HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN BUSY EAST LONDON

RIVAL LOVERS HAVE FIERCE ENCOUNTER

Battle Royal at Corner of Elizabeth and Dundas Streets.

Dundas and Elizabeth streets had their share of excitement last evening when a lovelorn youth overheard the conversation of a gentleman with a lady friend. He did not recognize the rich, manly voice, but there was something exceedingly familiar about the feminine end of the dialogue.

When the pair passed under the electric light he is said to have put a cinch in his belt and waded into the matter, for his fiance was being escorted by another.

He stopped the couple, when the girl wept profusely, as there was every prospect of a battle.

"You have been false to muh! Let muh pass!"

Then something happened. For a while it looked like a cotton candy machine in operation, and by the time that the injured person was satisfied the "villain" was willing to quit.

It was all over in a few minutes, but quite a crowd had gathered to witness the fray.

DAVIS—NEIL.

A Pretty Wedding in An East End Parsonage.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the Centennial Methodist Church last evening, when Miss Ethel Neill, of 767 Elias street, became the wife of Mr. Edward A. Davis, of Stanley street, South London.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. N. Hazen in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside in this city. The couple were unattended.

CLOSING MEETING OF BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Finances Discussed—Cash Divided By the Teams.

A meeting of the executive and members of the East End Baseball League was held in the Duke of York Hotel last evening and the season brought to a close.

The finances of the league were discussed and the reports handed in, after which the money was shared among the teams, each receiving $40.

Those present were Messrs. McLean, Fitzgerald, Mitchell, Gray, Buller, S. Palmer, F. Simmons, Brooks, Delaney, Cochrane, Gatecliffe, and others.

The meeting was the final one of the year. A league for next year was not discussed.

EAST END NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Noble, of Parkhill, and Miss Sarah Skinner, of Stratford, has returned home after visiting with Mrs. Fred Brown, 161 Dreaney avenue.

A number of boys were discovered yesterday afternoon in an east end lumber yard removing all the loose material possible. One of the employees heard the noise and proceeded to investigate. The boys, whose parents are highly respected people, were caught and lectured by the management before being allowed to go. It is likely that prosecutions will follow if any more of the gang are captured.

Strong Features of Cockburn Concert Some of Those Who Will Perform

For Quality and Quantity the Concert Will Be Unsurpassed.

Interest in the big benefit concert to be given at the armories in the interests of the widow of the late Sergt. Cockburn continues to grow. Mrs. Harry Kingsmill acknowledges the following contributions:

Mr. McPhillips $1, Mrs. H. A. Boomer $2, Mr. Ed Guillemont $4, Mr. Robert Arkell $4, Mr. J. B. Smallman $5, Mr. E. B. Smith $4, Mr. Gibson (R. C. R.) $5, Mr. T. H. Smallman $4, Mr. Metherall $4, Mr. Thomas Gillean $4, Mr. J. W. Scandrett $5, Mr. D. J. Cowan $1, Mr. W. J. Reid $4, Mrs. (Hon.) C. S. Hyman $4, London Lithographing Company $6, Dawson Bros. $4, Lindsay Bros. $3 50, Lawson & Jones $6, Gammage $10, Talbot & Co. $5, A. Screaton & Co. $15, London street railway $12 50, Mr. A. Wolfe $5, Mr. A. Tillmann $1, Mr. Morrison $5, Mr. Westman $10.

That the concert, both as to quality and quantity, will be one of the best ever held in the city, is assured. Among those who will take part in the programme are the Schubert Ladies' Quartette, Sergt. Haney (cornet), Messrs. Linnell, J. Shaw and C. J. Irwin, Alfred Dunn (baritone), Grace Hiney (reader), Mrs. Harry Kingsmill (soprano). Besides the above a charming feature of the programme will be Scotch dances by Bella and Victor Riddell, with Sergt. Macdonald officiating at the bagpipes. As well, the Seventh Regiment Fusiliers will present a physical drill, as will the Royal Canadians. The Seventh Band will also play. One of the strongest features of the concert will be the appearance of Poure, the eminent violinist, who has consented to play.

Complaints Re Sprinkling of Streets

In response to numerous complaints from local cyclists in reference to the apparent superfluous quantity of water that is being sprinkled upon downtown streets, Engineer Graydon states that no more water is being used now than previously, but that the humidity in the air causes it to remain on the streets longer.

The cyclists allege that much of the water is wasted by reason of too much pressure on the street sprinklers, and that it makes it most disagreeable to ride along the streets, which become slimy from repeated watering over the dirt.

Some of the New York lines, having advanced steerage fares, it is probable that the Canadian lines may follow.

The Case of H. C. Judge.

