THE PREMIERS IN CONFERENCE

Heads of the Various Provinces Get to Work at the Capital.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The provincial conference is sitting with closed doors. The meeting is in the railway committee room of the Senate. When the conference assembled there were present besides the provincial premiers, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Messrs. Fielding, Aylesworth and Lemieux. It is understood that Sir Wilfrid asked the premiers to confer as to the scope of the conference and then retired along with his colleagues.

Sir Wilfrid and other Dominion ministers have a room adjacent to where the conference is sitting.

Hon. Mr. Gouin was appointed chairman on motion of Mr. Whitney. It was suggested that resolution adopted at the Quebec conference in 1902 be adopted. The representatives of the new provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta did not know how these resolutions would affect them, and therefore the conference adjourned to permit them to consider this point.

THREATENS A SUIT

Wm. David, Ridout Street, Claims He Has a Grievance.

Wm. David, locksmith, and who resides at 28 and 30 Ridout street, has a grievance. If it is not wiped out he will bring an action against the city, he says.

Some weeks ago, Mr. David waited on the board of works and asked to have the gutter in front of his place repaired so that vehicles might enter his property.

The board listened and also investigated. The members came to the conclusion that Mr. David's property was in no worse a position than hundreds of others in the city, and on the recommendation of the engineer nothing was done to remove the alleged evil Mr. David complained of.

In the engineer's office today Mr. David ran foul of Chairman Gerry, of the board of works, and also of the engineer, and it was then he threatened to bring an action against the city, as he says the street in front of his place is in a dangerous condition.

Mr. David appealed to Acting Mayor Forristal, but the latter could do nothing for him and simply referred him back to the board of works.

LITTLE TYPHOID HERE

Less Than Ten Cases in the City at Present.

Medical Health Officer Hutchinson says there are about eight or nine cases of typhoid fever in the city at present.

This is a very small number for this time of the year.

Two years ago there were 68 cases of typhoid in London.

There are only three or four cases in Victoria Hospital, the others being in St. Joseph's.

Supt. Heard says that a couple of the patients come from outside places, and should not be chalked up against London.

"The types are virulent this year," Supt. Heard said. "Those suffering from typhoid are having hard struggles for their lives."

Already there have been two or three deaths amongst the very small number of patients.

PRETTY DOUBLE WEDDING

A Melbourne Home the Scene of the Interesting Event.

"Dunaird," the home of Mrs. James McCracken, Melbourne, was the scene of a most interesting event on the evening of Oct. 3, when her two eldest daughters were united in marriage—Miss Grace E. to Mr. T. Edgar Bogue, of Adelaide, and Miss Agnes C. to Malcolm C. McGugan, of Ekfrid.

Promptly at 6 o'clock, to the strains of Mendeissohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Sadie Lethbridge, of Glencoe, Miss Grace entered the parlor on the arm of her brother, Mr. A. McCracken. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. R. W. Leitch, of Delaware, took place before an altar of smilax and white asters. Miss Evangeline Cooper, of Melbourne, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. E. A. Thompson, of Strathroy, supported the groom.

At the close of the ceremony the wedding march was repeated and Mr. McCracken escorted Miss Agnes to the altar. She was attended by her sister, Miss Eva, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. A. E. McGugan, of London.

The brides were charming in gowns of white silk with trimmings of chiffon and lace. They wore the usual veils, caught up with orange blossoms, and carried shower bouquets of white roses. Miss Cooper was daintily attired in Alice blue pongee, with trimmings of white, carrying white carnations; Miss Eva McCracken wore a dainty white gown of pongee, carrying a bouquet of dark red roses.

The grooms' presents to the brides were beautiful gold bracelets, set with opals and pearls; to the bridesmaids, each a gold bracelet and pearl crescents; to the groomsmen, gold cuff links, and to Miss Lethbridge, a pearl pin.

After the congratulations, about 90 guests sat down to a dainty dejeuner served in a dining-tent, decorated in pink and white.

The brides' going-away gowns were brown and green chiffon broadcloth, with hats to match, and they wore Isabella fox furs. The happy couples left on the evening train for Toronto and other points. The beautiful presents show the goodwill of their many true friends. They will be at home to their friends after Nov. 1.

WEDS A MILLIONAIRE

Canadian Girl to Marry Into the New York Four Hundred.

New York, Oct. 8.—A special to the Tribune from Newport says: Monday has been announced as the date for the wedding of Miss Margaret Stewart, of St. John, N. B., to Edward H. Bulkley, of New York and Newport, a brother of Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, Mrs. Reginald W. Rives and Mrs. Roland Redmond, all of whom are well known among Newport's summer residents.

Miss Stewart is a graduate of the Newport Hospital School for Trained Nurses, and she and Mr. Bulkley first met last winter, when she acted as his nurse during his severe illness. Their friendship has extended from that time. Last summer Miss Stewart again served as Mr. Bulkley's nurse through another severe illness. Where the wedding ceremony will take place is not as yet known.

FAMOUS BAND AT THE GRAND

"Besses o' th' Barn" There This Evening—Strong Repertoire Last of the Week.

