A BURGLARY IN SACKVILLE

Safe in I. C. R. Freight Shed Blown Open and Money and Cheques Stolen—Police on Case.

Sackville, June 29.—The safe in the office at the southern end of the I. C. R. freight shed was blown open last night somewhere between twelve and three o'clock, and over one hundred dollars in cash and about two hundred and seventy dollars in checks taken therefrom. The burglars are supposed to be three in number for two reasons. A case of canned peaches had been broken into and the contents of three cans partially consumed. In the next place, Station Master W. A. Simpson learned by inquiry from Amherst that three suspicious looking characters passed through that place to the east shortly after 3 o'clock.

The burglars began operations by breaking into Adam Amos's blacksmith shop on Lorne street on the way to the station and abstracting a lot of tools in the shape of hammers, screw drivers, etc., which they left behind them on the scene of their labors. There was also found a handful of something like brown sugar, which is evidently the explosive used by them. They got entrance by lifting a window close to the safe and piled bags of feed against the door of the safe when they were ready for the explosion, so that not a pane of glass was cracked. The body of the safe is practically unharmed, and the books received no injury, but the door of the safe was completely demolished. The little inside vault was wrenched from the safe and taken out of doors, where it was broken open with a sledge hammer.

Detective Tingley is expected here at noon today.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL WILL CLOSE TODAY

Interest and Attendance Well Maintained at Sunday School Teachers' Conference, in Rothesay.

Another profitable morning was spent yesterday by the delegates to the summer school and conference for Sunday school teachers at Rothesay. Commencing at 9 o'clock, holy communion was celebrated by Rev. Canon Cowie, assisted by Rev. W. R. Hibbard. At 9 o'clock Rev. H. A. Crawfoot continued his series of Bible studies on the life of St. Peter, taking up the apostle's denial of his Master.

His series of lectures on the presentation of the lesson was continued by Rev. Canon Powell, at 9.30, who dwelt especially on the methods of securing and retaining attention of the pupil. He said that the mind of the child usually absorbs only what it detects as something fresh and new. To take advantage of this, the teacher must seek to present the lesson in a striking manner and must make it pleasing as well as profitable. Among rules for commanding attention, he said, that it was desirable for the teacher to stand rather than sit among the scholars, the personal comfort of the child with regard to seating, ventilation of the room, etc., should be considered, articles liable to distract their attention should be removed from the room, and their interest stimulated by appealing to other senses as well as the sense of hearing. He urged the teachers to concentrate their efforts arousing the will rather than the emotions of the scholars in order to secure lasting results.

At 11 o'clock Rev. G. F. Scovil gave a very practical address on the place of missions in the Sunday school. He pointed out the great value of the study of missions in enlarging the outlook of the scholars and giving them a broader conception of life. He advocated the appointment of a special superintendent to look after this work in each school, regular talks on the subject, and the provision of ample literature for both teachers and scholars.

Miss Jarvis gave an illustration of a model lesson on missions in India for a class of boys, nine or ten years old.

Mrs. G. F. Scovil followed adapting the same lesson to make it appeal as strongly to a class of girls fourteen to sixteen years old.

In the afternoon the delegates were entertained with music and charades in the gymnasium.

Palestine was the subject of the illustrated lecture last evening by Rev. R. P. McKim. The lecture was attended by a number of visitors, and the interesting manner in which the subject was dealt with by Rev. Mr. McKim made the lecture a most enjoyable one.

Following the lecture the question box was conducted and important questions were discussed by the teachers.

The exercises in connection with the summer school will be concluded today. The morning will be devoted to the regualr senior work. Rev. President Powell will give the last conference.

The afternoon will be devoted to recreation. The clergymen with their wives will enjoy a sail on the river, and the teachers in residence will hold a picnic.

The illustrated lecture tonight will be given by Rev. R. A. Armstrong, M. A., rector of Trinity church. Egypt will be the subject of the lecture.

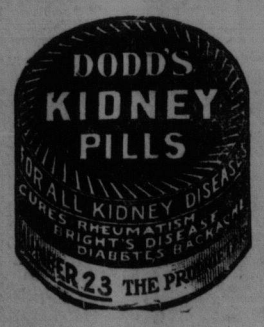
FEW LIBERALS AT NEWCASTLE

Only Two Faithfuls Assembled for Much Advertised Meeting of Newcastle Parish Association.

Newcastle, June 29.—Despite considerable advertising all effort to secure a meeting of the Newcastle Parish Liberal Association proved unavailing. Two faithfuls assembled at the hall and they awaited an anticipated appearnce of brother members, but sad to relate none others answered the call. Even President Miller did not attend and Mr. Loggie was also absent. It was supposed to be the annual meeting, but Mr. Loggie got such a reception last year that he evidently decided it best to steer clear of Newcastle and the office seekers. The Liberal party is fast losing ground here. A meeting a few weeks ago had four members in attendance.

