IN CHANCERY:

IN THE MATTER OF PARTITION
BETWEEN
PATRICK KENNEDY HYNDMAN
AND
HENRY COWPER HYNDMAN AND OTHERS.

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUDGES OF THE COURT OF CHANCERY:

THE humble petition of the above named Patrick Kennedy Hyndman, of the Village of Exeter in the County of Huron and Province of Canada, Provincial Land Surveyor, sheweth as follows:

1. Henry Hyndman, late of London, in the Township of Colborne, in the County of Huron and Province aforesaid, was at the time of his death the owner of the fee simple of Lots Numbers four and five, Lake Road East, in the township of Colborne, in the County of Huron and Province aforesaid, and of the east half of lot Number two, front of Maitland Terrace, west of North street, in the town of Goderich, otherwise known as running number four hundred and ninety three of the town plot of Goderich. And the said Henry Hyndman was likewise at the time of his death equitably entitled to the fee simple and inheritance of lots numbers nine, ten and eleven in the eighth concession, Western Division, of the said township of Colborne.

2. The said Henry Hyndman departed this life on or about the nineteenth day of September in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Forty-Four, having first duly made and published his last will and testament in writing which is in the words and figures following, that is to say: "I, Henry Hyndman, of Londerston, in the County of Huron District of London and Province of Upper Canada, do make and publish this my last will and testament. I do hereby appoint my dear wife Augusta Harriet Elizabeth Hyndman my sole executrix and sole guardian to our children, and do hereby direct that in the first place my executrix do provide for the payment of all my lawful debts, and in the next place that she do make a suitable provision for my dear mother, Mrs. Sarah Hyndman, equal to the interest of £50 sterling announced in my favor and the interest of the farm of Gorgoside, in the parish of Largo and County of Ayr, in Scotland, otherwise sold by her and me to John Blair Hyndman, Esquire, to my dear wife on condition of her renouncing her right of dower. I leave for her life the lots No. 1, 2-3 Lake road east, township of Colborne, Western Division, with all houses, buildings, furniture, plate, books, linen, farming stock, cattle and utensils of husbandry which may be on the same at the time of my death, all other property, whether real or personal, I direct to be equally divided among my children, share and share alike, and give and bequeath the said lots No. 1, 2-3, Lake Road East, with the houses and buildings thereon after the death of my dear wife to my eldest son. Lastly I leave to my dear wife the power of dividing among our children as she may think proper the furniture, plate, &c., of which she has the use for and reserve to myself the right by any writing under my hand to add codicils to this my last will and testament or to make special bequests as may appear to me from time to time necessary. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand at Londerston aforesaid, the nineteenth of June 1844, before the witnesses William Ross and Alexander Douglas, my trusty servants.
(Signed) H. HYNDMAN.
(Sd) WM. ROSS, Witness.
(Sd) ALEX DOUGLAS, Witness.

3. The said late Henry Hyndman had eleven children, namely: Your petitioner Patrick aforesaid, his man and the said Henry Cowper Hyndman, of Springside, West Kilbride in Ayrshire in that part of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland called Scotland, sister Caroline Hyndman of the same place, spinster, Isabella Hyndman of the same place, spinster, Elizabeth Mary Hyndman, of the same place, spinster, and Anna Louisa Hyndman, of the town of Stratford, in the County of Perth and Province aforesaid, spinster, Augusta Harriet Williams (formerly Augusta Harriet Hyndman) now the wife of Raby Williams of the same place, John Hyndman, of the Village of Exeter, in the County of Huron, aforesaid, George William Hyndman, supposed to be now residing in Australia or New Zealand, who are all of age, and Robert Blair Hyndman and Arthur Hyndman, now deceased.

4. The said late Henry Hyndman left him surviving your petitioner and the said Henry Cowper Hyndman, Maria Caroline Hyndman, Isabella Hyndman, Elizabeth Mary Hyndman, Anna Louisa Hyndman, Augusta Harriet Williams (formerly Augusta Harriet Hyndman) John Hyndman, George William Hyndman, his heirs and successors-at-law and his widow Augusta Harriet Elizabeth Hyndman, who has a claim for dower out of the said lands, and who is intended to be and is made a party to this petition, and Robert Blair Hyndman and Arthur Hyndman, who have since died leaving no issue.

