from generation to generation! There may they serve to instruct, enlighten and adorn your children's children through ages yet unborn, as they have for so many ages past the children of our Parent State! That it will be so, I entertain no doubt. From the pure flame which burns upon the Holy Altars of those venerable establishments, we have this day brought a spark which will rapidly spread itself with equal purity and, I trust, with equal splendour over our western world.

"Nosque ubi primus equis Oriens adflavit anhelis, Illic sera rubens accendit lumina Vesper."

The subjoined Latin Ode was then recited by W. G. Draper of the 7th Form:

Opem canenti, Pierides, mihi
Et ferte vires! nam vereor puer
Ut versibus dicam politis
Nomina quæ peritura nunquam.

O! si mihi esset Mæonius vigor!
Mææ Camenæ nunc meritis modis
Devolverent laudes paterni
SEATONIS, egregii et BAGOTI.

Quid debeas illi, Anglia, vulnera et
Testis Rodrigo—quid memorem magis
Sæpe hostium fusas manus, et
"Prælia conjugibus loquenda?"

Evenit at pax—et cupidus boni
Huc venit heros trans mare Atlanticum
Promptus obscuram indolem; ædes
Hæ monumenta manent honoris.

En! hìc Bagotus (nomen honoris, et
Primo Ricardo tunc etiam benè
Notum) statimque, ut Cæsar alter,
Hic Venit, Hic Videt, atque Vincit!

Matris suæ Almæ tam meminit benè
Nobis honores ut similes dare
Cupiverit; surgit sub illo
Relligionis et Artis ædes!

Io! triumphe! flos Canadensium!
Est Alma nobis mater—et æmula
Britanniæ hæc sit nostra terra,
Terra diu domibus negata!

Cani et loquaces cùm referent senes
Hujus diei facta suis; suos
En! nomen effari docebunt
Clari Equitis Caroli BAGOTI.

Translation.

Your aid, ye muses, hither bring
To me a youth unskill'd to sing
Great names in classic strain.
O! had I but old Homer's fire,
How boldly would I strike the lyre,
And praise a noble twain!

Seaton! Rodrigo can attest
The patriot fires that warm'd thy breast,
And wounds that grace thee well.
Peace came—and o'er the foaming brine
She brought thee here to raise this shrine
Where Learning loves to dwell.

Then Bagot,—name, in days of old,
By Hist'ry in her page enroll'd,—
A second Cæsar came:
Came, saw, and conquer'd—wav'd his hand,—
And then descended on the land
A more resplendent flame.

For mindful of those golden hours
Which flitted mid' the classic bowers
Of Isis, far-fam'd stream,—
The blessings of his earlier years
He will'd for us,—and lo! appears
A rising Academe.

Joy to this fair Canadian land!
Joy to her youth, an ardent band,
To deeds of virtue vow'd!
For them an infant Oxford springs,
And Christian science radiance flings
Where once the Indian bow'd

To idol-gods. This hour so bright
Grey-headed eld shall oft recite
With pride to youthful ears;
And Bagot's fame transmitted down,
Circled with amaranthine crown,
Shall greener grow with years.

To this succeeded the recitation of some Greek Anacreontics by Norman Bethune, of the 7th Form:

Ἀλαλάζετ' ὦ φίλοι νῦν
Ἀλαλάζετ' ἠδ' ἑταῖροι
Φαρέτρη βέλος τ' Ἔρωτος
Τό βρέφος τε τῆς Κυθήρης—
Τάδε πάντα— χαιρέτωσαν.
Διόνυσον οὐκέτ' ᾕδω,
Ἀμελής δε καὶ ῥόδοισι
Κεφαλὴν καταστέφεσθαι.
Τί δὲ δεῖ με νῦν ἐπαινεῖν;
Σοφίην, φίλην Ἀθήνῃ
Σοφίην, φίλην τε Φοίβῳ.
Τόδε σήμερόν μεν ἡμῖν
Μεγάλας δόσεις δίδωσι.
Γένος, ὄψεται τόδ' ἦμαρ,
Νέον ἠδ' ἄμεινον ἀνδρων.
Σοφίας πάτος φανεῖται
Φανερός· ποθοῦσι δάφνην
Ἀνέρες, ῥόδον βαλοῦσι.
Τάδε τίς θεῶν δέδωκεν
Ανέρων τε, τίς μέγιστος;
Απέχει· λιγεῖα Μοῦσα
Πλέον αἴδεται λέγειν νῦν
Ἐμ'—ἐναντίον ΒΑΓΩΤΟΥ.