STEAMER SINKS IN 6 ST. LAWRENCE.

Quebec, June 29.—The steamer General Wolfe and the steamer Aranmore, both vessels belonging to Holliday Bros., came into collision early yesterday morning, off Murray Bay, with the result that the former sank in 29 fathoms of water. The collision occurred during a dense fog. The General Wolfe was on her way to Quebec from coast points and the Aranmore was on her way down. No lives were lost, the passengers on the sunken steamer being taken off on lifeboats.



PAYING THE CORONATION DAY BILLS

Treasury Board Votes $1000 to Defray Expense of St. John's Celebration of King George's Coronation.

The treasury board met yesterday afternoon and after listening to a lecture from the comptroller, voted $1,000 to defray the expenses of the Coronation celebration.

A committee was appointed to interview the minister of public works and ask him to use his influence to secure the city a rebate of the customs duty on the ferry boat.

Ald. Hayes presided and there were present Ald. Russell, Scully, Wigmore, McLeod, Codner, Smith and McGoldrick with the common clerk, the comptroller and the chamberlain.

Ald. Wigmore moved that an additional grant of $1,000 be made to meet the expenses incurred in connection with the Coronation celebration. This, he said, would make a total of $1,500.

The chairman thought an itemized account of the expenditures should be published in the newspapers, so the people could see where their money went to.

The comptroller wanted to know who gave the Coronation committee authority to create a liability of $1,000.

Ald. Wigmore—Well, the mayor told us to go ahead.

The comptroller—That is a wrong principle. Neither the mayor nor anybody else has the right to commit the city to a liability without the authority of the council.

Ald. Russell said it was generally understood that the aldermen would support the Coronation committee. He suggested that the amount of $1,000 placed in the estimates for repairs to No. 4 engine house be devoted to paying off the liability. The safety board would not use the money.

The chamberlain said it would be illegal to do this.

At this point the mayor was called in and asked for an explanation. He said that in the first place he had advocated a larger grant for the Coronation proceedings, but the matter of increasing the grant had been referred to the treasury board. He appreciated the difficulty of the position in which they had placed the comptroller and the chamberlain, but he did not think the occasion was one which justified any petty squabbling. He thought the general feeling among the people was that any money expended had been well spent.

Finally Ald. Wigmore's motion to recommend a grant of $1,000 in addition to the $1,500 already voted was adopted.

J. R. Cogger, a representative of "Canada," appeared and spoke of his publication as an advertising medium.

A communication was received from Col. G. West Jones, enclosing a bill of A. R. C. Clarke for constructing the curbing around the plot on the Market Square. Mr. Clarke's bill amounted to $400.

The comptroller said the city had not entered into a contract with Mr. Clarke. The matter had been in the hands of the Arboricultural Society though the city had voted $275 towards the work.

Ald. McGoldrick said Mr. Clarke had planned on doing the work for $275, but the city engineer had insisted on having the curb made deeper than was at first planned, involving an additional expense of $125. The city was not liable, but it ought to meet the whole bill.

The chamberlain said the city hadn't the money in general revenue to meet all the demands upon it.

Ald. McGoldrick did not think the Arboricultural Society had the money either. He moved that the city pay the extra bill of $125. The vote on this was a tie, and the chairman decided to let it go to the council.

Rev. J. Heaney wrote, asking for a refund of half his taxes for the year as he is leaving the city.

The chamberlain said the request was a fair one. On motion of Ald. Smith it was decided to grant Mr. Heaney a rebate of six months' taxes.

The question of crediting the half-yearly indemnity to the aldermen against their taxes was discussed, but the chairman said it was hardly fair to pay men six months' salary for two months' work, and the matter was dropped.

The comptroller brought up the matter of the Marsh Bridge aboideau. He said that owing to the delay the city had lost about $1,000 in interest, as the city had financed the whole thing. He did not think the city could get the federal or provincial governments to pay interest on the money paid out on their account. It was decided to hold back $1,000 of the contractor's money, pending the completion of the work.

The comptroller asked if any steps had been taken with a view to securing a rebate on the duty on the Newport.

Ald. Smith said he had tried to arrange a conference with Mr. Pugsley who was a smooth gentleman, and might be prepared to help them now that elections were in sight. But the minister had been away fishing.

On motion Ald. Hayes and Smith were appointed a committee to solicit the influence of Mr. Pugsley in securing a rebate on the duty on the ferry boat.

The Board then adjourned.
