SLIGHT FROST IN MANITOBA

But Not Enough to Do the Slightest Damage.

TENDER PLANTS UNHARMED.

All Cutting Done Around Dominion City.

THE CROP NOW CONSIDERED SAFE.

No Further Cold Dips Are Looked For.

Some Damage By Frost is Reported From Edmonton—Railroads Opening New Stations and Increasing Their Staff—Cutting Now General Along the C.P.R.—A Port Colborne Man Says He Will Make His Fortune Out of His Crop and Will Retire This Fall—Notes From the Vast Wheat Field.

Portage la Prairie, Aug. 20.—Slight hoar frost visited some parts of the province last night, but the general impression is that it did no damage whatever, as it was not severe enough. Reports from along the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway show two and three degrees of frost at Shoal Lake, Birtle, Binscarth, Langenburg and Rapid City. There is no visible damage, and the temperature was not sufficiently low to damage the grain.

Three degrees of frost is recorded at Brandon.

At Carberry a gentleman put out a pan of water six inches from the ground; at 3 o'clock in the morning there was no sign of frost; at 5 a slight scum of ice had formed. He threw the water on a few boards, where it thickened like frost.

At Sidney a contractor rose at 4 and had to put on a fire. An hour later he found some white hoar frost on boards outside his house.

No black killing frost is reported from any place.

A farmer north of Portage found a scum of ice on a trough in a hollow with a northern exposure, but none on his other troughs. Other farmers, from 15 miles nearer in, to-day rose at 4 and 5 and searched for signs of frost, but found none. Tender plants such as tomatoes were not injured on the farm where the ice scum was found. It is not thought that this first frost would cross the Assiniboine River.

Absolutely No Damage.

This is the plain truth, and don't let eastern newspapers magnify it: There is absolutely no damage that can be learned of on the closest enquiry. There is no danger of frost to-night. The weather is warmer and inclined to cloudiness with warm southern breezes. The minimum temperature last night at Portage was 35 degrees. Only a killing frost is general here, a slight frost like last night comes in little patches or currents across the country. In former years when damage was actually done one of two fields might escape entirely, even the field visited by frost was likely to have only wavy patches across it as if there were frost-like currents in the air. But partial damage is always a good hold for some grain men to bear prices by.

Reports from along the Manitoba and Northwestern show that the harvest started to-day. At Shoal Lake and Birtle it will be general in three days. Farmers are cutting oats and barley at Rapid City and Russelll. No cutting is yet done at Strathclair and Saltcoats, these being more distinctively ranching districts.

Mr. Morton, member for Gladstone, is here and says the crops there are very heavy with an acreage somewhat larger than last year. This is a district which is almost entirely free from frost any year, but was visited two years ago by a hailstorm earlier in the season. The crop this year is pretty safe.

Harvest Over Around Dominion City

A private report from Dominion City shows harvesting is over a full week ahead of most of the province. The crops there are nearly all safe now and very large.

Mr. Harcourt of the Globe Savings Company, has gone over the Northwestern to-day. He has just come from the west and confirms the report of some lightness of crops west of Brandon, north of Alexander. He found some smut at Dempsey Station, east of the Pipestone district, and a farmer there admitted the existence of a small proportion in the wheat. It may be the result of this spring's frost when the crops were just appearing above ground. Mr. Harcourt visited all parts of the Portage plains and finds the district around High Bluff the most advanced where the greatest cutting has been done.

The teritory around Deloraine, which is inclined to dryness some years, has plenty of rain this year. Outside of partiality to dryness this is a fine district, sloping up in places to gentle ridges, where the view is so great the traveler imagines he can see 50 miles of country to the south.

Around Melita is a fertile district, which has built up a solid town, largely of stone. Here was a celebrated farm at one time, which was somewhat of an advertising affair, but like other big farms in the Northwest is now all broken up as it didn't pay. There are still several large farms around, and results have been excellent in at least half of the cases. As the Souris River passes Melita its low and wooded banks get higher westward, and the land is drier and is not so fitted for grain toward Estevan, except in the Valley of the Souris, which is very deep and fertile. Northward from Melita the Pipestone country has attracted settlers fast, so that a branch of railway has been constructed west from Souris. The crops here are all above the average. Around Souris is one of the finest wheat districts of the Province.

