Ship Byron, Forrest, hence, Belfast, 25 days; James Moran, Moran, do. at Newry, 24 days; Edward Thorne, Tizard, do. at Liverpool, 25 days.

Passed through Pentland Frith, Sept. 10, the Kirton, from Miramichi, for Sunderland.

Sailed from Bristol, Sept. 14th, barque Lord John Russell, Clark, for Bay Chaleur.

Quick Passage.—H. M. ship Vestal arrived at Spithead on the 10th Sept. in 13 days from Halifax. The Bishop of Nova-Scotia went home in the Vestal.

GALWAY, Sept. 15.—The brig Townsend, arrived at this port from St. John, was chased towards evening on the 31st July, in lat. 40, lon. 63, 4, by a suspicious looking brig, extremely low in the water, and sailing remarkably fast:—after having made out that the Townsend was a timber loaded vessel, the suspicious craft hauled up her courses, let fly her jib, hove her head to the southward, and showed Spanish colours. Capt. Ableitts supposes her to be a pirate, looking out for some of the American packet vessels bringing home specie; this circumstance renders it extremely probable that this must be the same brig that boarded the Mack, Chase, from St. Croix for Philadelphia, on the 8th July; and also the Tantivy.

Barney O'Brien's Invitation.

COME up this hill and see me,
My house is free for all,
I have sparkling wine to cheer ye,
I hope you'll give a call.

They sometimes call me Barney,
My name I need not tell,
The boys I give them blarney,
They like my nonsense well.

This is the way, for you to stray,
The air is pure and mild,
And I am sure, you're not so poor,
But you can spend a while.

And if your hand should chance to shake,
Or heart be filled with sorrow,
I have the steam for you to take,
I'll neither lend nor borrow.

And if you choose to drink no wine,
Please stop awhile and talk,
And if you give a certain sign,
I'll tell you when to walk.

Right well we know this world abounds,
With sorrow and with trouble,
And we have had our ups and downs—
This life is but a bubble.

To find my house, you need not fail,
It lies upon your way,
I live close by the Church and Jail,
Come in awhile and stay..

Do not forget my name and blarney,
I have them here at will,
With a double health to Barney,
So let us drink our fill.

Whilst I have days I'll think on you,
And the joy we had together,
And for this time I'll bid adieu,
But forget you, shall I, never!