5. In the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six the above named Henry Cowper Hyndman paid to the Canada Company on behalf of himself and the other children and co-heirs-at-law of the said late Henry Hyndman the balance due on the purchase money of the said lots numbers nine, ten and eleven in the eighth concession, Western Division, of the said township of Colborne, and upon the said last mentioned Company executed a conveyance of the said land to the said Henry Cowper Hyndman and the said other children and co-heirs-at-law, and he and they are entitled to all the remaining premises as tenants in common, subject to the equitable proportion thereof.

6. The said Henry Cowper Hyndman is a creditor of the Estate of the said late Henry Hyndman in respect of the amount so paid by him as aforesaid to the said the Canada Company.

7. By deed poll bearing date the twenty first day of September one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four and executed by the said Raby Williams and Augusta Harriet Williams, the interest of the said Augusta Harriet Williams in and to the aforesaid lots was vested with the payment of the sum of six hundred and seventy dollars and interest by the said Robert Thomson, of the Town of Stratford, in the County of Perth who is an unexceptable thereof made a party to this petition.

8. There are not other debts or assets of the said late Henry Hyndman nor are there any means whereby your petitioner and the said other co-heirs and co-owners are enabled out of the said late Henry Hyndman's assets to pay off the proceeds of the said lands.

9. The said premises are to a great extent unproductive in their present state, and they cannot be conveniently or advantageously partitioned.

10. It will be advantageous for all parties interested that it is necessary for the support and maintenance of your petitioner and the said other co-heirs and co-owners-at-law of the said late Henry Hyndman that the said premises should be sold and the proceeds divided between and applied for the benefit of all parties entitled thereto.

Your petitioner therefore prays

[1] That the said premises may be sold and the proceeds paid to and applied for the benefit of the parties entitled thereto.

[2] And that your petitioner may be paid his share of the proceeds of such sale.

[3] And that the costs of such sale and of these proceedings as between solicitor and client may be paid out of the said proceeds.

[4] And that the said premises may be partitioned.

[5] And for the purposes aforesaid that all proper decrees may be given and accounts taken.

[6] And that your Petitioner may have such further and other relief as the nature of his case may require.

[7] And your Petitioner will ever pray.
EDWARD BLAKE.

Earl Russell on American Affairs.

The following interesting speech upon American Affairs by Earl Russell on the Address in answer to the speech from the Throne being moved (on the 7th inst.,) by the Earl of Claremont, will interest Canadian readers who have not access to the daily papers:—

