The action of the ab-891/2 batoirs, first in removing the scene of their buying to the junction, and then of shifting the market days at the junction so as to conflict with those of the City market, has practically removed the municipal exchange from a position of influence in the cattle buslness. Drovers will not ship to a market where there are no buyers, and the big buyers refuse to do business at the City yards. The committee of the city council visited the Stanley Park market yesterday to definitely decide upon a site for the civic abbat-toir. Whether of not the municipal slaughter house will bring back trade to the City market will not be proved for at least a year, and in the mean-time the market may become so 3614 strongly entrenched at the junction 82% that the difficulty will be greatly increased. Business was brisk at the Union stock yards today. The busi-ness which has usually been done on Monday was carried on as if there were no differences. A feature of the meeting of the Calgary school board last night was the discussion on the same old quesiton of more accommodation, and the necessity of building more schools in the northern section of the city to meet the extraordinory growth which is taking place in Calgary. How fast the city is growing can be seen from the fact that at the opening of school last week for the fall term, 5,000 pupils registered, which is 1,006 more than registered at the fall term last year. The growth at Hillhurst, Riverside and the North Hill is very noticeable, and although schools have only recently been built in these districts, and cottage schools added, these schools are becoming congested and overcrowded.
