2 BATTALIONS MONTREAL MEN ARE BELIEVED GONE

Thousand of Them May Have Been Wiped Out by Gun Fire Before Surrender—Formed Rearguard in the Retreat Before Germans.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, May 2.—Casualties of the Canadian overseas division in the fight at Ypres last week are now reasonably complete.

It is reported that 5,700 men, or more than a fourth of the 21,000 men in the division, were put out of action in the three days fighting. It is stated that 700 officers and men were killed, 2,000 missing and 3,000 wounded.

The 2,000 missing men are the 13th and 14th Battalions of Montreal Highlanders, each a thousand strong, which the Canadian official eye-witness reported left behind near the village of St. Julien.

"The German line" the eye-witness says "rolled over the deserted village, but for several hours after the enemy had become master of the village sullen and persistent rifle fire showed they were not yet master of the Canadian rearguard."

As Berlin reported a thousand Canadian prisoners it is feared that a thousand of this rearguard was wiped out before exhaustion of ammunition compelled them to surrender.

Brantford and Wingham have received word that sons have been killed. More than a score of names have come in the lists, or in private messages, since Saturday, from this district.

Brantford has been particularly unfortunate again, while London, St. Thomas, Stratford, Paris, Preston, Seaforth, Blenheim, Arva and Southampton are stricken.

D. R. Ross, of Embro, has fears for his two sons, Major R. B. Ross, of the 1st Battalion, and Lieut. James G. Ross, of the Montreal Royal Highlanders.

MESSAGE COMES TO STRATFORD MOTHER.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATFORD, May 2.—A private message to Mrs. E. Hastings, 62 Trinity street, today informed her that her son, Pte. Jas. Hastings, had been wounded in France. Pte. Hastings was born in Stratford and lived practically all his life here. He was a finisher by trade and was 24 years of age.

BRANTFORD MAN DEAD; SIX MORE WOUNDED.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, May 2.—Word was received in the city tonight that Pte. Charles Edwards, of 11 Hazelton avenue, had been killed in action in France.

The list of Brantford's wounded continues to increase. On Saturday, no fewer than six who enlisted here were reported wounded, and today, besides the news of Edwards' death came word that Pte. Harry Holding has been wounded. All are first contingent volunteers. Saturday's list includes: Privates Anthony, Kirby, Hamilton, McCartney, Larin and Gradon.

Charles Edwards was well-known in this city, being connected with the mission hall, and working for many years with the Cockshutt Plow Company. His mother lives in London, Eng., but members of his family reside in this city. He was a member of the 36th Dufferin Rifles.

Harry Holding is a son of John Holding, and was wounded in the Ypres attack. He was employed by the Massey-Harris Company and left with the first contingent of "Duffs."

With the exception of McCartney these men have all seen service in Great Britain, and two of them are Scotchmen who have resided in the city for several years. Their relatives are, with the exception of Privates Hamilton and Larin, in the city, and anxiously awaiting further news.

Pte. Larin enlisted here, but lived in Paris.

Robert McCartney, 18 Mount Pleasant street, was seriously injured in the region of the stomach during operations at Langemarck, in France. This information has been conveyed to his relatives in the city. McCartney was a member of the "Duffs," leaving with the first contingent.

TWO MORE ST. THOMAS MEN ARE WOUNDED.

ST. THOMAS, May 2.—Samuel J. Johnson, Michigan Central Railway engineer, residing at 71 Kain street, this city, received notice on Sunday from the militia department at Ottawa that his son Pte. George Johnson had been seriously wounded in the fighting at Ypres and that he was admitted to the University College Hospital at London.

Pte. Johnson has a wife and one daughter living here. He is 26 years of age and enlisted at Edmonton, Alberta, where he was working as an electrical engineer. When hostilities broke out Pte. Johnson was No. 18261 with the 2nd Battalion, having been transferred from the 9th when the Canadians left England for the firing line. He was educated in the schools in St. Thomas and was well known by the younger people.

Pte. Alex. Hawthorne.

The latest casualty list includes the name of Pte. Alex. Hawthorne, of the 1st Battalion, wounded. Pte. Hawthorne enlisted at this point. He was a butcher by trade and was residing at 71 Hughes street. He was single and had served one year with the Scottish Rifles previous to emigrating to Canada. Hawthorne's people live at Glasgow, Scotland. This makes the seventh St. Thomas volunteer wounded at the big fight on the Yser.

EMBRO OFFICERS MAY BE AMONG PRISONERS.

EMBRO, May 2.—D. R. Ross, of this village, fears that something ill has befallen his two sons at the battle front. They are Major R. B. Ross, of the 1st Battalion, and Lieut. James G. Ross, machine gun officer of the Montreal Royal Highlanders. He has heard from neither of them since before the battle of Langemarck, and prior to that engagement he had had a cable from either one of them every few days.

