning in Damascus, Syria. We are rolling on and up the mountains of Lebanon, their head under a crown of snow, which God the fingers of the hottest summer never cast down. We are ascending hills around which is garlanded much of the finest poesy of the Scriptures, and are toward the mightiest dominion that ever recognized, reigned over by the
