Valuable American Property.—On Wednesday, at the Auction Mart, a territorial property, known as the "Town-hill" estate, situated in Maryland, North America, and consisting of 12,470 acres of land, was offered for sale. It was described as being only 17 days' journey from England, being bounded by the Chesapeak and Ohio Canal, the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, and the river Potomac on the south, and on the north by the turnpike road from Baltimore and Washington to the Western States. Among its recommendations there were stated to be on the property tobacco, houses, iron and coal mines, sulphur springs, highly charged with white sulphur, &c., and the soil could grow wheat, barley, tobacco, the white, black, and rock oak, some nearly 100 feet high; white, yellow, and red pines, some 120 feet high; dyeing and medical plants, sugar, &c. &c. The auctioneer observed that the sale was an experiment, to try if in England an American estate could find a sale.—The auctioneer put the question three times, without success, when the estate was "repudiated."—London paper.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE Subscriber would inform those persons who are interested in the erection of Steam Saw Mills, that he has invented an adaptation of principles (already well known,) to the application of steam power; by which one third additional motive force, will be obtained in the Engine, by the same expenditure of steam, and the whole machinery so simplified, that a Steam Saw Mill by his plan, may be erected at one half the usual cost.

Having submitted his plans to the most rigorous analytical investigation, he is now about to secure a patent for their application; he will be happy to explain his inventions, to any parties who are about erecting steam saw mill machinery, and to enter into arrangements with any capitalist, who upon a conviction of the utility of his plans, will engage to aid in carrying them into execution.

Reference may be made by persons residing at a distance through any respectable Mercantile house in St. John, or he may be personally consulted by calling at his lodgings.
