CALAIS TANNING COMPANY'S CASE

United States Treasury Employe Tells Interesting Story on Witness Stand.

(Bangor Commercial.)

Richard Parr, New York, special employee of the United States Treasury department who with Special Agent Bean worked up the case, was the opening witness of Friday afternoon's session of the U. S. District Court. Considerable interest was manifested in Mr. Parr's taking the stand as he was expected to be the most interesting of the government's witnesses. He was with Special Agent Bean who watched the unloading of the Canadian Pacific's cars at St. Stephen and who was the first witness in the case.

Mr. Parr said he went to St. John early in July acting under instructions from Special Agent Bean and began investigation. He traced the three cars from St. John down to St. Stephen and with Mr. Bean went to the wharf opposite the Canadian Pacific wharves in St. Stephen on Sunday evening about 11 o'clock. About 12.15 the work of unloading began. He decibed the method of counting the same as Mr. Bean.

Mr. Parr said the night was clear and still and from their position in the shadow on the wharf they were able to see what was going on across the river and to hear the conversation of the workmen. Witness said they counted 62 bales out of the car and heard them fall on the scow. Was well satisfied there were more but counting only those they saw come from the car door and heard fall on the scow.

He corroborated the story of Mr. Bean relative to the taking of the scow to the wharf of the Calais Tanning Co. When they got there five bags had been taken to the wharf of the Frontier Steamboat Co. He and Bean went to the wharf where the bags of wool were being unloaded. Parr said he counted five on a dray, 11 on the wharf and 49 on the scow, making a total of 74 bales from the scow. Mr. Parr said he went back, at Mr. Bean's suggestion, and recounted the bags of wool.

Later they met Mr. Johnson who took them over the plant. Mr. Johnson told them he had but little stock on hand: only a few sheepskins. Mr. Parr said he did not see Inspector McGarry weigh any wool, neither did anyone weigh any in his presence. The scales in the foundry would not work and no scales were brought in until they were about to leave the building with Mr. McGarry and Mr. Johnson.
