A MESSAGE FROM A WOMAN TO WOMEN

"Every Woman Should Take "Fruit-a-tives"

LAKELET, ONT., MAY 12th. 1911

"Kindly publish this letter of mine if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives", completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life", but "Fruit-a-tives" banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman"

What the Christian Minister Must Do.

Here are five things that any Christian minister must do if he performs his part in the great campaign.

He must uncover the criminal and conscienceless character of the beverage liquor traffic. Its selfish greed. Its corruption of law. Its destruction of life.

He must press upon the people their responsibility to crush this great wrong. They have the power. They have the means at hand. They know how the power can be applied.

He must show that the entrenchment of license must be denied the liquor traffic. Take from it protection of the law. Snatch from it the mask of respectability. Dissolve the partnership between the traffic and the state.

He must urge the people to take advantage of God's crisis times. God works by crisis. All great moral movements have come in waves. We are to-day on the crest of such a crisis and must win by its power.

Dear brother pastor, you have the ear and heart of the people. No one can do as you can this work of inspiration. No one like you is expected to do this work. Do not fail God nor rob the people. Lift up your voice like a trumpet. Cry aloud. Spare not.

A Senator's Advice.

If I had a boy to day I would rather put him on an eighty-acre lot that never had a plow or an axe upon it than place him in the best Government office in the land. Make your houses pleasant. Make them so attractive that your sons and daughters will love their homes better than any other place on this earth. Make the business of farming so agreeable that your sons will see that it is the most healthful and profitable occupation in which they can engage. Build good houses and buy good implements. Don't get an old cracked cook stove, but put in a good range. In fact, have every convenience that you can so that your wives and daughters will deem it a pleasure to perform their household work. In this way you can bring up your sons and daughters on the farm; but when you make the home repulsive, you drive them into clerkships and other menial positions, when they ought to be God's anointed lords of creation.—Zachariah Chandler.

Caught a Bad Cold.

'Last winter my son caught a very bad cold and the way he coughed was something dreadful,' writes Mrs. Sarah E. Duncan, of Tipton, Iowa. 'We thought sure he was going into consumption. We bought just one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that one bottle stopped his cough and cured his cold completely.' For sale by all dealers.

There are signs that China is moving steadily toward a higher place in the moral leadership of the nations. Her determined effort to rid herself of the curse of the opium habit is greatly creditable.

A Visitor to Our Sanctum.

A recent caller on THE ACADIAN was Rev. H. F. Adams, of New London, Conn., who has spent his vacation in the maritime provinces. He has noted very encouraging progress in the towns since he left. Many new homes and elegant buildings grace every town he has visited, and he is pleased with our fine new streets.

Incidentally he corrected an impression as to the manner of the death of his son, Frank Adams, B. Sc., of Acadia, 1907. Before quite completing his Ph. D. course at the University of Columbia, he secured a position with the 'Albany Chemical Co.,' of Albany, N. Y., as head chemist and superintendent of the company's plant on Reuselaes Island. The product distilled was 'acetone,' a very inflammable spirit but not spontaneously combustible. It forms the base of chloroform, films of photos, smokeless gunpowder and many other things. He had revolutionized the plant, and readjusted methods so that the product was yielding 20 per cent dividends to the owners.

On June 13, 1911, a severe thunder storm had taken place, and shortly after a streak of fire was seen running up the side of one of the stills. On seeing it, Mr. Adams ordered the hands to run, he remaining with the hope that he could extinguish the dangerous flame. In a few seconds thirty-two thousand gallons of acetone exploded and everything was thrown into mid air. Stills were blown into fields, walls fell and fire followed. The superintendent and a boy were killed on the spot, while five others died shortly after or in the hospital. Some are disfigured and maimed for life.

While the origin of the fire is a mystery the lightning may have had something to do with it, possibly burning the insulation off the electric wires, and the sparks from a live wire catching the vapour as it came off the stills. It could not have come from the furnace, as that was far away and the stills were heated by steam pipes.

'Didn't you see that notice, 'Dead Slow'?' inquired the policeman.

'Course I did,' returned the Yankee, 'but I thought it referred to your durned little town!'

Bad Cold in the Chest.

'I am happy to tell you that I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and was promptly cured of a very bad cold in the chest,' writes Miss Josephine Gauthier, Dover South, Ont. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to relieve and cure all inflammations and irritations of the throat and bronchial tubes.

