

AGRA.

One of India's Most Noteworthy Cities. The Great Mausoleum seen by moonlight. A Work that cost Twenty-Five Millions—Contrasting the Past with the Present.

We have reached one of the most historical and noteworthy cities in India. Who has not heard of the great glistening marble mausoleum, one of earth's grandest monuments, the Taj Mahal?

The Taj Mahal, without doubt, may be classed as one of the architectural wonders of the world. To see it, is to see a work of art expressing elegance, pure taste and wondrous grace combined.

The Taj Mahal, without doubt, may be classed as one of the architectural wonders of the world. To see it, is to see a work of art expressing elegance, pure taste and wondrous grace combined.

To see the Taj Mahal by full moonlight is one of the sights of India, and fortunately for us the night of our arrival, as the train drew into the city at eleven o'clock, we had the satisfaction of peering through the moonlight.

But a mere passing glimpse of this illusionary cloud-like vision was not enough to satisfy our impatient longing; we could not sleep until we had driven two miles from the hotel to the gates of the Mehdal Land.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

ed what wonderful skill in carving and inlaying these soapstone possessors. All the flowers of the flora of India skillfully inlaid were represented in mosaic as faithfully as if painted by our modern artists.

The British Government are restoring in imitation some of the interior beauties of the Taj, but the work, compared with the original, is very inferior. We climbed to the top of one of the tall minarets from whose elevation we had a splendid view of the river below us, the walled city with its countless shining domes, and the far stretching flat country around the city.

The Taj Mahal, without doubt, may be classed as one of the architectural wonders of the world. To see it, is to see a work of art expressing elegance, pure taste and wondrous grace combined.

To see the Taj Mahal by full moonlight is one of the sights of India, and fortunately for us the night of our arrival, as the train drew into the city at eleven o'clock, we had the satisfaction of peering through the moonlight.

But a mere passing glimpse of this illusionary cloud-like vision was not enough to satisfy our impatient longing; we could not sleep until we had driven two miles from the hotel to the gates of the Mehdal Land.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

From the gates we were permitted within the enclosure at such an unreasonable hour. A dozen native watchmen lay about the gates on their bamboo pole beds, and on our arrival aroused themselves and explained that we would have to come the following night.

GRAPES.

Their Value and Uses set Forth by the Niagara District Grape Growers' Association.

The following has been issued by the Niagara District Grape Growers' Association, and may be of interest to our readers:—

GRAPES AS FOOD AND MEDICINE. The quantity of grapes, says Dr Irving C Cross, of Washington, D. C. that one may eat with impunity is something astonishing.

Albumentoid and nitrogenous Milk Grapes. Sugar, gum, etc. 1 6 1 7 Mineral substance, water, etc.

1. Take sound, ripe grapes, in baskets or boxes from three to six inches deep, set in a cool place to sweat, for one or two days, then line the baskets with paper and place in layers of grapes (removing all unbound ones), then a layer of paper and so on until basket is filled, then cover closely with paper and keep in a dry place with temperature as near 35 or 40 degrees fah. as possible.

2. Take six lbs. grapes, wash well, add 3 gal. water, let stand in an earthen jar for three days, then run off the liquid which is at the bottom, being careful not to disturb the skins and seeds that have risen to the surface—strain through fine sieve or cheese cloth—add 1 lb. sugar to each quart of juice, bring to a boil and while at that temperature can in self sealing jars. Flavor improves with age, and will keep any length of time.

3. Take under ripe grapes, wash, boil three minutes, add one quart brandy, let stand 10 lbs. of juice add one lb. sugar, let come to boil, skim, boil one minute and run into moulds.

4. Take 10 lbs. under ripe grapes (if well ripened add one box gelatine), boil five minutes, strain, add one lb. fruit juice, also one teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, boil five minutes, strain into moulds.

5. Take ripe grapes, separate skins from pulp, pulp pulp three minutes, strain through leno or cheese cloth to take out seeds, add skins after boiling them twenty minutes, add 1 to 4 pound sugar (to suit taste) to 1 pound fruit, let dissolve, then boil 1 minute—not longer—as boiling too long destroys the aroma.

6. In preserving the juice or canning grapes, avoid boiling beyond the specified time, as further boiling carries off the flavor and aroma of the juice, also changes and destroys the chemical and food properties of the sugar used.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of despairing patients can testify. On this point a trustworthy medical writer says:—

CHILDREN'S ASSOCIATES.

Parents Should Make Friends of the Children and Secure Perfect Confidence.

Too many parents content themselves with merely knowing who their children's associates are and what families they belong to. But the greatest number of parents, whose children attend the public schools, know nothing of their associates, except what they see of them occasionally when calling for children.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

Every parent should have the confidence of his or her children. If there is not perfect confidence between them it is more than likely that it is the parents' fault.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

The Mother's Work.

The fact that it is no trifling affair to manage a house is never more fully realized by the feminine head of the establishment than when she is unable from illness to follow the beaten path.

A lady said to another one day in a fit of confidence, "Twice a week for twenty years, John has asked me where he should find his clean shirts, and all this time they have been in the same drawer of the same bureau, and I have to tell him every time," she concluded dolefully.

Her companion burst into a hearty laugh. "Why," said she, "for over thirty years James has asked me the same question and I have always answered calmly, 'left hand side of the drawer next to the top.'"

When each congratulated herself that she had not the only forgetful man in existence to wait upon. It generally seems easier to pick up after and wait upon the members of the family than to insist on their doing it for themselves.

It is for boys you may be the means of training up a John who will not have to be told a hundred times a year where his clean linen is, provided he has an orderly wife.

Lined Oil for Horses. Lined oil is not only a valuable restorative for sick horses, but is exceedingly useful in cases of inflammation of the membranes, peculiar to the organs of respiration and digestion.

What noise is that? A wagon and a dog barking with all its might, and his horse is starting. "Whoo!"

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad.

Don't allow a cold in the head to slowly and surely run into Catarrh, when you can be cured for 25c. by using Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

WORDS FOR WOMEN.

The Fashion, the Health and the Household.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

There are few women who cannot, with a little teaching, become competent to cut, fit and make their own and children's house and work dresses.

Advertisement for ELY'S CREAM BALM, CATARRH, and HAY FEVER. Includes text: "Gives Relief at once and Cures COLD IN HEAD CATARRH HAY FEVER." and "Not a Liquid, Snuff or Powder. Free from Opium. One of the Best of our Drugs and of famous Odors."