Earl Russell—My lords, it must be a great satisfaction to her Majesty's government that the noble earl opposite, who, on former occasions, has thought that he had ground for finding fault with the conduct of foreign affairs, should on this occasion have so little fault to find. The other subject to which the noble earl referred is a very difficult one. It is one which is the subject of constant, almost daily, disputes and contests and which I should scarcely notice which were it not that the noble earl has hardly done justice to the two parties to the dispute, and has not sufficiently allowed for the irritation which prevails in the United States. Now, what I think is unjust on the part of the Government and of the Congress of the United States with regard to ourselves is this: that they seem to expect not only that we should do everything which the law of nations demands and which the municipal laws of this country enable us to do, but they seem to expect that we should altogether be able to prevent any and being given to their enemies—to the Confederates. Now her Majesty's Government have used every means from time to time to prevent war being carried on from this country as a basis against the U States of America, which are in peaceful relations with her Majesty; but at the same time it has been impossible to prevent acts which have caused, and I think naturally caused, great irritation in America. We have had ships fitted out here which have afterwards been sent great distances, and there received their armaments and provisions, and then been employed to prey upon the commerce of the United States. We had correspondence in our hands which showed that Confederate agents were continually employed either in building ships in this country or in buying merchant ships, which might afterwards be sent to France, and thence to other at those, where they might be fitted out as cruisers against the commerce of the United States. Now, I do say that, in fairness, when the authorities of the United States see a number of ships that come in some way or other from English ports and English rivers, and that their commerce suffers very grievously from them—I do say that it is natural that they should feel irritation. But they ought at the same time certainly to ask themselves whether her Majesty's Government have done everything which the law of nations authorizes, and the municipal law of this country permits, to prevent this country being made the basis of war like operations, so as to involve us in a war with the United States. I do not feel at all surprised that the Government of the United States should be annoyed and feel deeply that those who are the friends of those States should have their territories made the basis of these operations. So again with regard to Canada. The noble earl seems to imagine that the United States, without any reason whatever, but from mere hostility, as he called it, against this country, had denounced that useful convention with regard to the Lakes. But the case was this:—The Confederate Government, apparently determined, if possible, to involve this country in war, and feeling their own resources not sufficient to carry on a successful war, sent persons into the Lakes, which are not in the Confederate territory, which are no part of our territory, but which being either to the United States or to the United Kingdom of Great Britain—they sent agents into those territories to seize ships that were navigating the lakes, with a view to take possession by force of them and other ships belonging to the United States, and to set free prisoners of war in those States. I say again it is not wonderful that the United States, considering the Canadian lakes the possession of a sovereign friendly to them, should be indignant when they found that operations of war were carried on in those lakes. Well, they adopted a mode which again I think was not unnatural. They say that if they remain in those lakes without any armaments—with nothing but unarmed ships, and make war upon the Canadians lakes. It is a very painful thing, and a matter which may become dangerous to the peace of the United States and Great Britain, if they are obliged to put an end to or to suspend that convention which has been so useful in conducting to the peace of the two countries; but at the same time I cannot expect that the United States should ever permit that war should be made against them on the lakes, and that they should have no means of defence. For my own part I think that the Confederate States—it may be natural on their part, but I think that the attempt to make the Canadian soil the basis of operations, some of them, perhaps, of a character of much more belligerent, but others more resembling the robbery and murder which take place in social life—that in that attempt they do what is most unjust, and I trust that her Majesty's Government will be able, as they have proposed to the Canadian Parliament, to preserve the neutrality of her Majesty as it has hitherto been preserved. At the same time, in the irritation that has been aroused, there has been a disposition with respect to two questions, to make, I think, most unfounded accusations against the Government of this country. They have complained that we have allowed a belligerent character to the Confederate States. My lords, looking at the character of the contest, looking at the immense territory possessed by the Confederates, and looking at the great operations of war which they have carried on, what could her Majesty's Government do but allow them the character of belligerents. (Cheers.) I know of no instance where there has been so mighty an enterprise as that civil war now carried on by the Confederates, in which the belligerent character has not been allowed by the neutral States. (Hear.)—There is another matter with regard to which there is a great deal of popular agitation, and every now and then there is a sort of threat that the day will come when the United States Government will make demands on her Majesty's Government. Your lordships heard last year, and the year before, I think, that demands would be made by the United States of America for the capture and destruction of merchant ships by the Alabama and other vessels, which, having some of their original build in England, were afterwards converted to distant ports, and there received armaments which enabled them to cruise against the commerce of the United States. I must say, looking at the reason of the thing, looking at all the precedents, looking at international law, looking at the declarations that were made by the United States Government themselves, in the case of the Spanish and Portuguese war, when there were ships of war directly fitted out from the United States ports during the South American contest, which prayed on the commerce of Spain and Portugal—I must say that such a claim on the part of the United States Government upon this country would be entirely unjust. Therefore, my lord, while I say that we are bound to make every allowance for irritation that may arise in the United States in the course of the war that has come upon them most unexpectedly; and has caused to both sides great loss, we think unnecessarily—while we make every allowance for that irritation, while we are most strict and most scrupulous in performing all the duties of neutrality, we must not allow any of these unfounded claims to be pressed as founded in justice. There is one thing I cannot avoid saying before I sit down, on a subject affecting the welfare of mankind. When I see in this American contest an attempt to put an end to that horrible; that abominable crime of keeping men in slavery, of putting an end for ever to involuntary servitude in the constitution of the United States, I do rejoice that a great blot is about to be removed from the character of a civilized nation. I do rejoice that mankind may be led to hope that with regard to all civilized nations the crime of slavery may be blotted out forever, and that freedom may be the rule of the world. (Cheers.)

The address was then agreed to.

The Europa's Mails.