'I hear that a policeman chased your car last night because your lights were out. Didn't you stop?'

'Heavens, no! If I'd stopped I'd have been out, too.'

Skin Soft as a Child's.

'I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years,' writes Mr. John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. 'Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment.'

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No.3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living today but for that."—Mrs. BERT S CRABTREE, Nebo, Illinois.

The Boy Problem.

The World's Work has described what has been done for the boys by the Scouts, the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army and other bodies, says the Edmonton Journal. Always in school and elsewhere where boys can congregate, we are told there are gangs. Usually these gangs are a nuisance, very often they are a serious menace to the morals of the gang members and to the peace of the neighborhood. For usually the energy of the gang is directed against law and order. But a new time is coming, for so many people in the schools, in the Boy Scouts and in other activities have grasped the fundamental fact that if these gang activities are guided most wonderful results can be achieved—results that will leave these boys far better able to handle themselves honestly and effectively in the world than were their predecessors.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

I promise to keep the gutter in front of my premises free from weeds.

I promise not to throw fruit skins or papers in the streets.

I promise to keep my back yard neat and clean.

I promise not to walk across other people's lawns or pathways.

I promise to do all in my power to keep the town neat and clean.

I promise to do all I can to help others keep this pledge.

I promise to keep my hens in my own back yard.

PILES Do not suffer another day with Itching, Bleeding, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and as certainly cure you. 60c a box; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Sample box free if you mention this paper and enclose 2c. stamp to pay postage.

REAR ADMIRAL DAVID BEATTY

In Rapidity of Advancement the Young Officer Has Beaten Even Lord Nelson

By the rapidity of his advancement Rear-Admiral David Beatty has beaten the wonderful record of Lord Nelson, the greatest naval fighter the world has ever known. By reaching his present rank in his thirty-eighth year he became the youngest naval officer in that position in the British service if not in the world's navies; and as commander of the First Cruiser Squadron, the youngest fleet commander afloat—a veritable "infant prodigy" of the sea. There is no denying the fact that Admiral Beatty not only has brains and undoubted ability, but he has what is perhaps more important, the gift of making great friends, and a large part of his success is undoubtedly due to this very gift of making friends in high quarters.

Firm Friendships

In fact, his professional career has been one long series of these firm friendships. First it was Lord Kitchener who admired the personal bravery and capability of the young officer in Egypt and gave him the official push that landed him in the position of commander; then it was King Edward, who first offered him a title and then, when he declined the honor, made him a rear-admiral; later it was Winston Churchill, who fell a victim to the personality of the square-jawed naval officer, and who, when he went to the Admiralty, lost no time in making him his naval secretary; and finally King George, who has made him his especial protege.

A Rising Hope

Beatty is looked upon as the rising hope of the British navy and a future first lord in succession to the illustrious chosen ones, like "Tug" Wilson and Lord Fisher, who have helped to keep the British Armada in the forefront of the world's fleets, in efficiency as well as in numbers. So determined are those in charge of the navy to pass the young rear-admiral through the intervening steps that, in one case, a special order-in-council was necessary to over-ride the regulations of the service which stood in his way. It was when King Edward wanted to make him a rear-admiral. So rapid had been Beatty's advancement that he had not been able to comply with the regulation which sets forth that, before he can be promoted to the position of rear-admiral, a captain must serve at least six years in a time of peace.

His Career

Beatty was born in 1871. Thirteen years later he entered the navy as a midshipman. His first real opportunity to distinguish himself came in the Soudan in 1898, and he lost no time in proving his bravery. In especially trying circumstances he was quite unexpectedly called on to command the gunboat flotilla and so well did he handle his little fleet that he attracted the attention of the greatest soldier of the present day, the grim, stern Lord Kitchener. As a consequence of the latter's high praise, Beatty was raised to the position of commander rewarded the Distinguished Service Order, mentioned in official despatches, given a medal and decorated with the Order of Medjidie, fourth class. Then followed a couple of years of inaction. When the Boxer rising broke out in China, young Beatty was in the thick of it. Again he was mentioned in official despatches, awarded the medal with clasps and promoted to the rank of captain for conspicuous service. Incidentally he was wounded and laid up for some time.

