SEVERAL VESSELS WRECKED.

London, Oct. 12.—A northeast gale is prevailing. The Danish steamer Scotia has gone ashore at St. Abb's Head, on the east coast of Scotland. Her crew were rescued. The schooner Carmel has foundered in the Mersey. Six of her crew were drowned. In many places the gale is accompanied with snow.

A sailing vessel engaged in the coast-wise trade was wrecked yesterday in Colwyn Bay, Denbighshire. Two of her crew were drowned.

IN MEMORY OF PARNELL.

Dublin, Oct. 12.—Yesterday was the fifth anniversary of the funeral of Charles Stewart Parnell, who died suddenly near Brighton, Eng., on Oct. 6, 1891, and whose remains were interred in Glasnevin Cemetery here. The day was observed by the holding of a procession, which, after marching through the city, proceeded to the cemetery, where a large number of wreaths were placed upon the grave of the deceased. The procession was a large one, occupying an hour and a half in passing a given point.

THE CZAR IN GERMANY.

Darmstadt, Oct. 10.—The imperial Russian train, with the Czar and Czarina, and their immediate suites, arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning. Their Majesties were met by the ducal family of Hesse, headed by Grand Duke Ernest of Hesse, brother of the Czarina, and husband of Princess Victoria of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The imperial couple were driven to the new palace, amid great enthusiasm, through the gaily decorated streets. The Czar looked somewhat fatigued on his arrival here; but he was in good spirits and apparently pleased with his visit to France. The Czarina was as smilingly happy as ever.

LORD ROSEBERY'S COURSE.

London, Oct. 12.—Lord Rosebery has canceled all his political engagements on account of his resignation from the leadership of the Liberal party. It is understood that he will go into a lengthy, but not a permanent retirement.

A meeting of the National Liberal Federation to consider the resignation of Lord Rosebery from the leadership of the Liberal party and other matters, has been summoned to meet on Wednesday next. Dr. Robert Spence Watson, the president of the federation, will preside.

The Dundee Advertiser, which wrote to Mr. Gladstone, asking for a statement of his relations which Lord Rosebery, has received a reply in which Mr. Gladstone says. "I find it my duty to abstain from all attempts to interfere with free action or expression of opinion."

DOWN ON FOOD TAXES.

Cape Town, Oct. 12.—A large public mass meeting was held here Friday evening to protest against the imposition of duties upon articles of food. After the meeting a crowd of 3,000 men, bearing torches, marched in procession to the residence of Sir J. G. Jordan Sprigg, Prime Minister and Treasurer of Cape Colony, to whom their spokesman stated the object of their coming. The Premier addressed the crowd, saying it would be impossible to abolish the duties immediately, owing to the fact that the convention with the Orange Free State required one year's notice of its abrogation.

One of the leaders of the crowd openly declared that the reply of the Premier was evasive, and another called attention to the crowd outside the grounds of the Premier's residence, who, he said, were ready to fight unless relief should be forthcoming.

The Premier deprecated any resort to violence. He was with the people in sentiment, but the head of the Government must fulfill the law. After an hour's talk, with the result, as told above, the crowd hooted and sang songs suggestive of hanging the Premier. The scene was very impressive and dramatic.

The strike among the London cab drivers against the special privileges accorded certain drivers at the railways stations, is increasing.

There is remarkable activity being displayed at the Krupp gun works at Essen, owing to an invention, which greatly increases the power and durability of guns. Emperor William will shortly visit the works and inspect the invention.

The Madrid Imparcial has received mail advices from Manilla, showing that the situation in the Philippine Island is serious. The writer represents that 20,000 troops will be needed to quell the revolt in the islands against Spanish rule.

A dispatch from Paris says that at the next meeting of the Cabinet, M. Darlau, Minister of Justice, will recommend the rejection of the British demand for the extradition of Patrick J. Tynan, the alleged dynamiter, now under arrest at Boulogne-suer-Mer.

"DOWN WITH THE SULTAN!"

Popular Demonstration in Hyde Park by London Workingmen.

London, Oct. 12.—An anti-Sultan demonstration was held in Hyde Park yesterday by the workingmen of London, and a large number of persons took part in the procession. The line was 50 minutes in passing. The procession was accompanied by bands, and many banners were carried. Twelve platforms had been erected in Hyde Park, from which the speakers addressed the assemblage. Among those who made addresses were Henry Broadhurst, M.P., John Burns (Socialist), M.P., Edward H. Pickersgill, M.P., James Stuart, M.P., James H. Yoxall, M.P., and Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. They all denounced the Sultan, and set forth the horrors of the massacres of his Christian subjects. Resolutions were submitted to the assemblage and adopted by acclamation, calling upon the British Government to bring renewed and increased pressure to bear upon the great powers to secure united action in order to prevent the Sultan from continuing the "carnival of blood." The resolutions assured the Government that the workingmen would support it in any steps it might take in this direction.

