SPORTING MATTERS.

THE MARATHON CLUB.

A largely attended meeting of the Marathon Athletic Club was held in the Board of Trade rooms last night. Mayor Sears, the honorary president of the club, occupied the chair. After the business of the club was transacted several addresses were given by prominent citizens who are members of the club.

The first business taken up was the adoption of the constitution. The proposed constitution was discussed article by article and accepted. In order to avoid confusion with the initials of other clubs the name was changed to the "Marathon Athletic Club" instead of the Marathon Amateur Athletic Association.

President Frank White announced that negotiations for securing grounds for the club were progressing favorably. With regard to the hockey rink Mr. White said that there will be a rink for the playing of the game. If no other rink is available a new one will be built.

A statement of the financial condition of the club was given by the treasurer. The manager of the football team reported that the club would go to Fredericton on Saturday to play the U. N. B. team. Word has also been received from the Wanderers of Halifax giving the club a game with them on Thanksgiving Day.

The proposal to have a road race has received such good support that it was definitely decided that it should be held.

W. F. Hatheway addressed the club, giving some suggestions with regard to the race. The course will probably be from Brookville into the city. A number of entries have already been received.

The club was addressed by Hon. H. A. McKeown, Hon. R. J. Ritchie, B. R. Macaulay and J. B. M. Baxter. Various suggestions were given by the speakers for the benefit of the club, and all agreed that there should be an encouraging future before it.

During the evening an instrumentnal trio was given by W. Donald, G. Smith and C. Hoyth, and Ernest Appleby favored the club with a vocal solo. He was accompanied on the piano by Fritz Schaeffer.

At the close of the meeting a number of new members were received into the club.

BEAVERS IN DRAMATICS.

The Beaver A. A. A. intend presenting a series of melodramas in their club rooms on Paddock street. The first play that will be presented will be "John Dearborn at Yale," a college play. The proceeds will be devoted to securing uniforms for the club.

GOLF

CHAMPIONSHIP ON THURSDAY.

The championship golf tournament on the local links will take place on Thursday and play for the Stetson cup will begin on Friday next.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP.

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 9.—The women's national golf championship will surely remain in the east for another year. All western aspirants for the title dropped out at the end of the first round of match play at the Brae Burn Club today. The sixteen survivors are made up of nine from the Boston district, which includes Springfield and Fall River; four from New York and three from Philadelphia. In this list are Miss Pauline MacKay of Boston, the present champion, and Miss Georgianna Bishop, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Miss Frances C. Griscom of Philadelphia, who won in 1904 and 1899, respectively. None of the stronger players will meet tomorrow, although some of the matches in the second round are looked upon with considerable more doubt than before those played today.

THE TURF

AT CHARLOTTETOWN.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Oct. 9.—Two thousand people saw the opening of the exhibition races this afternoon. The 2.15 and 2.35 classes were of professional nature, Lady Bingen of Springhill stables winning the former and Nellie Bangs, owned by Wright Brothers, Summerside, the latter in three straight heats. The best time 2.17½.

In the 2.25 class the hopes of Charlottetown were centred on Kalol, but the horse broke badly almost every heat and the change of the drivers did not help matters. He took third place, the first going to Regal Pandect of the Springhill stables. This was the most exciting and hotly contested race, taking five heats to decide.

Following is the summary:

BASE BALL

AMERICANS WIN A GAME.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—The Chicago championship team of the American League won from the National League pennant winners today, two to one, in the first game of the world's championship series. The game furnished a fine sample of modern baseball.

At 8.30 o'clock this morning the vanguard of enthusiasts who had not secured reserved seats lined up in front of the box office of the National League park. By noon, when the gates were opened, several thousand men were waiting and within an hour and a half most of the persons who expected to see the exhibition were in their seats.

Snow fell several times during the afternoon and was making a good showing when at 2.30 o'clock play was begun.

Score:

Americans	0 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0—2	4	1

Batteries—Altrook and Sullivan; Brown and Kling. Time, 1.45. Umpires, Jonstone and O'Laughlin.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—The second game of the local American-National past-season series ended in a tie, 4 to 4. Darkness stopped the play at the end of the ninth inning.

