Retrenchment.

When the present reform (?) government came into power, eighteen months ago, we were told a whole lot about a retrenchment scheme, they promised all sorts of reforms, taxation would be reduced, decrease the public service, effect economies and reforms in every direction, and that this Newfoundland of ours would, in future, be a place worth living in. But have they done it? No! According to reports from all parts of the Island there is hunger and want stalking over the land, and people are asking for bread. Never in its history was this country in such a state as it is at the present time.

The present reform government was hardly in power 48 hours when one of their first acts was to increase their sessional pay from $300 to $1000.

When the Cashin government went out of power they left three millions of dollars in the treasury for a rainy day. But to-day, according to reports, there is not enough of that three million left to buy a 3-cent stamp, and now the government are asking the banks for $150,000 to be spent in St. John's to give employment to the starving people.

Last year the government brought down two auditors from New York to investigate certain departments with the avowed purpose, the country was told, of putting Cashin and other members of the Opposition in jail for being grafters, and converting public money to their own use. According to reports, these gentlemen cost this country the nice little sum of $10,000. And what returns did the country get for this large sum? Nothing. They took their money like "jolly good fellows," snapped their fingers at poor old Nfld. and departed. That's reform. $10,000 wrung from the people of this country.

Then again we are told that in the recent bye-election, held in the district of Harbor Main, that no less than $7,000 was spent in shovelling snow. That's another sample of the government's reform system. (By the way, we would like to ask if anything like $7,000 was spent in Trinity the past winter for shovelling snow? We had lots of it. But, then, we had no bye-election.)

And so we might go on telling about those reforms. But there is one real reform that we have to thank the reform government for, and that is that they refused to give this paper the Debates of the House for publication, simply because we did not support them in the general election. That's the only real reform that those "big reformers with little minds" have done. We say, thank you, gentlemen! —Trinity Enterprise.

Obituary.

JANE G. GRENFELL.

Last week, in England, there passed away Mrs. Jane Georgianna Grenfell, in her 88th year. As the mother of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell she was deeply interested in Newfoundland, and her many friends here will revere her memory. The Grenfell Hall in the Seamen's Institute is dedicated to her memory. In his autobiography Dr. Grenfell gladly acknowledges that his mother was the inspiration of his life of service. Mrs. Grenfell was born in India, her father being a Colonel of many campaigns, and her brother an engineer in charge during the Siege of Lucknow 'till relieved by Sir Henry Hareloock. Dr. Grenfell was due to sail for England from New York this week to visit his mother, who had been in failing health for several months.—COM.

Former Mount Allison Student.

WINNER OF $2500 FELLOWSHIP.

Sackville, N.B.—John S. Foster, B. Sc., who attended Mount Allison University during his junior and seniors (1909-11) and at present is studying for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Yale University, has been granted a National Resereach Fellowship of $2,500. The problem on which Mr. Foster is working concerns the structure of the molecule. The well-known theory proposed by Bohr has been studied and modified by Stark and Sommerfield. The path of the electron will be studied by means of observing the influence of an electric field on certain light rays as seen through the opectroscope. Mr. Foster was married last summer to Miss Flora Curtis, a graduate in oratory of the Mount Allison Ladies' College, and a daughter of Dr. Levi Curtis, superintendent of Education for Newfoundland.

North Sydney Marine Railway

PROPOSES A DOLLAR A DAY CUT.

North Sydney.—It is proposed by the marine railway here to reduce wages. The reduction, which involves a cut from $5.50 to 4.50, will effect 15 men working on a nine-hour day. R. T. Sainthill is the local manager, but the controlling interest is held by Arthur Rendell, of St. John's, Newfoundland. It is understood that owing to shipping conditions work is slack. It is not known just what attitude the men will take in regard to the cut.

Death Gets Harvest in Russia.

Since Red rule began in Russia the City of Petrograd has lost 71 per cent. of its population, according to a statement made in a book entitled "Moscow the Red," which has been published in Russia. The first toll was taken in the early days of the revolution, when the bourgeois, who escaped massacre, fled abroad. Then came typhus and other disease scourges, and later famine, owing to the complete breakdown of transport, which drove the working people to the country, where, at least, there is enough to eat. One of the features of the decline in population is that at present women outnumber men in the proportion of 100 to 72. The death rate in the city has almost tripled since the advent of communism and now stands at twenty-two per 1,000, in place of eight per 1,000 before the war. Moscow has not suffered in appearance nearly so heavily as Petrograd. The loss of population in the Soviet Capital is given at 49.67 per cent. The reason is stated to be the great influx of functionaries and employees of the Central Soviet, who number 500,000.

Foreign Venom in the Unted States.

Sinn Fein, pro-German and radical propagandists who are attempting to use the United States for their own ends, were scored by Mrs. George Maynard Minor, of Connecticut, President-Gent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in her opening address recently to the thirteenth annual congress of the association at Washington. Denouncing especially those who seek to excite hatred in this country against France and England, Mrs. Minor warned the Daughters that "disloyal elements were and are joining forces, and from under the shelter of our flag hurling vile slanders at the nations whose sons and ours died together."

"Sinn Fein agitation has appealed more daringly than ever before to the passions that lead to war, preaching a world-wide, wicked race vendetta against Great Britain," she continued. "Pro-German propaganda is once more raising its head and showing forth its evil tongue. The poison of radical and disloyal thought is feeding upon the ignorant and illiterate, and creeping into our educational institutions."

Germans Admit Their Inaccuracy.

The Germans have officially admitted the inaccuracy of their figures of the tonnage handed over to the Allies as reparations. The German Government has declared the total delivered was 4,600,000 tons, but the Allied experts insisted they had received only 2,113,645 tons, and on April 17 the German representatives on the Reparation Commission formally announced the Allied figures are correct. There had been a similar discrepancy in calculating the value of the tonnage in gold marks, the Germans submitting an estimate of 731,000,000 against the Allied total of 495,600,000 marks.

Of Course They Did.

"Two and two never make more than four," declared a politician at a meeting.

"Yes, they do!" exclaimed a man in the audience.

"Perhaps our good friend will kindly tell us when two and two make more than four?" the speaker said, blandly.

Whereupon the man cried: "When they are side by side; then they make twenty-two, don't they?"
