O LONGER BEAUTIFUL

THAW AS SHE IS TODAY.

esbit, famous for a time, now no longer beautiful, is a case of good luck when they do. They are glad to disappear, thankful to live humdrumly. Take it from me that they make good wives. For they know that decency pays!

"Why, I never knew what real work meant till after the first trial. When my husband was in the Tombs I had a tutor every day for four hours till I had finished the Columbia course in literature. Really I am a deep reader—a great philosopher. I have read all the philosophies.

"Why don't the schools teach children how to stick-to-it instead of a smattering of 'ologies? It's the girl who never learned to work who gets into trouble. Everyone uses her and abuses her.

"I have gone back to do what I always could do—dance. I must work to live! And work comes harder when you have learned to drift along Broadway. I think of all the girls who lose out in the great white way just because the people who care don't use common sense.

"They talk and talk about the white slave business. What they ought to do is this:

"When a woman is arrested the man should be arrested, too, and get the same publicity. It takes two to make that bargain. It has always struck me as peculiar that the city and the state, knowing where women get that money, take it in open court. I don't question the law which puts such women away. It may be all right to punish them, but not to take their money by way of fine. Some of them were born wrong; most of them never had a chance. If they could earn good wages they would—take it from me!"

Absorbed in her argument, Evelyn Thaw unconsciously proved her claim. The too-large ear, the thick thumbs, the oriental eyes, the primitive taste for pleasures of the senses, all were significant stigmata.

Intelligent, ambitious, lazy and deeply egotistic, only an elert conscience and a training for honest work could ever have protected Evelyn Thaw from herself!

of whose stories are 10,000 times worse than mine. Do they 'Pull out?' That depends. It is a survival of the fittest. No woman with ambition can burn the candle at both ends and make any progress. Neither on the stage or anywhere else. Hundreds of them go down—down. Then they figure among 'The missing.' No need to ask them if 'it pays?'

"Perhaps one in ten marries—it is a case of good luck when they do. They are glad to disappear, thankful to live humdrumly. Take it from me that they make good wives. For they know that decency pays!

About 6,400 Subway Diggers in New York.

(Engineering News.)

The New Rapid Transit Lines now under contract in New York City have an aggregate cost of about $81,000,000, and cover about 27 miles of new construction, with a total trackage of about 100 miles, as nearly all the lines are of four-track construction. About 21 miles are of underground construction and 6 miles elevated. Fourteen different contractors are engaged on the work, and the average labor force during the month of June was about 6,400 men. The section nearest completion is that on Lexington avenue from 106th to 118th street, being built by the Oscar Daniels Company, on which the work is now 68 per cent completed.

VERY QUIET JUST NOW IN SHIPPING TRADE.

A shipping man said Tuesday that the lumber freights were at an end at this port for the season, and he added that a precedent had been established in the chartering of a schooner, bound here with coal, to take a half cargo of lumber from a Nova Scotia port on the return trip to New York. The schooner has a carrying capacity of 440,000 feet of lumber and she will load only 280,000 feet—a charter which has never before been put through from St. John.

The shipment of lumber through this port had early in the year, every indication of being a fairly good one, and chartering was brisk in both steam and sail carriers, but the bottom fell out before many weeks, and the strike made things worse. It is to be remembered, however, that the logs coming through the booms this year are only equal to about half of last year's supply.

Several large steamers had also been fixed to load deals here for the West Coast and had to be cancelled.

The few steamers which have taken cargoes of lumber here have been supplied at considerable trouble and expense owing to the necessity, in most cases, of bringing the lumber from outside points in small schooners; and this method of solving the problem of the trade was further complicated by the slump in prices which caused shippers to hold for a better market.

The heavy local demand for hard coal means more trouble for the brokers, as owners of schooners are not anxious to charter for St. John when there is no outward freight, and a broker said that the vessels have to be coaxed to St. John, now, instead of wind driven.

The condition of the trade at present amounts to this: No lumber, no vessels, no prospects.

The packet trade is showing little activity, owing partly to the annual midseason slump and partly to the better terms by rail when the handling of the freight is considered. The steam packets are carrying the heavy business by water and the schooners are in a bad way for cargoes.

Coastwise trade in general will show marked improvement towards the end of the month as the apple and other fruit crops will furnish cargoes for a large fleet, while winter supplies will be carried on the return trip to the export centres.

MARITIME I.O.O.F. GRAND LODGE OPENS IN CHATHAM

Reports of Grand Encampment Officers at Tuesday's Session Were of a Cheery Nature.