THE BATTING AVERAGE.

The batting averages of the members of the two leagues have been compiled and the following are the leaders:

American League.

In the race between Stone of St. Louis and Napoleon Lajole of Cleveland for batting honors in the American league during the season just closed, the fiest outfielder of the Browns was the victor, closing the season with a batting average of .356, while Lajoie had .340.

Lajoie was also in second position last year, when he hit a .308 clip, the only man ahead of him being Hahn of New York, who acquired .311 for an average in 45 games. Last year Stone was seventh in the list, with .299.

The most remarkable jump in hitting in the American league this season was made by Chase of the Highlanders. Last year there were 83 batters ahead of the big New York first baseman, who hit for only .204 in 1905 and who this year batted for .332, only eight points behind Lajoie. Elmer Flick, who ranked third last season with .305, this year is down in eighth place, although hitting at a .313 clip. Willie Keeler, who was fourth in 1905 with .305, also is 16th on this list, having .294, and is under .300 for the first time in years.

Cobb of Detroit made a great jump from No. 53 last year to fifth this year. Clarke, Scybold and Congalton also made splendid strides. Elberfeld, who is eighth today, was 16th in 1905 with .282.

A year ago there were only five men in the American league who batted for over .300, and this season there were 13. Moreover, the two leading hitters this year were men who were in the game every day.

Hemphill of the Browns leads the base runners, stealing 38 bases, Stone ranking second, with Isbell of Chicago third with 37. Altizer had 34, and so had Conroy, while several others stole 33 bases.

Of the Chicago champions Isbell led the regulars in hitting with .286, although Smith, who batted in 21 games, had .308. Isbell stood 23rd in the ranking, there being seven of the Cleveland team above him and five of the Highlanders. Grimshaw and Stahl, Boston's best batters, ranked 18th, with an average of .292 each.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Hans Wagner, the big Pittsburg shortstop, who for years has been one of the heaviest hitters and one of the most picturesque ball players on the diamond, led the National league hitters this season with an average of .340. Last year he was second on the list to "Cy" Seymour, batting for .367. This season Seymour dropped to 14th position in the standing, his figures falling from .334 in 1905 to .280 this year.

Batting in the National league fell off somewhat from the previous campaign, there being only eight men with a mark better than .300, which is five less than in 1905. The list this year also includes Donlin of New York, who was hired last year with .354, and who, in only 36 games, this season batted for .317 and was fourth.

Lumley of Brooklyn came to the fore this year. He was second to Wagner with .324 and made the jump from No. 21 a year ago, when his figures were .287. Steinfeldt, who played through the entire season for Chicago, was third with .322, also making a great jump. Last year he was No. 41 in the standing, and hit for only .266. Chance of Chicago, who was sixth in 1905 with .319, was seventh this year with .310.

Of the champions, Steinfeldt, Chance and Kling were up with the leaders, while Pittsburg had two men and New York three in the first group. Tenney, who led the Boston batters, ranked 13th with .282, Howard, the next man, being away down the list with .263. Magee was the Quakers' best batter.

Wagner did some great base running for Pittsburg, as did also Chance of Chicago and Magee of Philadelphia.

SALE OF THE BOSTON NATIONALS

LOUISVILLE, K. Y., Oct. 9.—The Herald tomorrow will say: The first official information concerning the sale of the Boston National League Club by President Soden and allied interests was given yesterday by George B. Dovey, who will be the new president of the club. Mr. Dovey's statement makes it apparent that the recent reported sale of the club to Fred Tenney was only in a small measure correct. The real owners of the club are George B. Dovey and John S. Dovey, of Central City, Ky., Fred Tenney and two other men, whose names are kept secret.

The sale of the club to the Doveys and the other partners was consummated some weeks ago after Tenney had secured an option on it. By the terms of the deal the capital stock of the club, with a par value of $100,000, changed hands at a price close to $275,000. This the Doveys and their partners, exclusive of Tenney, already control 60 per cent. of which Tenney was allowed to retain an option on the remaining forty per cent. and in case he does not exercise it in full, the Doveys will take over another thirty per cent.