Four Indian witnesses will appear Monday in the case of H. C. Judge, a spotter, who is charged with having brough liquor upon the Oneida Indian reserve. Constable Shaver is serving the subpoenas today.

The Willey Bridge.

It is expected that the Petrolea Bridge Company will complete the superstructure of the Willey bridge, north of Appin, this week. The work of building this bridge has been very slow owing to apparently unavoidable delays of different kinds.

Hot Weather Drunks.

The unusually hot weather of the past few days has tended to increase the number of drunks who find their way to the county jail. There are just ten more prisoners on hand today than there were a year ago, and the additional prisoners are almost without exception men who gave way to an apparently unquenchable thirst. Last year on this date there were 23 prisoners on hand. Now there are 33. The charges on which the prisoners are held are as follows: Drunkenness 18, theft 6, assault 4, murder 1, trespass 1, vagrancy 2, damage to property 1.

Looking for Work.

Chatham Planet: Three young men from London, their ages ranging from seventeen to nineteen, were given a night's lodging in the police court cells last night at their own request. They claimed that they came to the Maple City to look for work, and their search was very unsuccessful, with the result that they found themselves broke, with no place to sleep. They were allowed out this morning and they started out on a tramp to continue their fruitless and discouraging hunt for something to do. They said that if they did not get something to work at in Chatham pretty soon they would go on as far as Detroit, and see what Uncle Sam has to offer them.

W. C. T. U. GIVE THANKS

Grateful for Success That Followed the Work of Fair Week.

On Tuesday, Sept. 22, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its regular session in the lecture room of the public library. It proved a thanksgiving service for the marvellous way in which they had been led through the difficulties and labors of Fair week. These very independent women have for some years past relied chiefly for funds for their many Christian works on the results derived from their dining hall on the Fair grounds during the Western Fair. From the complimentary remarks of their patrons they find that each year their dining hall is gaining in popularity. This season they have been very successful, and when everything is settled they hope to have a very considerable surplus with which to press on to all works of service in the army of the Lord. They dispersed to meet again Oct. 13 for the election of officers.

Malta's celebrated goats are likely soon to be only a memory on the historic island, for it has been found that banishing goats' milk means an end to the ravages of Malta fever.

INDORSE GOMPERS

New York State Workingmen Come Out for Bryan.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 23. — With but one dissenting vote the members of the workingmen's federation of the State of New York, in session at convention hall, today indorsed the action of President Gompers concerning the injunction planks at the conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties, and approved his circular, urging the support of the Democratic party.

MOVE TO MARSHALL, MICH.

G. T. R. Shopmen Will Get Away From Battle Creek.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 22.— Marshall and not Battle Creek will be the future home of the Grand Trunk shopmen who are going to leave this city by virtue of the removal of the locomotive shops.

This was decided a meeting of the shopmen after the report of the committee, which visited the two cities, had been given. The committee investigated conditions both in Battle Creek and Marshall and, after looking over the ground, decided in favor of the smaller city. There they found thirty-seven homes, which were immediately rented, and will be occupied in the next few weeks.

This action on the part of the shopmen was occasioned by the high rent asked in Battle Creek, and the sudden raise of prices on groceries and general commodities. About forty men will remove from here, and the population of Marshall will be increased to that extent.

SHUBERT'S THUMB PRINT

Admits the Bearer to Theatres of the Theatrical Trust.

New York, Sept. 22.—With a view to putting an end to the forging of passes, J. J. Shubert, of the theatrical firm of Sam S. and Lee Shubert has had an imprint made of his right thumb, which will be reproduced by a lithographic process and stamped on each leaf of his personal passbook. Duplicates of the imprint will be placed in all the theatres directed by the Shuberts. All passes tendered at the box offices will be carefully inspected by the treasurer, and those that appear to be forgeries will be held and investigation ordered. Mr. Shubert says that the system of forging passes and selling them to ignorant persons has reached such a stage that he must make an effort to stop it.

"The question of forged passes," he said, "is one of the most difficult with which the theatrical managers have to deal. It is surprising to see what chances people take in order to forge a pass and then to sell it to unsuspecting citizens in the more remote parts of Greater New York. Harlem, the Bronx, Long Island City and Brooklyn are overrun with men who sell forged passes to the citizens in these districts. The people buy them in good faith, only to find out when they appear at the box office at night that they are refused admittance, and that the passes are taken away from them."

THE IRISH LEAGUE.

Boston, Sept. 23.—The delegates to the national convention of the United Irish League, which had its formal opening at a short session yesterday, today began in real earnest the work of the convention, including the election of national officers. John E. Redmond, M. P., Joseph Devlin, M. P., the Irish representatives to the convention, were tendered a reception by the students of Boston College before the convention opened today.