Translation.

Raise, my friends, the gladsome shout!
Let the voice of joy ring out!
Let the verse no longer flow
For blind Cupid and his bow:
Bacchus kindles not my Muse:
Wreaths of roses I refuse
To entwine around my brow,—
Say, what theme inspires me now?
Wisdom, whom the Gods above,
Pallas and Apollo, love.
Great the gifts this happy hour
From its lap on us doth shower.
Hence a nobler race shall spring,
Ripe in deeds for bards to sing;
Henceforth Wisdom shall appear
With a torch, as noon-day clear:
Classic Laurel shall o'er-power
Roses,—Pleasure's favourite flower.
By what God, or god-like mind,
Are these noble ends design'd?
Stop—for BAGOT's stately mien
By my timid Muse is seen;
Trembling, she would fain retire,—
Hark!—her quiv'ring notes expire.

Dr. McCaul then proposed the health of the Lord Bishop, in warm and happy terms, adverting particularly to his educational abilities, and expressing the conviction that Canada, before the close of his Lordship's valuable life, would have to thank him for many an additional spire gracing her scenery,—many an additional pulpit well filled by faithful preachers of Christ and His salvation. His Lordship replied in few, but touching words. He declared that he had looked for this day for forty years, and that the present was the happiest moment of his existence. His feelings were evidently almost too strong for him, and spoke with an eloquence far beyond that of words. The company shortly after separated: and in the evening the Lord Bishop (the President) entertained, at dinner, the Chancellor and the Visitors and Council of the University.

We cannot find room for enlarging upon the gratification afforded to all by the proceedings of this memorable day. For our own part, delighted as we were by the external beauty and moral associations of the ceremony—by witnessing so many as ten or fifteen thousand persons, (for between these numbers the computation lies,) all joining in the peaceable pleasures of one great holiday and exhibiting a placid and intellectual participation in the important event,—we must confess that to us the brightest moments of the day were spent in the College Hall. There was robust manly British feeling chastened by refined and classic taste: there were the most promising sons of the Province stamping upon their young memories, recollections which will animate them when their limbs totter and their eyes grow dim: there was evidence, full and satisfactory, that the tendency of a sound, classical Education, of which England has furnished the unrivalled and time-tried models, is to rear up youth in principles of loyalty, in the ambition of deserving the civic crown, and in the love of those Institutions to which the mother country owes so much, and which, one by one, are being transplanted to "this mighty Province."

On Sunday last, His Excellency the Governor-General attended Morning Service in the Cathedral of this City. The Rev. H. J. Grasett preached a noble Sermon on the character of Barnabas to a crowded congregation, and made some admirable allusions to the event of the preceding day. We scarcely ever heard, either in England or on this continent, so perfect a specimen of pulpit eloquence.

In the afternoon, the Rev. A. F. Atkinson, Rector of St. Catharines, preached upon the duty incumbent upon the Christian Laity to co-operate with the Christian Ministry in the great work of evangelizing the world. He took occasion, as did Mr. Grasett in the morning, to direct attention to the meeting of Thursday next, and called upon all to be zealous in the cause of Christ's Church.

The anthems, for both morning and evening, were selected with much taste, and performed with great devotional effect: indeed the services and sermons of the day, were in every respect so excellent, so fervent and so scriptural, that we felt great reason to thank God for the spiritual provision furnished to us by the Church.

His Excellency the Governor-General has presented 6*l.* 5*s.* to the House of Industry in this City.

