We would like to know the parties who take part in the minstrel orchestry at the upper end of the town every evening.

FRONT OF YONGE.

MONDAY, Aug. 28.—There is strong talk of the Front of Yonge correspondent being in at the great John Forth fair for 1893. This has been brought about by the strong solicitations of many friends. As he could not reasonably be present at the World's fair, he will do the next best thing. He will put on exhibition a new kind of beans, and summer squash of the Jonah gourd family. He will also bring many kinds of knotted and bulbous roots, both foreign and indigenous.

Has Dr. Addison of Athens retired from active life? We have not lately seen any of his writings, or heard from him. We nevertheless reasonably expect that the old gentleman is in the best of health and enjoying the many pleasures which modern Athens can afford.

There is very little stir in the country at present. If a man has an idle hour, he is off for Charleston or the Thousand Islands. Man has almost become aquatic by constant boating and fishing, and one man on the St. Lawrence has followed up this so long that he has forgotten his language and will hiccough twice before giving his own name.

The Rev. J. J. Wright, of Mallorytown, has become a proficient bicyclist. Said gentleman just throws off his coat after church service, and wheels to his next appointment where he will always be found on time.

Mr. Hough, of bee fame, informs us that bees have not as a general thing done very well so far this summer. This gentleman is well read in the natural history of the busy bee, and is second to none in the Dominion for a thorough knowledge of the habits and workings of this industrious insect.

LOCAL SUMMARY.

ATHENS AND NEIGHBORING LOCALITIES BRIEFLY WRITTEN UP.

Send to Brockville Business College for "All about Positions."

Mr. Arthur Robeson has been seriously ill for the past few days, but is now recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Evertts returned to Athens on Saturday from Easton's Corners.

☞ Look at top of last column on last page of Reporter for our special offer.

Mrs. Jas. Kilborn has gone to Salt Lake City, Utah, to visit her son, and will be absent a year.

A last week's meeting of the Kingston cheese board 580 boxes were offered and none sold.

Sunday street cars were voted down in Toronto on Saturday by a majority of a thousand.

$24 pays for six months in Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting at Brockville Business College.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Beach have gone to the World's Fair and en route will visit friends in Toronto and at other points along the line.

Mr. Munroe brought to Kingston samples of brown mica found in Lansdowne Rear. He says the mica veins are rich in the district.

☞ Unionville fair directors meet on Tuesday, 5th Sept., instead of Monday, as stated in last issue.

Mr. Geo. LeGard, formerly of the Reporter staff, now of Chicago, arrived in Athens on Saturday evening on a visit to friends here.

Newboro fair will be held on Sept. 25 and 26. The society has purchased the grounds and are preparing for a fine exhibition.

Mr. Geo. W. Gardiner, of Lyn, favored the Repoter office with a call on Friday. He is acting as agent for a Woodstock windmill company.

Rev. C. J. Cameron, of St. John's Presbyterian church, Brockville, will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's church, Athens, on Sabbath evening.

Mr. Jas. Berney, cheese inspector, of Montreal, is making a tour of the St. Lawrence ports inspecting the arrangements for branding American cheese.

Mr. Graham, proprietor of the Mallorytown stage line, will in future keep his horses and rigs at the Yates stables, next the Gamble House, Victoria Street.

It will pay you to take a course at an institution that assists graduates into positions. Brockville Business College does this. Shorthand a specialty, taught by an expert.

The list of judges for Frankville fair, together with a number of interesting notes about the arrangements and prospects of the fall fair, will appear next week.

Duck-shooting has been in progress for the past two weeks at Smith's Falls. Though the firing can be plainly heard in the town, the authorities have made no effort to capture and convict the contemptible sneaks that are doing the shooting.

The greatest storm of wind and rain that has visited this section for years commenced about 4 p.m. yesterday, prevailed all night, increasing in violence, and at time of writing (noon, Tuesday) continues with unabated force.