THE DANGER POINT PASSED.

Vice-President Shaughnessy of the C.P.R. Speaks of His Western Tour

Montreal, Aug. 20.—Vice-President Shaugnessy of the Canadian Pacific arrived here to-day from St. Paul, Minn., and other points in the west. "The crops are the chief topic of conversation wherever one goes and whoever we meet," was Mr. Shaugnessy's greeting. Continuing, the vice-president said he had gone over a good deal of territory tributary to the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie, the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic and other lines and he had never seen the general outlook so promising. People out there are looking for an enormous grain business this fall and as this tends to a revival of trade generally the result can easily be imagined.

"But what are they saying as to our own crop?" the vice-president was asked.

"As to the Canadian Northwest we have certainly a tremendous crop not only of wheat, but other grains as well."

"Is there any danger from frosts?"

"No, I think not, those with whom I talked and the people best able to judge of the matter are of the opinion that the danger stage has been passed and that this year's crop will suffer little or nothing from frosts."

Advices from North Bay say that 1565 me collected from all parts of Ontario left that place to-day for Manitoba and the Northwest. Mr. C. W. Spencer told the correspondent this evening that all of these would find ready employment and still there would be room for more.

WHO IS THE TORONTONIAN?

JAROME MARRIED A WOMAN TO STEAL $32,000 FROM HER.

He is the Leader of Notorious Thieves—Her Name is Roberts and She is the Widow of a Toronto Merchant—She Made a Long and Adventurous Search, and at Last the "Crooks" are Located.

The New York Journal contains this interesting story as full of romantic incidents and nerve-twisting situations as a tale built of pure and unadulterated imagination.

Samuel G. Sheldon, for a quarter of a century a member of the New York police department and now manager of the Citizens' Secret Service Co., had an important visitor yesterday.

Her name was Mrs. Jarome Roberts and her home Toronto, Canada. Early in the spring of 1890 Mrs. Roberts' first husband died. He left the good woman a snug bank account, a row of houses on a Toronto avenue and a fine house in the residential portion of the city.

Enter the Villain.

In the early spring of 1892 Mrs. Roberts' troubles began. She had deeply felt the loss of her husband, who was a good man. Up to this time her life's path had been strewn with roses, and she had had everything that heart could wish. Right here is where the villain appeared, and before I go further I want to tell you, gentlemen, that this villain is one of the cleverest and deepest-dyed cross-country thieves that ever played poker with fate.

About that time Mrs. Roberts wanted to send to a relative in the East a miniature oil copy of a photograph of herself as a birthday offering. She engaged a young artist in Toronto to paint the portrait. He was a talented fellow, but, as it afterward turned out, had that vein of villany running through his character that can never be eradicated.

A Charming Scamp.

And now we come to the chief villain of the drama, said Mr. Sheldon. He was an inch or two over six feet high. His hair was bond, eyes blue and complexion light. His education had not been neglected. He was a good musician, and his ability as an entertainer was above that of the average man. The strongest attribute of this smooth gentleman, however, was his personal magnetism—his ability to worm himself into the confidence of the unsuspecting was marvelous. This is Dr. Harry Jarome, allas Johnson, alias Roberts, and as clever a "wrong one" as ever donned a derby hat.

Agreed to Marry Him.

In order to correctly portray the likeness upon his canvas the city little artist prevailed upon the unsuspecting widow to "sit" at his studio. Upon the occasion of her second call she was casually introduced to Jarome by his confederate. Mrs. Roberts was impressed by his good looks and smooth manners, and although she now says she felt a premonition of impending evil she unconsciously played into the schemer's hands by inviting the artist and his friend to call at her house. Jarome made violent love to her. He represented himself to be a business man of Hartford, Conn., displaying letters of introduction to the best Toronto families from men of the highest standing in Massachusetts. Eventually he proposed marriage to the deluded woman and was accepted.

