A NOVA SCOTIAN'S STORY.

A Fall From a Wagon and What Followed.

Mr Abel Wile, of Bridgewater, Relates a Remarkable Escape After Weary Months of suffering—How it was Brought About.

From the Bridgewater, N. S., Enterprise.

For some time past it has been talked about Bridgewater that Mr Abel Wile, a well known farmer who resides a few miles out of town, had been cured of a serious illness by the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills. The Enterprise having published the particulars of many other cures occuring in various parts of the Dominion through the efficacy of this remarkable medicine, felt a curiosity to investigate this local case in order to ascertain just what benefits had actually followed the use of the medicine in question. With that end in view a reporter was sent to interview Mr Wile. The writer had understood that Mr Wile was an old gentleman, and his first impression was one of pleasant surprise, for instead of shaking hands with a feeble greyhaired man, behold not a grey hair was to be seen, although some seventy-five years have past over his head. Mr Wile is now hale and active and his memory very clear, and he can tell many interesting stories of the early settlement of Bridgewater. When the reporter mentioned the object of his visit, Mr Wile at once exclaimed, "Well, my dear sir, I might express it all by saying that I believe Dr Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. This spring I was violently thrown from my wagon, and although I escaped having any bones broken, I sustained a severe strain in my right loin which seemed to paralyze that part of my side and stomach. I experienced great pain and weakness, which, despite all my efforts with different remedies, grew steadily worse, and for two months or more I suffered terribly. I could not properly digest my food, and got but little sleep at night, and at last began to think that it was only a matter of a few weeks when I would go the way of all men. But a happy day came and ended my misery. We are all good Babtists in our family, and in a copy of the Messenger and Visitor my wife read to me of some of the marvellous cures brought about by the use of Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. My wife went into town and purchased some and from the first Pink Pills seemed to go right to the root of my trouble and it was not long until I could sleep good sound refreshing sleep, for the first time in eight weeks. I continued taking the pills until I had taken a number of boxes, when I considered myself completely cured, and from that out I went about my everyday duties as well as ever, and I thank the Lord that such a boon as Dr Williams' Pink Pills had been given to mankind to help rid them of disease.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomoter ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, the after effects of la grippe, influenza, and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over-work or excesses of any nature.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark. They are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. The public are also cautioned against all other so-called blood builders and nerve tonics, put up in similar form, intended to deceive. Ask your dealers for Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Schnectady, N. Y., and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr Williams' Medicine Co. at either address, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

Go to work, husband, wife and children and rid up the yard and lane. Burn all worn-out rigs and machinery, sell the old iron for what it will bring, haul off the stones, haul all loose boards and rails to a suitable place, pick off all rubbish, put all rigs and implements in a suitable place under a good roof from sun and rains; the barn-yard is not the place, as they differ from the growing grain and do not improve with sunshine and showers. Mend the breaks in the fences, nail any loose boards on buildings, mend all broken doors and gates, and the improved appearance will be ample pay for your trouble.

In a recent sermon Dr Talmage rang out a clarion appeal for a grand rally to destroy the drink curse. A paragraph which we quote, comes to Ontario people like a special message at this time. He said: "You have, under God, in your power the redemption of this land from drunkenness. Empty your cellars and wine-closets of the beverage, and then come and give us your hand, your vote, your prayers, your sympathies. Do that and I will promise three things: First, that you will find unspeakable happiness in having done your duty. Secondly, you will probably save somebody—perhaps your own child. Thirdly, you will not, in your last hour, have a regret that you made the sacrifice, if sacrifice it be." —Templar.

After the Honeymoon.—He—"Everybody says you married me for my money." She—"And everybody says I paid an exorbitant price for it."

Signs of the Times.

Three million dollars is the estimated annual cost of the liquor traffic of Toronto, which sum, the civic authorities records show, would defray the Queen City's expenses for a year without a cent of taxation. Toronto has been suffering from the collapse of a building boom, but the liquor traffic, which fattens on misery and causes so much want, appears not to have participated in the collapse to any extent. The inspiration of the forgoing figures is the prosperity which would result from the suppression of the liquor traffic in that and every city. It is a hopeful sign that from all quarters comes news of a general awakening of public sentiment on the temperance question which, when thoroughly aroused throughout the Dominion and registered at the ballot-box, will, it is to be hoped, mean the overthrow of the drink power, and ultimately the suppression of the liquor traffic.—Montreal Witness.