His Excellency the Governor-General left this city at 6 o'clock, P.M., in the Traveller Steamboat, for Kingston. His Excellency, we learn, was inexpressibly gratified with his whole visit.

The Provincial Lunatic Asylum, we learn, is to be erected in the neighbourhood of Toronto.

The Britannia, Halifax steamer, has arrived: but brings little addition to the news by the Great Western.

ENGLAND.

Sir Robert Peel's proposition to lay on an Income Tax was debated at great length from night to night, until the 23rd of March, when the opponents of the measure succeeded in throwing it over beyond the Easter holy-days, in spite of the Premier's most strenuous efforts to have the sense of the House taken upon it before the adjournment. The debate was to be resumed on the 4th of April

In the course of the discussions Sir Robert informed the House that the Queen had of her own accord given him to understand that, if Parliament should think an income tax necessary, it was her wish and intention that her income should be subjected to it, as well as those of her people.

On Monday, March 7, the army estimates were brought forward. No material difference from last year was proposed, the estimate being for 122,564 rank and file, officers and non-commissioned officers. Increase, 1447, accounted for by the raising of the royal Canadian regiment and the St. Helena corps, and an augmentation of the 3rd West India regiment. After sundry objections the motion was agreed to. The sum voted was £3,587,571—not including the expense for India.

Mr. Ward's motion for a committee to inquire and report whether there are peculiar burdens affecting the landed interest, or whether that interest enjoys peculiar exemptions, after considerable debate was negatived, 115 to 230. The House is clearly resolved to go on with Sir Robert Peel in perfecting his corn law.

Sir James Graham, on the part of the Government, announced distinctly enough that no farther attempt would be made to arrange matters by concession and conciliation with the malcontents of the Scottish Church, and that the letter of the law would be adhered to and enforced.

A strenuous attempt was made, on behalf of the opium merchants in China, to obtain an expression of the House in favour of their claim to the Canton ransom money, by way of compensation; but the Chancellor of the Exchequer gave them to understand that the money would be appropriated to the prosecution of the war, and that they must wait for their compensation until it could be wrung from the Chinese themselves.

The bill to legalize mixed marriages in Ireland, after its passage in the Commons, was laid aside in the upper house to await the return of the Judges from circuit. A case involving the legal question was likely to come before the house as a Court of appeal.

Mr. Hutt obtained leave to bring in a bill permitting biscuit to be substituted for foreign wheat, in bond.

On Lord Stanley's motion select committees were ordered, to inquire into the state of the British possessions on the West coast of Africa, and into the state of the West India colonies in reference to labour, wages, &c. &c.; the object being to establish a large emigration from Africa to the West Indies. Lord Stanley gave a lamentable account of the present state of things in the British colonies.

Sir Robert Peel announced that his corn bill would be taken up for passage on the 5th of April.

The House of Lords adjourned, for the Easter holy-days, to the 7th, and the Commons to the 4th of April.

A London paper says—"The New York packet ship Gladiator carries out one hundred and fifty passengers in the steerage, who intend to settle in various parts of the United States and Canada, and twenty cabin passengers. The passengers in the steerage are principally agriculturists from the home counties. The Mediator will take out two hundred and fifty emigrants to New York." The Cosmo and the Lord Canterbury take out a large number.

The London papers announce the death of the Earl of Macclesfield, and of Mrs. Matcham, sister of Admiral Lord Nelson.

The Earl of Elgin, newly appointed Governor of Jamaica, had taken passage on board the West India mail steamer Isis—a new vessel.

Sir George Arthur has been appointed to the Government of Bombay.

The disasters in Affghanistan have necessarily induced great activity in forwarding troops to India. The reserve companies of the 25th regiment, stationed in Wales, and the service companies of the same regiment, now at the Cape, have been ordered to the East; the 86th, augmented to 1,000, has also been ordered to India; the Foot Guards, 55th, 67th, and 70th regiments are to be sent from Canada; and in all, it is stated, 10,000 men are to be forwarded to the East with the least possible delay.