The clerymen of Athens rested from their labors on Sabbath evening. In the Baptist church service was conducted by Rev. D. D. Munroe, of Gouverneur, N. Y.; in the English church, by Rev. Dr. Innes, Dean of Huron; and in the Presbyterian church by J. A. Sinclair, of Spencerville, formerly of Carleton Place.

Our streets presented an unusually bustling appearance on Monday morning, occasioned by the re-opening of the high, model, and public schools. We have not yet learned the registered attendance, but it is certain to be fully up to the average. Principal Geo. Sharman takes charge of the modelites, his position in the public school being filled by C. F. Clow, an experienced teacher. The old staff in the public school are all in their places this week, viz: Miss A. Stevens, Miss M. Cassidy, and Miss A. Tennant. The high school opened on Monday with the following staff: U. J. Flach, M.A., principal, A D. Passmore, B. A., G. F. Blackwell, and Miss N. A. Hume.

The Cow Nuisance.

ATHENS, Aug. 28, 1893.

MR. EDITOR,—I would like to inform some of the citizens of Athens who are in the habit of keeping cows that Reid street is no longer a cow pasture and that they will save a bill of costs by not allowing their cows to meander at leasure through it, looking for green corn or cabbage. Proper attention to this matter will be taken by the wise. The law will appoint a guardian over the foolish.

BY ORDER.

From Manitoba.

Mr. Blake Halladay, a graduate of Athens high school, well known to many of our readers, writes us as follows from Napinka, Man., under date of 19th inst.: "Please send the Athens Reporter to my address at Winnipeg for six months. I am going to Winnipeg in a couple of weeks to attend the Normal school and do not like to be without it. It is like a letter from home, only it contains much more news, especially since you started to print it all yourselves.

"Harvesting is in full blast now. We started Saturday, 12th inst., and expect to finish about the 26th. We have had no rain around here, and, consequently, wheat is below the average. The temperature ranges from 100 to 105, and this ripens the wheat very fast. Oats are poor, being short in straw and but poorly headed out."

OBITUARY.

Died, at Athens, on Sunday, Aug 20, Eri Hayes, aged 85 years, 6 months and 28 days.

The brief announcement of the death of Mr. Hayes that appeared in last week's Reporter was read with deep regret by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and a wish having been expressed by many of our readers that a more extended notice should be given, we have procured the above very correct cut from a photo, kindly lent us by the family, and from such fragmentary records as we have been able to procure, we make the the following brief historical sketch of the Hayes family in general and Eri Hayes, jr., in particular.

From records found in the old family bible, we learn that the Hayes family were of Scotch descent and that they emigrated from Scotland to England, and from thence to the state of Vermont, U. S., where they only remained a short time, coming on to Canada. Eri Hayes, sr, came to this country in the year 1805 and was followed in 1806 by his father, Samuel, and the rest of the family. They soon located at the four corners (now Glen Buell), which for nearly a century has borne the name of Hayes' corners. Here in 1808, Eri Hayes, jr., was born and he resided there continuously from then until 1880, when he removed to Athens and settled on Isaac street. Mr. Hayes was twice married, his first wife being Miss Elizabeth Wiltse, of Wiltsetown, by whom he had six sons and three daughters. On 26th Nov., 1814, he was married to Mrs. Catherine Johns, relict of the late Alden Johns, of Fairfield East, by whom he had one son.

In early life Mr. Hayes connected himself with the old M. E. church, but subsequently united with the Society of Friends, of which denomination he was a consistent member until his death. In politics, Mr. Hayes was a Reformer of the old school, ever ready to defend and uphold the principles of that party. For honesty, uprightness, and fair dealing the name of Eri Hayes was synonymous, and his advice and counsel were looked for by young and old, and many family jars and neighborhood disputes were referred to him for settlement, because of the respect all parties had for his judgment and discrimination. "Uncle Eri," as he was familiarly called, leaves behind him a name loved by his family, revered by his acquaintances and friends, and respected by all with whom he had intercourse. His end was peace, and we trust his future will be glorious.

