RECENT DEATHS

Miss Sophie Taylor Lawson.

The death of Miss Sophie Taylor Lawson, aged 87 years, occurred at her mother's residence, 88 Horsfield street on Monday, July 30. Miss Lawson was a daughter of the late William Lawson and of Mrs. Julia Lawson. She is survived by her mother, two brothers, J. S. Lawson, on his way to England, and R. Bonar Lawson, of Middletown (Conn.), and by one nephew, Jack Lawson, in France. The funeral services will be held at her late residence, Horsfield street, and the body will be taken to Rexton for interment on the 7 o'clock train, Wednesday morning.

Frank C. Davidson, formerly of Moncton who went to South Africa at the time of the war sixteen years ago and who remained there ever since, died recently at Johannesburg. George C. Davidson of the C. G. R., is a brother.

BOYS' CLUB BASEBALL

St. John, N.B., July 30, 1917.

To the Editor of the Times-Star:

Sir,—Last Friday evening I took a walk to the place where the working boys and our Boys' Club play baseball. It was a lesson in how to make the best of an awkward situation, to see the cheeriness with which the Giants and the Maples accepted the disabilities occasioned by the "rough" diamond now left to them for the favorite pastime. One bright lad said to me: "You see our score is rather large these days on both sides, the ground is so uneven, but we are playing pretty good games." I exploited what little knowledge I had of the game to my own and his satisfaction, apparently, and watched with interest the curves of the small pitcher for the Maples and the straighter pitching of the young lad doing service for the Giants.

Not a murmum arose when the ball went over the dump into the bay; but the whole company, boys on bases and all rushed to watch the rescue of the ball. Their assistant for this work was not on the job, being noisily engaged in chasing birds. She is a clever water spaniel called "Lady," who very often saves the ball from a watery grave and the evening game from disaster. On the right side of the diamond(?) is a great pile of wooden hulls, old lumber and old iron, not an easy place for finding the ball when a foul is struck.

If any of your readers are meeting what seems to them unconquerable difficulties, I wish they would take a walk to the foot of Hanover street, turn to their right and surely they will be convinced when they see what I have described that the only thing to do in life is to "smile" and "play the game."

I am proud to sign myself Hon. Pres. of the Working Boys' Baseball League,

MARY H. GOOD.

An important ruling was made by Chief Justice McKeown at the afternoon session of the arson cast yesterday. His Honor ruled that the confessions secured by the police from prisoners was only evidence if the accused had been warned that they had nothing to hope or fear, and that anything that they said would be used against them at their trial. His Honor ruled out the confessions of Joseph O'Brien and John Hughes when Mr. Mullin objected to their being produced as evidence by Detective Duncan.

Mrs. Thomas Lydon said last night that a mistake had been made in one witness's evidence in this case, when he said that the road leading to her house had been re-gravelled since the visit of the defendants on the night of June 14. This is the city property and a visit would show that the road had been undisturbed this summer.

A Suggestion.

"Why did the umpire put that man out of the game?"

"He struck the umpire."

"That is foolish. In such a slow game as this a fellow with that much fight left in him ought to be left in."