CANADA.

THE WILL OF LORD SYDENHAM.—An exemplification of the will of the late Lord Sydenham has been received from the Court of Probate in Canada, and lodged in Doctor's Commons. His Lordship has by this will, which he made the day previous to his lamented death, left the whole of his property to his brother, Mr. Poulett Scrope, absolutely, subject only to the payment of the following legacies.—To his nephew, Mr. William Baring, 1000*l.*; to Lord John Russell as a remembrance of his friendship 500*l.*; to Mr. T. W. C. Murdoch, 500*l.*; to Mr. Weguelin and Mr. Wordsworth, his executors in England, 500*l.* each: and a few legacies to servants. His Lordship appointed Major Thomas Edmund Campbell and Mr. Dowling to act as the executors of his will, in all that related to his property in Canada, by whom the will has been proved there. The personals within the province of Canterbury are sworn under 25,000*l.*, which is exclusive of the testator's foreign funds, and his property in Scotland and Canada.

THE GRATITUDE OF A MONARCHICAL GOVERNMENT.—We are glad to learn that Her Majesty has directed pensions to be granted to Mrs. Drummond, widow of the late Captain Drummond, and Mrs. Dulmage, widow of the late Lieutenant Dulmage—to the first named 70*l.*, and to the second 60*l.* sterling per annum. The husbands of these ladies belonged to the 1st Grenville Incorporated Militia, and both fell at Prescott—Mr. Dulmage by the first volley fired by the brigands, and Captain Drummond while entering the Windmill. We are sure that every loyalist throughout Canada will rejoice at this exercise of the Royal bounty in favour of two ladies who had such strong claims, under their sudden and severe bereavement, to sympathy and assistance.—Montreal Gazette.

WELLAND CANAL.—This important link of connexion between the two splendid lakes, Erie and Ontario, will soon be in requisition again, for the purpose of commerce. It is known to most of our readers, that the water has been drawn off the canal, during the past winter, in order to afford an opportunity of widening and deepening the feeder. The contractors for the work have been favoured with propitious weather, and have proceeded advantageously and prosperously, thus far. It is expected that, in the course of another season, this object will be fully accomplished. On Thursday, the 14th inst., the water was let in again, and the following day witnessed between twenty and thirty schooners, lying in the basins near our village, on their way to their various destinations on the upper lakes. One of them is bound for Chicago, Illinois, and others to various ports in Canada and the United States. The various branches of trade will now receive a fresh impetus. Considerable Canada capital has been employed, during the past winter, in purchasing wheat, in Ohio, and other Western States, as well as from the upper part of this division of Canada.—St. Catharine's Journal.

ST. LAWRENCE CANAL.—We are glad to see that one thousand labourers are required on the St. Lawrence Canal, at the Long Sault, to whom employment is promised during the season. Fifty stone-cutters and a like number of masons are also advertised for on the same works.—Montreal Courier.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE WEST, are proceeding with every possible rapidity. The main Western road from Brantford to London is being surveyed, and will be immediately under contract. The road leading from Woodstock to Port Burwell is being surveyed by Mr. Carroll. The Great Western road from London to Sarnia is already under contract, and a great portion of it is now being grubbed. The London and Port Stanley road is surveyed, and contracts will be advertised in a week or two. The advertisements for timber for the Port Stanley harbour are also issued, and the work will immediately progress. The road from Chatham to London is also in progress.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS IN CANADA.—The following will be the distribution of the army in Canada after the opening of the navigation in spring:—Kingston—43d regiment, and left wing of the 93d Highlanders. Toronto—83d regiment and head-quarters of the 93d Highlanders. Drummondville—67th regiment. London—The Royals and 89th regiment. Amherstburgh—14th regiment. Montreal and St. Helens—Head quarters of the Queen's royal Canadian corps, 43d, 70th, and 71st regiments. Quebec—Brigade of guards. St. John's—85th regiment. Chambly—56th regiment. Three Rivers and Nicolet—Left wing of the royal Canadian regiment. Laprairie—Head-quarters of the 74th regiment. Isle-aux-Noix—Left wing of the 74th regiment. Sorel—Head quarters of the 68th regiment. Portage—Left wing of the 68th regiment. We understand that all the general officers lately promoted, who were employed on the staff at that time, are to continue in their commands until the end of the present military year, both at home and abroad. Lieut.-General Clitherow will therefore continue in command at Kingston until that period.