The annual announcement of the Athens high school was issued from this office last week. It shows the record of the school to have been excellent during the past year, and sets forth clearly the advantages that may be had by students attending this school.

Apiarian Note.

There is ample evidence during the intensely hot days we have experienced this season that a half-inch entrance across the entire breadth of the hive will greatly cool it. Especially is this true, if the front end of the hive stand two inches lower than the back of the hive. Look, here are twenty or thirty fanners blowing with their wings as hard as they can to form a cool current of air; as many more blowers are working inside the hive. They labor at a great disadvantage when the entrance is only four or five inches—and A-shaped holes are downright cruelty. Give a half-inch across the hive and see the relief and joyful change.

When you build a hive, make the front end-board half an inch narrower than the back end. Robbers? Well, just put on two moth blocks 2x6½ and ⅞ thick, and place a third block an inch square on the other two over the entrance. This will stop currents, cold, or robbers, and capture bee moth larvæ perfectly when properly manipulated.

Give the bees above open space and thermal law will take the ventilating business out of the bees' hands. I have long contended for this form of entrance. I think it has common sense in it, which is the same as true philosophy or science.—H.

Unionville Fair Notes.

The first lot of entries for the exhibition to be held on the 12th, 13th and 14th Sept. were taken by the secretary on Saturday last, 26th inst.

Since the prize list was printed the following additional specials have been sent in to the secretary by Adam Herbison, Junetown, proprietor of the celebrated stallion "Daniel Lambert": For the best horse colt of 1893, sired by "Daniel Lambert," the free use of the stallion for the season of 1894, value $10; for second prize, half price of season's service, value $5. Also by same party: for best foal of 1893 sired by any other horse than Daniel Lambert, the free use of Daniel Lambert for season of 1894, value $10; second prize, half price of season's service, value $5. Parties seeing this note will confer a favor on the society as well as Mr. Herbison by giving it all the publicity possible.

A gang of men have been at work during the past week making extensive repairs to the horse track, cattle stalls, etc.

The board of directors will meet at the grounds on Tuesday, Sept. 5th, at 1 p.m. sharp, to make the final arrangements for the fair.

Send your entrees in early so as to save delay and annoyance when putting up articles. By enclosing stamps for postage, the entry tags will be returned next day after entries are received.

Winter Oats.

Mr. Jock Ferguson, of Caintown, sent to Floral Park, N. Y., last September and obtained 3 lbs. of "Winter Oats." They should be sown in August or first of Sept., in which case they may be fed down, affording fine pasture, and then harvested early the next summer. From one oat 150 heads may be counted. The heads are fine and the straw four to five feet. Mr. Ferguson sowed too late for a fair trial and will test them again. He is fond of such tests, and his experiments sometimes prove beneficial, as in the following case: The Floral Park seedmen sent him, per order, a small potato for 20c., with 5c duties added. He planted it and got ten pounds; planted these and they yielded 16½ bushels. Mr. Ferguson has given away considerable seed. They yield well, are good keepers and cook drier and sweeter than the Early Rose. They originated in Maine, are fairly early, and are called "Minister."

WOMEN'S MEDICAL MISSION WORK, SEOUL, KOREA.

BY ROSETTA SHERWOOD HALL, M. D.

During the coldest weather of the winter, dispensary patients are few, and this winter when we have finished with them by 4 p.m., Miss Lewis and I have tried to follow up the work a little in the homes of former patients. We are always gladly welcomed. Two or three homes we visited regularly once a week for nearly four months. We read the gospel and catechism with them and teach them to pray. One woman committed the whole of Ross' catechism in one month, and she is now a converted woman, and is interesting her husband in the truth. Miss Lewis teaches the children to sing our christian songs in Korean: one little girl has learned all the words of "There is a happy land" and "Just as I am without one plea" and has taught them to her 5 yr. old brother.

