GAMBLER FINED.

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—Jim and Ah Lung, the two Chinamen charged with gambling on the steamer Princess Beatrice, came up for trial before Judge McInnes to-day. Jim escaped because all Chinamen are so nearly alike that the crew could not positively identify him as one of the men that had been gambling. Ah Lung was spotted decisively and was fined $25. The judge said he did not think the offence merited a very severe penality, but the company was very properly trying to stop gambling on its boats, and hence the fine.

GIVEN THREE YEARS FOR SWINDLING

Sentence is Passed on Stanton at Vancouver—Overton Released.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 30.—Judge McInnes this morning sentenced Stanton to three years imprisonment and released Overton, who had turned King's evidence in connection with the charge of buncoing Lars Olsen, a Bellingham farmer in Granville street, and obtaining $325 from him by false pretences.

His honor said that since the adjournment he had looked into the matter very carefully, and it seemed to him that, with regard to another offence, if all the elements were present which constitute an offence, it was immaterial, so far as determining whether it was an offence or not, whether or not the particular offence arose out of an illegal transaction.

The judge observed that the evidence was conclusive against the prisoner, and asked if he had anything to say.

Stanton said something which only his honor could hear, concluding with the words: "I'll try and live an honorable life."

His honor in passing sentence said that the maximum penalty was three years imprisonment, but there was a provision in the code for an increase in the sentence if the judge thought it necessary.

"I may say," added his honor, "that on account of the great deliberation and cunning which has characterized this crime I had intended to increase the penalty beyond three years, but in view of what has been said I shall simply impose the maximum three years."

Overton was then dealt with. Mr. Robertson pointed out that the man had turned King's evidence and though the crown had no desire to use such evidence yet where it became necessary the man got the reward of his virtue. In this case it had been very much against the will of the crown.

His honor observed that it was not a very creditable virtue when a man turned and gave evidence against his comrade in crime. The proceedings would be stayed against Overton and he would be released.

Mr. Russell emphasized the fact that in this case his comrade agreed that Overton should turn King's evidence.

OUTPUT OF MINES.

Last Week's Shipments Rank Second for Present Year.

Nelson, Oct. 30.—The ore shipments for the last week, while a little lower than the previous record week of the year, ranks second in 1909 so far.

The Le Roi mine is once more on the shipping list. The option on the Hattie Brown at Rossland had been thrown up, and South Belt properties are quiet again in consequence. Following are the shipments by districts:

Boundary district—40,935 tons for week and 1,205,950 tons for the year to date.

Rossland—6,217 tons and 194,593 tons for the year to date.

Slocan-Kootenay—4,114 tons for week and 158,050 tons for the year to date.

Total shipments for the past week were 51,266 tons and for the year to date, 1,568,593 tons.

Smelter receipts for the week were 48,811 and 1,437,911 for the year to date.

JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANTS.

Nelson, Oct. 30.—Chief Justice Hunter returned from Fernie and yesterday disposed of the civil case of A. J. Harris vs. J. Power and others, a Kaslo mining case in which the Rio claim was involved. Plaintiff's claim was dismissed with costs. The civil cases go over until the December sitting.