Yes, the marriage really came off! Of course, Jarome had money enough to carry out the job. To the bride the honeymoon was one long drawn out month of dreamy happiness. Now observe the unfolding of the plot. Jarome received a telegram from Chicago breaking to him the sad news of the severe illness of his father. He must go to him at once. Oh, no, the trip would be too tedious for his dear little "wifey," he must go alone, and accordingly went.

Wanted Cash Only.

"In the course of a couple of weeks he returned to Toronto and told of the vast amount of property that had been bequeathed to him by his father. He must locate in the West, he said, and finally convinced the widow that both their interests would be advanced by making Chicago their home. So Mrs. Jarome turned all her property, real and personal, into gold. Jarome then proposed that they make New York a visit before they settle down to everyday life, and she, not suspecting that this was one of the moves of the game, consented. They arrived in New York City April 12, and located at one of the swell up-town hotels. The dapper little 'Jack-in-the-Box' Spanish Jack, happened to land in New York about the same time. Of course it was only a coincidence. The trio devoted themselves to knocking out dull care by keeping up a mild continuous round of pleasure. The time to move to Chicago soon arrived, and Jarome prepared to make his exit.

Robbed and Deserted

"On the morning of their departure and just before starting, Mrs. Jarome, accompanied by her loving and attentive 'leach,' took from the vault of a safe deposit company in 42nd-street all of her wealth, $32,000. They arrived at the Grand Central Depot 15 minutes before train time, and just as Mrs. Jarome had seated herself in the station Mr. Jarome exclaimed:

"'There, I was sure I had forgotten something. I neglected to tell Jackson to foreclose that Waterbury mortgage of mine. He's stopping at the Murray Hill and I'll run over there and leave a note for him. It will only take me a moment, dear; give me your bag, it would not be safe here.'

"And away went the $32,000.

She Learns the Truth.

"Jarome had gone 'for keeps.' The woman's awakening was pitiable, and when the first faint gleam of her husband's deception dawned upon her she immediately took steps to find him. He had left her a few hundred dollars, so she was not entirely destitute. Having heard Jarome speak so often of his Hartford connections, she concluded to begin her quest at that point. At the Hartford House, Hartford, she obtained considerable information. Jarome was known there, but under another name. His record was bad. She learned of her husband's connection with some shady work in Boston, and from here the trail led her to Albany. At the old Delavan House one of the clerks remembered Mr. Johnson, alias Jarome, and sent the unhappy woman on to Chicago, and thence to San Francisco.

"Here she had inserted in one of the local papers an advertisement relating to the flight of her husband, and, in answer, received a note requesting her to call at an office in Randolph-street. Here she met a scoundrel named Rathan. His game was to rob the woman of her few remaining dollars; and it is now positively known to me that Rathan knew at that time just where Jarome was located. My connection with the case was just this: Within a week I have located every member of this organized band of thieves. I have positively identified them all, and have three of them where I can lay my hand on them almost any moment. When the matter was first brought to my attention I immediately threw out my lines. The man Jarome, alias Johnston, the cleverest cross-country thief in America, is in an easy berth in Sydney, Australia. The other principal members of the gang, Joe Carbortia, alias 'Spanish Jack,' alias 'Scar-faced' Looney, is in Seattle, Wash."

SPEAKER OR PATRON LEADER.

Hon. W. D. Balfour Had His Choice, So Says Patron Leader Haycock in a Speech at Amherstburg.

Amherstburg, Ont., Aug. 20.—The Patrons of Anderdon Township held a very successful picnic to-day. The principal attractions of a few were the speech of Mr. Haycock, M.L.A., the leader of the Patrons. He explained the vote of the Patrons in the House on the motion of Dr. Willoughby, and offered as an excuse for not always voting together that they were all new members and did not understand the politic tactics of the two parties. He also said he was sorry the Hon. W. D. Balfour was elected to the Speakership, for if he had not been they (Patrons) would have had him for their leader. He paid the hon. gentleman many other compliments. He said many unpleasant things about the two great political parties, abusing the policy of one as much as the other. He charged the Reformers with changing their policy four times in 16 years, and said it was useless for any party to attempt to talk free trade without coupling direct taxation with it. Among the other speakers were Hon. W. D. Balfour; Clapp, the Patron candidate of South Essex for the Dominion; N. A. Coste, Reeve of Malden; M. Cowan, Reform candidate for South Essex, and Wintermute, the defeated Patron candidate in North Essex last election for the Legislature.

