ABNORMAL DEATH RATE IN 1918

The rate of mortality the life insurance companies had to meet in 1918 was about 32 per cent greater than in 1917 and 14 per cent greater than the average death rate for a score of years. This great advance was due mainly to the influenza epidemic, the ravages by which continued during several months of the current year. Thirty-eight life insurance companies reporting to the New York Insurance Department were called upon to pay for death claims and endowments about $93,000,000 more than in 1917. The increase in death losses paid by legal reserve companies was approximately $123,000,000 in the United States and Canada—mainly due to the influenza, on lives under age 50. To meet the exceptional mortality the surplus funds of legal reserve companies as they stood at the end of 1917 were depleted more than $37,000,000. Normally the increase of surplus should have been about $40,000,000, indicating a direct draft on surplus of about $77,000,000, owing to the abnormal mortality. Fraternal orders having limited surpluses and small reserves suffered very severely.

An inquiry conducted by the Connecticut Insurance Department indicates that war claims, meaning all deaths suffered by men in the service, not including influenza, was equivalent to about a 6 per cent. increase on normal mortality. Reports received by The Insurance Press confirm this figure. On that basis the war losses by life insurance companies of the United States in 1918 amounted to about $23,000,000.

War mortality, which did not cease with the close of hostilities, will continue, in a decreasing proportion for perhaps from five to ten years. Wounds received, diseases contracted, effects of poison gas, shell shock, etc., will result in many lives becoming impaired.

An inquiry by the Department of Insurance of Canada of Canadian and British companies shows war claims incurred on Canadian policy-holders in 1918 mounted to $6,715,000; for the whole period of the war, to the end of 1918, $20,510,000.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Extract from a letter of a Canadian soldier in France.

To MRS. R. D. BAMBRICK:
The Rectory, Yarmouth, N.S.
Dear Mother:—
I am keeping well, have good food and well protected from the weather, but have some difficulty keeping uninvited guests from visiting me.
Have you any patriotic druggists that would give something for a gift overseas—if so do you know something that is good for everything? I do—Old MINARD'S Liniment.