UNITED STATES.

Reports from Washington are more encouraging. There is a full conviction there that the great measures necessary to the welfare of the country must be acted on in good faith, and without regard to party. Letters from all parts of the country are daily received, showing the necessity of this course, and the feeling of the great mass of the citizens that this must be done; and there is now a disposition in both houses of Congress to do it. The loan bill having passed, the Government will probably issue proposals for what it immediately requires, and take measures to bring the Treasury notes to par. It is probable that two to three millions will meet the most pressing wants for three or four months to come. There will be full time to negociate the residue in this country or Europe, as may seem expedient. No doubt is entertained of the passage of a substantial and judicious tariff during this session, the basis of which will be, the attainment of an ample revenue, and incidentally a reasonable protection to manufactures. The appearances are favourable to the settlement of all questions with Great Britain. [The United States, with their great advantages, seem not to enjoy true liberty. Murders are going on in open day, and are perpetrated by senators, judges, and men in high station. Rhode Island is almost in civil war—one party wishing to destroy the old constitution, the other endeavouring to exchange it for one more democratic. A steam-boat has been blown up at Baltimore, and several lives lost. The best feature in the neighbouring country is the rapid and wonderful growth of the American Church A minister (it is not stated of what denomination), named Sylvester Judd, has been dismissed by the Legislature of Maine for preaching a sermon before it, condemning Washington and the American Rebellion. We admire his boldness; and regretted to see that the Rev. Hugh McNeile, of Liverpool, some time ago delivered a lecture in praise of Franklin,—a man, in our judgment, greatly over-rated, and quite unworthy of imitation, as a moral character. Washington, Franklin, and the rest, were ambitious rebels, without a grievance worth talking about, and we must not overlook their great crime because they were successful.—ED. CH.]

SPAIN.

The accounts from Madrid were to the 24th of March.—The conspiracy, if it ever really existed, had not broken out, and was believed to be postponed sine die. The kingdom was generally tranquil, and the Regent was going on vigorously and successfully. The capital was principally occupied with the solemnities of the holy week. The best understanding was said to exist between the Regent and the Infant Don Francisco, uncle of the young Queen. In the northern provinces there were no movements or intimations of discontent.

PORTUGAL.

On the 16th of March the Queen gave birth to another Prince, which happy event was celebrated with the usual rejoicings. The late revolution had been followed by a state of repose, all parties settling down in apparent acquiescence; the chief personages by whom it was effected had received promotion and honours, and all was going on favourably. The difficulties with the Papal Government, consequent upon the confiscations of church property, were in train of amicable adjustment, and the Pope was to be sponsor for the new-born Prince.

LAND FOR SALE.
NORTH HALF of Park Lots No. 1 and 2, in the First Concession from the Bay, in the Township of York, within the Liberties of the City of Toronto, (known as part of "CASTLE FRANK FARM,") containing about 100 acres, on which there is a quantity of valuable pine and hard wood timber. The land is beautifully situated, commanding an extensive view of Lake Ontario, the City of Toronto and Harbour, and within twenty minutes drive of the Cathedral, the Bank, and the Market, and is a delightful situation for a Gentleman's Country Seat. On the eastern boundary there is fine Meadow land, watered by the River Don. There is also a stream running through the lot, capable, at all seasons, of turning light machinery, and there are many good sites for Breweries or Distilleries along the banks of the stream.
A plan of the above property may be seen, and particulars known by applying (if by letter, Post paid,) to the Editor of The Church.