LADY SCOTT'S CASES.

Earl Russell's Mother-in-Law Spends a Night in Police Station Cell.

London, Oct. 12.—As a result of Lady Tina Scott's arrest on a charge of libel, Earl Russell's mother-in-law spent the night in a cell at the Bow Street police station. The case is a sequel to the difficulties which have existed between Earl Russell and his wife for several years. The couple were divorced, and the decree of separation was followed by an unsuccessful action brought by Lady Russell for the restoration of her marital rights. Subsequently Lady Russell was sued for libel by H. A. Roberts, master of Bath College, the suit growing out of the scandal attached to the divorce proceedings brought against her husband by Lady Russell, which resulted in a verdict in favor of Roberts, awarding him £3,000 damages.

Lady Scott was remanded for further hearing, but was admitted to bail in the sum of £2,000, two sureties furnishing £500 each, and Lady Scott herself furnishing £1,000.

The detective who arrested Lady Scott in the Strand Hotel testified as to the circumstances of her arrest. When the arrest was made, he said, Lady Scott pointed to Countess Russell, who was with her, and exclaimed: "She has no father or brothers. I will fight for her until death." The charge is having caused the publication of a series of libels against Lord Russell. Lady Scott was handsomely dressed in black and wore white gloves. The arrest of Lady Scott at the instigation of her son-in-law has created a great sensation in fashionable circles.

VENEZUELA.

A New Book on the Boundary Question—Early Action by Parliament.

London, Oct. 12.—Father Strickland has issued a book on the Venezuelan boundary, based on documents and maps found in the archives of the Capuchin Order. These show that missionaries of the eighteenth century had missions between the extreme limit of the British claim and the Schomburgk line, and none whatever in the area inclosed by the Schomburgk line. They also show that there was a Dutch post in the Yunari district half a century earlier than any Spanish missionary.

The book tends to the conclusion that the rights of Great Britain, as far as the Schomburgk line are irrefragable, and that regarding the region beyond the line Great Britain has as much right as Venezuela. The documents establish indubitably the Dutch right on the whole coast to and including Point Barima, and also to parts far in the hinterland. They show that there are certain tracts in different parts of Venezuela and Guiana which were not seized by either the Dutch or Spaniards, and the present ownership of these, Father Strickland contends, can only be settled by diplomacy and arbitration.

Unless a definite settlement should be unexpectedly reached before the assembling of Parliament, the debate on the Venezuelan question is likely to take place during the first week or two after the House meets.

FROM BAD TO WORSE.

No Improvement in the Turkish Situation—The Porte's Claims Rejected.

London, Oct. 12.—A dispatch from Constantinople states that there has been a steady downward condition of affairs during the past three weeks. The better informed Moslems are anxiously awaiting foreign intervention, especially by Great Britain. The Porte continues its policy of exterminating the Armenians and devastating the country occupied by them. Every fresh report from the provinces speaks of greater disorganization and the increasing penury of the Government.

The diplomats met on Friday and rejected the Porte's claims to search foreign steamers for fugitive Armenians. The embassies have made strong representations to the effect that the state of affairs in Crete is intolerable, owing to the fact that the Porte's promises of reforms have not been executed.

The United States Minister at Constantinople denies that he has made any request to the Porte in behalf of his Government for the admission of the United States gunboat Bancroft through the Dardanelles, but he expresses hope that arrangements were made for her admission before the Bancroft started from America for Turkish waters.

The Rijnharts.

Good News from Tibet—The Missionaries Probably Safe.

Interesting Letters From the Land of the Lamas.

Outrages by Mohammedan Rebels—Barbaric Cruelties.

Letters received by Mr. C. T. Paul, of Toronto, dated in May and June of the present year, written from Kumbum Amdo, Northeastern Tibet, encourage the friends of Mr. Peter Rijnhart and his wife, formerly Dr. Susie Carson, of Strathroy and London, Ont., to think that there is no truth in the recent report that Mr. Rijnhart had been killed and his wife abducted by the rebels.

The rebels are Mohammedans, who came 50 years ago from Turkestan and settled in the Province of Kansuh, which forms part of the frontier between China proper and Tibet. The fame of Kumbum has extended to the most remote parts of Tartary, China, Mongolia, Manchuria, and all the Tibetan territories, even to the Himalaya Mountains. It is the site of the great Lamasery or Monastery, which contains about 4,000 lamas or priests who are there studying the doctrines of Buddhism. Here Mr. Rijnhart and his wife have been working for the past two years.

The district of Kumbum is held by the Tibetans to be especially sacred, for it was here that the great Buddhist reformer, Tsong-Kapa, was born. Kumbum means 10,000 images, the name being derived from the existence of a marvelous tree, said to have sprung up from the hairs of Tsong-Kapa. The Tibetans superstitiously maintain that on every leaf of the tree is visible the image of Buddah!