RUSSIA BLAMED FOR REVOLUTION

Rebellion Planned to Block Concessions to Austria and Germany.

Vienna, Sept. 23.—To hear Vienna and Berlin officialdom talk about it, one would suppose Foreign Minister Isvolsky of Russia had horns, hoofs, and a barbed wire tail. And really, if Isvolsky did what Teutonic statesmen accuse him of, he must be diabolically clever.

Their version is that he stage-managed the entire Turkish revolution for Russia's benefit, and that if it hadn't been for him Turkey would be as far back in the dark ages, governmentally, today, as it was three months ago.

For about half a year prior to the revolution, Germany and Austria between them claimed Turkey as pretty much their own. This was painful for Russia, because the czars had looked on it previously for three decades as their private preserve.

Franz Josef and Wilhelm got tired of this and conspired together to win Abdul Hamid's friendship for themselves. With Izzet Pasha's help they succeeded.

Izzet was at the height of his power when they set to work. Whatever he said, the Sultan swore by. How the rulers convinced him that he would do better to tie to them than to the Czar doesn't appear.

Russia went to bed one night serene in the belief that the Constantinople Government loved no other country so well. It got up the next day to learn that Abdul had authorized Austria to build the Novi Bazaar railway.

That railway was the very thing that Russia didn't want more than anything else on earth. Its purpose was to connect the Austrian system with the Turkish main line at Salonika.

The concession amounted to handing Turkey's commerce power to Austria bodily. It also assured easy access for Austrian troops into Turkey in about one-tenth the time it would take any other kind of troops to get there.

Austria and Germany are close friends; so what was good for the former was good for the latter, too. Besides, special provision was made to give Germany a share of the plunder.

German soldiers undertook the reorganization of Abdul's army. Wolff Pasha assumed command of his forces in Macedonia. Goltz Pasha got to work on the forts along the Dardanelles.

About this time Isvolsky invited King Edward of England to come up and see the Czar at Reval. Edward went. England didn't like the goings-on in Turkey either, though its losses were not so great and its indignation was correspondingly less violent than Russia's.

Immediately after the Reval meeting, however, the Young Turks became obstreperous. German and Austrian agents sent word to Berlin and Vienna that they suspected Russia of stirring up revolutionary activity.

It seemed as if this would be such a queer thing for an autocratic government like Russia to do that the German and Austrian foreign offices merely thought their agents had hallucinations and didn't pay any attention to them.

It wasn't until after the Young Turks had overturned the Turkish Government that the foreign offices woke up with a start. Furthermore, the Young Turks acted as if someone had been telling unpleasant truths about Izzet, Russia's and England's arch foe.

Even his friends never defended Izzet's political methods. Still there were others as bad as he. The reformers, however, wanted Izzet's scalp first and worst. It was a good thing he was friendly with Germany. Wilhelm's ambassador helped him to escape. And the Young Turks began cancelling the concessions Izzet had given to Germany. They charged corruption and favoritism.

Wolff and Goltz pashas nominally still hold their commands but both have been deprived of any real authority. Austria's agents were ordered out of Macedonia and left, too, rather than involve their Government in serious disputes with the new Turkish cabinet, as they explained.

Finally, unkindest cut of all, work on the Novi Bazaar Railway was forever suspended. The Young Turkish cabinet added insult to injury by describing the enterprise as of "third rate importance," and declaring it would have to wait until "matters vital to Turkey's welfare" were attended to.

In short, the revolution left the Kaiser and Franz Josef without a leg between them to stand on in Turkey and gave Russia even more than its former influence there.

WIRELESS WONDERS

Early Communication With Honolulu Seems Assured.

Honolulu, Sept. 23. — The prospect of early wireless communication between the western coast of the United States and the local station recently equipped for service is made probable by the announcement yesterday that the operator in this city had overheard several messages between San Francisco and vessels at sea or other coast stations. Early last evening a message from some undetermined coast point for San Francisco, intended for delivery at the Fairmonth Hotel, was heard in transit, and later in the day there was recorded a message sent from San Francisco to Captain Matson, aboard the steamer Lurline, then off the coast. A powerful sending apparatus is now being installed here, and it is hoped that a more effective communication will soon be established.

Vienna has 32,000 street beggars, and many of them make a better living than workmen.

KAISER'S DAUBS TO BE AUCTIONED

Emperor's Water Colors Will Be Sold and Money Go to Charities.

Berlin, Sept. 23.—An exhibition of paintings in oil and water colors, all painted by Emperor William, will open in two weeks, and it is expected there will be a rush for the pictures, which are all to be sold for the benefit of a Berlin charitable society, in which the Kaiser is particularly interested.

As the paintings are to be sold off at auction and it might be construed as lese majeste to underestimate the value of the imperial works of art, it is safe to predict that a handsome amount will be realized.