These visits to the homes of the people are not without danger. Some time ago as we entered a house we saw a woman in the court with a child broken out with small-pox. She soon disappeared, and we thought her a neighbor woman, and went in. Later, as is always the hospitable Korean custom, they would make us partake of some food before we left, and brought us each a little table, with raw chestnuts shelled and scraped, boiled eggs with the shells pealed off, oranges also pealed, and some Korean candy. We have learned to eat these dainties with quite a relish, and they really would be nice if you could be sure that the hands of the one who did the pealing were clean. In this instance, we asked for some salt for our eggs, and a woman servant brought it in her hand to us, I remarked to Miss Lewis that she looked like the woman we saw carrying the case of small-pox on her back, and sure enough a bit later she returned with this same child, and stood near to watch us eat; then we learned it was she who had pealed our chestnuts, eggs, etc.

The middle of March, I opened work in the Baldwin Dispensary at the East Gate of the city—this is three miles across the city from our hospital and is a nice site for work. This dispensary was named in honor of the lady who helped to build it, and who also gave the first sum towards opening work for women in Korea—saying "I give this as a nucleus around which the contributions of the church shall gather, until that dark land "where woman has no name" is reached and one more fire lighted never to go out until the knowledge of God covers the whole earth."

Dr. Hall is opening up Medical Mission work in the Northern interior with headquarters at Pyong Yang, and if the way opens, I am anxious to begin work for women there soon. Korean people dislike living in any other place than that in which their family has lived for generations—but when I asked Esther if she would be willing to live in Pyong Yang and work for Jesus she replied "I will go wherever Lord open door for me, if He open door in Pyong Yang I will go, I give my body and soul and heart to the Lord—my body and my heart and my soul is all the Lord's things and I give my life to teach my people about God even if people kill me. I do not hope I get rich or have many pretty things, but I want work for Jesus most of all."

I am very glad that the W. F. M. S. are sending out Dr. Mary Cutler to us this spring, and if we follow up our work in the homes, are ready to begin work at the new points as they are opened, and have the time to study the language that we need, we should have several more like her.

The work has never given me much time to study Korean, and though now with Miss Lewis and Mary Whoang in the hospital, Esther, Susan, and Lucy trained to help in the drug-room and dispensaries, I can accomplish much more in less time than the first year, yet with the increased work, the outcalls, and teaching my Korean girl assistants physiology and materia medica, I do not get the time for study that I need, and can not do the personal work with my patients that I would like. It is a mistake, it seems to me, for any missionary to have work either requiring much time or care, outside of the language for the first year or two; for though one may feel dissatisfied for a time to think they are doing so little the result accomplished in the end will be far greater. O, that the people at home might understand this, and instead of keeping the field just barely manned to do medical and school work, which always bring the people to us, they would send enough workers so that we could feed the people who come the Bread of Life in their own language and not send the many away with cured bodies, and starving souls!

I want to tell you about some of the ways in which my patients have been treated by Korean doctors. Many have scars where they have been burned with red-hot irons for this or that trouble. I have removed several tumors the skin over which had thus been burned. I am treating a woman now who for a pain in her arm was burned so deeply that the tissue sloughed down to the muscle, and she had erysipelas in her whole arm and shoulder. Yesterday I withdrew 96 ounces of fluid from a woman with dropsy, who had been burned in three places nearly through the abdominal walls. She remarked as the fluid flowed away, that she had no further use for Korean doctors. Many a wrist or ankle have been made to need amputation by having needles stuck in them for a mere sprain. I have treated abscesses that had been poulticed with human feces; one woman with curvature of the spine was given a decoction of snakes after the Korean doctor (?) had failed with the hot iron treatment; another poor woman gave the history of having sucked the syphilitic sores of her husband to cure him! Some other modes of treatment with their terrible results would be too improper to relate.