Sir Charles Trevelyan, the Governor of Madras, has resigned his post, on account of ill health, and Mr. Masey, the prophet of Salford, and chairman of the committees of the House of Commons, has been appointed to succeed him. This is the Mr. Massey who wrote The History of England.

With reference to the rumor given currency to by the London Index, that the British government, fearing the responsibility of defending Canada against the United States, has determined to cast her off. The Sunday Times says:—"We must really hope our contemporary has been misinformed; and under the effect of its misinformation puts a wrong construction upon the circumstances which are treated as confirmations of the report. Our hope was, that England was really prompting Canada to prepare for conflict, and not for separation, and that the sentiment of 'nationality' which was being fostered was against America and not in relation to the mother country. Earl Russell, we know, is as weak in the presence of danger as he is presumptuous amid the promises of safety; but we can hardly believe him to be base enough for such a project as that now ascribed to him."

The Times of the 4th has an article on Lord Monck's speech on the opening of Parliament. It rejoices that the Governor-General has spoken in such fair and conciliatory language of the neighboring republic. At the same time it shows that the Federal States mistrust and dislike Canada, as they do Great Britain herself, without legitimate grounds. With regard to the confederation it says:—"A few years since isolation would not have been felt as an evil, and responsibility would have been dreaded as a burden. Security would have been thought complete without union, and the strength and stability of the empire would have been the subject of as much hostility as good wishes. But those times are past, and the reasons urged by the Governor-General will have their full weight in bringing the Canadian legislature to a favorable decision."

Arrival of the Novia Scotia.

Portland, Me, Feb. 21.—The steamship Novia Scotia from Liverpool on the 9th via Queenstown on the 10th inst., arrived at this port this morning. The dates per the Novia Scotian are two days later than those received.

The steamship City of Baltimore from New York arrived at Liverpool on the 9th. The Paris corespondent of the London Times insinuates that pending the recognition of the Emperor Maximilian by President Lincoln that France remains without a Minister at Washington.

Particulars of the Fall of Charleston.

THE CITY IN FLAMES.—IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF COTTON.

Previous to the enemy evacuating, they fired the upper part of the city, by which 16,000 bales of cotton were burned, and it is supposed that before the fire could be subdued, two thirds of the city will be destroyed. A fearful explosion occurred in the Wilmington Depot (cause unknown), by which several hundred citizens lost their lives. The building was used for commissary purposes, and situated in the upper part of the city. Admiral Dahlgren was the first to run up to the city, where he arrived at half-past 2 p.m. Gen. A. Gillmore followed soon after in the steamer W. W. Cait, and had an interview with Gen. Schimmelfennig, he being the first general officer in the city, and for the present in command. The remains of two ironclads were found, which the enemy destroyed by blowing them up previous to the evacuation. The blockade-runner Cyrene, just arrived from Nassau, fell into our hands, and two others were expected to run in on the night of the 18th. The first flag over Sumter was raised by Capt. H. M. Boggs, on Gen. Gilmore's staff, having for a flag staff an oar and a boat hook lashed together. The houses in the lower part of the city were completely riddled by our shot and shells. The wealthy part of the population have deserted the city, and now all that remains are the poorer classes, who are suffering from want of food. A movement had been made by the force under Gen. Hatch, which resulted in the capture of six pieces of artillery.

New York, Feb. 22—The Times' Washington special says: The fears of some timorous persons that Lee will be able to precipitate himself on Sherman and, united with the army, be able to check the advance of that General, are not shared by either the government or sensible men here. These persons seem to forget that Grant and his army will have something to say on that issue. Lee is closely observed by Grant on every point, and the fine intimation he gives of an intention to withdraw from Richmond, will be the signal for a tiger spring by Grant. A distinguished military man to day pointed out that the present situation of Lee is precisely analogous to that of Napoleon in 1814, when France was invaded by the allies. Notwithstanding that he lavished all the resources of his incomparable genius to resist the advance, he was pushed and pressed upon by the converging forces of his opponents, and was finally compelled to capitulate in his capital.

Indications are that Sherman is pushing his triumphant columns straight on Raleigh, which point he will reach earley next week. He writes privately the people of the old Nor' State are prepared to hail the advent of his army, and promptly wheel the State into the Union.

Since the fall of Charleston, Wilmington and Mobile are the only two points rem