MINNIE WILLIAMS TURNS UP.

One of Holmes' Alleged Victims Denies That She is Murdered.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—W. A. Shoemaker, counsel for Holmes, received a message to-day from "Minnie R. Williams," dated Providence, R.I., which stated that the sender was alive and well. This is one of the women whom Holmes is accused of having murdered in the Chicago "castle." When questioned in relation to the matter, Mr. Shoemaker at first seemed reluctant to discuss it, but finally admitted that he had received such a dispatch. "We have contended all along," said he, "that Minnie Williams was alive. We will have no difficulty in producing her at the proper time."

"Do you think the telegram is genuine?"

"It may or may not be. My opinion, however, is that it was sent by Minnie Williams. Holmes told me this afternoon that he supposed the girl had just arrived from London, and perhaps was induced to send the message by some of his friends."

"It is more than likely that Minnie Williams sent the message from Providence, and then hurriedly left the town. She always had a particular fondness for Boston, and has many friends in that city. She may have been on her way there when she telegraphed me."

The telegram reads: "Providence, R.I., Aug. 19—W. A. Shoemaker, Attorney, Philadelphia: Report that I was murdered absurd. Am alive and well. (Signed) Minnie R. Williams."

Last Seen in Toronto.

When the message was shown to Holmes, he said: I knew my story that I did not kill the girl would be confirmed. I am sorry, however, that she has made herself so public by telegraphing. She might as well have written."

Then Holmes reiterated the statement he has made so often that the last time he saw Minnie Williams was when he left her at Toronto with the Pitezel children. The prisoner thinks that Minnie Williams is the best friend he has, and feels assured that the telegram was sent by her for the purpose of showing loyalty to him.

The genuineness of the telegram was investigated by Mr. Shoemaker.

Assistant District-Attorney Barlow would not say whether he thought the telegram was genuine or false. He admitted, however, he would not be astonished if Minnie Williams should appear on the scene at any time.

SIX DROWNED AT BUFFALO.

A Pleasure Yacht With Sixteen Aboard Upset—Ten Who Could Swim Were Saved.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 20.—The small pleasure steam yacht Rung Brothers, owned by Burley Bros. of this city, with 13 passengers and a crew of three, foundered early this evening between the inner Government lighthouse and the Reading coal trestle, and six of the passengers were drowned. Their names were: Albert Stafford, Frank Cannon, Frank Rugan, Jacob Bauman, Henry Shingler and Charles Fisher. All of the occupants of the boat were employes of the New York Central stockyards at East Buffalo, and had formed part of a picnic party who went down the Niagara River this morning for a day's outing. After passing the best part of the day at various Grand Island resorts, the yacht was headed up the river for home.

Four passengers were landed at the foot of Ferry-street, and the captain made his course for the foot of Genesee-street, the point of starting. In doing so he was compelled to cross the lower end of Lake Erie in a spot not protected by the breakwater. A high wind had been blowing all day, and there was a big sea on. Caught in the trough of the waves, when near the Reading coal trestle, off the foot of Georgia-street, the yacht careened to one side, filled rapidly, and went down almost instantly. Some of the party could swim, and they were picked up by one of the harbor tugs that was passing. Up to a late hour tonight no trace of the bodies of the missing ones could be found.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED.

Double Fatality the Finale of a "Good Time."

London, Ont., Aug. 20.—Sunday evening three young men named Warwick, living at No. 44 Miles-street, rented a row boat and went down towards the hotel near Springbank, where they had a "good time." Shortly after starting for home John Warwick fell out of the boat, and his brother, Richard, jumped in after him.

"I don't know what became of them," said the third man, "Trusty" Warwick. "We had been having a good time and I immediately fell asleep."