How much we need more medical missionaries for these our poor suffering sisters! What a glorious work not only to relieve the poor suffering bodies and sin-sick souls of those who come to us, but to train such young women as Esther, Mary and Susan, who in turn will do much to teach better ways even in this generation, and whose influence upon the coming generations will be felt in ever widening circles. "If I can only place one little brick in the pavement of the Lord's pathway, I will place it there, that coming generations may walk thereon to the heavenly city."

When a young girl, I read one of Mary Lyon's addresses to a graduating class, and a sentence in it has ever influenced my whole life, and I would that it may thus be used to influence every girl or young woman who may read this. It is "If you want to serve your race, go where no one else will go, and do what no one else will do."

A TRANS-CONTINENTAL CYCLER.

Mr. Lillie Claims the Record From San Francisco to New York.

On Saturday last the Reporter office was favored with a call from Mr. Theron R. Lillie, of Lodi, California, a brief account of a part of whose trip from the Pacific recently appeared in this paper. We congratulate him upon his famous achievement, which is creditable alike to his courage, skill and physical endurance. He is now visiting friends in this section and at his old home at Lyn. The New York Times of August 23rd contains the following interesting account of the close of his great trip:

All records across the continent from San Francisco to New York were claimed to be broken by T. R. Lillie of the Oak Leaf Wheelmen of Stockton, Cal., when he rode up to the clubhouse of the Manhattan Bicyle Club at Broadway and West Fifty-eighth Street last Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock. He left San Francisco at 8:30 on the morning of June 22, and his time was therefore 57 days 11 hours, beating Frank S. Beedleston's time of 66 days 9 hours and 45 minutes by almost 9 days. He says he lost ten days by rains, sightseeing, and visiting and that he had no idea of making a record when he started out.

Lillie's original plan was to ride to the Word's Fair, but on the route he received letters from relatives in Rochester asking him to continue his trip that far. He decided to do so, and then concluded to come the rest of the way across the continent and so complete the trip. His route was along the line of the Union Pacific Railroad to Ogden, Utah, thence by way of Omaha and Council Bluffs to Chicago, and from there through Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and Albany. He rode forty-four miles through the snow-sheds in crossing the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The worst riding was in the Nevada desert from the Truckee River to the Humboldt. Here he saw the print of the corrugated tire of Frank S. Beadleston, who had passed over the same route a month before him. As no rain falls in the desert, the print was perfectly plain. His best riding was over the level prarie roads of Nebraska, from Cheyenne to Omaha, which are very good at this time of the year, though impassable in the fall or spring. Lillie punctured his tires thirteen times on splinters from the railroad ties or thorns of the greasewood, which is so common on the plains.

Mr. Lillie will go down to Coney Island, accompanied by Capt. Staubach and a party from the Manhattan Bicycle Club, to dip his wheel in the Atlantic in formal token of the completion of his trip. He dipped it in the Pacific before starting from San Francisco.

Mr. Lillie was the guest of the Manhattan Bicycle Club while in the city.

HARD-MOUTHED HORSES

AND PULLERS CONTROLLED WITH ABSOLUTE EASE.

RUNAWAYS IMPOSSIBLE.

This statement is now repeated by thousands who have purchased

BRITT'S AUTOMATIC SAFETY BIT.

SAFETY GUARANTEED

This Bit, by an automatic device, closes the horse's nostrils.

HE CANNOT BREATHE, AND MUST STOP.

SAFETY FROM RUNAWAYS ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED WITH THIS BIT.

Any horse is liable to run, and should be driven with it. By its use ladies and children drive horses that men could not hold with the old style bits.

Send for Illustrated pamphlet containing testimonials from all parts of the world, and earnest and candid expressions about the BRITT AUTOMATIC SAFETY BIT and its resistless but harmless and humane power in subduing the most vicious horses and controlling the most stubborn pullers and chronic runaways.

The only bit in the world that is endorsed, advocated, used and sold by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, The Highest Authority.