Tanned and healthier looking than we have seen him for years, the Kaiser returned from the great military manoeuvres near the French frontier, in which nearly 100,000 troops took part under conditions which were as much like real war as it is possible to make them without the use of ball cartridges and live shells.

Rivers, woods and hills were crossed by the troops and autos, cycles, wireless telegraphy, the field telephone and all the latest technical appliances with the exception of the army airships were used and put to test.

A new invention warning advancing infantry when they come to the fire zone of their own artillery proved very effective, and the portable shelter tents used by the Japanese in Manchuria so pleased the Kaiser that they are to be supplied to the whole German army.

The people of the country where the manoeuvres were held still largely sympathize with the French and hate the Germans, but in spite of this they were very friendly to the soldiers, a fact which was not unnoticed by the Kaiser.

The German Woman.

With becoming modesty Frau Minna Caner, a prominent German feminine leader, protests against Lloyd-George's praise of the German woman on his return to his native soil.

"I should like to know what kind of German hausfrau the British minister met," she says. "It is true that there are charming ladies among the hausfrauen of the German upper classes, whom alone Lloyd-George saw. These refined ladies frequently combine high domestic qualities with brilliant intellect and are active in life in the broader sense. In short, they are modern women in the best sense of the word.

"But a broad gulf separates them from the average German hausfrau, who still today thinks she must do everything herself and exhausts her splendid gifts in daily household drudgery. She makes herself the slave of her husband and children, with the result that the husband regards the role of housekeeper as her natural position, and that her children are beyond her reach when eight years old.

"She is gentle and loving by nature, but too accommodating and yielding. She lacks strength of character and individuality.

"The British woman has a far stronger personality, is able to hold her own against pressure, and is not very easy to manage. I am of the opinion that an English husband would get on very well with a German wife, while things would be different between a German husband and an English wife.

"To put the case in a nutshell, the modern German woman is still in the making in Germany, while she is already playing a great role in English life."

POWDER PUFFS DID IT

Minister Denounced Them and Now He Is Minus a Church.

Taylorstown, Pa., Sept. 23.—When the Rev. J. H. Moore, pastor of the Christian Church of this village, attacked card playing among male members of his chruch the girls thought it great fun, but when in Sunday night's sermon he attacked powder puffs in the same sentence with cards there was a row which almost blossomed into a riot in the church. Today the minister announced that he would resign.

The phrase from the pulpit which caused the explosion was, "I would as leave have a blacksnake in my house as a deck of cards, and I have my own private opinion of any woman who uses a powder puff."

But the pastor got no further. At least half a dozen young women were on their feet expostulating against such talk from the pulpit, and the minister was compelled to desist from his attack and finish his sermon along lines more safe. So intense has the feeling become that the Rev. Mr. Moore decided to leave the congregation. The young ladies whose powder puffs he attacked are this evening raising by subscription sufficient money to "pay the hateful thing the two months' salary due him and let him go."

The minister narrowly escaped mobbing at the hands of indignant members of his congregation, who assert he has gone farther than the laws of the church permit.

NOT THE CHOLERA

Suspects Detained at Berlin Were Suffering From Typhus.

Berlin, Sept. 23. — Four cholera suspects, two of them Russians, who recently arrived from Russia, were taken to the Virchow Hospital yesterday but an examination indicated that the disease was not cholera. In one case the patient was suffering from typhus and in the other cases dysentery.

Seven other persons who are now isolated at the hospital will remain under the closest supervision but at present they show no symptoms.

The authorities are most optimistic and declare that there is absolutely no ground for fear. Every precaution has been taken to guard against an epidemic and in suspected cases isolation will continue until the fact is confirmed that there is no infection.

Bacteriological experts who have made the examinations have up to the present found nothing to indicate the presence of Asiatic cholera here.

The chief of the imperial health office declares that there is no cause for anxiety as all trains from Russia are being closely watched and the sanitary authorities are on the alert.

Prof. Klempner, who attended the Russian woman who was taken to the Virchow Hospital, said that it was not yet certain whether or not she was suffering from cholera, but that the result of thorough bacteriological examination must be awaited.

DAMAGES TO THE WIDOW.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Justice Clute this morning gave judgment in accordance with the finding of the jury in the suit for $5,000 damages brought by Mrs. Lillian M. Lappage against the Canadian Pacific Railway for the death of her husband who was killed in the company's shops at West Toronto. The jury awarded $4,000, and his lordship apportioned $2,000 to the widow and $2,000 to the infant daughter Irene, with costs of action.

In the manufacture of alcohol from peat a Danish company, with one experimental plant in Denmark and one in France, has found the cost to be about one-fourth of that made from potatoes.