Upon his return to England he was taken up by King Edward.

Churchill and Beatty

Before King Edward died, Beatty had attracted the attention of Winston Churchill, who confessed to friends that when he liked about Beatty was his strong personality and the serious way in which he took his profession. There are admirals in the British navy who have never even smelled the smoke of the actual warfare. Beatty is not one of those and Mr. Churchill himself a man of action, liked Beatty's record of actual achievement. When Mr. Churchill began his reforms which added to the fighting strength of the British navy, it was to Beatty, largely, that he went for advice. And, in order that he might have the constant counsel of the youthful rear-admiral, Churchill made him his naval secretary. Then when the work of reformation was almost completed and the hour of actual test seemed close at hand, he launched his protege on the high seas in command of a power squadron.

New Water Sprinkler

A motor driven street sprinkler in Indianapolis throws the water in front of it instead of to the rear, as customary, thereby laying the dust in its own path and enabling its driver to see just where the water goes.

Speed of Aeroplanes

For an aviator there has been invented in France an apparatus which shows the speed at which his aeroplane is travelling, the velocity of the wind and the angle at which he is attacking it and whether he is rising or falling.

New Field Wireless

The British army's new field wireless equipment is so compact that all the apparatus for a station can be carried in knapsacks by four men.

Travelling Bag Handle

A new handle for a travelling bag or suit case bears its owner's name in such a position that it cannot be removed without breaking the handle.

CANADIAN BORN

By Pauline Johnson

We first saw light in Canada, the land
beloved of God;
We are the pulse of Canada, its marrow and its blood;
And we the men of Canada, can face the world and brag
That we were born in Canada beneath the British flag.

Few of us have the blood of kings, few are of courtly birth,
But few are vagabonds or rogues of doubtful name and worth;
And all have one credential that entitles us to brag—
That we were born in Canada beneath the British flag.

We've yet to make our money, we've yet to make our fame,
But we have gold and glory in our clean colonial name;
And every man's a millionaire if only he can brag
That he was born in Canada beneath the British flag.

No title and no coronet is half so proudly worn
As that which we inherited as men Canadian born;
We count no man so noble as the one who makes the brag
That he was born in Canada—honest—beneath the British flag.

The Dutch may have their Holland, the Spaniard may have his Spain,
The Yankee to the south of us must south of us remain;
For not a man dare lift a hand against the man who brag
That they were born in Canada beneath the British flag.

VALUABLE TIMBERS

Graham Island, Pacific Coast, Abounds in Fine Poles

Five thousand poles for use on the telegraph lines along the Panama Canal were cut from Graham Island, Prince Rupert. This was the first of the Graham Island timber that found a market and indicates the development of an important industry as experts are agreed that nowhere else could trees be found more adaptable to the manufacture of poles in general and flag-staffs in particular. Some of the timber has not a branch for 100 feet up, while poles 4 inches at the butt and tapering to 4 inches at from 60 to 100 feet can be cut in any quantity.

PIPES THE INDIANS MADE

A Red Stone Could be Carved When First Dug

I will tell you how the Indians made their pipes and about the materials they used. There is a bright red stone which, when taken from the quarry, is so soft that the Indians could carve it with their knives.

They carved the stone while the material was soft. Once placed in the air the stone became hard and brittle. Later the Indians found a black stone which was soft enough for carving. This, too, they used in making pipes. And this stone could be polished like marble.

Stems for the pipes were made of wood. Some stems were round, others were flat; some were ornamented with porcupine quills and others with bird feathers or tufts of horse hair. Some of the pipes were used for everyday smoking. Others only when the tribe prayed to the Great Spirit.—Major Newell.

Army Searchlight

For use in night attacks a German naval officer has patented a searchlight that can be carried and operated by motors from a balloon attached to a warship so that the vessel carrying it will not itself be a target for an enemy's guns.

Proving Death

To prevent human burial alive a Dresden scientist has invented an air tight chamber to hold a body, from which the air can be exhausted, his theory being that signs of life, if any exist, will manifest themselves as the air pressure lessens.

Glass on Vessel Hulls

To protect the bottoms of sea going vessels from marine growth an Englishman has invented a method for plating their hulls with glass, separated from the steel by a coating of wood pulp to act as a cushion and prevent the glass breaking when heat expands the steel.