Chatham, N. B., Aug. 12—The session of the Grand Encampment and the grand lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows as well as that of the Rebekah Assemblies will begin here today and will continue for Wednesday and Thursday terminating that night. Upwards of 400 delegates are now in town and more are expected.

The grand encampment met this morning at 10 o'clock in the Oddfellows' Hall with about seventy-five delegates present. The first business was the reception of credentials from delegates and the conferring of grand encampment degrees upon representatives, about twenty in number.

The grand patriarch's report was given by A. F. Cox of Truro, who showed that the grand encampment was in a flourishing condition, a net gain of eighty-two members being recorded up to Dec. 31, 1912. Progress had been made at a satisfactory rate. Among the obituary notices, special mention was made of the death of Fred. H. Seller of Charlottetown, who had been a grand representative to the session of the sovereign grand lodge, which met in Winnipeg. While returning from that convention Mr. Seller became ill and died enroute home.

Grand Scribe Melville McKean of North Sydney in his report said that the number of encampments at the end of the year was twenty-nine and that the membership was 1,231.

Grand Treasurer Chas. A. Sampson gave a detailed statement of the financial standing showing a balance of $657 on hand at the end of the year.

The election of officers of the Grand Encampment took place at noon today and resulted as follows: Grand patriarch, R. B. It Costs to Live In Prince Rupert Commission Finds on Inquiry That Family Cannot Be Supported On Less Than $100 a Month.

A Prince Rupert despatch says: The Provincial Labor Commission in taking evidence at that city figured that the cost of fair living for a family in Prince Rupert is not less than $100 a month. When the uncertain weather at many seasons is taken into account this means that the daily wage should be $5. Needless to say, it isn't really that much.

S. P. McMoodie, when asked his opinion of an eight-hour day, suggested that it be averaged, that is that men should work ten hours on some days to make up for others when they can only work from seven to none at all. Skilled labor is not as well organized as in the more southerly part of the province. About sixty per cent of the carpenters in the city belong to the United Brotherhood and about half of them are out of work at present owing to the slackness in building generally throughout the west as a result of the financial stringency.

The scale for carpenters is 62½c an hour, but quite a number of the contractors are only paying 50c. Plasterers or plumbers are not organized and consequently are not in as favorable circumstances even as the carpenters.

Dog Stops Marriage Service.

A big dog caused a panic among the wedding party and the guests at the marriage of Henry Roberts and Miss Mabel Hemming, a daughter of the Rev. Ernest Hemming, at Eastville, Virginia. The animal dashed up the aisle behind the wedding party, proceeding to the altar, and sprang upon the back of Arthur Addison, one of the ushers, grabbed the coat he was wearing between its teeth and tried to tear the garment from the man's back. Many of the women guests rushed from the church, believing the dog had rabies. The ceremony was halted until the animal was put out. It appears that the dress suit worn by the usher had been borrowed from the dog's master, C. T. Cobb. The animal wandered into its master's room, and, taking a scent of the missing clothing, followed it into the church and made the attack.

Can't Make Ends Meet In Ottawa

Civil Servants Threaten Dire Vengeance on Government if Salaries Are Not Raised to $1,000

(Ottawa Citizen.)

"You can say what you like, but a man cant' live on $50 or $60 a month in Ottawa and keep a family. It's hard enough to keep oneself on that," said a civil servant.

"Well, the government will have to do something for us at the next election if they want the votes," chimed in another third division clerk.

"I'm sick of these confounded committees, who pretend to do so much good for us and yet never get anywhere," remarked a third.

Dissatisfaction seems to be rife in the civil service. As is well known they have been kicking about an increase in salaries from time immemorial, with very little result, except that in 1908 a small increase was granted. In the third division especially is this the case where the salaries range from $500 to $800 a year, and it is likely that in the near future there will be a meeting to discuss this matter.

"What do you think is an adequate salary for a third division clerk?" was asked.

"I think that the minimum ought to be increased to $600 and the maximum to $1,000. This would enable a man to at least live."

With dire threats against the Ottawa members, other members and ministers in general unless their case was taken up, the men went out to the baseball game.

The best cherry pies are made English fashion. Choose a deep, round pudding or baking dish, and line the sides only with pie crust. Put a custard cup in the centre, bottom upwards, and put in the fresh cherries, sprinkling liberally with sugar. Cover cup and cherries with pastry, rolled not too thin; place a pastry "rose" in the centre and bake. When served, the rose covering the cup should be cut out, the cup removed and rose replaced. The cup holds all the juice.

Salt will stay drier in humid weather if the shakers are covered when not in use.