ATROCITY WITNESS NOW IN TORONTO

Belgian Refugee Saw Some Unarmed Men Shot Down.

HER FATHER MURDERED

Wounded Man Tells How King Takes Place in the Trenches.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, May 2.—The first eye-witness story of German atrocity in Belgium to be heard in Canada was told here by Mme. Philomene Desmet Justin, who arrived tonight with a party of fourteen Belgian refugees. Cardinal Mercier, head of the Catholic Church in Belgium, through Rev. Fr. Pierot, communicated with Rev. Archbishop McNeil, asking if he could assist them. They were met at the station by the Archbishop's representatives and will be looked after.

Mme. Justin spoke in French to an interpreter and as translated her story is one of thrilling tragedy. She is the wife of a wounded Belgian soldier and the daughter of a Belgian merchant, who was murdered by the Germans.

Unarmed Men Shot Down.

She was living with her two little sons at their home in the village of Aerscho. When the Germans took possession they assembled some 150 women and children in her father's garden, herded the unarmed men together and bayonetted and shot them down before their eyes.

"Madame states," said the interpreter, "that the men were absolutely unarmed and had not in any way interfered with the German official."

She further stated, that with the exception of the housekeeper for the priest, the women and children were not attacked, but her father was slain before her eyes. The cure of the village, Father Verbeeq, who protested against the brutality, was tied by ropes to a tree and left to starve for a day and a half, when he was shot and thrown into a well, and his housekeeper, who sought to go to his aid with food and drink was instantly shot and her body also thrown into the well.

Admiration For British.

The gratitude and admiration of these Belgians for the British is affecting. The women and children wear miniature Belgian and British flags on their breasts, pinned there with little celluloid photos of their gallant young king. In this connection Mr. Justin told a remarkable story, through the interpreter. He served in the third column of the 1st Belgian division until his wounds caused him to be sent to the base hospital and thence to England, where he was joined by his wife and boys upon their escape. He was one of the soldiers on the firing line in the trench when the Belgian king came along, speaking words of encouragement to the men. As he passed along one of the soldiers, the fifth from Justin, seized his left arm in pain. He had been struck.

The king saw it and taking the rifle from his hands, told the soldier to go and have his wound bound. When he returned his monarch gave him back his rifle with the comment: "I've been shooting, I saw some fall." Subsequently the man was more severely wounded and was sent back to the base hospital with Justin. Here a British officer, learning the story, offered to buy his rifle from him as a souvenir. "No," replied the proud Belgian, "I sell my life first." He was allowed to keep the rifle his king had used.

The story of getting away from their home on the outskirts is somewhat thrilling. When the sentry of German soldiers entered and demanded food and drink the father gave them all they wanted. The Huns ate heartily and drank with zest. In the cellar the father had some nine barrels of old wines. These the Germans tapped with the result that before the second night of their vigil was over they lay dead drunk, one of them sleeping noisily on the floor in the front room. The family made its escape by the back door.

Stuck To Gun To Last Man, All Are Shot

British Eye-Witness Relates Story of Bravery in the Trenches.

LONDON, May 2.—10:40 p.m.—In a British eye-witness story of the latest stages of the battle of Ypres mention is made of a machine gun detachment who kept their gun in action until all were dead or wounded.

"The gun was stationed in an angle of the trench," says the eye-witness. "When the German rush took place one man after another of the detachment was shot, but the gun still continued in action, although five bodies lay around it. When the sixth man took the place of his fallen comrades, of whom one was his brother, the Germans still pressing on, he waited until they were only a few yards away and then poured a stream of bullets on the advancing ranks, which broke and fell back, leaving rows of dead. He was then wounded himself."

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO GET AUSTRIANS AWAY FROM CANADA

Treason Charge May Be Laid Upon Canadian Citizen Whom It Is Rumored Has Been Rushed to Kingston.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, May 2.—The provincial police Friday at midnight raided a house in Sandwich and arrested a number of Austrians, who had met there, to be smuggled across the Detroit River into the United States so they could reach the Eastern coast and sail to join their regiments in the fighting zone. The police tried to keep the raid a secret and refused to give out any information about arrests.

It is said the men came from Toronto and Hamilton at the suggestion of a local man, who had promised to smuggle them to Detroit in a rowboat. This man, who, it is believed, was to make the attempt, whose name is kept secret, has already been sent with and others to the Government prison in Kingston and may be charged with treason, as he is a Canadian citizen.

Officers from Ottawa visited Windsor a few weeks ago and placed all Austrians in Windsor and adjoining towns on parole. Provincial police are investigating plans made for smuggling Austrians across the border, and it is expected other arrests will follow.