He managed to get back to the city without troubling himself with what had become of his companions, believing they would eventually turn up all right. Search was made along the river all day yesterday. No trace was found until this forenoon, when the body of Richard Warwick was found near Springbank. Search is being continued for the body of his brother, John, who has undoubtedly met with the same fate.

Three Drowned Each Other.

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 20.—A ghastly discovery was made yesterday at Highland Lake. The bodies of Charles Paetriw, William Pilgrim and a man named Phillips were found in the lake. The men went out rowing a day or two ago, and as a number of wounds were upon the faces of each of the bodies, it is thought that the men while engaged in a fight capsized the boat and were drowned.

Had to Choose Between Violent Deaths.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 20.—W. McCreary, superintendent of bridges for the Northern Pacific Railway, reports the death near Couer D'Alene of four carpenters while engaged in extinguishing a fire on a burning bridge. The flames cut off their retreat and eventually all four had to jump into a chasm 135 feet deep and were dashed to pieces.

An Unfortunate Family.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 20.—The death of E. F. McClosky in the Gumery Hotel disaster in Denver, is the latest of a most remarkable series of disasters in one family. A year ago last winter one of the sons of Mr. McClosky was drowned while skating here. The following fourth of July another son was crippled for life by an explosion of fireworks in Kansas City. Later another son was shot and seriously wounded in Cripple Creek. A few weeks ago Mrs. McClosky was burned to death, and a daughter was frightfully wounded.

Six Killed, Ten Injured.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 20.—Furnace H of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, Carnegie's plant, at Bessemer, near Braddock, Pa., exploded this morning, killing six men, and badly burning 10 others, none of those employed about the furnace escaping. Some of the injured have been brought to this city for treatment, and the dead are at the undertaker's establishment.

FROM UNDER THE MOUNTAIN.

Two Mishaps to Rigs and Trains—Electric Railway Fruit Market.

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—The Grand Trunk flyer that left Toronto this morning at 9 o'clock met with an accident near Burlington and traffic was delayed for about two hours. As the train approached a side road about a mile east of Burlington, a runaway team dashed into the baggage car. The horses were pulled under the wheels of the car, resulting in two of the cars being derailed. The wagon was smashed to splinters, but a man who was in the rig escaped with a few bruises.

WINNERS AT THE BUTTS.

THE ONTARIO RIFLE ASSOCIATION MATCHES.

The Gilmour, Gibson and the Canada Company Matches Were Shot Off Yesterday—Major Macdonald Captures First Money in Two of the Matches—Some Capital Scores Made.

The Ontario Rifle Association opened yesterday at the Rifle Range with a very large attendance of competitors from all over the Province, even British Columbia and Quebec being represented. The weather was fine, until about 5 o'clock, barring a rather high wind, when clouds gathered, and a very stiff shower kept up until darkness set in. Altogether there were about 280 participants in attendance, all of whom, with the exception of the city corps, camped out. "Tom" Hayhurst, the hero of Bisley, was there and was the centre of a curious crowd.

Major Macdonald of the 48th Highlanders came out first in two of the three matches yesterday, while of the rural battalions the 77th of Wentworth carried off the honors. The shooting was of a superior order.

HIS WHISKERS IN CUSTODY.

James Savage Buys a False Beard and While Affixing It to His Chin Is Arrested.

P.C. Pogue, who does duty at the Union Station, had his attention attracted last evening by a stranger, who was acting in a somewhat suspicious manner among the crowds on the platform. In a few moments his vigil was rewarded by seeing the unknown step into a corner shaded from the light, and beckon to him a boy, who drew from his pocket a small parcel. The man exchanged hats with the boy, donned the false beard which the latter had brought him, turned up his coat collar and began to move again among the crowds.

The show was soon terminated by the man's arrest. He was sent to police headquarters, where he registered under the name of James Q. Savage of Chicago, age 42. He carried $62 in cash and a ticket for the Windy City. Enquiry at Dorenwend's showed that the man had called there during the afternoon, purchased the false beard, paid 75 cents for it, and arranged to have it sent to the Union Station. His object in masquerading as he did he explained as "a bit of fun," but he will be held until enquiry is made into his previous record