The Total Abstainer as a Good Samaritan.

The Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., of Boston, thus writes in the current number of the Watchword:

"And it came to pass as a certain man journeyed from the cradle to the grave he fell among saloon keepers who robbed him of his money, ruined his good name, destroyed his reason and then kicked him out worse than dead. A moderate drinker came that way and when he saw him he said: "He is but a dog—they served him right. Let him lie—he is but a curse to his family." And also a license voter came that way, and when he saw him he said: "The brute! Put a ball and chain on his leg and work him on the street." And a fanatic teetotaler came that way, and when he saw him he took compassion on him and raised him up, assisted him to his home, and ministered to his wants and the wants of his family; got him to sign the pledge and started him on his journey in comfort and happiness. Whom, think you, was the greater friend to humanity, the saloon keeper, the moderate drinker, the license-voter, or the fanatic teetotaler?"

"A Talk With Mother."

"Mother and I had a talk." The words were spoken by a frank, earnest-faced lad of perhaps nineteen. "About a year ago," said he, "I had a very severe illness, and was brought near to death's door. When I was getting better, mother and I had a talk, and I made up my mind I would become a Christian. A few months later I left home to enter into business with an uncle in this city. I began to attend the young people's meetings, but went away from them more and more dissatisfied with myself and with the way I was living. One day my uncle received a letter from mother, in which she referred to my illness, and said: 'Let us hope he was spared for some good purpose.' I could not forget the words, and I then and there began to lead a Christian life."

There are mothers who are timid about approaching their big boys on the subject of personal religion. Do you belong to this class? Perhaps you are afraid that he may snub you just a little if you do. Possibly he may; but it will be because he does not quite know what to say—for boys do not carry their hearts in their sleeves. However, your words will be turned over and over in his mind in quiet hours. Boys think far more, and far more seriously, than the older people give them the credit of doing.

The economic side of the temperance question is the one which will, perhaps, in the long run appear most strongly to the gleat mass of the people. The moral aspect of the question has been dwelt upon until there seems little to say that is new, but if we would succeed in convincing the average sober citizen that he bears his full share of the financial depletion and industrial loss attendant upon the drink traffic every year it doom would be sealed. Let all such become really aware of the drain upon their pockets as a consequence of the existence of the license system and its effects, and the huge farce would be quickly "played out."—Canadian Citizen.

John Ruskin has never been ranked among the so-called "temperance fanatics," but few have ever used stronger language than he in the following: 'Drunkenness is not only the cause of crime, but it is crime; and if any encourage drunkenness for the sake of the profit derived from the sale of drink, they are guilty of a form of moral assassination as criminal as any that has been practiced by the bravos of any country or any age."

That Doctor's Letter.

An important communication from a prominent physician, that excites widespread interest. Its contents will be good news to sufferers from kidney disease.

TORONTO, Dec. 4th, 1893.—The letter from Dr E. A. Rose, a fac-simile of which appeared lately in the leading Canadian papers, is well worthy of consideration. The doctor lives in Portland, Ont, where he has a large practice. He stated in his letter that he had been cured of diabetes and blood poisoning by Dodd's Kidney Pills. As he is well-known throughout the province as a reliable man, his statement stamps the remedy as one of remarkable value. Kidney diseases are more prevalent to-day than any other, and Dr Rose's experience will prove of use to many other victims of kidney disorder, by directing them to a reliable remedy.

The Groder Dyspepsia Cure Co.

GENTLEMEN.—I am 71 years of age. Have been afflicted with sick headache most all my life, which developed into Dyspepsia of a mild type about twenty years ago, and has continued to grow worse until during the past seven or eight years I have not been able to take a drink of cold water or milk, as they would produce severe pains and sometimes vomiting. I have been subject to severe pains in the chest, with dizziness, which have been more frequent during the past three or four years. My mouth was furred up in the mornings, accompanied with bad breath. My case was yearly growing worse.

During this long period I have tried many popular medicines, as well as prescriptions from the regular medical practitioners, but without producing any improvement.

In the fall of '92 I concluded to try a bottle or two of your medicine and such were its effects that I continued it until now I can drink cold water or milk without any inconvenience. Those dizzy pains are all gone and my mouth is as sweet as a baby's. In short your medicine has cured me and I am sure that all Dyspeptics can be cured by its use.