MOHAMMEDAN CRUELTIES.

Following are extracts from Dr. (Mrs.) Rijnhart's letters:

"If I remember rightly I have told you of the cruelty of the Mohammedans. The same sword that has been devastating Armenia has been busy here. Thousands of the Imperial troops with foreign guns, cannons, torpedoes, etc., came up three months ago to quell the trouble. They went to Topa, the rebel stronghold, 30 li (ten English miles) from us, where about 40,000 rebels were immured. Four fearful battles were fought. After the first bloody day, Mr. Rijnhart and I betook ourselves to the battlefield to help the wounded soldiers. We had about 150 wounded on our hands at once, with no hospital, no nurses, not even a bit of clean cloth to dress wounds, except what we had ourselves. Mr. Rijnhart went to the camps to see those soldiers too badly wounded to be brought to us, while I stayed in a shop the Chinese commander had got for us, and treated the wounded there. How I sighed for more help, or even a place for the poor fellows to stay in. We did no amputation, as the Chinese are averse to that, and thus three or four died, who might have been saved.

"Mr. Rijnhart is becoming a famous surgeon, extracting bullets and operating for dead bone quite skilfully. At the close of another battle we were summoned to a small village where 2,000 soldiers were stationed. The scene beggars description. Soldiers were sleeping in the alleys, horses feeding ready saddled, guns and spears glittering everywhere. Our coming was hailed with delight, everyone shouting at the top of his voice. After being introduced to the commander we began our work of attending to the wounded amidst the most deafening yells. A small room five feet square furnished with a kang or mud bed served as our surgery. Upon the kang we cut out bullets, set broken limbs, treated wounds, etc. The only window was an opening a foot square in the mud wall, which was kept free of heads by a man with a whip, who vigorously yelled and beat right and left. When we asked for hot or cold water, cotton wadding, wood for splints, etc., everyone yelled at once, but yet the desired article was brought.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN KILLED.

"The past three days have been days of terrible bloodshed. Several Mohammedan forts have fallen before the imperial troops, and 1,000 rebels, including men, women and children, have been killed. The Chinese and Tibetans, who fell into the hands of the rebels, have been butchered and mutilated in a most barbarous manner. Ah! you in the home lands have no idea of the horrors of a rebellion here. In civilized countries in time of war women and children are safe, but here, no tongue can tell the fate of some of the weaker ones that fall into the hands of either the rebels or the Chinese troops. The dead and wounded are not treated humanely, either. I recently went down to Si Ning to meet Mr. Rijnhart. On entering the gate of the city I beheld a ghastly sight, for just outside the gate lay a heap of dead bodies being eaten by the dogs. I was so sick! Mr. Rijnhart came home and reported that all along the road he had seen the dead and mutilated bodies of men, women and children. And it is perhaps sadder still to know that hundreds of the young women have been spared by the soldiers, but are now forced to lead anything but pure lives. How our hearts burn and bleed for womankind and little children in these dark places!"

RETREAT OF THE REBELS.

In another letter, dated June 7, Dr. Rijnhart says: "You need not fear on our account as far as this war is concerned, as all the active rebel leaders are being caught and handed over to the Chinese army to be beheaded. About 60 have already lost their heads. Most of the rebels' arms, ammunition and horses have been given up, but the country round about us is far from being settled, as about 20,000 of the worst rebels have fled to the interior of Tibet, and must yet be looked after. The cavalry are to go after them in two or three days. We had intended to accompany them, but as the rebel forces far outnumber them we are advised that it would not be safe. Were we both men, I think we would be less careful, but I would not like to fall into the hands of the rebels because I am a woman; and Mr. Rijnhart is careful, too, for if anything happened him what would I do? Of course if we really felt it was God's will we would risk anything, however dangerous looking to human eyes, and go forth resting securely in Him "who careth for us."

"We expect to go to Tankar to remain for two or three months. This place is described by Rockhill (Land of the Lamas, chap. II.), and was visited 50 years ago by Huc and Eabet, the Jesuit missionary travelers. There is a large lamasery (monastery) there, and we go in response to the invitation of many friends. As far as gaining the confidence of the people is concerned this rebellion has helped us more than years of residence here could have done. We have made friends everywhere, and most influential ones, too. In the Chinese army the commanders are our best friends, one of them having sent us food from his own kitchen while we were attending to the wounded. Another showed great gratitude to Mr. Rijnhart for extracting a bullet from his face.

"While the battles were going on not far from Kumbum, Je-rin-poche the grand Lama, or abbot, of the great monastery, supposed to be an incarnation of the "precious Buddha," was so much concerned about our safety that he offered us some rooms in his house for ourselves and our things until it was prudent for us to return to our own home. We accepted his offer, and found him very kind to us.

"During these troublous times we have not been able to do much preaching except to live the doctrine we came to teach."
