Sell the Old Things

What's the use of accumulating things about the house that are not in actual use? They take up room and are doing no one any good. Perhaps the old carpet, gas range, sewing machine, chairs, etc., could be utilized to good advantage by some one who is willing to pay a good price for them.

The quick way to find a buyer is to advertise things you have for sale in THE ADVERTISER.

Queries Answered.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.—A gets $100 from B and gives his note. Shortly afterwards A goes to the United States. Is the note outlawed after seven years? Ans.—If note due and payable when A went to the United States, it was outlawed at the end of six years.

If A should come back to Ontario, could B collect it now after nearly eight years? Ans.—If the note was not due when A went to the United States, B can collect at any time within six years after A returns to Ontario; but if the note was due before he left, B cannot now collect.

SCOTTSVILLE.—A man came to my place and bought a cow. I told him he could not have her for the price unless he took her by the next Tuesday. He gave me $5 on the bargain. He has never showed up, although weeks have passed. How long will I have to keep her and not be liable? Ans.—As the time has elapsed for completion of the sale you are at liberty to dispose of the cow as you please.

TUNNEL EXACTS BIG TOLL OF LIFE

Work on Windsor End Alone Has Killed 12 Men.

SCORES ARE CRIPPLED

Records of Hotel Dieu Show Sixty-three of the More Seriously Injured Were Treated There.

Detroit, July 18.—Twelve human lives have been sacrificed in bringing underground work on the Windsor end of the Detroit River tunnel to completion. Scores of employees have been crippled in a long series of accidents, stretching over the two years construction was under way, some of them to such an extent that they will never again be able to do the same kind of work.

Last week the underground work on the Windsor end of the tunnel was completed. The danger on that section of the gigantic undertaking is therefore practically at an end.

Hotel Dieu Had Sixty-Three.

The records kept at Hotel Dieu in Windsor show that seven men injured at the tunnel died while undergoing treatment, and at least five others were killed outright. In all 63 tunnel employees were treated at the hospital. This number represents only the more serious of the accidents. Minor accidents were treated at the tunnel office by doctors in the employ of the contracting firm, or the injured men were removed to their homes in Windsor and Detroit.

Work on the Canadian approach to the tunnel began to exact its toll of life and limb in the spring of 1907, and since then the sight of the ambulance has become familiar to residents in the west end of Windsor.

The first employee who lost his life at the tunnel was William Morrison. He was struck by a falling timber, while working on the surface, and died from his injuries several days later.

Three in Two Days.

In March, 1907, a bucket of tar which was being lowered in one of the shafts fell on the head of Lorne McCarthy, an emplee, and killed him instantly.

At Hotel Dieu there is a record that a man named Jan Maliszewski died at the hospital from injuries received at the tunnel, but tunnel officials say they have no record of such an accident.

In September of last year came the worst fatality of the series. A smudge in the tar filling between cement and timber filled the tubes with dense smoke, and two men, W. R. Kimbell and Albert Johnson, were taken out dead.

Next day there was a cave-in, supposed to be due to the removal of air pressure during the fire, and Gelsommeno Veltese was caught beneath the falling mud. He received injuries from which he died at Hotel Dieu several days later.

Last May an employee named Tony Zamborin fell from an elevated track in the tunnel, and died from a fracture of the skull.

Falling Clay Causes Deaths.

Several fatalities were due to the falling of masses of clay from the tunnel roof. Two men were hurt in a serious cave-in last April, and one of them, Stephen Yess, died at the Hotel Dieu from a broken back. Several days later another man, Petro Marshall, died from injuries received in a similar manner.

The use of compressed air in the work is also supposed to have caused more than one death. Two men, Gus Smith and John Yackmodt, died from heart failure after coming out of the pressure, while the falling of the iron lid leading into the compressed air chamber caused the death of another man, Andrew, Kolinsky.

One of the men employed under the air pressure is now locked up as a dangerous lunatic awaiting transportation to an asylum, and doctors have expressed the opinion that his insanity may have been caused by working under air pressure.

Large as has been the list of accidents, tunnel men who have seen similar employment elsewhere declare that the contractors have been lucky to put the Windsor approach through with so few fatalities.

ARVA.

Arva, July 17. — The Methodist Sunday school picnic, which was held at Port Stanley, was well attended, and a most enjoyable time was spent at the lakeside.

Mrs. J. Hobbes and family were visiting friends here lately.

The W.M.S. will give an "At Home" on Wednesday evening, July 28, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peters. A good time is anticipated.

Mr. Anthistle, the contractor for the new cement bridge, is getting the foundations ready for the abutments, and will shortly commence this fine structure.

The imported Percheron stallion Loufoc, owned by Messrs. J. J. and T. A. Sifton, has died. This was one of the finest horses of his breed in the west.

THE DANGEROUS CROSSINGS.

Ottawa, July 17.—The railway commission is asking the railways to give their views as to what are the more dangerous crossings to be immediately considered in respect of protection.

THEY HELP YOUR STOMACH OUT

And Save You a World of Wretchedness.

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will insure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure indigestion and dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.