George B. Dovey will be president and treasurer of the club, removing to Boston and assuming active charge on Dec. 1st.

John S. Dovey will be secretary and Tenney will be captain and manager of the team. The board of directors has not yet been named. The Doveys have large coal mining interests in Central Kentucky. They will enter the National League with the friendship of Barney Dreyfus, of Pittsburg, the Robinsons, of St. Louis, and President Pulliam.

The Eastern line steamer Calvin Austin, Captain Pike, arrived in port about 5.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Boston and Maine ports with a large freight and about 100 passengers. Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock, while the steamer was getting ready to leave Portland, a sailor, while attempting to clear the signal light halyards on the mainmast slipped and fell about forty feet to the skylight on the saloon, alighting on his stomach and being rendered unconscious. He was immediately sent to the hospital in Portland for treatment. Since arriving here Capt. Pike received a telegram from Portland to the effect that the young sailor was quite badly injured, although no bones were broken. The injured man's home is in Lubec, and he was one of the best men on the steamer. Capt. Pike says that the young man will recover, and that his escape from death was miraculous.

"THE VILLAGE PARSON."

The many lights and shades that are constantly occurring in human life will be truthfully reproduced in the production of "The Village Parson" which comes to the Opera House Friday and Saturday next. This play has been meeting with great success in all cities where presented, and the numerous favorable comments that have been heaped upon it have been most flattering, to say the least. With a decidedly brilliant cast, and new and complete mounting, "The Village Parson" compares with any of the better class of melodramatic presentations of the current season.

NEW VALLEY OF NATURAL AND OTHER WONDERS IN CAN. ROCKIES EXPLORED

(Montreal Star.)

Professor J. G. Adami, of McGill College, has recently returned from British Columbia. He came back greatly impressed by the beauty and natural advantages of a valley, which is as yet little known, which, nevertheless, he considers not only the noblest valley in Canada, but one destined to be, in the near future, a fruit-growing region having advantages even greater than the Okanagan. This is the valley of the Upper Columbia river, running between the Rocky Mountains in the Selkirks, and stretching from Golden, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific, to Fort Steele.

The northern half of this valley forms the bed of the Columbia; the southern half, that of the Kootenay rivers. Both of these, along the whole length of the valley, are rivers of good size, of great beauty, capable of navigation by launches, and boats of light draught. The whole length of the valley affords a succession of points of interest for the tourist, Spillimacheen 40 miles up, being a natural centre for sportsmen.

The glaciers at the heads of the side valleys, such as the Bug-a-boo, Horse-Thief, Tobey, and Dutchman's Creeks, are of great extent, and afford a number of virgin peaks for the climber.

GOING UP EIGHT THOUSAND FEET.

Continuing up Paradise Valley is a road partly belonging to the government and in part controlled by private enterprise. Ascending gradually to a height of eight thousand feet, the road is a marvel of engineering skill, and has no equal in Canada. The panorama from its upper end over the Rocky Mountains is a marvellous sight. The Windermere and Upper Columbia lakes, surrounded as they are by mountains, recall those in Italy, and over and above this the soil when irrigated, is proving itself well adapted for the growth of apples, and small deciduous fruits. The valley, which has a width on an average of four miles, has already been opened up by the Canadian Pacific, who have begun to construct a line through it, which will connect the Crow's Nest with the main road. Dr. Adami is convinced that this must be, in a very short period of time, one of the best known parts of British Columbia. There are two large reservations of the Kootenay Indians, and the professor came across and investigated a series of what certainly are pre-European graves, containing beads, arrowheads, bone instruments, and pipes but without any signs of iron or pottery instruments or European articles or ornaments.

The mayor, however, could not say that any very active campaign was being carried on.

The seven cent social in the Brussels street Baptist church last evening was quite a successs. The programme carried out was: piano duet, Misses Warden; reading by Percy Bonnell; reading by Miss I. It could not be truthfully said that the public were victimized as the supper was worth the money.

Great preparations are going on for Thanksgiving week and on Thanksgiving Day an extra matinee will be given of a laughable comedy entitled "A Battle Scarred Hero."