Manager Stewart announces that vaudeville at the Grand will be discontinued indefinitely.

Later on in the season there will be so many Shubert and other independent attractions that there would not be time to give to the vaudeville. The house made money on the shows presented here, however, all of them being exceptionally well patronized.

AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

This famous English band—which came into existence at the quaint old Lancashire village, Besses o' th' Barn, some 150 years since, is probably the oldest band in existence. It was named after the village, which in turn owes its name to a romance in which tradition says the notorious Dick Turpin played a prominent part. Since its origin, the "Besses" have figured in several historical events—the coronation procession of King George III., among others. In 1837 at the coronation festivities of Queen Victoria, they secured first prize in the band competitions. In 1903 they won the brass band championship of England, and her colonies, and the ever-coveted $5,000 challenge trophy at the London Crystal Palace. Following this, they received a royal command to play at Windsor Castle before King Edward and Queen Alexandra, and subsequently toured France, where they played before President Loubet at the Tuileries Gardens, Paris, with an audience of 30,000 people. With this exception, the band has never left England until the present tour, which is to be a tour of the world. They arrived in New York on Aug. 1, and created a furore by their marvelous playing. They made their debut at Pittsburg, where a critic of the Leader states: "The wonderful tonal effects achieved by this all brass organization constitutes a virtual musical wonder, and the band's rendition of stirring marches has never been equaled by any of the largest and most famous American bands—so great an impression has the organization made, that efforts are already being made to induce them to pay a return visit." This, however, though they may wish to do so, is an impossibility, as their engagements are solid until they sail from Vancouver in December for Australia and New Zealand, where they will be the principal band at the big New Zealand Exposition. Mr. Alexander Owen, the conductor of conductors, has had charge of the "Besses" since 1884, and to his 22 years' of earnest teaching is justly attributed the wonderful result achieved—a brass band that has no superior.

SCHOONERS ASHORE

Two Canadian Boats in Trouble Close to Halifax.

Halifax, Oct. 8.—The three-masted schooner Keewaydin, bound for New York from Wolfville, N. S., with a cargo of coal, was forced ashore, two miles east of here this morning. He will also be asked to tell how that particular deal was put through and the name of those who received portions of the money, as well as facts about personal accounts between himself and Hon. George E. Foster, which the Dominion counsel is anxious to have.

Mr. Fowler may reach Toronto some time today, having wired the commission that he is coming east and that they can expert him on any train today or Tuesday morning.

LOST ON SUPERIOR

Lake Captain Swept From the Deck During Great Gale.

Goderich, Oct. 7.—A telephone message received here this morning by Col. Young, part owner of the schooner Julia Larson, announced the drowning of Captain James Mitchell yesterday afternoon about ten miles northwest of the Chantry Islands. The schooner was bound down the lake from Stoke's Bay to Kincardine with a cargo of lumber, and, although the details of the accident are very meager, it is understood that owing to the strong northwest gale the captain decided to seek shelter behind the Chantry Islands until the wind should subside. The captain had gone aloft to stow some of the topsails, when a heavy sea struck the vessel, throwing her nearly on her beam ends and tossing the unfortunate captain into the raging waters. Owing to the great velocity of the wind and the heavy sea running it was impossible to bring the vessel about or lower the yawl to render any assistance, and nothing was seen of the captain again.

Captain Mitchell was a resident of Colborne, a few miles from here, and leaves a wife and family. The vessel managed to reach shelter under the lee of the Chantry Islands, and eventually arrived safely in Southampton harbor.

A CHEAP REVOLUTION

Little Damage Done Property by the Cuban Insurrection.

New York, Oct. 8.—A Havana dispatch to the Sun says that observations made in an automobile trip, covering a great part of Havana Province, where much fighting was done, convince the correspondent of that newspaper that the countryside was amazingly little damaged by the insurrection. There are no burned houses or stables, no ruined crops or devastated fields to mark the track of the contending forces. In fact, outward appearances show few traces of the deadly combat.

Everywhere farmers have returned to their fields. The correspondent saw many bullock teams plowing, and laborers at their accustomed tasks. On all sides the people are returning to their usual labors. There seems to be no doubt that in this respect it was the cheapest revolution in West Indian history.

LYNCHED THE WRONG MAN

Negroes Fearing Massacre Flee from Arkansas Town.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 8. — A special to the Journal from Little Rock says: Blackburn, the negro taken from the jail by a mob at Argenta, Arkansas, last night, and lynched, is not believed to have been the man wanted. Fully eight hundred negroes deserted their homes in Argenta and came to Little Rock to spend the night. The leaders stated that they were afraid to remain in Argenta for fear of another outbreak by the whites.

TENANT EVICTED

St. John Landlord Adopts Unique Method to Clear the House.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 8. — A most extraordinary method of dispossessing a tenant was adopted by Adam Bell, owner of a large brick building occupied by Harry Wilson, and one of St. John's fashionable private boarding-houses. Wilson's lease expired, and as he did not move out, Bell gathered a dozen disreputable negroes and took them to the house. They entered the parlors and were entertained as Bell's guests. The boarders protested in vain, and finally sent for the police, who, under the circumstances, were unable to act. Great excitement followed, hundreds of people gathered on the street, and the district was in an uproar. Later a supply of liquor was secured and the negroes made themselves very objectionable, being partially drunk, and greatly disturbed the guests. The latter, seeing conditions were not likely to improve, hurriedly collected their belongings, and sending for teams, made a hasty exit to other hotels. Three men alone held the fort at night. Among those turned out were Count de Bury and daughter.

SMITH'S DUAL ROLE

Will Work for Winnipeg and Advise the Power Commission.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The intimation that an arrangement would be made allowing Mr. C. B. Smith, chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, and the expert member of the hydro-electric power commission, to give about half of his time to the service of the city of Winnipeg, was officially confirmed yesterday.

In order to carry out the plan, Mr. Smith retires from the railway commission, but will be retained by that body in his capacity of consulting engineer.

As a member of the railway commission and its chief engineer, he received $3,500 per year, but will not, of course, receive anything like that amount under the new arrangement.

Mr. Smith will remain a member of the new hydro-electric power commission and will continue to serve the Province in that capacity.

The question of a successor to Mr. Smith on the railway commission will be taken up probably early next week.

DEAD IN CHAIR

Petrolea, Oct. 8.—Mr. John Garrison, oil operator, was found dead sitting in a chair this morning at his residence. His wife is on a visit to her son at Cayuga, who is station agent at that place. The sad news has been wired. Mr. Garrison was a good citizen, and lately returned from Borneo, where he went to drill for oil.

REUNITED AFTER MANY YEARS.

Walkerville, Oct. 8. — George Monk, of Chatham Township, and his sister, Mrs. Stanfield, of St. Thomas, have been reunited at the home of the former's son-in-law, Mr. Winterbourne, here, after a separation of 49 years. In 1857 Mr. Monk, who was employed by the old Great Western Railway, went south to take a new position. He returned after an absence of several years to find that his sister had married and moved away to some unknown locality. It was not until recently that it was learned that the woman was living in St. Thomas. A reunion here was then arranged for.

SHE ATE FROM GARBAGE CANS

Wife of a Cuban Patriot Was Starving to Death in New York City.

New York, Oct. 8.—No doctor's certificate was necessary to tell a tale of starvation when Mrs. Henry Yorea, wife of a Cuban revolutionist and mother of two little girls, told of her privations in the Charles street police station. How she starved herself to feed her children and covered them with her own scant clothing when there was no home, only a park or dark, chilled hallway for shelter.

While Mrs. Yorea talked, her two children were tucked away in warm beds in the rooms of the Children's Society rooms. Food had been given to them, the like of which they had not known for a long time, and they ate their fill and forgot their mother in sleep.

Mrs. Yorea, pale as a corpse, her eyes sunken, her body emaciated, with hair tangled and clothes wet, looked the picture of despair when she asked:

"Are my children safe? Do you know that they are safe? Can you swear to it? Well, if they are comfortable and not hungry I can ask no more."

"My husband and children and I lived comfortably until six weeks ago. There was never a time that we did not have all we could eat and plenty to wear. Then came the trouble in Cuba. Henry told me his place was with his country in such a crisis. I told him to go and take what money we had saved. I thought I could earn a good living. I am an excellent seamstress.

"After Henry left I kept the home by sewing for a few weeks. Then I lost work, through no fault of mine. What money I had was soon gone, and then there came a scarcity of food. Then the landlord came for his rent. There was no money for anything. We were dispossessed and my two little ones and I took to the street.

"We would have starved had it not been for the garbage cans. I tried to get clean things from these things for the children, and I groveled in them. Then, occasionally, I would become so desperate that I would appeal to men and women on the street, but they gave me little or no help."

"You didn't eat much during this time?" was asked.

The woman hung her head and looked embarrassed. Then she lifted her eyes and answered:

"I didn't eat when the children were hungry."

It was plain that the mother had gone hungry to give her children food more than once. She would still be hungry and the children crying for food, and chilled to the bone, had it not been for the tenants in the house at No. 516 Hudson street, who heard a noise in the hallway. Investigating, the tenants found the mother lying on the floor, her two children snuggled close against her. The children were sleeping.

The police came and mother and children were bundled off to the station house. There food was given them by the policemen and later the children were taken to the society's rooms.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Oct. 8—Noon.—After a firm and fairly active opening, the market became dull and eased slightly from the initial quotations. In spite of heavy buying of Steel, common, the stock hung around last Saturday's prices, and there seemed to be persistent liquidation about 49. The strong features were Smelters and General Electric. The former was bought heavily by brokers supposed to represent the Guggenheim interests, and close observers of the stock were of the opinion that the manipulation was being confided to the same broker as in the past, and that in accordance with his usual methods he would bring about a substantial advance before any marked reaction took place. There was excellent buying of General Electric, the impression being thereby confirmed that an early announcement would be made benefiting that security. Sentiment is still bullish, but there is a feeling that possibly between now and election the large interests will keep fluctuations within comparatively narrow limits. Sales to noon were 497,000 shares.
